Monday's Municipal Contest a Victory for High Principles Backed by Sound Arguments.

MAYOR INGLE AND HIS TRUSTY MEN RETURNED TO POWER

The Most Exciting Election Campaign Ever Held in Lindsay Proves that the Solid Sense of the People May be Trusted When the Issues are Made Plain—The New Council: Mayor Ingle and Aldermen O'Reilly, Hore, Jackson, McDiarmid, Burrows, Sinclair.

"Vote solidly for those men who will support changing the fire hall site. Now is your last opportunity to save your market square. Do not be misled; vote the issue. Do not think that needs to be done. Under Mayor Smyth you will not have such financial errors and mechanical blunders as have staggered the town in the past year—nor any deficits. The town is in that position to-day that calls for a man of Mr. Smyth's careful economical disposition. With his election the feeling of security will return. Another year like the past, and where will you land?"—Watchman-Warder editorial, Jan. 2.

What shall we say about the election of Monday? The story is told in the headlines above—all we have to do is to supply some of the interesting details.

It is to be regretted that the contest was marked by much bitterness. For that Mayor Ingle and his supporters are not responsible—if they hit hard it was in self-defence, and because of the unfair influences being arrayed against them.

One thing is certain—when the polls opened Monday morning at 9 o'clock the public feeling was at a white heat and soon after a further furore was given by the distribution of several fly-sheets intended to convert the Post editorials of Saturday evening. The do's were signed by Doctor Burrows and Dougald Sinclair and the subject matter was not in keeping with the Sabbath day of the printing. The wild statements made carried no weight with reasonable, thinking citizens. When Mayor Ingle promptly disproved one of the boldest assertions, which was factually by Mr. Sinclair, the dodgers began to make votes for the parties aimed at, and for the balance of the day the Mayor was an assiduous distributor of his opponents' bundle of Sunday tracts for Monday reading.

While the Watchman-Warder—perhaps through ignorance, perhaps designedly—professed to believe that the only issue in the campaign was the location of the new fire hall, it was patent to any keen observer that other influences were at work, and that the suspicions of many who feared an attack on the Police and Water Commissions, and perhaps on other institutions, were well founded. The attempt to discredit the good sense and judgment of the Board of Trade, composed of our leading citizens, had evidently been intended as a sop to a small body of rat-payers whose personal animus against some of the members would prompt them to seize on the excuse offered and berate the members of the old Council because they had refused to turn down the advice tendered by the Board of Trade, even when it happened to be in accord with their own sound judgment. It was known also that some of the new men offering were receiving the active support of citizens whose ardent object—proclaimed last year and never forgotten since—was to "put the town on its feet."

These men could not have been induced to enter a contest conducted on ordinary lines, because they knew their day was past, but this year they hoped that their known adherence to certain "principles" would result in their being floated into power on the tidal wave of popular opinion which was to break on the market square Monday day, submerge the fire hall site, and carry the foundation stones whither directed by Dougald Sinclair. But—"The best laid plans of mice and men Gang aft agley."

MAYORALTY CONTEST. The defeat of Mr. Smyth last year was attributed by his friends to the fact that he was offering for a third time, in the face of the general sentiment that the occupant of the Mayor's chair should be content to step down and out at the end of his second term. This year, when Mr. Smyth refused to extend to Mayor Ingle the courtesy of a second term—a claim which had been put forward in his own favor several times, and successfully—it became plain that Mr. Smyth had longed himself—in effect at least—with the men whose aim was to punish Mayor Ingle and certain of his colleagues for their refusal to reinstate Bell when a motion to that effect was introduced early last year by Alderman Sinclair. To that combination and to that aim must be attributed much of the bitterness of Monday's contest.

Mayor Ingle put up a grand fight, and at no time during the day did he lose confidence in a good majority. When a leading citizen, after a visit to a south ward polling place where Smyth ballots were said to be dropping into the box as fast as leaves find their way to the earth in autumn, came back and reported, and when at the same time adverse accounts came in from the east ward, George merely laughed and said, "Wait till 5 o'clock, boys; I'll have a larger majority than last year."

To be honest about it, very few of his friends shared that idea—the prediction appeared too rosy in view of the remarks heard on every hand that "Ingle may win, but he won't have any votes to spare." We know of one citizen who, as the afternoon wore on, shared Mr. Ingle's confidence to the full. We refer to Mr. John Carey, who worked like a Trojan to secure Mr. Ingle's election, and brought out every vote in his smutty to aid in the cause of civic good government. But it would require far more space than we have at our disposal to accommodate the names of the citizens whose influence was exerted Monday in Mayor Ingle's behalf, and whose assistance, coupled with his own good work, enabled him to verify his majority prediction.

There is dismal consolation for Mayor Ingle's opponents in the fact that he obtained a majority in every polling division but two, and that in a certain south ward division where special pleaders were stationed all day to urge voters to support "the ticket," the only apparent effect was to swell his last year's majority at that polling place to an appreciable degree.

Last year 1014 votes were cast in the majority contest; this year the total was 1149. The increase is 135—the extent of Mayor Ingle's majority.

THE ALDERMANIC VOTE. The magnificent vote taken by Ald. O'Reilly—725 as against 578 last year, or a gain of 147—is a gratifying proof of the value placed upon his services by our citizens, and justifies every word we have said in his favor. As a painstaking, honest servant of the town, with an abundance of good ideas and a native modesty which should save him from any feeling of over-confidence in his powers, he deserves the proof of confidence manifested in yesterday's vote.

"Honest John" Hore, who headed the poll last year with a total of 578 votes, stood second Monday with 623 votes—a gain of 45. In view of the general situation the result must be very cheering to that gentleman—as it is to his host of friends.

A very gratifying feature of the campaign is the return of Mr. Jackson, against whom a "dead set" was made—mainly for the reason mentioned by Mr. Flavelle at the nomination meeting—"because he is too good—a straight." Mr. Jackson proved an invaluable member last year, and in view of the odium heaped upon him, and the predictions that he would be snowed under completely, his election by a lessened total of 88 votes is something of which he may well feel proud.

The election of Mr. McDiarmid, who received a total of 417 votes, will give the town the services of another good council member, who may be depended on to give Mayor Ingle and his colleagues a faithful support in all good measures.

The return of Dr. Burrows and Mr. Sinclair proves that the voters are able to discriminate between their friends and their enemies. Alone, their influence—and we trust will be for good, but backed up by some of the candidates offering, might have been almost certain to result. Hence they were short of their following.

RESULTS OF THE VOTING.

"Well, the first part of their scheme has been a failure—we can outwit them, I rather guess, and if not, then we'll fight."

"Bravo! Larry, old boy. Never fear but that two cronies as you and I will fall upon them hip and thigh if the occasion arises. But I hope to avoid it by leaving the train at Logrono, and waiting over until tomorrow. By the way, are you armed, Larry?"

"The dude nods. 'I've got a revolver in my hip pocket, and was accounted the crack shot of the Bon Ton Rifle Club in New York,' he makes reply."

"Better and better. I myself am no mean marksman, and I have a dandy six-shooter in my portmanteau, which, as you see, the guard has placed under the seat there. I don't worry over the matter, old fellow. Let us go to the ladies—they look this way, as though wondering what we are plotting about."

Soon they are all eating fruit and chatting as merrily as though not the slightest shadow hung over them. But Jack speedily becomes aware of a certain fact—it causes him additional worry. Avis has turned as cold as an icicle toward him. When she chats with the rest she is as merry as of yore, but if he asks her a question she answers in the shortest way possible.

Even the others notice her manner—how can they help it—and wisely decide that a chance should be given these two to make up, for already they look upon Jack and Avis as lovers.

As for Doctor Jack, he is puzzled over the action of the girl. He knows no reason for it, and is about to set the thing down as some peculiarity in her disposition—his experiences in the past have warned him that truth lies in that old refrain of the poets:—

"Oh! woman, in our hour of ease, Uncertain, coy, and hard to please, And variable as the shade By the light, quivering aspen made— When pain and anguish wring the brow, A ministering angel, thou."

As chance will have it, he finds himself with the young girl while the train rolls on up the valley of the Ebro. Avis has something on her mind, but she does not know how to go about introducing it. If Jack only knew what it was he would gladly help her, but by accident he stumbles into the breach.

They are talking of some queer things seen on the way, and Jack happens to express his opinion of people with black eyes, first looking into the translucent depths of her own blue orbs.

"Strange as it may seem, my fancy has always been in that direction—I have declared to my friends that if I ever married it would be a man with black eyes. I adore them," she says, just like a woman intent on causing him pain.

"The pasha has the finest I ever saw in a man," he returns, nonchalantly, but the thrust only causes her to gasp a little, and resume:—

"And I never saw such wonderful eyes in my life as were possessed by the peasant boy of Castile you were talking with at Zaragoza."

Doctor Jack smiles—he has discovered what is on the mind of Avis now, even before she sails her craft any closer to windward.

"Ah, you noticed him. I was wishing you would. I wanted you to see him."

"Indeed! I should have thought that under such circumstances you would have brought him up to the car window," she says, coldly.

Jack is entirely unmoved—in his position, knowing he has only done all that a true man might, he does not shrink from the investigation about to begin at the hands of the fair girl he loves.

"I endeavored to influence him, but he would not come. Too modest, I presume, Miss Avis."

She laughs at this—now disagreeably even the sweetest girl in the world can laugh when she wants to be particularly perverse—and Avis Morton just now is struggling with a little devil on her heart has never known before—jealousy.

Jack casts a side glance at her—wonders as to what she knows, and how much she suspects, and in the next breath learns all.

"It was my opinion, Doctor Evans, that I had never seen more effrontery exhibited by any one than was shown by that person."

The last words are spoken through her pearly teeth with particular force, and Jack knows now that Mercedes has been unmasked—her secret has not been able to stand before the clear vision of those keen Yankee eyes.

He hardly understands just how to go about it, but an explanation in certain order, and nothing but the whole truth will satisfy Avis.

"Miss Morton, there is no need of you and I mincing words. We understand each other. I am led to believe from what you say that you have discovered that boy's secret."

"Boy—well, no doubt other eyes were deceived, but not mine," she replies, and there is a touch of eagerness in her voice, for she has a curiosity to know what has caused the naughty Spanish woman to so demean herself as to appear in this humble disguise.

"You recognized her by her eyes?" he asks.

"Well, I remembered seeing such dazzling orbs before—something sent a suspicion into my brain, and when she looked at me I knew I was right, for she seemed ashamed. Now Doctor Evans, I don't know whether you owe me an explanation or not, but I have believed and trusted in you as a gentleman, and unless you have objections I should like to know why Mercedes Gonzales is on the same train with you, in deep disguise, and why she talked with you so earnestly at the station."

"First of all, Miss Morton—before I tell you the whole story from the beginning, I must beg that you will not condemn the Senorita Mercedes from our cold American standpoint. They do things differently here in Old Spain, and that she is possessed of a noble nature after all, I can prove by telling you that she is even now risking her own life to save us from a threatened danger—warning of which she gave me at Zaragoza."

At this Avis looks sorry—her cold manner vanishes like the hoar-frost in the morning sun, and upon her face steals a look of eager anticipation. Already her heart is warming toward the Spanish girl, and it will soon beat with even greater sympathy when she learns how Mercedes, in her strange way, played for the stake and failed to grasp it.

Jack glances toward the others—Aunt Sophie is fast asleep, and Larry head over ears in a French novel that chains his attention. The coast is clear, the rattle of the train prevents other ears catching his words than those are intended for.

The doctor is a capital story-teller—he has proven this upon the same train when he related his adventures in Turkey at the time her brother got into trouble. Avis unconsciously snuggles down closer in order to hear better, and—well, Jack makes no objection.

He begins with his visit to the mountains (tells of Don Carlos, then of Barcelona, the pretty flower girl of the Rambla, the adventure in the streets, and the nun of Gerona. Then he goes on to tell of the bull-fight and all has happened in Madrid.

When he comes to Mercedes' visit to his hotel he tries to soften the Spanish girl's actions as well as he can, and although Avis despises the one who could thus sue for a man's love, she cannot but regard Jack with more respect because he tries to shield Mercedes and make light of her folly.

One thing burns to the heart of the New York girl—Jack has hinted that when he first saw Mercedes he was somewhat struck by her intense beauty, and that only for a certain thing he might have returned her love—what does he mean—can it be possible why does the blood leap so wildly through her veins at the bare thought of such a possibility?

There is a magnetic power about this man, and to herself she admits that he has come through the fiery furnace unscathed—yes, and with an added lustre in her sight. He is one to be proud of—a faithful friend, and as a lover—well, she dares not think upon such a forbidden subject, but declares secretly that Jack Evans is by far the noblest character she has ever met.

When Jack finishes his story Avis knows all, even the danger in prospect, and yet this does not alarm her, since Jack will be there. She has already learned to rely upon his mighty right arm, and should the occasion ever come when the American athlete must bow to superior numbers in her presence, Avis will be doubly shocked, believing him invincibly.

Evening is coming on apace, and the train still winds in and out, up the valley of the Ebro. It is very picturesque as seen in the light of declining day. At the next station the guard enters and lights the lamps.

Jack has ordered a bountiful supper, which is put aboard here in the same manner that the dinner was, and as they annihilate space—that sounds very big for use upon a Spanish railroad, but it happens that just then they set about enjoying the meal.

Then they chat about various things, and the time passes away. Avis is gotten in readiness for leaving the carriage at Logrono, where they will find a decent hotel, and can await the train that leaves for Bayonne about three the next afternoon.

Jack finds it is ten o'clock. "In half an hour or so we will be there," he says. Larry declares they are behind time, and the speed with which they travel seems to prove that something is wrong.

Half-past ten arrives—there is no town in sight at all. About twelve minutes later they rush into a place—lights are seen—a whistle shrieks, bells tinkle—they pass a station on which people can be detected, and once more plunge into the darkness beyond.

Doctor Jack turns to Larry—the latter is agast.

"'Pon 'onah! that's dused queer," says the dude.

"That was Logrono, sure enough—we are late, and the conductor must have had orders not to stop. All very good, but I guess we're in for it, Larry, my boy," adds Jack, with a grim smile.

CHAPTER XVII.

The situation is appalling—Madame Sophie shrieks and hides her face with her hands, for she has been told the danger—even Larry delivers himself of a singular mixture of choice expressions such as are heard upon Broadway in the vicinity of the Brunsvick, and nowhere else, by means of which he intends to let the surplus steam escape.

As for Avis, she stands there as white as chalk, and with her starry eyes fastened upon Doctor Jack. In an emergency like this, thank God for the presence of a man.

The latter, after throwing his last words at Larry, coolly bends down and seizes his portmanteau, which has been lying snugly unconcerned upon a seat. With a turn and a toss he has it out upon the floor. The others watch him in dumb anxiety while he fits a key, and then throws open the little leather trunk.

Inserting his hand he draws out two leather holsters of unusual size, such as might be worn by the dashing cowboys of the wild West. Each of these holds a weapon of some sort.

Laying them on the seat, Jack again locks the portmanteau. Then he places it against the side of the car in such a way that it will afford protection in the threatening encounter.

"Come, Larry, look alive, man. We must do our level best to beat these fellows. Take all the cushions, and form a rampart—they will make almost as good a fort as sand bags."

The dude sees the idea, and catches some of his enthusiasm. He springs to the task, and in a short space of time the interior of that first-class compartment presents a most singular and ridiculous appearance, to say the least. With the cushions and everything that can be made available, the men have formed a bullet-proof barricade, behind which one might lie in security while London rain rattled about, for the hair in the cushions would arrest the progress of any ball.

True, there is only room for two behind it—Avis notices this fact, and looks at Jack.

"Where will you be?" she asks anxiously—for already her interest in his welfare is great, and it makes a great difference to her whether he is wounded or unhurt.

Jack smiles in reply—it gives him a peculiar satisfaction to realize that she is worried about his condition.

"Oh! Larry and I will get on well enough out here, I reckon."

"I presume you are bullet-proof," sarcastically.

"Exactly, but you see we can crouch down, and if we are struck—with a shrug of the shoulders—"why, it's the fortune of war."

"Very good—of course you can please yourselves so far as that is concerned, but you forget that if both of you are shot we shall be without any protectors."

It is ingeniously put, and Jack laughs.

"Very good, as you say. Do you and Madame Sophie crouch close to the wall as possible, then when the time comes, and should the bullets fly too thickly, we may creep behind the barrier, too. I confess your last argument has floored me." He speaks a little coldly, as though wounded by her words, and seizing the opportunity while Larry is stowing Madame Sophie away, Avis bends her head close to the curly locks of Jack, whispering:

"Forgive me—I only used that as an argument. It was you I thought of, not myself," and before he can turn she is beside Madame Sophie.

All seems now arranged. The whistle gives a series of diabolical shrieks, no doubt as a signal for the watering-place ahead, and they can feel the train begin to slacken its speed.

Evidently the critical time is near at hand—Jack gives one last look around. It is a strange spectacle, and he will never forget it. He has already taken the two long, deadly-looking Western revolvers from their holsters—it is like slipping the hounds of war from the leash. These weapons may have been through many singular scenes in the past, but they never saw one that equalled the present.

"Are you all right?" asks Jack. He receives a look from Avis that nearly sets him wild, for it tells him how anxious the New York girl is about his welfare. Every one having answered in the affirmative, Doctor Jack proceeds to quickly extinguish the lamps.

Darkness comes—inky darkness. The train is gradually slowing up, so that whatever may be in store for them they must soon know the worst. It is a wild country just along here, and the whistle of the locomotive has sounded as though they were passing through a deep valley, the echoes are so loud.

Doctor Jack presses his face against the window, and endeavours to see what is coming. There is a great light of some sort ahead—it flashes, which is probably the cause of the illumination. Jack is glad of this, as it will give them a chance to see what goes on. If they can remain in darkness while their enemies are in the light the advantage must surely rest with them.

Slowly the train creeps along, and at length, after several jerks, comes to a full stop. The shouts of excited men can be heard, and also a roaring, crackling sound, as the huge fire burns up the combustible material given to it, while the pulsations of the engine may be detected at regular intervals.

Taken altogether, and considering the fact that they are the cause of all this excitement, the situation is one that can never be forgotten by the American tourists. The women hold their breath with suspense, and pray—the men grit their teeth and watch.

Louder and hoarser grow the shouts—they are approaching nearer. Jack drops a window, and thrusts his head out. He sees a sight well calculated to thrill even the bravest man when he remembers that it is himself all this racket is about.

Ahead burns the great bonfire, so close to the track that the cars will be blistered by the heat if they remain stationary long. A water tank is seen, and the engine-driver is taking in a supply of the aqueous fluid with the nonchalance that distinguishes railroad men the world over. It is none of his quarrel—his duty is only to see that the locomotive is in condition to go. Perhaps he, too, is a Carlist, and deep in the plot—who knows?

Scattered along the side of the train are a score of men—they advance in the direction of the compartment our friends occupy, and it is evident that this is the object of their rush. Several carry lighted flambeaux, which they whirl about over their heads in a weird manner—they look like fire-breeds leaping forward to seize their prey.

Jack is intensely interested in the picture, but the time is hardly a profitable one for sight-seeing, since these men are advancing with murder in their minds. He counts their number, and finds about a score—of course it is possible there may be more on the other side of the train, but all that are in sight he has enumerated in this figure.

What manner of men they are remains to be seen. Jack does not have a very exalted opinion of what Carlists he has already met, and doubts not but that these fellows will prove to be cowardly. Still, their number may carry the day.

An idea strikes Doctor Jack—he wishes he had thought of it before—it is too late now. He turns to Larry, and in a quick tone says:—

"Would you dare to try and make your way up to the engine, and force the engineer to pull out at the point of the revolver? I'm afraid, he's in reach even now. It is out only hope."

His enthusiasm is communicated to the dude—Larry is ready to do and dare anything.

"Yes, I will go, but do you think you can keep the fiends out here?" he asks.

"I will hold the fort against a hundred for ten minutes," replies Jack, firmly.

"That ought to be ample time—let me take an observation—now pass me through the open window—good-by, Avis."

All has been said and done in less than a minute of time. The foremost of the advancing Carlists is not far away, but his eyes are blinded by the torch he carries. Besides, the men seem to have an idea that the railway carriage at which some of them are now pounding is the one in which they may find those they seek, hence as yet no attention is paid to the one which our friends have barricaded.

As Jack thrusts his head out again he sees this fact—Larry is not in sight, having been wise enough to at once crawl under the car, and get upon the side where the shadows lie.

The situation is indeed thrilling. Jack, from his perch, watches what is going on beyond, and to himself counts the throbs of the locomotive—each pulsation is like a heart-beat, marking the passage of time, and time is what they want now to insure safety. Each second is precious, and fraught with great possibilities.

The carriage the Carlists have attacked contains the pasha and Don Carlos—Jack sees them appear—hears the latter call upon the assailants to cease their foolish demonstrations, and apply them in the proper place. Then Jack sees the senior point in his direction—a shout arises as if the crowd sight him, and a forward rush is made.

The man of steel calmly awaits the assault—a physician might have taken hold of his wrist just then and be amazed to find his pulse beating as regularly as clock-work.

On come the shouting fiends—they are at the carriage windows now—several blows from clubs dash the glass into a thousand pieces, and men clamber up. The glare of the torches sheds a ghastly light on the faces—they look like demons loosed from Hades.

No longer is the interior of the carriage wrapped in darkness, for the blazing flambeaux thrust near each window reveals all. Loud shouts are uttered—above all else Jack can hear them calling him an accursed government spy, and demanding that he come out to his doom.

But for the helpless women, whom he has sworn not to desert, Doctor Jack is just the man to leap into the midst of the mob, and let them have a fair chance to down the foreigner who slew the mad bull—he will not leave the carriage now unless dragged out.

In one hand he holds a revolver—the other weapon is close by, within reach. A man leans through the broken window, and with a horrible laugh lays hold of the American's sleeve, as though he would draw him out of the opening, but Jack clutches his wrist and gives it a twist that breaks the bone, and sends the wretch howling back.

Other by this time are endeavouring to squeeze themselves through—if Jack will not come out to them they mean to enter and take him by force. The time will admit no delay, nor does Jack hesitate. Since the battle is on, he means to give these wretched Carlists all they can manage, and in a case of this kind one determined man may accomplish wonders by prompt action.

The terrible right arm is brought into play, and in a shorter space of time than it takes to tell it the car windows are cleared. They spring up again, or others in their places, and Jack is kept busy.

By this time the uproar is terrible. Several shots have been fired in at the windows, and although they are sent at random, one at least draws the brave man's blood. All this while, from the noise outside, one would think pandemonium had broken loose. Ordinary passengers on the train, thinking they have been stopped by bandits from the mountain passes, add to the racket by their cries of terror.

The two women in the barricaded coach do not shriek out—Madame Sophie, huddled in the corner, moans and groans—Avis, with elevated head, and white face, watches the actions of her hero, expecting to see him fall at any moment, when her heart must break. Those terrible minutes bring Doctor Jack closer to her than years might during an ordinary acquaintance—she sees the man as he is, bold as a lion in defense of the woman he loves.

It is now fast becoming apparent to Jack that he must adopt other tactics, since his enemies have about given over the idea of entering the carriage, and are opening upon him with all manner of weapons.

So he begins to shoot. When he spoke to Larry about having some arms, he did not come near the truth—his equal as a pistol shot would be hard to find, since he can drive a nail as far as the eye can see it.

Hence, it is not at all likely that he will waste a single bullet—not that he aims to take life, but rather to inflict such wounds as will place the victim hors de combat, and reduce the number of his foes.

Concealment soon becomes visible among the Carlists—they have met with a resistance unlooked for, and quite demoralizing. Could Jack keep up the firing indefinitely, he will have no difficulty in driving them off, but already one of his revolvers falls to explode as he pulls the trigger, and he knows the cylinder is empty, while the other cannot be far from the same condition.

The enemy seem almost ready to break and run when Jack ceases firing. The fact that the terrible rain of lead has stopped gives them new courage, and they rally. As he sees them advance again Jack, who has everything in readiness, tries to insert new cartridges into the cylinder, but this work cannot be easily done, and he only gets three loaded when the howling demons are again at the windows.

Once more the scene is enacted, but while Jack has hopes of keeping them off he sees a new and terrible danger menace the occupants of the car. Some of the Carlists, inflamed to white heat by their wounds, have run to the great bonfire, and snatching up arms ful of the brush begin to carry it along, and pile it under the car. Their intention cannot be mistaken—they mean to set fire to the railway carriage, and roast the occupants.

In vain do the pasha and Don Carlos storm—their men have been transformed into devils by the stubborn resistance of this man who defies them, and are no longer amenable to discipline. Those who urged them on have seen the wind, and they must reap the whirlwind.

It is a horrible situation, and even brave Doctor Jack feels his flesh creep as he contemplates the doom before him. Nothing that he can do will avert the disaster—already he is compelled to strain every nerve to keep the wretches from clambering in at the windows.

Oh! if the train would only move—minutes have passed since Larry disappeared, and they have been the longest minutes Jack ever knew, seeming more like hours. What has become of the little dude—could he have been waylaid and knocked over before reaching the locomotive? If so, their doom is assured.

Already a flaming torch has been applied to the brush beneath the carriage, and the crackling of flames cause Madame Sophie to cry out in terror.

"To think that I should come all the way from Boston to be cooked in an oven like a baked potato. Some one save me—help! help!"

No one notices her cries, for they have other things to think of, and no longer crouch by the side of the Bostonian—she has arisen to her feet, and Jack, feeling a hand upon his arm, turns and confronts her.

"What are you doing here? Avis, for God's sake go back again. You might be struck by some flying missile," he cries, earnestly.

"I am in no more danger than you are," she answers, "besides, unless something desperate does soon we are doomed. That fire will set the car in a blaze."

"Yes, yes—if I could only get one of my revolvers loaded, I would jump down among these wolves, frighten them off, and extinguish the blaze, but—" and his action completed the sentence, for he is compelled to reach the windows of the clinging wretches again.

Give me the weapon and cartridge! I know how to load it, thank heaven. You should have done this before, Jack."

Manlike, he has not thought of such a possibility, but he sees the wisdom of her proposition, places the long revolvers and cartridges in her hands, and then springs at more ugly heads in the windows, which must be kept clear at whatever cost.

The flames crackle merrily below as the fire gains headway, and the Carlists seem to be abandoning the attack to some extent, certain that the heat will either roast their enemies in the car, or drive them out to fall victims to those who lie in wait.

In the midst of this intensely dramatic situation there suddenly rings out upon the night air a shrill cry—the voice is clear and resonant, piercing the atmosphere and striking terror to the heart of each Carlist.

"Fly! fly for your lives, comrades! It is a trap! We are lost! The soldiers are surrounding us. Fly in the name of the Virgin!"

Wild excitement ensues—men utter oaths, and the wounded pray aloud to be taken off. Jack thrusts his head out of the carriage—he has recognized the voice that has uttered those thrilling words in Spanish. It is Mercedes—yes, as he glances along the side of the train he sees the supposed peasant boy running toward them, waving his cap, and still shouting the words of warning that have created such consternation in the breasts of the Carlists.

Reaching the car under which the fire is blazing the brave girl immediately dashes the burning brands aside—they are saved!

It is only a temporary respite, however—the Carlists are recalled by the commands of Don Carlos, who understands the situation, and come running or crawling back. Undoubtedly it is their intention to repeat the performance, having seen how near success they came before.

By this time, however, Avis has placed the loaded revolver in Jack's hand, and taken the other from him. He feels that all is not lost so long as this brave girl is beside him—her presence gives him a new courage, and he knows they must succeed.

Again he opens on the advancing foe—now he does not care where his bullets go so long as they cut home. These inhuman monsters would burn innocent women to death in the car in order to get at him, so there is no reason he should spare them.

They are possessed of a certain desperate valour—perhaps the sight of blood has wrought them up to the highest pitch of excitement. At any rate, they continue to rush upon the car in a way that astounds Jack, who has never believed them equal to it.

Some crawl underneath—it is their object to once more gather the scattered brands and make a new blaze, which this time they will guard zealously, and no false alarm shall send them scurrying toward the hills.

Again the situation becomes strained—Jack has emptied his revolver—he seizes that which Avis thrusts into his hand, and moves in the direction of the windows. She reads his intention, and knows it is a forlorn hope.

"No, no, you shall not go," she cries, her hand claspings his arm tightly.

"I must—it is our only chance. I shall scatter the jackals—or die trying."

"You must not—will not! It is unnecessary. See, do you not feel the car is moving, Jack—moving, Jack—the train starts—yes, and we are saved," and she falls back on his arm almost in a swoon, while Jack, discovering the truth, cries:—

"Thank God! Larry is at the lever!"

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Feb. 5, 1901. Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I changed to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M.D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Feb. 5, 1901. Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with trial bottle. I found relief

AFTER THE BATTLE.

By an increased majority Mr. Geo. Ingle has been re-elected Mayor of 1902, after one of the most exciting municipal campaigns witnessed for many years. To his friends of both political parties, of all creeds and all classes, his thanks are due—they compared the two candidates and their records, and, refusing to be led astray by minor issues, cast their ballots for the man in whom they had most confidence.

Early in the campaign we advised the return of Mayor Ingle and his colleagues of last year by acclamation, believing that would be the wiser course in view of the bitterness even then developing. We pointed out that as the members were being blamed by some for the clerical error that caused the deficit, it would be well to leave the straightening out of the tangle in their care, and not risk a serious muddle by entrusting the task to new and inexperienced men. The introduction of the fire hall and other issues made plain the fact that an election by acclamation was out of the question, but the retirement of many good candidates on nomination night, and next day, was an encouraging sign of the feeling in favor of the retiring Council and of our suggestion. The battle was fought on private issues which the good sense of the ratepayers could not commend, and in consequence the voters took our advice and re-elected the leading members of Mayor Ingle's last year's "cabinet."

Now that the battle is over we hope all bitterness will disappear, and that all the members—without exception—will forget the hard knocks given and received. The interests of the town will deserve and require every minute that can be spared from business—and more. Above all we urge that the couple of months usually wasted by every Council at the start be redeemed this year. The members should get down to business and plan now the work to be done next spring.

THE GOOD ROADS BY-LAW.

The defeat of the by-law to borrow a sum of $20,000 for the building of good roads was anticipated by everyone. The scheme was launched at a late day, and owing to circumstances the proposition was ignored in the press as well as at the nomination meeting.

The question is one merely of dollars and cents, and is being grappled with by other towns whose experience has been similar to that of Lindsay. Our actual expenditure on street work during the last twenty years has equalled a very large sum—so huge, indeed, that with it Provincial Commissioner Campbell declares he could macadamize every yard of roadway within our boundaries. What have we received in return? Precisely the service against which other towns are rebelling as being a culpable waste of the people's money, and to offset which Stratford is proposing to borrow $30,000 "to construct eight miles of good roads, build two bridges and purchase a steam roller."

In this connection we cannot do better than reproduce the following from the Galt Reporter, which appeared under the heading "Roadway Patchwork":

"The Board of Works for Guelph has made its annual report, and as showing how old, shop-worn methods still prevail in the maintenance and construction of streets in the Royal City it is highly interesting. The Board has spent during the year on streets the sum of $31,000—not on five or ten roadways, but on no less than 113! The expenditure ranges from $1 on Carleton-st. to $170 on Waterloo-ave. The latter sum would not build two hundred feet of good macadam roadway, so that it may fairly be presumed that that it was spent in repairs, and that all the other sums going to make up the three thousand dollars was wasted in gravel and mud.

The Patchwork artist and Guelph have, apparently, not dissolved partnership.

The money expended yearly by Lindsay Council on street repairs would pay the interest on a sum sufficient to purchase a steam roller, build six or seven miles of leading streets, and leave a considerable sum for the repair of side streets, and in a very few years we would be able to show, for the money formerly wasted, a fine system of smooth, clean hard roadways, in which our citizens would take a pride.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The famous and moving picture of Marins, the Roman general, sitting amidst the ruins of Carthage, meditating on the vanity of human ambitions and the ingratitude of republics, is surpassed—locally, at least, in profound pathos by the touching spectacle of the steamed editor of our "steamed weekly," sitting on the frozen foundations of the fire hall, thinking great thoughts and weeping great weeps, as he moralizes:

Of all the sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: "Our market is gone."

The Jailor's Jest.

"What brought you here?" asked the temperance advocate, who was visiting our Castle Jackson. "I'm a wife beater," replied convict No. 1144 gruffly. "Another case of lick'er," murmured Turnkey Bate, who, despite his occupation, is a man of no little humor.

The Spirit of Winter.

The Spirit of Winter is with us, making its presence known in many different ways—sometimes by cheery sunshine and glistening snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse, for rheumatism twists harder, twinges sharper, catarrh becomes more annoying, and the many symptoms of scrofula are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these ailments. The medicine that cures them—Rood's Sarsaparilla—is easily obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

Obituary.

The sympathy of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, of Ops township, will be extended to them in the loss of their third son, Thomas, a promising young man of 16 years of age, who died in Lindsay at an early hour this morning. The young man, with his brother, had been employed in a lumber camp near Huntsville during the winter. On Wednesday Thomas was taken ill and was driven to a doctor at Huntsville, who on examination pronounced him trouble to be appendicitis and treated him until Saturday morning, when it was decided to send him to his friends in this town. After a tedious journey and a delay at Orillia of four hours he arrived here on Saturday evening. Dr. Gillespie took charge of the case and advised an operation which was performed early on Tuesday morning by Drs. Gillespie and McAlpine, but it was without avail. The funeral will take place from the family residence Ops, at 2 p.m. on Friday.

Seed Time and Harvest.

A good time to think most seriously of the harvest is seed time. The decision you make then will determine the value of your crops later. The growing competition in seed selling is an increasing temptation to unscrupulous dealers to make extravagant claims for their seeds both in price and producing qualities. The wisest farmers are those who are influenced most by what experience has proven to be good and true. Thousands of seed growers in all sections of the country sow Perry's famous seeds year after year, and have the satisfaction of good harvests to justify their faith in the Perry firm. They pay a few cents more at seed time, but realize many dollars in better crops at the harvest. The natural consequence of this confidence is an ever increasing business. Mr. Perry & Co. sent last year more seeds than any other house in the world. The 1902 catalogue of this house is now ready and will be found a useful guide in selecting the choicest seeds for the farmer, the truck gardener and the flower gardener. It is sent free on request. Go West, Young Woman.

Bobageon Independent. It is understood that Miss Ruth McLelland, of Ontario Ladies' College, who was married on New Year's day, all our young women who go out West meet with the same fate, and meet it quick, for those Westerners know a good thing when they see it. The young fellows we around here have grown up with such a plethora of charms and beauty around them that they don't appear to know what happiness surrounds them. They are positively not worth shucks. Let never so little a bit of our Bobageon loveliness stray West and see how quick she is corralled. Miss Ruth could not do a better service for the great new country in which she now lives, than by bringing a dozen or two of those hardy, manly Western bachelors to Bobageon for a visit. It would be good for the West and it might be a little less and get into the boys here. Miss McLelland attended the Lindsay Collegiate Institute for a number of years. She is a daughter of Mr. Sam. McLelland, now of Sault Ste. Marie, who was in business in Bobageon for many years.

THE PETERBORO CHEESE BOARD'S RULES.

A Meeting on Saturday at Which Amendments Were Made.

(Review of Monday.)
A meeting of members of the Peterboro Cheese Board was held in the Council chamber Saturday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the rules and amending the same where thought necessary. Mr. Wm. Anderson, of motion, occupied the chair, and Mr. G. Gillespie acted as secretary. To Mr. Riddell was assigned the task of reading the rules.

Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Brooks, that the cheese bought at the Peterboro Board shall be inspected not later than six days and stamped not later than ten days after the sale thereof.—Carried.

Mr. Galvin suggested that in case of cheese being left longer than the specified time, the 1-2 lb. up beam be not allowed. He also pointed out with some force that the Board could experience very little trouble from buyers and would gain their respect if the salesmen would have back bone enough to enforce support and respect the rules.

Moved by Mr. Switzer, seconded by Mr. Kline, that the cheese sold on the Peterboro Board shall be paid for at the point and time of shipment.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Leahy, that any cheese buyer purchasing cheese on the Board and afterwards refusing to take it when passed by the inspector be expelled from the Peterboro Board for the balance of the season.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Young, seconded by Mr. Switzer, that the buyer advance 10 per cent. of the price of cheese bought at the time of sale, to make it binding.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Riddell, that it shall be binding upon the buyer to prove 30 per cent. of the cheese bought wrong before he can reject the lot.

Moved by Mr. Brooks, seconded by Mr. Switzer, in amendment, that the buyer be compelled to take all the cheese passed by the arbitrator. The original motion carried and the meeting adjourned for two weeks.

WEDDING BELLS.

Short—O'Neil

A most delightful wedding took place on New Year's day at the home of Mr. Wm. Short Mariposa, when his daughter Miss Sarah, was united in marriage to Mr. Chas. O'Neil. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Robinson of Manilla. The bride was most becomingly attired. Miss S. Osborne played the wedding march after the ceremony. There were about fifty guests present from different parts of the country and also from Sunderland, Cannington Lindsay and Port Hope. The wedding gifts were numerous and costly. The young people have many friends who join in wishing them God-speed on the journey of life so happily commenced.

Philippa Martin.

On New Year's evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Philippa, Bobageon, a fashionable wedding took place, when Miss Katie Florence was united in holy matrimony to Mr. R. H. Martin, of Fenelon Falls, Rev. G. Horton officiated. The house was tastefully decorated with evergreens and holly. The bride looked charming in a gown of antique and trimmed with muslin de soie and applique, and on leaving wore a travelling suit of brown broadcloth, and a very becoming toque of brown silk velvet. The bridesmaid, Miss Lillian, sister of the bride, wore a charming gown of white silk, and the groom, Mr. R. H. Martin, was ably supported by his brother Fred. After the ceremony the guests partook of a luxurious supper. A pleasant evening was spent by the guests from Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Peterboro and Bobageon. The popularity of the bride was testified by the large number of valuable presents. Mr. Martin was formerly a resident of Lindsay, but is now in the employ of the Lindsay Light, Heat & Power Co. at Fenelon Falls.

Graham Webster

On New Year's day a very pretty wedding took place at Maple Hill Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Webster, when their eldest daughter, Mabel Beatrice, was joined in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. Wilmer Bertram Graham, of Ops.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Marvin, of Pontypool, brother-in-law of the groom, assisted by Rev. Mr. Clark, of Oakwood. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of pink silk, trimmed with embroidered chiffon and veil decorated with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid's wedding march was played by Miss Saccuboe, of Ontario Ladies' College. Whistly, as the bridal party entered the room, and took their places under a skillfully decorated arch of evergreens. The bridesmaids were Miss Lena Adams, Cardinal, Ont., and Miss Nevada Webster, students of Ontario Ladies' College, Whistly. They were attired in pink organdie and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Ernest Graham, Toronto, and Mr. Wilmer Webster, Oakwood, brother of the bride. The flower girl was the pretty niece of the groom, Miss Anna Jeanie Stewart, a little white lamb in white lace over satin, while Master Stanley Jordan acted as page. The gift of the groom to the bride was a pearl and amethyst crescent, to the bridesmaid a pearl flour-de-lis pins, and to the flower girl a little pearl ring.

After the ceremony and the many congratulations the party adjourned to the beautifully decorated dining room and partook of a sumptuous repast. This being over, Mr. Woltz, of Toronto, acted as "master of ceremonies." He first proposed a toast to the bride; this was responded to by the groom in a few well-chosen words. Next in order was proposed to the bridesmaid which was ably responded to by Mr. E. Graham, of Toronto. Next followed a toast to the best and loveliest which was responded to by Mr. W. B. Webster, father of the bride. Short addresses were then given by Rev. Mr. Marvin, Pontypool, Rev. Mr. Clark, Oakwood, Dr. Hall, Little Britain, and Mr. A. O. Hogg, Oakwood.

COMMUNICATIONS

The Verdict is Decisive.

(To the Editor of The Post.)
Dear Sir,—A question that has been an issue in the municipal elections of Mariposa on three different occasions, viz., "Prohibition," in the form of a Local Option by-law, was again before the electorate for their decision to-day, and during one of the warmest municipal campaigns ever conducted in Mariposa, to-day 962 votes were polled on the Repeal By-law, while 955 votes were cast for the two candidates for Reeve, showing that every ratepayer expressed his opinion at the ballot box, and that opinion indicated with no uncertain sound that Mariposa was struggling along without licensed liquor selling. When the four interested parties get the account rendered by the new Council for the expenses of taking this vote they will have the complete answer of the ratepayers of the township of Mariposa to the "prayer" contained in the petition asking for a return to the license system. After 10 years of trial, even though Local Option has not done all that could be desired, the majority prefer it to license, and another thing that can never again be urged upon the Council is that any person made a mistake in voting as the temperance workers at every polling place took the pains to explain by means of sample ballots just how the vote was being taken; besides the full explanations made and posters placed all over the municipality, both sides were fully instructed on voting. "Against Repeal By-law" was wanted to retain Local Option, and vice-versa.

The following figures give the vote the different times the question was voted on:

Local Option was adopted in 1892 by a majority of 73.
In 1898 the vote stood;
For Repeal..... 273
Against Repeal..... 544

Majority against Repeal..... 271
In 1902..... 355
For Repeal..... 407
Against Repeal..... 407

Majority against Repeal..... 252

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Uncle Sam might start right in the new year by giving up what does not belong to him and so settle the Alaskan boundary without recourse to arbitration.

It may well be believed that Lord Salisbury has no great desire for a dukedom. A distinction worth more to him than any added title is Gladstone's tribute: "We have a Prime Minister whose ancestors were similarly employed, to the great benefit of England, ten generations ago." The Cecils who founded the family were the ministers of Elizabeth and James I.

Copper stocks dropped in value about $100,000,000 within a few days. The cause of the slump is said to be revelations made by an employee who was discharged without reasonable cause after fourteen years' faithful service. The men who so mistreated him find that they are worth over $2,000,000 in cash less to-day because of the slump thus precipitated.

In the course of a speech at Ottawa, the other day, before the Reform Club, on the occasion of a dinner being tendered him, the Hon. Sydney Fisher reviewed the political situation at some length and enlarged on the unwonted prosperity of the country and the progress it has made during the regime of the Laurier administration. It is satisfactory, however, to note that following in the course of the Hon. Mr. Fielding and others he raised a note of warning and reminded his hearers that no government could possibly maintain the existing condition of affairs for long. Not long since the Finance Minister stated in the House of Commons that he believed that the country had reached the high water mark of its prosperity, and that a period of reaction must come. Up to the present it appears his views were not at the moment justified, but he erred on the right side, for a reaction must come and the signs are not wanting which indicate that trade necessities may cause it to appear sooner than some may anticipate. While there is no reason for anticipating anything which may be termed "bad times," still a check to the tremendous expansion in our trade and commerce must be expected, and as Mr. Fisher said, it is as well to look out for it. How long the check may last, and the wheels of commerce commence to run again with their wonted velocity, remains to be seen. But for the rainy day provision must be made, and as the Minister of Agriculture has said, the warning signal should be generally hoisted.

Mr. Strauss, of the Mine Owners' Union, is credited with saying: "I have never seen a strike that could not have easily been averted had representatives of the two sides had a conference before the strike was declared." Perhaps that is a little too strong; there have been strikes after conferences between representatives of the parties; but there is a great deal of truth in it after all. The fault has not always been on one side; often one side has been as much to blame as the other. The record shows, however, that when employers and men were disposed to be reasonable strikes were unnecessary. Strikes are always a calamity to labor and an injury to capital. What has been needed is a fair spirit on both sides, and a disposition to take the other's view into account. As we attain that we shall get rid of labor troubles. By establishing a Department of Labor the Laurier government has done much to bring about a better feeling between employers and their workmen, and a number of strikes have been averted.

THE LATE TROOPER SKINNER

Official Notification of his Death Sent by the Officer Commanding.

Mr. Alex. Skinner, of the north ward, received the other day the following letter from the officer in command of "Scots Railway Guards," to which his son, Trooper Skinner, was attached in South Africa:

Pudimos, 15th Nov., 1901.
From Lieut. E. A. Green,
Officer Commanding S.M.R.G., Pudimos.
To Alex. Skinner, Esq.,
Lindsay, Ontario, Canada.

Sir,—It is with the deepest regret I have to inform you of the death of your son, Trooper Alex. Skinner, of "Scots Railway Guards." He was wounded whilst out on patrol close to Pudimos, where we had a sharp skirmish with the Boers on the 12th inst. He was carried into camp and immediately sent to Vryburg Hospital and everything possible was done to save him; but unfortunately he succumbed to his wounds on the 13th inst., the bullet having passed through his stomach. He was a brave and plucky soldier, and was well liked by all who knew him. He was a very brave man who had died fighting for his king and country during this war. Your son has been in Pudimos with me for the past two months; during that time he has always proved himself a good soldier and showed plenty of pluck and courage when necessary. He was greatly liked by his comrades in the camp, who miss him very much. I have written to his wife at Alberta, who his personal effects will be forwarded to in due course from our headquarters, Kimberley.

All his comrades wish to join with me in expressing their deepest sympathy with you and family in your loss by your son's death.—I remain, Sir, yours obediently,
E. A. GREEN,
Lieut. S.R.G.O.C.

WEDDING BELLS.

Tobin-Healey.
A pretty wedding took place Tuesday last at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's church at early mass, when Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Thos. Tobin, of the east ward, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Healey, son of Mr. Daniel Healey, also of the east ward. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. J. Phelan, in the presence of a few intimate friends. Miss Fréchet was bridesmaid and Mr. Neil Tobin, brother, supported the groom. The many friends and The Post join in wishing them a happy and prosperous married life.

Advice to Mothers.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerve-Lin. Don't be afraid to use Nerve-Lin freely, while the little fellow won't hurt or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerve-Lin has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 75 cents.

After the Rush—what?

The holiday trade is now at its ebb. It is going to last for several days longer and then it is going to stop short. The business houses must live after this sudden discontinuance of the Christmas trade. It will only take a couple of days to clean up from the holiday rush and then the business man will be ready for more opportunities to interest the public. Course there will be clearing sales and the usual run of "white goods," "one-fourth off sales," and other features so well known to business men. It would seem advisable at the beginning of the new year to start out with the purpose of making a first-class business out of what has been running along on the ordinary plan. The man who wants to get at the people, who wants to realize on his investment, and to at the same time enlarge the volume of his business, will have no difficulty in getting the interest of the public. If he goes after his business persistently, logically and candidly. The people as a whole are willing to believe his story, are anxious to be a part of his plan which helps in the strengthening of his business, and are willing to contribute their share to the volume which insures the pleasure of the merchant and the improvement of his bank account. The heart to heart talks between merchant and customer will bring about this desirable condition and will bring satisfaction to both. Advertiser World.

THE RAGE

Does not depend on the start but on the finish. It's staying power which carries many a runner to victory. It's like that in business. Many a man starts off in the race for business success with a burst of speed which seems to assure victory. Presently, however, he begins to falter and at last he falls and fails. The cause? Generally "stomach trouble." No man is stronger than his stomach. Business haste leads to careless and irregular eating. The stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition become diseased. The body is inadequately nourished and so grows weak.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It strengthens the stomach and so strengthens the whole body which depends on the stomach for the nourishment from which strength is made.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is no medicine "just as good" for diseases of the stomach and other organs.

Your "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed a wonderful cure, writes Mr. R. H. Hout, of Charleston, Franklin Co., Ark. "I had the worst case of dyspepsia, the doctors said that they ever saw. After trying several cures and everything I could hear of, with no benefit, I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and now I am cured."

EXPECTATION OF LIFE.

The Years Yet Before You, According to the Insurance Tables.

What are your chances of living to that ripe old age the poets tell of? If you don't know, we do, and we'll tell you. At least we have the mortality and expectation tables of the life insurance gentlemen, and we're willing to accept the figures as reliable; for the life insurance gentlemen go into this thing in a spirit the reverse of sentimental. They simply take 100,000 humans and figure out a percentage just as if the 100,000 humans were chalk on a blackboard.

Proceeding on the understanding that the 100,000 are considered at the age of ten years, each will have 43.7 more years to live. Of course some will die before collecting their life inheritance, but the 43.7 represents the average. As a matter of fact, carefully ascertained fact there will be 749 deaths among the 100,000 before the eleventh year is reached.

This leaves 99,251 survivors, with a chance of 43.1 more years in the land of the living. But 749 of these will die before becoming twelve-year-olds.

And so it goes. If you are interested in learning how the insurance gentlemen figure these matters, look at the following table and reckon how long a tenure of life the experts give you:

Completed age.	Number surviving at each age.	Deaths each year.	Expectation of life in years.
10.....	100,000	749	43.7

DEATH OF A JURIST

Passing of a Most Valued Member of Canada's Supreme Court

JUDGE GWYNNE DIES AT OTTAWA

A Man of Dignified But Affable Manners Whose Demise Will Be Greatly Regretted—Signor Marconi's Plans—No Inking of What Is Transpiring Between the Italian Inventor and the Government.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Mr. Justice Gwynne of the Supreme Court died at 12.45 this morning. The deceased gentleman was in good health until about up to a fortnight ago, when he was obliged to take to his bed. He was attended by Dr. R. W. Powell, one of the most skillful practitioners at the capital, but at his advanced age, he being in his 88th year, recuperative power was lacking. This morning Judge Gwynne was pronounced to be very low, and as the day wore on he gradually sank, and passed away at the hour stated. The late Judge Gwynne was quite energetic, despite his extreme age, and occupied his usual place on the bench of the Supreme Court during the last term, which concluded last in November last. His mind was bright and active, and his thorough knowledge of law and great experience rendered him one of the most valued members of the highest court in Canada. He was a man of dignified but affable manners, and his demise will be deeply regretted.

Sign Marconi's Movements.

Signor Marconi proposes to leave here on Wednesday for Montreal. He will spend a day there, presumably in order to interview the C.P.R. authorities concerning land connections for his transoceanic system, and will then go on to New York. It is not yet known how far the negotiations between Signor Marconi and the Government have progressed, but they are believed to have reference to the terms upon which a station could be established at Cape Breton for the transmission of messages across the Atlantic. There are some people who believe that the Government might properly establish the station itself, and pay royalties to the company controlling the Marconi patents, but no inking as to what is transpiring has been allowed to escape, and no authoritative statement will be given until a definite conclusion one way or the other has been reached. Of course, Signor Marconi has a station at Cape Cod, but it remains to be seen whether the Postal Telegraph Company and the Western Union will be favorable to his getting telegraph connection in the United States for his wireless system across the ocean.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S HOPE.

That Britain Does Not Expect a Renewal of Modus Vivendi.

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 7.—The colonial authorities entertain the hope that the British Government does not expect a renewal of the French shore modus vivendi, which expired Dec. 31, 1901, for the current year. They consider that this arrangement has proved a very great drawback to the welfare of the colony, and that its renewal would prolong the vexatious phases of the French shore question for a further period. Were it not for the Boer war, there is little doubt but that the colony would refuse to renew this measure. Even as it is, there is a strong element in the upper house of the colonial legislature which is opposed to the renewal of this arrangement under any circumstances.

Venezuelan Gunboat Captured.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Jan. 7.—(Via Haytien Cable).—Later in the day it became definitely known that Gen. Rier, the Venezuelan insurgent leader and all the other insurgents who had assembled here, embarked on board the Libertador during the night, and landed on Venezuelan soil this morning near Vela do Coro, with arms and ammunition. It is reported here this afternoon that the Libertador has captured the Venezuelan gunboat Zumbador.

Why Orders Were Refused.

London, Jan. 7.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Express asserts that Lord George Hamilton, Secretary of State for India, in a letter in behalf of the Indian Government, declining German tenders for railway material, gives as his reason for this action the anti-British feeling prevalent in Germany.

Court Arrives To-Day.

Pekin, Jan. 7.—The Chinese officials have requested the ministers of the powers to keep the legation guards within their quarters tomorrow, in order to prevent the possibility of a collision between the Chinese and foreign troops. The ministers will comply.

Mr. O'Brien in Australia.

Sydney, Jan. 7.—Mr. William O'Brien, the Irish Nationalist, who is being feted here, said in the course of a speech that the United Irish party was dreaded by the House of Commons, and the Liberal party was divided on the subject of Lord Rosebery.

TO EXCITE CHINESE.
Comprehensive Bill That Will Be Introduced From the Pacific.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The Senators and representatives of the Pacific Coast, who have been considering a bill for Chinese exclusion, have perfected a measure which will be introduced in both houses in a few days. It is much more comprehensive than any bill that have been presented heretofore on this subject, most of which simply provided for excluding Chinese or re-enacting the Geary law. The bill under consideration does not limit itself to any term of years, as did the Geary act, but, if passed, in its present form, would be perpetual, unless repealed.

The bill declares that all Chinese, other than citizens of the United States under the present treaty with China, shall be refused admission and returned to the country whence they came at the expense of the transportation company bringing them. The only Chinese person permitted to enter the United States under the act are those who have become citizens by birth and naturalization, and officials of the Chinese Government, teachers, students, merchants, travelers for pleasure or curiosity, returning laborers, who must have certificate, or domiciled merchants. No Chinese, except diplomatic or consular officers, are allowed to enter the United States at any other ports than San Francisco, Portland, Oregon; Boston, New York, New Orleans, Honolulu, San Juan and Manila. Ports may be designated on the Canadian or Mexican boundary after contracts have been made with transportation lines to comply with the act.

Provision is made for the registration of all Chinese now in the United States to be completed within six months after the passage of the act. All registered Chinese shall have a certificate, with photograph attached, and those without certificates at the end of six months shall be deported.

TWO CAPTAINS.

One Dies For His People, the Other's People Die For Him.

Ruskin in his "Essay on War" says: "It is wholly inconceivable to me how well educated princes who ought to be of all gentlemen the greatest and all nobles the most generous and whose title of royalty means only their function of doing every man 'right'—how these, I say, throughout history should so rarely pronounce themselves on the side of the poor and of justice, but continually maintain themselves and their own interests by oppression of the poor and by wresting of justice, and how this should be accepted as so natural that the word 'loyalty,' which means faithfulness to law, is used as if it were only the duty of a people to be loyal to their king and not the duty of a king to be infinitely more loyal to his people."

"How it comes to pass that a sea captain will die with his passengers and lean over the gunwale to give the parting boat its course, but that a king will not usually die with, much less for, his passengers—thinks it rather incumbent on his passengers in any number to die for him? Think, I beseech you, of the wonder of this."

"The sea captain, not captain by divine right, but only by company's appointment; not a man of royal descent, but only a plebeian who can steer; not with the eyes of the world upon him, but with feeble chance, depending on one poor boat, of his name being ever heard above the wash of the fatal waves; not with the cause of a nation resting on his act, but helpless to save so much as a child from among the lost crowd with whom he resolves to be lost, yet goes down quietly to his grave rather than break his faith to those few emigrants."

"But your captain by divine right, your captain with the hues of a hundred shields of kings upon his breast, your captain whose every deed, brave or base, will be illuminated by branded for ever before unescapable eyes of men, your captain whose every thought and act are beneficent or fatal from sun rising to setting, blessing as the sunshine or shadowing as the night—this captain as you find him in history for the most part thinks only how he may tax his passengers and sit at most ease in his cabin."

Fatally Hurt.

St. Thomas, Jan. 7.—John Durand, hotelkeeper at Belmont, and for years license inspector for East Middlesex, met with very serious injury at the Atlantic House, London, Saturday night. His injuries are mostly internal, and are such as to make his recovery a matter of doubt. Mr. Durand fell through a trap door to the cellar, and alighted upon his head. He was rendered unconscious by the fall.

Killed by An Avalanche.

Paris, Jan. 7.—News has come to hand of a terrible Alpine accident which has killed several Chasseurs Alpins, the hardy little mountaineers who are the Queen Victoria's thought so much of. It should not be confused with a similar mishap which injured many men of the same regiment on the same day—yesterday.

Death of J. J. Craig of Fergus.

Fergus, Jan. 7.—John James Craig, publisher of The News-Record of this town, and president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association in 1897, was buried at Belsyde Cemetery here yesterday. Mr. Craig died at Gravenhurst on Friday.

Why Not?

An exchange says: "It would be a great convenience to the public if township Councils would erect sign posts at the road corners giving the names of the concessions and sideroads. The expense would be but trifling. Farmers, too, could help in this matter by placing a small, neat board on the front gateway giving the name of the owner and the number of the lot. If some enterprising township would undertake to be the pioneer in this scheme it would quickly spring into fame and popularity."

Smallpox in Peterboro.

In Saturday's issue the Peterboro papers confirmed the rumor that smallpox had broken out there. The first case developed about three weeks ago, and the Provincial Board,
being informed of the fact, sent Dr.
Hodgett, Provincial Inspector, to supervise the precautionary measures adopted. All who had been directly exposed were quarantined for two weeks and escaped infection. On Thursday it was found that a patient at Nicholas hospital had the disease and he was at once removed to an isolation hospital tent in Jackson's park. The hospital has been quarantined for 14 days and the inmates of the house where the patient had been boarding have been vacated and isolated. The disease is of a mild type.

WEDDING BELLS.

Junkin-Miller.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 31st, at the parsonage of Queen-st. Methodist church, at 7.30, Wm. Harry Miller, of Lindsay, formerly of Trenton,
and Eva May Junkin, of Boleyngeon, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J.
Harvey Strike, Wm. Scott assisted the groom, and Miss Aggie Kelly acted as bridesmaid. The wedding party looked very attractive indeed,
and their many friends here and elsewhere extend warm congratulations, wishing for them a prosperous future. They purpose residing in Lindsay.

Sutton-Graham.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs.
Robt. Lytle, Glenlog-st. east, on New Year's day, at 3 p.m., Mr. Arthur Graham, of Bethany, and Miss Elizabeth A. Sutton, of Fleetwood, Manitoba, were united in marriage. Rev.
A. J. Harvey Strike, Queen-st. Methodist church pastor, performed the ceremony. The bride was handsomely dressed in a becoming suit of blue with pearl trimmings. The bride-maid was also very becomingly attired in a suit of brown. Mr. John J. Hickson, of Mount Hope, ably officiated as groomsmen. The bride was the recipient of some beautiful presents. Mr. Graham is a young man of good abilities and fast rising as a successful business man. They purpose residing near Fleetwood.
Their many friends here and wishing them a very peaceful and happy future.

Sharpe-Foley.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, Albert-st., was the scene of unusual gayety on Tuesday evening, Dec. 31st,
it being the occasion of the marriage of Nellie, their second daughter, to R.
Christopher Foley, of Elgin, Manitoba. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Harvey Strike, pastor of Queen-st. Methodist church, town.
Miss Clara Sharpe, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr.
A. Davies, of Keenboro, ably assisted the groom. The bride was attired in a very becoming suit and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid carried pink carnations.
The bride was the recipient of a handsome bible and a choice book of poems—a gift from Queen-st. Methodist church Epworth League and Sabbath School. The happy couple purpose going to their new home,
which is 180 miles west of Winnipeg, next Tuesday. Mr. Foley has been there for some years and is doing an excellent business. Their many friends extend congratulations, wishing for them a long, happy and useful life.

Ferris-Silverwood.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on New Year's day at 3 o'clock,
at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J.
Ferris, Glenlog-st., when their daughter, Eva Montrose, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert E. Silver-wood, of this town. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W.
Macmillan, of St. Andrew's church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. McCulloch, of Newmarket, in the presence of a large company of invited guests.
The bride looked charmingly attired
in white silk dainty with tucked chifon trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel, who looked pretty dressed in pink silk and carrying pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. W. Scott, of Dundas & Flavelle Bros. staff.

After the ceremony congratulations
were extended to the happy young couple and the party sat down to an elaborate wedding dinner. The presents to the bride were in abundance and numerous, which is an indication of her popularity among her friends. The happy couple left on the six o'clock train for a honeymoon trip to Toronto and other western points. Their many friends and The Post join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Following are the names of the guests present: Miss Ethel Ferris, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith and
Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Janetville; Mr.
Paterson, Miss Paterson and Miss Brown, Peterboro; Mr. Duncan, Canaburg; Mr. G. Davidson, Miss Davidson, Glanville; Mr. Jamieson, Miss Jamieson, Woodville; Miss Bingham, Carnington; Mr. Phillips, P.S.I. and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Munsey, Minden; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Silverwood,

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Epilepsy Curable.

A DISEASE THAT HAS LONG
RAFFLED MEDICAL SKILL.

Mr. M. A. Gauthier, of Buckingham, Given His Experience for the Benefit of Other Sufferers from This Terrible Malady.

From the Post, Buckingham, Que.
We venture to say that in our town of 5,000 inhabitants few business men are better known than Mr.
M. A. Gauthier, the young and hustling butcher of Main street. He was not, however, as energetic or as hustling a couple of years ago as he is to-day, and for a good reason—he wasn't well. Having gone into business before reaching his majority his desire to succeed was such that no heed was paid to keeping the body in the state of health necessary to stand this strain, and in consequence of the extra demands upon the system it became run down to such an extent that epilepsy or falling sickness resulted, and these lapses into unconsciousness becoming alarmingly frequent he consulted physicians and took some remedies, but without beneficial results.
Finally seeing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised for a cure for falling sickness he decided to give them
a trial. As to the result, the Post cannot do better than give Mr. Gauthier's story in his own words:
"Yes," said Mr. Gauthier, "for nearly four years I suffered from epilepsy, or falling fits, which took me without warning and usually in most inconvenient places. I am just twenty-four years old, and I think I started business too young, and the fear of falling spurred me to greater efforts perhaps than was good for my constitution, and the consequence was that I became subject to those attacks which came without any warning whatsoever, and left me terribly sick and weak after they had passed. I got to dread their recurrence very much. I consulted doctors and took their remedies to no purpose, the fits still troubled me. I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised and determined to try them. I did so, and the medicine helped me so much that I got more and kept on taking them until today I am as well, yes better, than I ever was, and am not troubled at all by epilepsy or the fear of the fits seizing me again. Thinking
there may be others similarly afflicted, I give my history to the Post; it may perhaps lead them to give this great medicine a trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive cure for all diseases arising from impoverished blood or a weak or shattered condition of the nervous system. Every dose makes new, rich, red blood, and gives tone to the nerves, thus curing such diseases
as epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, paralysis, rheumatism, sciatica, heart troubles, anaemia, etc. These pills are also a cure for the ailments that make the lives of so many women a constant misery. They are sold in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full name—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Can be procured from druggists, or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Saturday's Markets.

There was a good demand for fresh butter and eggs, also poultry, at the market on Saturday and consi-quently business was brisk for a few hours. There was a large display of beef and dressed hogs outside and the demand was fairly good. Following were the quotations: Eggs, 20 to 22c.; butter 18c.; chickens 45c.
per pair, ducks 50 to 60c. per pair,
geese 7c. per lb., turkeys 11c. per lb., beef 5 to 6 1/2c. per lb., lamb 8c. per lb., pork 7 1/2c. per lb., potatoes 60c. per bag, apples $1 to $1 75 per bag.

New Year's at the Y. M. C. A.

The pancake social given in the Y.M.C.A. New Year's for the young men of the town was a decided success. A progressive games contest was a pleasant feature of the evening, each young man with his partner endeavoring to win as many games as possible. If they were successful in winning they were promoted to another game; if unsuccessful
they had to remain at the same game until they did succeed in winning.
After the contest closed a community of young men, each wearing a white apron, made ready the tables
and prepared to serve the pancakes.
When all were seated each one was beautifully served with pancakes, tea and syrup. While the men were enjoying this feast a phono-graphic concert was given. The pancakes, which were as light as a cream puff, were prepared and made by Mrs. S. Soanes, baker, of this town. At ten o'clock the crowd dispersed, each feeling he had spent a pleasant and enjoyable evening.

An After Dinner Blaze.

The shop occupied by Mr. Dan. Mc-Gibbon, tobacconist, and Mr. Alf.
Brown, barber, was damaged by fire Thursday week. There was leak in the gas pipe at the metre, which Manager Graham failed to find until noon, when he closed the valve,
promising to send a man after dinner to make repairs. About two o'clock, the man not having arrived,
Mr. McGibbon, being anxious to turn on a few lights, opened the valve and lit a match to see if the leak still existed. In the explosion that followed Dan almost lost his abundant moustache, and was slightly scorched about the head. The fire that followed was put out by the use of the brigade extinguisher.
The damage to the stock is covered by insurance. To a Post reporter Mr. McGibbon said: "I am entirely to blame myself for touching the valve." When I was told to leave it alone." His store is lighted again as usual.

OBITUARY

Death of R. D. Yarnold.

Toronto World: Reginald D.
Yarnold died at his residence, 311 Sumach-st., Tuesday morning, at the age of 67 years. Deceased had been ailing for a long time. For over 20 years Mr. Yarnold had lived in the East End of the city. He was born in London, Eng., and came to Canada with his father's family when young. They first settled on the shores of Lake Couchiching, later he removed to Whitby and made that his home until he came to this city in 1880. He leaves a widow and one son, Mr. Benjamin Yarnold, of New York, and three daughters, Mrs.
Deverell, of Omaha, Mrs. Taverne, of San Francisco, and Mrs. William R. Yarnold, of Toronto. He was the third son of the late Capt. Yarnold of Her Majesty's Royal Marines. Deceased was a brother of Mr. E.
Yarnold, Port Perry, County York,
surveyor, and uncle of Mr. R. Yarnold, town.

Railway Notes.

—Local freight business continues good.
—The C. P. R. authorities deny
the report that they intend to remove the Kingston and Pembroke R. R. shops from Kingston to Ottawa. Under the conditions of the bonus agreement an equivalent would have to be granted.

Wedding Stationery

It is claimed that people do not marry at as early an age as in former years, but still they marry, and when the happy event takes place, stationery is required, and good stationery is appreciated. The Post keeps a full line of the latest New York styles, as well as the standard patterns which have been in demand for several years back.—dtf.

Police Court Calendar.

—In September last a young man named Charles Roy, who said he came from Montreal, hired a boat from Mr. Thos. Cleetham at Bobcaygon, saying he was going to Sturgeon Point for a few days to do a little fishing. Roy and the boat failed to return, and nothing was done until last week, when he was arrested by Constable Austin near Ballinacree. He was brought to court and appeared before Col.
Denore yesterday, but was remanded until next Tuesday. Roy claims that another young man went with him fishing and he gave the money to him to pay for the use of the boat
and instructed him to return it.

Curling Notes.

—It may be interesting to friends of the club to know that the first foreign game played by the Lindsay Club was played against Orillia 25 years ago on the 16th of this month.
Arrangements have been completed
to have the twenty-fifth anniversary of this first game celebrated by a match, eight rinks a side, four here
and four in Orillia. Messrs. Needler and Flavelle are the only two members of the club who played in the game twenty-five years ago. Mr. T.
A. Main is the only member of the Orillia Club. These three veterans are still in the first rank amongst the curlers of the two clubs. Messrs.
Needler and Flavelle will skip two of the Lindsay rinks and Mr. Main will play either as skip or in some other position for Orillia.

Drugging Will Not Cure Catarrh.

This loathsome disease is caused by germs that invade the air passages of the head, throat and lungs,
and can be cured only by inhalation of medicated air. Stomach medicines, atomizers, snuffs, are ineffectual, because they fail to reach the cause of the trouble. Catarrhozonia is successful because it is inhaled to every part of the breathing organs, and has power to kill the germs, boils the inflamed tissues and prevents droppings in the throat. Catarrhozonia treats more than one thousand square feet of the mucous surface with every breath taken through the inhaler, and affords immediate relief. It perfectly cures catarrh, asthma and bronchitis.
Sold by druggists. Two months' treatment. Price $1.00. Small size

Hockey Notes.

—Manager Walters is bringing the team
along in grand style.
—Peterboro vs. Lindsay: the opening game of the O. H. A., series will be played here Friday night.
—The town team had a good practice at the rink last night. The boys are getting in splendid condition for the game Friday night.
—The latest development in the Trent Valley League is that Campbellford has defaulted to Norwood,
and the latter is desirous of playing a team from Peterboro on home ice next Friday night.
—Mayor Inglis has promised President Paton that he will be present Friday night and throw the puck to the players from the band gallery at 8.15 sharp in the opening game of the O. H. A. series between Peterboro and Lindsay.

—We understand Mr. Dennistoun, of Port
Perry, has accepted a position with Mr.
John Lorry, harness-maker. Mr. Dennistoun is a first-class hockey player, having played on the forward line of the Port Perry team last year. Manager Walters should see that Mr. Dennistoun gets a place on the local team.

Church Notes.

—Rev. Geo. Wilson, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church Sunday morning and preached a very interesting sermon, taking his text from 2nd Corinthians, 8th Chapter, 7th to 13th verses. After the service holy communion was celebrated. In the evening the Rev.
C. H. Marsh preached an interesting sermon on missions. After the offertory was taken up Mr. Battersby, lay reader, favored the congregation with a reading of the 11th chapter of the book of Job. In St. Andrew's on Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. J. W. Macmillan, as is his custom on the first Sunday evening of each month,
preached a sermon to young people
on the difference between "A life that is inspired," and "A life that is uninspired," basing his remarks on 2 Chron., 24 chap, 2nd verse, "Joah
the king, did that which was right,"
as long as Jehoida, the good High-Priest, lived he was supported by Jehoida, but as soon as the support was taken away Joash fell into evil ways. There was also consolation in it—he knew that Joash was right.
The preacher illustrated the work
of an inspired life, citing the cases of King Edward VI., John Howard and David Livingstone, who did a great work during their lives, having high aims before them and unbounded faith in Jesus. A young man comes to Lindsay and does not receive the affection and welcome at once that he was used to at home,
and for this light excuse he turns to the way of the scornful. He is a man of straw whose life is supported, and were he to go to a Western city would quickly fall into this ways and society of the lewd. There is the choice for all to live a "supported" or an "inspired" life, the latter being strong in faith in Jesus Christ.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 10th, '02

Report of Berlin DelegatesON THE MICHIGAN BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

It Corroborates the Impressions of Messrs. Channon and Ellis, of the Delegation From Victoria Co.

Your committee appointed to make investigation re sugar beet raising and the manufacture of sugar therefrom, beg to report as follows:

The committee spent two days in Bay City and Saginaw, Mich., where three refineries are now in operation. Two more will be ready to start operation on the 1st of November, and another is under contract to be ready next year. These six refineries will be within a radius of 13 miles and their total cost will be over $3,000,000.00. The investing of this large amount of money shows that investors have great confidence in the permanence of the enterprise.

We were shown through three of the refineries, and shown every process of manufacture, and we feel ourselves indebted to the officials of the institutions for the courteous treatment they extended to us, and for the trouble they took to explain the matter in every detail.

The farmers deliver their beets in large waggons, holding about two tons each. Every load is weighed, and samples taken therefrom to determine what percentage of sugar each load will produce and what amount is to be deducted for tare, dirt, etc. The farmers' interests are looked after by a man appointed by themselves in the weighing house, and for compensation, the farmer is taxed 1 per cent per load or ton.

We find, upon interviewing the farmers that they have no trouble with the various companies, but feel that they are always treated fairly. We learn that when the farmer once commences to raise beets, that he never stops, but on the contrary, he puts in more acreage each year. As the profits are so large, he finds the raising of beets much more profitable than wheat, oats or barley, or any other farm product, and he is paid in cash at the end of each month.

A number of farmers when interviewed estimated that it cost them $25 to $30 per acre to raise the beets, after counting a fair wage for themselves, and the yield is from $62 to $75 per acre, thus leaving them from $32 to $45 per acre net profit. We have the above statement confirmed by various merchants, who have raised from 10 to 100 acres, hiring all the work done, and the profits were from $30 to $45 per acre.

We met a Mr. Gilbert, who has 1,100 acres of rented land this year, and he has rented 2,300 acres for next year. He speaks in the highest terms of the industry, and the fair and honorable way in which the companies deal with the farmers.

The farmers are paid $1.50 per ton for the beets that show 12 per cent sugar and 33 1-3 cents per ton is added for each percentage above 12 per cent; thus showing that a yield of 15 per cent sugar would make the price $5.50 per ton, less 1 per cent to 5 per cent, for dirt, etc. The refineries deduct 33 1-3 cents per ton for all beets that average under 12 per cent sugar. The average yield we find to be about 15 tons per acre. Some farmers run up as high as 18 and others go as low as 12 tons. The highest percentage is produced on the best land, and where the beets are looked after carefully, and the weeds kept down. The weigh master, said he could pick out a good load of beets by seeing a German farmer on the wagon. The farmers are raising better beets each year, consequently a large profit is realized. It is unprofitable to use the ground two years in succession; while the percentage of sugar is just as great the second and third year, the beets are smaller and less tons per acre. We find that it does not injure the beets to be frosted and the refineries do not object to frozen beets, if they are not allowed to thaw out.

The farmers are allowed to take away the pulp for feeding purposes, and the refuse lime for fertilizing. The farmers in Michigan have not availed themselves of the above opportunities as far as the pulp is concerned, because they have no cattle to fatten, but most of our Waterloo county farmers would have. The process of keeping this pulp during the winter, and the feeding of it, is explained in a paper called "The Michigan Sugar Beet," a weekly paper at $1 per year, which would keep farmers thoroughly posted on the sugar beet question.

We find that the price of farm land has risen 40 per cent in Bay county in the last four years. There are many cases on record, where the advances have been over 100 per cent, and we talked with one farmer who bought his land eight years ago at $25 per acre, and last year he was offered $75 per acre for it. This shows a total gain of 200 per cent, since he purchased the farm. He attributes the advance solely to the raising of sugar beets, which has been very profitable for him.

It is profitable for farmers living a long distance from refineries to raise beets, and ship them by rail. We interviewed a number of farmers who were hauling from 10 to 16 miles.

The cultivation of beets is easily learned, and to the farmers of Waterloo county, who are accustomed to raising roots, it would present no difficulties. We find that the farmers in and near Bay county were lumbermen, and when the lumber industry ceased to be profitable they took to farming, and, consequently, they are not experienced farmers. The sugar beet industry has been of inestimable profit to Bay City, and the cities where the refineries are located. Large refineries pay out $500,000 or more each year. There is plenty of work for the poor classes in the beet fields, and good wages are paid. Even boys and girls from 10 years up make good wages, and are looked upon as very desirable help.

Having plenty of work during the summer, the poor classes are building their homes and paying off the mortgages on their homes, and the laboring classes, and such mechanics as carpenters, bricklayers, stonemasons and painters, are kept steadily working from November until February or March in the refineries, after their outdoor work is through in the fall. This makes the location of beet sugar factories most profitable, in or near a city, and of lasting benefit to the mechanics, and it is an industry which will constantly increase in importance.

The farmers in Bay county, Mich., have not as yet subscribed stock in the companies, but the farmer is always alive to his best interest, and they are now building a large refinery which will be in operation by November 1st.

The buildings of the refineries are absolutely fire-proof, and are very extensive. The plant and machinery are very extensive, and consequently cost a large amount of money to erect. The estimated cost of a 600 ton per day plant is from $550,000 to $600,000.

The refineries are all doing well, with the exception of one—in a fruit growing district. The fruit crop was poor one year, and the farmers took up sugar beet raising, but the next year was a fruit year, and the prices were good, and having their fruit trees to look after they stopped raising beets. However the shutting down of this refinery is only looked upon as being temporary.

We recommend that the town use their utmost endeavors to have a beet sugar refinery located in or near Berlin.

A BRITISH SUCCESS

Beresford Deed: Boers in the Orange River Colony.

ELEVEN KILLED AND 35 TAKEN.

A False Despatch Concerning the Boers Denied—Accidents to Members of the New Contingent at Mafeking—Two of Them Are Dangerously, Probably Fatally Injured—Murders of Natives.

Bloemfontein, Orange River Colony, Jan. 6.—Beresford's force of constabulary encountered a force of Boers Jan. 4 in the central part of the Orange River Colony, killed Field Cornet Pretorius and 10 men and captured 35 burghers, including Field Cornets Lepoux and Erasmus.

Report is Denied. London, Jan. 7.—The War Office, on the authority of Lord Kitchener, last evening denies the report, telegraphed from Pretoria Jan. 1, that two officers of the Intelligence Department, who were sent to parley with Boers who desired to surrender, near Warm Baths, were treacherously shot by concealed Boers.

Famous Scots Greys. London, Jan. 7.—The Royal Scots Greys, who were recently ambushed by the Boers, is the popular name of the Second Dragoons, acquired from the custom of mounting the regiment on gray troop horses. The battle honors borne by the regiment begin with Blenheim, where it served with the Duke of Marlborough. At Waterloo it made a famous charge, as also at Balaklava. The Emperor Nicholas II. of Russia is its colonel in chief.

ACCIDENTS AT HALIFAX.

Le. Woodside and Tpr. McLennan Probably Fatally Injured.

Halifax, Jan. 7.—There were a number of casualties at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday afternoon. Several officers and men of the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles were thrown from their horses and two of them received serious injuries. Lieut. Woodside of Lawson City, who was the Canadian census commissioner in the Yukon, was thrown from his horse and had his skull fractured. He is at the Military Hospital. Up to a late hour last night he had not regained consciousness, and fears are entertained for his recovery.

Lieut. Richards, formerly of Strathcona's Horse, and Lieut. Lambkin of Quebec, were also thrown from their horses, receiving slight injuries.

Trooper McLennan of Kingston, Ont., was thrown violently from his horse, and his skull was fractured. The doctors hold out little hope for his recovery.

Trooper Mayne was hurled from horse and had a rib broken. Several others received minor injuries.

MURDERS OF NATIVES.

Farmer Shoots One Whom He Accuses of Supplying Cattle.

London, Jan. 7.—A special statement from Lord Kitchener specifying several cases of shooting of natives by the Boers was issued from the War Office last night.

On Monday, Oct. 15, 1900, party of Boers came to Houtkop, about six miles northwest of Vereeniging. One of them, a farmer well known to the natives in the kraal, fired at and killed a native called Jacob, whom he accused of supplying cattle to the British forces.

At the same time another Boer, Phanie Cronje by name, proceeded to the house of a native, Johannes, whom he shot dead in the presence of both his sons as he came outside.

In November or December, 1900, a certain number of wagons belonging to a convoy proceeding from Pretoria to Rustenburg were captured by the enemy. A native driver of one of the wagons appears to have been rolled up in a buck sail by two men called Willem Barnard and Jan van Rensburg; bags of oats were piled on the top of the sail. These were then sprinkled with paraffin, and the whole set on fire. The witnesses in this case are all natives from Kimberley.

The total number of natives reported murdered is thirty-seven. Details not yet to hand.

Basutos and the War.

Pietermaritzburg, Jan. 6.—Sir Godfrey Lagden, British resident in Zululand, is here discussing the native labor question with the Government, with particular reference to the excessive wages paid by the military in the Transvaal and elsewhere. The Basutos, says Sir Godfrey, have watched the latter stages of the war in a manner, and, convinced as they now are of the overwhelming power of Great Britain, are regarding the struggle being fought out as a test of their endurance and determination. The moral effect of the great campaign, which has been carried on under their eyes, will be complete only when they see the last Boer commando driven from the field.

A Fair at Cape Town. London, Jan. 7.—An exhibition is to be held in Cape Town in 1903, says a despatch from that city to Times. It will be organized from England and its main object will be the promotion of trade. There will be no appeal for colonial funds.

Contracts For $200,000. New York, Jan. 7.—The De Beers Consolidated Diamond Mines, Limited, of Kimberley, South Africa, have just awarded a contract to American concerns for structural material and complete electrical equipment for a large plant, which will be utilized for general power purposes. The value of the combined contracts is about $200,000.

Killed in a Runaway.

London, Jan. 7.—George Walters was killed in a runaway on Sunday.

HOWLAND V. MACLEAN

The Former Mayor of Toronto for 1902 by 4,628 Majority.

MAYORS OF CITIES AND TOWNS

Some of the More Striking Results of the Annual Municipal Elections in Ontario—Ottawa Goes In For Municipal Telephone, and Milton For Electric Light—Other Bylaws.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Yesterday Mayor Howland polled 13,454 votes, W. F. Maclean, M.P., 8,826, and Social-Labor-Woodley 631 in this city. Mr. Maclean was running on an advanced platform of general municipal ownership. The bylaw to grant $133,500 for new buildings for the Industrial Exhibition, was carried on this vote: For, 5,068, against 3,678; majority in favor of the bylaw 1,340.

In Ottawa the vote on plebiscite for the municipal ownership of the telephone franchise resulted in a great victory for the people. And even in Milton the vote on the plebiscite for town control of electric lighting was carried.

Port Hope passed a bylaw granting exemption from taxation for 10 years to the Nicholson File Company, a Collingwood passed bylaws giving a loan of $20,000 to the J. J. Zock Company, and $8,000 to Stewart & Cameron. A bylaw to reduce the license of hotels and saloons was carried in Carleton Place.

Meaford passed a bylaw granting a bonus of $16,000 to a cabinet factory.

Chatham carried the Chaplin bylaw to loan that firm $25,000. Kingston decided to make the assessment on the foundry only $10,000.

Warton carried a bylaw giving a bonus of $25,000 to the Best Sugar Company, and another exempting Charles Peckin from taxes on his flour mill.

Galt gives a free site for the North American Beet Root Sugar Company.

PRINCIPAL GRANT TALKS.

Wants Canada Peopled by Its Own Stock—Other Views.

Kingston, Jan. 7.—Principal Grant was able to address the students of Queen's last evening in the Convocation Hall. In his address he discussed his attitude in the past 40 years towards Canadian Confederation, Imperial union and the Presbyterian union. He claimed to have acted on principle and vital truth.

In Confederation, he stood with Tupper against L. L. political mentor, Howe. He wanted Canada peopled by its own stock. He had already all the peoples of other languages we can digest.

He asked the Government to call off its immigration agents. He saw Imperial union coming nearer, but he took occasion to assail the Government for neglecting to pay its share of the cost of sending men to the South African war. They could give millions in bonuses and for public policy, but none to aid a land giving its best blood and treasure to win a costly victory.

The Empire, he held, must be practically as well as nominally united. The principal rejoiced over the Presbyterian union, and looked for an organized church of Canada, embracing all denominations.

Two Sunk in Collision.

Eighteen British and One Spanish Seaman Were Drowned.

London, Jan. 7.—The British steamer Alfonso, which sailed from Newport Dec. 13, for Gibraltar, and the Spanish steamer Vileva, both loaded with coal, collided during the night of Jan. 4 off Aveiro, Portugal. Both vessels sunk. Eighteen men of the British steamer and one man of the Spanish ship were drowned. Twenty-four members of the crew of the Vileva and the captain of the British steamer were picked up and landed at Matto Linhos.

Barque Capsized in a Spanish River—Many Women Lost.

Corunna, Spain, Jan. 7.—A barque has capsized at the mouth of the River Lezaro, and 23 persons, mostly women, were drowned.

The River Lezaro is southwest of Corunna and in Corunna Province.

Was on the Walla Walla.

Winnipeg, Jan. 7.—One of the passengers on the ill-fated steamer Walla Walla, which foundered off Cape Mendocino, California, last Thursday, was Mrs. R. S. Edgar, wife of Robert Edgar, formerly of Brandon, but now of Winnipeg.

Edgar was on her way to Vancouver last night from his wife, to the effect that she was safe and well, having escaped in a boat from the wreck.

Killed on the Track.

Magog, Que., Jan. 7.—A man, horse and rig were found yesterday morning on the C.P.R. track near Castlebrook. The man and horse were dead and the rig smashed. The body has not yet been identified. It is supposed the occupant of the sleigh was under the influence of liquor and drove on the track instead of the road, as the spot where the body was found is a mile away from the main road.

Direct from Germany

Early last fall we placed an order with a German firm for a consignment of FANCY GLASSWARE, and CHINA NOVELTIES for the holiday trade.

The goods were shipped late and the vessel carrying them was delayed by winter tempests, the result being that the consignment did not reach us in time for Christmas.

It was unfortunate, but it would be worse luck to have to carry them over till next season. Every year has its new styles in China and Glassware as in dress goods, and we have decided to clear out this consignment NOW. If you want some pretty things for your table your opportunity is here.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

--The monthly strongers' tea at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon was attended by twelve visitors, men from England, United States and different parts of Ontario. The social gathering was an hour pleasantly spent and was the means of making strangers to the town and its citizens feel more at home in our midst. Any of our citizens knowing young men locating in the town would confer a favor upon the directorate of the Y.M.C.A. by handing in the names of all such parties and thus bring them under the best of influences.

—Separate School Inspector White says the Orillia school will compare favorably with any in the province. At the last entrance examination sixteen pupils tri'd and all passed most creditably, which is but a repetition of the splendid showing made for many years past. The four teachers hold Provincial Normal School certificates.

The Christmas tree and entertainment held in St. Paul's church schoolroom last Friday was a great success. The schoolroom was prettily decorated with flags and bunting, and was filled to the doors. The concert was most enjoyable and the singing by the children much appreciated. Mr. Batterbury favored the audience with a vocal solo. The Christmas tree was loaded down with all kinds of presents and presented a very attractive appearance. After the close of the entertainment four young men distributed the presents among the scholars.

SCOTS GREYS SUFFER

Ambushed by Boers Forty Miles East of Pretoria.

SIX MEN KILLED, 13 WOUNDED.

Boer Laager Captured—Successful Operation of Gen. Bruce Hamilton—Gen. Bruce Hamilton—Gen. Erasmus Among His Prisoners—Indignant With Germany—Lib is on Troops Stir Up the People.

Pretoria, Jan. 5.—The Boers ambushed a party of the Scots Greys last Saturday near Bronkhorst Spruit, about 40 miles east of Pretoria, on the railroad. The British casualties were six men killed and thirteen men wounded.

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

Commandant Erasmus in Hands of British is an Irreconcilable.

London, Jan. 6.—Lord Kitchener cables, under Saturday's date, that Gen. Bruce Hamilton, who has been operating east of Durban since Dec. 29, has captured 100 prisoners, including Commandant Erasmus. He also has taken much stock and many wagons.

The capture of Erasmus is considered to be an ample offset for the heavy casualty lists reported from the War Office. While not one of the most alert and resourceful Boer leaders, he has executed a great influence, in keeping wavering burghers in the field.

British veterans have been asserting for many months that the war would end as soon as a dozen leaders could be captured. Erasmus is one of the most irreconcilable Boers.

FORCES BEING REDUCED.

Col. Dumaquin Captures Twenty-Eight of Smith's Command.

Johannesburg, Jan. 5.—Lord Kitchener has organized a new mounted force from the artillery. This command, which will be known as the Artillery Mounted Rifles, took the field to-day, 1,400 strong. It consists chiefly of gunners of the howitzer batteries. The reduced forces of the Boers offer little scope for artillerymen, and it is believed that they can be used with greater effect as a mobile column to crush out the final resistance of the burghers. On Christmas Eve, Col. Dumaquin captured 28 men of Smith's command in the eastern portion of the Orange River Colony. The reduction of the Boer forces is keeping up to the average rate.

Nearly 20,000 Dead.

London, Jan. 6.—The total reduction of Great Britain's military force in South Africa from the beginning of the war to the end of December, including deaths from disease, men reported missing, etc., amounts to 24,299 men. Of this number 10,430 were actually killed or died. A total of 64,330 men were invalided home, the majority of whom recovered and rejoined their commands.

British Policy Toward Boers.

London, Jan. 6.—The friends of Joseph Chamberlain are confident that he will not change his policy in South Africa, but that he will set his face sternly against a revival of peace negotiations. They credit him with the determination to continue the military campaign until every Boer in arms is a prisoner, and they assert that he will not follow Lord Rosebery's advice, and allow himself to be drawn into negotiations with Mr. Kruger. This is not because he has a hardened heart, but because he considers that everything within reason was done by Lord Kitchener to facilitate the conclusion of an armistice with General Botha, and that any reopening of negotiations with Mr. Kruger is utterly impracticable and will only expose the British cause to ridicule.

The Government is not likely to be influenced in any degree by Lord Rosebery's plain speaking. It takes its South African cue from Mr. Chamberlain, and will not attempt to make peace when there is no peace.

The Public Deeply Stirred.
London, Jan. 6.—Public feeling here has been deeply stirred by the libels on British soldiers in South Africa, circulated on the continent. Lord Roberts' letter, contradicting the stories of the violation of Boer women and the employment of Boer female refugees for immoral purposes, has intensified this feeling, especially as regards the anti-British tendency of the German press. The Daily Mail Gazette declares that a positive duty is incumbent on the German Government to order its military attaches in South Africa to announce what they know regarding the alleged atrocities. In all quarters the keenest determination is evidenced to have authoritative details issued and have all accusations investigated.

HOME FROM AFRICA.

Troopship Manhattan Returns With Some Invalided Canadian.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 6.—The troopship Manhattan, which is to take the first section of the Canadian Mounted Rifles to South Africa, reached Halifax at noon yesterday from Cape Town via Vincent, C.V., after a passage of about seven days from the latter port. The steamer made a good run, and experienced fine weather from the Cape to this port. The steamer brought eight invalided and time-expired men, who have been at the front with the British forces. They were N. W. Kelson of Melita, Manitoba, of the S.A.C. He left here on the Montfort last year, and was invalided.

Robert MacMann of the S.A.C. He belongs to Ottawa. MacMann is but 18 years old, and went from here in the Montfort, having enlisted as a trumpeter. On reaching South Africa, he was put in a division as a trooper, but was unable to stand the work. George MacArthur of Westminister, B.C., also of the S.A.C. was invalided home; V. C. D. Stewart, S.A.C. of Victoria, B.C., invalided; Colin Gumpst (colored) of the West Indies, who was with the Army Service Corps for one year; Samuel Isaacs (colored), of St. Lucia, W.I., who was also with the S.A.C. for 11 months. The other two troopers are Americans. T. Ryan, who served two years with the Duke of Edinburgh's Colonial Corps, belonged to Arizona, and went from Halifax to New Orleans, where he was another American, having been a volunteer with Brabant's Horse for fifteen months, and his time having expired, he is now on his way home. Mr. Boyce, an American veterinary surgeon, came on the ship from Cape Town.

The Manhattan will likely be ready to sail from here on January 15 or 18.

A CANADIAN KILLED.

Corporal Hilliard Sloan Dies of His Wounds at Roost Kop.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—His Excellency the Governor-General has received from the Colonial Office notice of the death of Private McNaughton of the South African Constabulary, at Heidelberg, Dec. 26. A cablegram from Cape Town to Lord Minto asks that Thomas Sloan, 282 Farley avenue, Toronto, be notified of the death of his son, Corp. Hilliard Sloan, who died of wounds at Roost Kop, Dec. 31.

BRYAN ON THE BOER WAR.

Says It is a Disgrace That No Official Expression of Sympathy Has Been Made by U.S.

Cleveland, Jan. 6.—Four thousand people attended a pro-Boer meeting in Gray's Army Saturday afternoon. An unexpected event in the evening was the appearance of Hon. William Jennings Bryan, who was in this city for the day. Mr. Bryan spoke for about five minutes, during which time he said: "Sad will be that day, fallen will be the star of our destiny, if the time ever comes when struggling freemen feel that they cannot look upon the people of these States for sympathy."

Mr. Bryan said that he was in entire sympathy with the intent of the meeting, eulogized the fighting South African farmers, and urged them to continue the struggle. He considered it a complete disgrace that the United States for aid and sympathy in their struggle, and that he considered it a disgrace that no official expression of sympathy had yet been made by this Government. Mr. Bryan believed that the English people are opposed to the continuance of the war, as they, too, are suffering because of the unhappy conflict, and are the ones that must bear the burden of the cost.

A resolution of great length was passed, and will be sent to the President of the United States. The President is asked to enforce the treaty of Washington, May 8, 1871, denying to vessels operating under the augmentation of supplies of war from the United States.

Collected $50,000 in U.S.

Brussels, Jan. 6.—The Rev. Mr. Broekhuysen returns as a Boer propagandist to the United States about the middle of January. He will probably be accompanied by Abraham Fischer, the leader of the Boer delegation, who visited the United States in May, 1900. The other propagandists have collected in America $50,000. This is more than the Boers have received from any other source.

Candidates Endorsed.

Kingston, Jan. 3.—James H. Metcalfe, ex-M.P., is the Conservative candidate selected to oppose the Hon. W. Harty in the bye-election for the Federal House. His candidature was endorsed at a meeting held last night. Mr. Metcalfe was nominated by Lieut.-Col. Hunter and Dr. Ryan seconded the motion.

THE HOUSE'S OPENING

Parliament Not Likely to Meet Until February 13.

A SESSION OF SEVEN WEEKS.

Signor Marconi's Plans—His Stay at the Capital Will Likely Terminate on Tuesday—Goes Direct to New York—Trading Stamp Question—Recruiting for the Field Hospital Company.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—The Premier returned from a visit to Quebec and Montreal last evening. It is likely that the date for the opening of Parliament will be fixed at a Cabinet meeting this week. At one time it looked as though Feb. 6 might be chosen, but it now seems probable that the House will not be summoned until Feb. 13. As before stated, the legislative program will be light, and if Mr. W. F. Maclean could control the loquacity on his side of the House there would be some probability of his realizing his prediction of a seven weeks' session.

Signor Marconi's Plans. Signor Marconi has not yet made up his mind when he will leave for England, but states that his further stay here will be limited to a couple of days. He had an interview with Hon. Mr. Tarte Saturday, and will see the Minister of Public Works again to-day. From here Signor Marconi will go to New York. He stated yesterday that he was not so much interested in the question of establishing Marconi stations in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the protection of shipping as in the much more important project of trans-oceanic telegraphy. There would certainly, he said, be a station established for this purpose at Cape Breton, the cost of which would be between sixty and seventy thousand dollars.

Trading Stamp Question. The offices of the Dominion Trading Stamp Company in Hamilton and some other western cities are being closed, in accordance with by-laws prohibiting them from doing business. The company, however, states that it is closing only temporarily, till judgment is given on the validity of the statute upon which the adverse by-laws are based. The concern works under a Dominion charter, and it is claimed that the enactment of the Legislature does not warrant its being put out of business. In Ottawa recently the City Council was petitioned to pass a by-law abolishing the trading stamp business, but when it came before the Finance Committee it was abandoned, pending judgment in the test case above referred to, which will establish the powers of the municipalities to make such an enactment.

Field Hospital Recruiting.

Recruiting for the Field Hospital Company in Toronto, London, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal will take place on Wednesday. Surgeon-Lieutenant Tremayne of Lambton Mills, who has been assisting Col. Neilson and Col. Worthington in details of organization, will pay a flying visit to Toronto this week to close up his affairs preparatory to leaving for South Africa. The Ontario recruits will likely travel to Halifax under the command of Surgeon-Lieutenant Roberts.

No Room For Nurses.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—There is no room on the troopships for the nurses going to South Africa, and therefore it is very doubtful if they will go. If they do, they will have to go by one of the regular liners.

To a Soldier's Memory.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Major-General O'Grady-Haly yesterday, in the Church of St. Alban the Martyr, performed the solemn ceremony of unveiling a brass eagle lectern, presented to the church by ex-Lieutenant Governor Mackintosh and Mrs. Mackintosh, in memory of their young son, E. O. A. Mackintosh, trumpeter in Strathcona's Horse, who died of fever at Bloemfontein a year ago. There was a distinguished attendance at the service.

NEW ASYLUM AT COBBOURG.

Premier and Provincial Secretary Present at the Formal Opening.

Cobourg, Jan. 6.—Saturday another charitable institution was added to the long list of agencies for the alleviation of human suffering which the Province of Ontario maintains. The old Victoria University buildings, which have been remodeled and extended to form an Asylum for the Insane, the eighth institution of the sort maintained by the Province. Accommodation is provided for 150 patients. The Premier of the Province, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, and the Provincial Secretary, Hon. J. R. Stratton, who is charged with the oversight of the charitable institutions, came from Toronto to attend the opening. The Commissioner of Public Works, Hon. F. R. Latchford, in the charge of whose department fell, was prevented from being present. A luncheon was tendered the distinguished guests, a number of representative gentlemen of the town of Cobourg and the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland being present, and in the afternoon a public reception was held, at which the Premier and the Provincial Secretary met many of the prominent inhabitants of Cobourg and the vicinity, at which both made speeches.

May Double Track the Road.

Winnipeg, Jan. 4.—General Superintendent Leonard of the C.P.R., left last evening for Montreal to meet the directors of his road and submit and talk over his annual estimates with them. Mr. Leonard will estimate the total expenditures for the coming year on the whole of his division. This may include the cost of making the present single track to Fort William a double one.

TAPS FROM THE WILDS.

La Liberté has published a report to the effect that the Rockefellers intend to apply for a concession to supply gas to the city of Paris.

Mr. Walter S. Lee, known as an active director for the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, passed away at about 11.30 Saturday night, at the age of 65 years, at the family residence, Toronto.

Saturday evening, as two sons of Thomas Robinson, the oldest 10, the other 3 or 4 years of age, were crossing the G.T.R. track at Queen street, Brampton, driving one horse, the 4.50 express from Toronto struck the animal, killing him instantly. The two children miraculously escaped unhurt.

Springlike Now in England.

London, Jan. 6.—After a period of gales which strewed the coasts with wreckage and completely disorganized the telegraphic service, English weather has assumed spring-like mildness. In London the temperature on Christmas day was the same as at Cannes, and it has remained far above the average since. Butterflies have been caught in the open in many places, notably in Peterborough, where lilac bushes are budding and hedge violets are blossoming.

Trade With Colonies.

London, Jan. 6.—Statistics just issued, showing that the total trade with her colonies, Great Britain possesses 42 per cent., while the United States has 12 per cent. and that the latter is rapidly increasing her trade not only with Canada but with Australia, caused some disquietude.

The Standard, in an editorial, expresses its disappointment in this regard and insists upon the necessity of the country bestirring itself.

More Trouble at Koweit.

London, Jan. 6.—The Sheikh of Koweit, says a despatch from Bombay to The Times, is hourly expecting an attack from the Sultan of Nejd, who is now on the march. The capital of Koweit is in a state of defence, the Sheikh having borrowed several light field pieces from British gun-boats.

Virechow Injured.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Prof. Rudolf Virechow, the eminent pathologist, slipped while alighting from a street car and seriously injured his thigh. Prof. Virechow's injury is not dangerous, except for his great age.

Mighty Fund Complete.

London, Jan. 2.—By a special collection taken up last Sunday, which is said to have realized $65,000, and by promises from other quarters, the Wesleyan Methodists have practically completed the collection for the Wesleyan Methodist 20th Century Fund of a million guineas, which was started three years ago.

Lived For 16 Months.

Orange, Jan. 2.—Holbrook Mann, who broke his spinal column by driving from a pier into shallow water at Bailey's Island, Me., more than sixteen months ago, died in the home of his father, Rev. Charles H. Mann, on Sunday last.

Burned to Death.

Litchfield, Minn., Jan. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Milton Gorton were burned to death at their home, four miles northeast of Litchfield, late Tuesday night. Mr. Gorton had been an invalid for years.

Dublin Store Burned.

Dublin, Jan. 2.—Todd, Burns & Co.'s big dry goods warehouse has been gutted by fire. The damage is estimated at £130,000.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

KITCHENER ASKS FOR TRACKERS

War Office Gratefully Accepts Offer of Five Canadian Nurses For General Service—Issue of the Recruiting Order For the Field Hospital Corps—Colonel Steele's Position.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—The organization of a complete contingent of six squadrons of mounted rifles, with bearer company hospital corps, trained scouts and nurses, has been authorized by the War Office. The scouts, or trackers, as they are termed in South Africa, were specially asked for by Lord Kitchener, but the Minister of Militia had anticipated the request of the general in command, and had already recruited a squadron of trained scouts, raised on the ranching district of the Northwest, and it is now at Halifax waiting to embark for Cape Town with the contingent. Lieut. "Casey" Callaghan is in command of this corps.

The despatch of Lord Kitchener to Lord Minto was as follows: "Johannesburg, Dec. 27, 1901. "When next contingent comes can you arrange to send some trained trackers." (Signed) "Kitchener."

To Send Five Nurses.

A few days ago the Government cabled to the War Office an offer to enroll five nurses for service with the third contingent.

The reply received by His Excellency reads:

"London, Jan. 2, 1902. "Referring to your telegram of Dec. 24, rate of pay, etc., will be same for field hospital as for rest of contingent; offer of five nurses for general service gratefully accepted. (Signed) "Chamberlain."

The nurses will doubtless be chosen from the following, who have seen service in South Africa: Miss Georgina Pope, Miss Sarah Forbes, Miss Mary Affleck, Miss Elizabeth Russell, Miss Deborah Hurcomb, Miss Margaret Macdonald and Miss W. H. Richardson. Miss Horne, the other nurse who reaped honors in South African service, was recently married.

Surgeon Lieut.-Col. Duff of Kingston will be assistant surgeon of the field hospital corps, and Lt. H. D. Denville of Woodstock, N.B., has been appointed veterinary lieutenant.

Additional Officers.

The following officers will be given commissions in the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles as a result of the addition of two squadrons to the force: Major-Lieut. Col. Cameron, 5th Royal Scots; Captain, Captain P. E. Thacker, R.C.R.I.; Assistant Surgeon-Surgeon-Lieut. Colonel Duff, Kingston; Lieutenants—Major W. T. Rodden, Montreal; Lieut. R. H. Ryan, King's Canadian Hussars, Canning, N.S.; Lieut. of Howard's Scouts; Lieut. C. P. Simpson, Duke of Connaught's Royal Canadian Hussars, Montreal; Lieut. Denville, Woodstock, N.B.; Field Battery; Paymaster-Lieut. Moir, Ottawa, late Strathcona's Horse.

Field Hospital Recruiting.

Recruiting for the field hospital corps will take place on Tuesday and Thursday next. Twenty-one drivers and 335 privates are to be enrolled. The recruiting officer will be the same as for the Mounted Rifles. Five drivers and 10 privates will be raised in Toronto. The uniform of the corps will be the same as that of the Mounted Rifles, except that the army medical badge will be worn on the arm, and the men of the transport section will have embroidered above the badge the word "Driver." An X-ray apparatus will be tested by Col. Neilson to-day, and if found satisfactory will be included in the equipment of the hospital corps.

Col. Steele's Position.

A prominent militia officer, who has been in constant communication with Col. Steele ever since he went to South Africa, stated yesterday that he placed no credence in the story published by The London Express that Col. Steele is dissatisfied with his treatment. It is doubtless true enough that Col. Steele would like to command the Canadian section of the South African Constabulary, but it should be borne in mind that he did not go out to South Africa as commandant of the Canadians, but as head of the constabulary in the Lydenburg district. At any rate, his private letter to the War Office is not of dissatisfaction, and he is not the kind of an officer to set the necessities of discipline at defiance. Col. Steele's friends say the story looks like an attempt to hurt him with the War Office.

Howitzers and Mules.

Liverpool, Jan. 4.—The Post learns that the Government is preparing to take vigorous measures to suppress the Boers in the mountain districts in South Africa. According to the proposed plans the Government will mount small field pieces on mule back, as is now done in and along the Indian frontier.

Rumor of Assassination.

London, Jan. 4.—A rumor was current in this city yesterday to the effect that an attempt had been made to assassinate Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa. The rumor, however, was wholly unconfirmed and was entirely discredited in responsible quarters.

Liberal Candidate in Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 3.—At a meeting here yesterday afternoon, which was attended by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Tarte, Mr. J. A. Drouin, a well-known Montreal lawyer, was selected as the Liberal candidate in the approaching bye-election in St. James' Division of Montreal for the House of Commons.

A Man's Sad Death.

Quebec, Jan. 2.—A well-known stevedore named Charles Murphy, met with a fatal accident about 4 o'clock Tuesday while engaged in removing snow from the yards of the Canadian Pacific Railway. While standing on one of the platform cars with a shovel in his hands, the train started suddenly, and unexpectedly, knocking him off, and throwing him between the cars, one of which passed over his body, cutting one leg off near the hip and the other of below the knee, as well as severing his right arm. He was 40 years old, a widower and the father of a family of seven children.

Fears He is Drowned.

Collingwood, Jan. 2.—The young man, William Green, son of Mr. Charles Green, G.T.R., who wandered from home about a week ago, while suffering from a long illness, has not yet been heard of. It was expected that the heavy northwest wind that prevailed Tuesday would, perhaps, bring some tidings, but so far, nothing has transpired. All the surrounding districts have been searched for him, and the general opinion, reluctantly come to, by the family, is that the boy has claimed another victim.

Situation is Critical.

Mexico City, Jan. 2.—The situation in the Pan-American conference continues critical and probably not until to-morrow will the fate of the gathering be known. The Chilean delegation conferred yesterday, and when seen declined to give any intimation as to their ultimate action. If they remain firm and refuse to allow the plan of compulsory arbitration to be reported to the conference, then either they or several of the other South American delegates must withdraw.

Nearly Drowned in Mud.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Jan. 2.—Walter Jones, colored, had a narrow escape from drowning in the mud on Water street yesterday. He stumbled and fell from the sidewalk into the street, almost burying himself. The man who went to the rescue and succeeded in pulling him out of the mud lost one of his boots. Clarksburg has a population of 5,000.

Militia For Welsh Strikers.

London, Jan. 8.—Bangor, North Wales, and its districts are again under control of the military, owing to further serious rioting between strikers and workers at Lord Penrhyn's Bethesda quarries. There was so much wrecking of houses on Wednesday night that a detachment of cavalry was hastily summoned at midnight from Aldershot, and the militia was drafted in from Lichfield.

IRONDALE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Well, I suppose you are wondering what has happened to me. I will tell you we have so many dances that we have not had time to correspond from here. Six dances a week since the boys came out for their Christmas money, and now things are just as bad as ever on account of the season. We have heard all the Toronto girls back again—even our lady school teachers.

Isaac Winn's house had a narrow escape from fire, a spark from the chimney being the cause.

David & William, lost their stove factory by fire.

KIRKFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The tea and concert in aid of the Presbyterian church was a financial success, the receipts amounting to $70. The Cambridge choir was present and delighted the large audience with their singing. Mr. D. Gilchrist, of Glenora, gave some selections in his usual happy manner. Miss Weston, of Cambridge, Miss Prophet, of Brantford, and Miss Farlane, also assisted in the program very pleasantly. Mr. Colin N. McDonald was the only speaker on the platform. His topic was "Canada and its Resources." He pictured in glowing terms the advantages of the West for young men who contemplated building homes for themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawford, of "The Fort," Balsam Lake, entertained a gay party of Kirkfielders on New Year's night. Most delightful evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry spent New Year's with their daughter, Mrs. Talbot in Cannington.

Mrs. T. Morry, of Toronto, spent a couple of days with friends here last week.

Mrs. M. Kenney, of Lindsay, and the Messrs. Mackenzie of Toronto, were guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry, last week.

Miss Warrington, who has been visiting with Mrs. Perry, has returned to her home in Toronto.

Miss McLeod is visiting friends in Hastings and Peterboro.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be dispensed in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath.

The many warm friends of Miss Jenn Campbell, who left here on the 2nd inst. to visit her sister in Hamilton have heard with regret that she is ill in the hospital in that city.

Mr. F. J. Robinson, C. E., of Meaford, N. W. T., formerly of the T. V. C. staff, gladdened his many friends by a short visit last week. The T. V. C. office staff have moved to the rooms over Campbell & Graham's store.

FENELON FALLS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches have united this week for a week of prayer. The municipal elections came off very quietly here. Mr. McFarland was elected mayor by acclamation and Messrs. Geo. McGee, Thos. Austin, E. Sandford and Dr. Gould were elected by ballot for Council. Messrs. Sandford and Austin are old and trusted servants of the corporation, while the two new men are bold business men, and it is expected that the corporation will get good service. It is encouraging to see the municipal elections here fought out along respectable lines. It has not always been thus; in the past some questionable methods have been put into operation in order to gain a victory which is at once hollow in character, and has faded away like June grass without accomplishing anything of a permanent nature.

To an outsider it would seem as though the Mayors of Lindsay and Toronto occupied positions of a similar character. It looks as though both were very badly used men, considering the service rendered to their respective corporations. On the other hand the electors are to be commended for not being led away by clap-trap which looked like a fly on the wheel of two thriving corporations which had matters of more importance and larger interests at stake than the ones made an issue of. We congratulate Mr. Fred McFarland—well done, Fred! "Brandothurst," the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brandon, of Colborne-st., was all aglow last Saturday night. The brightness of the electrical element was due to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Brandon were entertaining about thirty of their friends. All who were present were given a hearty welcome and entertained right royally.

Mr. Chas. Hand, of Montreal, son of our esteemed citizen, Mr. E. D. Hand, of the Gazette, is spending a few weeks at his old home here. The Christmas trees and entertainments of the Presbyterian and Anglican churches which were held on Wednesday and Thursday nights respectively of last week, were well attended and good programs were given. And what was better than all, many a little heart was made glad during the festive season.

The concert and basket social in connection with the Public Library was a decided success in every particular. The program was excellent, being given by all local talent. The audience were pleased to see, as new additions, Charley Knight, Miss Bertha Knight, Mr. Pinkham and brother, Miss Ida Hogg and Miss Foster. The choir from the Lindsay Collegiate Institute rendered a good service and were much appreciated by all. We trust to have the pleasure of seeing and hearing them again in the near future. After defraying all expenses another thirty dollars was added to the treasury of the Library, which is now getting in a healthy condition. Another good program in about six weeks will place the institution clear of all encumbrances.

On Sunday Rev. Mr. Webster preached his introductory sermon in the Presbyterian church, which was well received by the congregation present. Mr. Webster has taken up his residence at Oakwood, living in the north half of the house owned by Mr. J. P. Cunningham, of Lindsay. In the evening Rev. Mr. Clark gave a very interesting and earnest discourse, one of the largest congregations of the year.

The last meeting of the directors of the Public Library for the present year was held on Tuesday evening, when the business of the year was closed up. The annual meeting of the Society will be held on Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Library, when all members are expected to be present. It is also the intention to have the regular annual sale of the dailies, weeklies and monthly periodicals take place during the evening. Mr. Brown, who made such a success last season, and also this, at the basket social, will handle the goods.

Everything is quiet after the elections. Some people thought that the hotels would all close down if the holiday was defunct, but such is not the case. Mr. King is open and doing big as usual.

The night of the elections the crowd as usual gathered in Hogarth's commodious store to await the final news. The store was soon packed with folks. The little instrument called the telephone it does not take so long now in days of yore, so quite early in the evening all reports were in. After everybody was satisfied the returns were called out by the new man, Anthony McKinnon, who called upon to mount the counter, which he did without delay, followed by Mr. James Taylor, the new councillor. Both made happy little speeches thanking those present and those who were not, for their hearty support, etc., and promising like good boys, to be good. This was followed by a song offered by R. Rendie in good style, "What is the matter with Anthony—he's all right." Then A. O. Hogg made a few remarks, when word was received through the telephone from W. S. Sargent that, of course, must have felt that, having headed the poll that "it was time to set 'em up for the crowd," so Mr. McKinnon, Mr. Taylor and Billy McCullough, acting for Mr. Sargent, ordered the best in the house to be dished up for the boys—mixed candy, etc., etc. Then everybody went home, some feeling glad, some feeling sad.

Mr. Bonall, of Lindsay, brought a load out on Tuesday and made a short visit at the residence of our worthy treasurer, Mr. Washington, among the party were Mrs. E. Webster and Miss Andrews, of Toronto, who on finding out that the Rev. Mr. Webster—our new Presbyterian minister—resided next door, made Mr. and Mrs. W. a short visit, and no doubt both parties were well pleased to meet each other under the circumstances.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We congratulate the new Council and receive to their success in the late election. Monday night was a time of great excitement in the village over the elections. Mr. E. Z. Yerxa's store was packed full of people eager for the report. After it had been received the Councilors and were treated the crowd, it taking one pull of candies, one of figs and one of raisins to satisfy them. So although the by-law was defeated, hindering them from treating with fire-water, yet they had something better.

Mr. W. H. Elliott and family have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Blawett during the Christmas holidays, but will soon depart for their home in Toronto.

We are glad to see that Mr. Maunders our junior pastor, is back from his holidays.

Mr. J. Robinson, who has been home for his holidays has gone back to Belleville College.

Our carriage maker, Mr. R. S. Robertson, is yet delivering a number of cures, which are a credit to his business.

The New Year's tea was a decided success. A large crowd took tea and heard good addresses by Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Lindsay, and Mr. Wickert.

CHAPTER XIV.

Of what avail is it for Jack to vehemently deny the soft impeachment, when his face gives the lie to his words—the latter die away to a murmur on his lips, and he stands there, a convicted criminal.

As for the Spanish beauty who has condescended to beg for this man's love—emotions chase each other over her face, her heart seems to stand still at one moment and then beat like a trip hammer the next, while her small hands are clenched until the nails almost enter the palms.

It is the supreme moment of her life—from that pivotal point she must go either up or down as the inner spirit urges—some women, built upon a grand model, would be more gentle, more gracious after such a lesson, others would prove themselves fit devotees of Satan's wiles.

Jack fears the worst, but nothing he may do can help her choose—that must come from within, for as the twig is inclined the tree is bent. He knows the storm—if it proves to be—cannot be averted by his means, and so he bows his head to meet it, as might the sturdy oak in the forest.

But the Spanish beauty does not burst out into a hot harangue as he has expected. She seems to possess some control over her feelings after all, and Jack finds himself unable to decide as to what course she means to adopt.

"You cannot deceive me, Doctor Jack—I know that girl is in your mind, your heart, and that Mercedes cannot ever hope to gain your love. It is very sudden—very cruel," she murmurs, passing one hand over her forehead in a dazed sort of way.

"I am sorry," begins Jack, hardly knowing what to say, but she interrupts him with a proud gesture and a strained laugh.

"Make no apologies—I am something of a Mohammedan in my ways, and as Abdullah Pasha might say, 'Kismet—it is fate.' But what would you expect a Spanish woman to do who has been supplanted in the heart of the one she loves by another? What fortune could be too great for that other frail being, to appease her outraged feelings?" she almost hisses.

"You will pervert the matter—I have only seen Miss Morton once or twice in my life—it is a business arrangement that takes us away in company." He has been alarmed at the idea of harm coming to Avis because of him, and would avert the storm, but she laughs again, and sneeringly says:

"Have no fears—I am not that vindictive. Though you have scorned my love, I do not wish you ill. May you surmount the difficulties that surround you, and be happy."

"What would you do?" he asks, as Mercedes rises proudly from her chair, defeated, stung with contending emotions, and yet a woman.

"The worst that I shall do is to leave you to your fate. Adios, Señor Jack."

Jack takes the hand, and somehow a great feeling of tenderness for this lovely woman almost overwhelms him—he knows that her southern nature dictates, for he has seen the vendetta of Corsica carried out by frail women, so that he now beholds Mercedes as one who had gained a signal victory over the passions she interdicted.

"Forgive me the pain I cause you, senorita, and believe me, I am not worthy of your thoughts. I trust and believe the future has happiness in store for you, and that you will never repent such generous action, for I know and appreciate the national spirit of revenge which you have conquered. Heaven guard you, senorita."

She bends over the little hand and kisses it in a true cavalier style. Mercedes looks at him with her heart in her eyes, as though this little action has aroused a false hope in her breast; then, seeing no change in his face, the wistful look turns to one of keen disappointment, and tearing her hand from his grasp, she opens the door of the room, and is gone.

Jack is left in even a more disturbed frame of mind than before. He does not know, he cannot tell what Mercedes will do. The spirit that moves her may be for good or evil. She has said she will simply leave him to his fate, but who can guess what a woman of her electric nature, once madly in love, may not attempt?

He can hardly understand what it has caused him to put aside the temptation—any man would be flattered by the love of such a royally beautiful woman, and yet Jack has been able to resist the subtle charm. Where is the talisman that has saved him?

Almost unconsciously he puts his hand into his pocket, and draws something out, upon which he gazes long and earnestly. It is the portrait of Avis Morton, and since he has met the original, Jack finds a new charm in the picture.

"Yes, it was Avis who kept me from yielding myself a captive to her Circe-like charms, ransom or no ransom. Such a wife would never do for Jack Evans. I want one who will be the same yesterday, to-day, and to-morrow, such a girl as Avis Morton, for instance, and please Heaven, if I can convince her of that same thing after we have done our level best to save Aleck, she shall take me for what I am worth, old noddie that I am."

Thus he mutters to himself, and presses the dumb counterfeit resemblance of Avis to his lips after the manner of all foolish lovers. Had Mercedes witnessed the action she would have been possessed with a mad desire to tear the photograph to bits, and perhaps scratch his eyes out in the bargain, for who can account for the vagaries of a woman who has stooped to conquer and been repulsed?

There is not to be thought of the thickets, and morning is near at hand—the time of action, when they shall make a move, and open up the one in the streets of Madrid, where the holes in the roadway wrench a vehicle badly, but Jack's attention is directed toward a certain little man who rages up and down, endeavouring to stir the driver into action with his threats and promises of heavy pay, but neither of which appear to do much good, as the man seems preoccupied with his trouble.

Jack knows this figure—it is Larry. Good heavens! the broken vehicle is the one they were in. Where are the ladies—are they hurt—how can the station be reached in time?

These things fly through Jack's brain, and his first move is to stop his own vehicle. Then he dismounts, and at sight of him Larry utters a cry of whoop, and would throw his arms around the neck of Doctor Jack, but that worthy prevents it.

"Where are the ladies?" he demands. "Here, doctor," and they make a brave showing, seated upon the trunk near by.

"Are you hurt?" he asks, anxiously, approaching them, but his words are meant for Avis only.

"Not at all, but a trifle alarmed—it came so suddenly, you see," replies the girl.

"Well, we must not miss that train. In a pinch, my vehicle will hold us all. Let us get the trunk up quickly, Larry. Not a minute to waste."

Jack's driver protests to be horrified at the load he is to take, but the promise of several golden doubloons causes him to show more alacrity—the ordinary Spanish Jehu will risk even his neck for such royal pay, and think little of his vehicle.

So the trunk is taken up, the ladies placed inside, and Larry squeezes among them. Jack is about to clamber on top among the trunks, but they will not hear of it—the ladies insist, and nothing loth, he crowds in, though to do so he is compelled to have the proud New York girl sit upon his lap.

Stranger things than this often occur to travellers on the Continent, and Avis laughs heartily at the situation, and when they bowl along, lurching this way and that, sometimes threatening to be toppled over. She blushes beautifully when she catches Jack's eye, which has a twinkle in it, for do you know, the sly fellow is chuckling to himself at the thought of how this ludicrous situation would strike the eye of Mercedes could she but see it.

It is impossible for Jack to even glance at his watch in order to note how time is passing—he is in tenterhooks, so to speak, until the vehicle drives up to the station.

Then he finds they are in ample time for the train. He takes it upon himself to oversee all matters, pays the driver, buys four first-class tickets for Paris, looks after the luggage, and last, but not least, secures a compartment to themselves. Such is the magic power of money on the Continent—in fact, the same applies all over the civilized world.

They are all feeling particularly joyful over the success of their game. No one but Jack is aware of the fact that the pasha knows of their hurried departure from Madrid.

Doctor Jack walks up and down outside on the platform, under the pretence of smoking a cigar, although the ladies have given him the privilege of doing so inside—an opportunity which Larry does not scruple to improve by using up an unlimited number of horrid cigarettes.

In reality Doctor Jack is looking for familiar faces—he wonders if the Turk will come, but looks in vain for the red fez among the crowd. The Turk has arrived before them, he is all this while in one of the other carriages. Jack, as he walks up and down, glances sharply into each compartment, but fails to see the man he looks for. A number of shades are down over the windows, and it is as likely as not the pasha may be in one of these compartments.

Resides, Jack keeps his eyes open—there are other enemies to think about, without taking the pasha into consideration, and if any of them are about, he wants to know it. In his mind he also thinks of Mercedes, and glances curiously at a number of ladies, but all of them are strangers. One attracts more than a passing glance—he cannot see her face, for the rebosa hides it, but her carriage is stately and her form indicates youth and health.

He suspects that it is Mercedes, but would make certain, so he enters into an agreement with a man who seems to be a porter—surely he is a hasty exchange of silver—the man grasps the situation, picks up a box, and in passing the lady manages that a corner shall catch in her long veil, which is instantly dislodged. Jack chuckles at the success of his little game, even though disappointed at seeing the indignant face of a stranger, who looks after the clumsy porter with daggers in her black eyes, and proceeds to rearrange her rebosa.

A bell sounds—the guard cries "all aboard" in his Spanish way, and Jack, tossing his cigar aside, enters the carriage. Then the door is locked, but as the American has bought the guard, body and soul, he will be on hand as soon as the train stops at a station to see what is needed.

Then they begin to leave Madrid behind. No one is particularly sorry to do this, for the Spanish capital has little to charm the modern tourist like gay Paris, and as the road from the first generally leads to the second, every emotion can be summed up in anticipation.

Our friends are very comfortable, but Larry is the only merry one of the four. Avis is thinking of what lies in the near future. Will they find Aleck and manage to save him? As she looks in the direction of Doctor Jack, somehow a feeling of great peace comes upon her, and she permits an anxious and masterful, that she believes nothing can be impossible with such a man. It will be readily perceived by even the dullest reader that the effect of their singular meeting is having full sway, and that Avis is just as deep in the mud as Doctor Jack is in the mire.

As for that worthy, he appears to be glancing over the pages of a magazine, but his thoughts are not on it. Now and again he looks over the top of the pamphlet at the fair face near the window. He is pondering upon many things, and the chief of these is the game which he is expected soon to manipulate.

Will they succeed? If not, the result must mean disaster to them both, for Abdullah Pasha is just the man to have a terrible revenge.

Doctor Jack knows the danger—he has assumed it without a single fear, for he also guesses the stake he is playing for—Avis.

If he succeeds she must be his. As he feasts his eyes upon her from time to time, he makes up his mind that she is just the girl a man might go through fire and water for. The train proceeds in Jack's dream, their speed is so rapid that it almost makes him dizzy, and they have to hold on to their seats. Then again they creep along at a snail's pace. Larry laughs, and again frets and fumes, declaring that if the door were only open he would get out and help push the train along.

Their course is almost due north-west until the city of Zaragoza is reached, which at this rate will not be until near evening. Then they head north-east, finally north, crossing the border by keeping close to the Bay of Biscay, at Bayonne, when they will be in France, with the dawn of a new day, wind and weather permitting, after which a run of a few hours will take them to Paris.

So the morning passes with various delays—this last Paris express is a "topper," indeed, and makes poorer progress than any train in America. They have all learned to be philosophical, and take things as they come. The time passes, and about noon, at a station called by the guard Calatayud, a huge hamper is put in the carriage.

"Dinner?" cries Madame Sophie, eagerly, and yet fearfully, for so many deceptions have been put upon her in Spain that she fears this may be some extra culinary surprise to keep them amused during the night.

Jack relieves her suspense by tossing back the lid of the hamper, disclosing the best dinner money can buy in Spain, and all neatly packed.

"They ought to have a good run of custom on this road if they supply meals like that," declares the elder lady, her eager eyes taking in the contents of the basket.

Larry looks up, meets the gaze of Avis, sees an interrogation point in her eyes, and with a grin jerks his thumb toward the hamper in the direction of Doctor Jack, just now deeply engaged in taking a nap, for, poor fellow, he has not had a wink of sleep the preceding night.

Avis understands—this thoughtful man is the good genius whom they must thank for such forthright—he has telegraphed ahead that the dinner be ready, and given the guard money to pay for everything—that guard, by the way, must imagine he has an American prince aboard, judging from the prodigious way he throws his hold and silver around.

So the young girl feels more than ever tender toward the hero of the arena—surely it seems to her that she has known him for years—he was Aleck's friend, and now her champion.

He seems to be resting uneasily—the cushion has partly fallen from under his head, and bending down Avis tries to rearrange it. In so doing a lurch of the train causes her hand to touch his face—his eyes open—he blushes as he quickly and deftly catches her hand, and presses it to his lips—thank heaven! the others are so busy arranging dinner on the table that they do not see this.

Larry, seizing a tin pan, beats a tattoo upon it in lieu of a gong, and this brings Jack to his feet with ludicrous haste—love must take a back seat now, since appetite reigns.

They have great fun over the dinner, and there is no chance to be several dishes which none of them understand, so that their tasting and comments on these are ridiculous. On the whole the dinner is good, and they enjoy it with remarkable unanimity.

The others cannot but notice that Doctor Jack is unusually quiet. Avis inquires if he has a headache, and is not satisfied when he says no, for she understands that there is some worry on the other's mind.

In this she is right—Jack foresees trouble of some sort ahead. He has learned that Don Carlos is on the train, which fact is in itself suggestive, for the Don would not be making this journey only for his presence aboard.

Then he is also sure the pasha must be near at hand. If these two unite their forces, trouble may come. The train has to pass through a lonely section of country during the night run, and makes so many stops that it would not be difficult for a resolute body of Carlists to capture the whole expedition.

When the meal is done they chat for a while and look at the scenery. They are now getting into the valley of the river Ebro—vineyards and orange groves are to be seen, although the latter are not plentiful this far north in Spain, the main crop being gathered in the region of Seville, in the southern province of Andalusia, and along the warm coast of the Mediterranean, the upper portion of the peninsula being often bleak and cold in the winter season.

It is half-past three when the train enters the city of Zaragoza, on the Ebro. Here quite a long stop is made—the carriage is for use six hours will be upon the valley of the Ebro, and they may expect to see much more of Spanish thrift and industry than has as yet greeted their vision.

Again Jack goes out to stretch his legs and smoke a cigar, in which former act the dude imitates him. Presently Larry sees some fruit, and rushes off to buy. Jack hopes he will not be left behind, and is determined that nothing shall take him from the vicinity of the car.

There are many people at the station, and he eyes them with careless indifference. As he stands thus he feels a hand touch his arm.

"Senor Jack," says a low, hesitating voice—he recognizes it instantly, for he can never forget that velvet-like tone—wheels without delay, and then there receives a powerful shock.

It is Mercedes! She has followed him to the station, and now she is standing before him, her face pale as death, her eyes fixed upon his, and her hands clasped in prayer.

"What is it, Mercedes?" he asks, in a low voice, for he has a feeling that she has something to tell him.

"I have followed you to the station, and now I am here, standing before you, and I am afraid to tell you what I have to say."

"What is it, Mercedes?" he asks, in a low voice, for he has a feeling that she has something to tell him.

boldness and qualities as an actress are unbounded, and yet he would not like one he loved to be engaged in such a business.

Mercedes understands that he has recognized her—even a faint blush appears beneath the grime.

"Senor Jack, do not judge me before you know why I am here—why I sacrificed my beautiful hair and assumed this hateful disguise. It was to warn you—to save you!"

Her words are low—they thrill Jack, and tell him one thing he is glad to know—that her good angel has triumphed.

"Warn me of what?" he asks, eagerly, for although despising danger for himself, he cannot forget who is in that carriage.

"A new danger awaits you. The train is to be attacked by a few Carlist soldiers of Don Carlos when it stops at a small station. I believe it is on the other side of Logrono. If you would avoid trouble, you had better wait over here for the morning train, or at least stop at Logrono."

Jack ponders—it is his desire to get out of the country as soon as possible, but he does not want to make a mistake.

"When are we due at Logrono?" he asks.

"I do not know—there is the guard!" "Come with me, we will enquire."

This brings them near the train—Mercedes is irresistibly drawn to look up at the window, and a hot wave sweeps over her face as she sees the American girl eyeing her. Unconsciously she draws herself up haughtily in a manner very unnatural to the pleasant character she assumes—it is a terrible torture for the proud woman to be thus scrutinized by her rival—she in a lowly disguise, while Avis looks so fresh and pretty in her neat travelling dress.

Mercedes holds her breath—she feels dizzy, and a whirl of contending emotions rush through her mind. At sight of her rival's cold stare her blood has seemed like molten lava—she feels the position she has placed herself in keenly, and a desire for revenge comes to her. Then her eyes fall on the face of Doctor Jack—his calm gray eyes give her life and she is her own true self again, though she feels that during the last minute she has passed through the fiery furnace.

Jack learns that they reach the town at about half-past ten, and believes this is a good time to leave the train. So he makes up his mind to go on. It is unfortunate, but not being able to foresee future events he does not know the chances he takes.

Mercedes speaks a few more words, and turns away, for she feels the eyes of Avis upon her all the time, and it makes her very uncomfortable. Jack sees her enter a compartment near by. He does not know what to think of her action, but, like a sensible man, judges it from the motive, which he knows is a noble one.

The time is up—the signal cries are being given, and as yet Larry has not turned up. He will be left—all are anxious concerning the little dude, and crowd the windows—the guard has left the door of the compartment open, and as the train begins to pull out Larry is seen running with all the speed his little legs are capable of, his arms full of the fruit he has bought.

Luckily the watchful guard sees him, and on the alert to please his liberal patron, he signals to the train-master, so that presently Larry climbs into the carriage exhausted, out of breath, but triumphantly holding aloft his packages of fine fruit.

"Pon 'onah, now," he declares, as soon as he can find breath, "it wasn't my fault, y'ee. I would have been back in good time, but d'ye know a beastly fellow began to accuse me of running away with his sister or his aunt, or somebody in petticoats, caught me by the arm, and declared it his intention to avenge me. I heard the guard cry 'all aboard,' but, hang the luck—pardon the expression, ladies, but a fellow gets worked up, you know, 'his chap wouldn't let go, so I just dropped my packages, sailed into the bloody phre, tumbled him over among the oranges, and then snatching up my bundles made a bee line for the train, which I came very near missing, bah Jove!"

That was the story—a very simple one, and with just enough of the ludicrous about it to create a general laugh. Doctor Jack, however, sees deeper into the game than any of the others, and taking advantage of the first opportunity he tells Larry so.

"The whole affair was a set up job," he declares.

"What?" cries the dude.

"That man had lost no wife, or sister, or grandmother. He simply lied."

"With what object in view, pray?"

"To detain you in Zaragoza while the rest of us went on," replies Jack.

"To rob me?"

"It might have come to that, although I am not sure. The main object was to separate you and I."

"The dude! What for?"

"Simply that Avis might have one less protector when the attack on the train is made."

"Attack on the train!" gasps Larry.

"Certainly. I have learned that after we leave Logrono, at a certain station where the train stops to give the locomotive a drink, a band of Carlists mean to attack us. Their object you can readily guess—it is to take our lives, for you are also accounted a traitor to the cause, since you are hand in glove with me."

This information astounds the New York dude, but does not frighten him. It seems a pity that such indomitable spirit should have been placed by a freak of nature in such an insignificant little body.

She sadly sighed and she looked away as one who is in despair. Yet all around her the scene was gay, with luxury everywhere; Ah, had some one who was near and dear passed over the dark deep stream.

Or, oh, had a love she had thought of, which proved only an empty dream. Nay, nay! She had sent a gift away and harbored a sickening doubt—she couldn't remember—oh, said to say—that she'd rubbed the price mark out.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene relieved me of a good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overruled yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901.
Drs. Taft Bros. Medicine Co., Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N.Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co. Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I changed to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M.D.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co. Feb. 5, 1901. Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1902

MONDAY NIGHT'S MEETING.

The attendance at Monday night's nomination meeting was a record-breaker, and various reasons have been ascribed for it. To our mind Rev. J. W. Macmillan's series of annual sermons on municipal affairs has had much to do with arousing the public interest to the point at which all reasonable men will readily admit that the active members of the retiring Council put forward a splendid vindication of their record and undoubtedly strengthened themselves in the good opinion of the majority of the thinking electors present. Mr. O'Reilly made an especially effective address and with another year's experience would be a very valuable man in Council.

As for the probable result of the meeting, all reasonable men will readily admit that the active members of the retiring Council put forward a splendid vindication of their record and undoubtedly strengthened themselves in the good opinion of the majority of the thinking electors present. Mr. O'Reilly made an especially effective address and with another year's experience would be a very valuable man in Council.

THE FIRE HALL SITE.

It is to be regretted that a strong effort is being made by some persons opposed to the present fire hall site to arouse the ill-will of farmers against the retiring Council by insinuating that the placing of the fire hall on the market square is meant as a slap at every farmer who comes to Lindsay to offer his produce on the open market. It is a comparatively easy matter to arouse such a feeling, especially when the argument happens to be a plausible one, but it is a dangerous means to adopt in an endeavor to score a point. The farming community is already sufficiently suspicious of Lindsay business methods, and any attempt to fan the feeling of resentment often heard expressed deserves the severest censure.

In all probability the parties responsible for this outcry forgot to tell the farmers that the old fire hall is to be removed in the spring, that there will then be more room for farmers' rigs than there has ever been, that the platform accommodation will be improved, and that in other respects also improvements for their benefit will follow the erection of the fire hall. No accident has occurred as a result of the fire team rushing out of the present hall and in the new location the risk will be lessened.

We sincerely hope that the bright future painted for Lindsay's market may become a reality, and the day would be hastened if the parties now trying to introduce discord and dissension would bend their energy in the right direction. If we mistake not, the business done at the market twenty years ago was almost as great as at present, and it citizens persist in ignoring the invitations of Clerk Callaghan to attend the market the present accommodation in the matter of building and grounds will suffice for another twenty years to come. We hope, however, that with the growth of the town the market will increase, and that in course of four or five years Clerk Callaghan will be occupying the entire lower floor of the town hall. When that day arrives the space taken up by the fire hall site would not relieve the congestion. If the market grows to that extent we shall have to take in the plot to the west, and by that time we will have a park elsewhere.

Prof. J. H. DeSilberg, the celebrated Eye Specialist from Germany, will be at the village of Omemee, Jan. 6th until Jan. 8th, at the Bradburn house. Eyes tested free of charge. Those having weak or imperfect eyes should not fail to consult the Professor; satisfaction guaranteed.—W5.

Exciting Nomination Rally

back of the neck and he would cough up the money. If the people wished some persons to receive the drubbing they deserved, then they should give him their votes. (Cheers.)

Mr. John Crawford in referring to Mr. Flavell's remarks, said that capitalists had been running the town for years. He had seen the market crowded with rigs, and Council had made a great blunder when they decided to build the new fire hall on the site selected. There was danger of accidents occurring.

Mr. L. Luck said he came before the meeting as a representative of the south ward, and was going to stand. He was the oldest farmer in the town, and he had been in connection with the town hall. It was true that Mayor Ingle did not have a contract, but he had disqualified himself by doing band-sawing. He had asked Mr. Ingle for a job on the town hall, while he was being done by day work, but Mr. Ingle said they were going to let it by contract. Was that fair? (Mayor—"I deny that totally.") The fire hall had been put in the wrong place, but he supposed it would have to stay there. There would have to be a good fire hall at the west end of the market park but it had been torn down. Have the Council done well to pay the Town Commissioner a big salary and then allow him a commission of 2-1/2 per cent on the commission of the Chief Constable a big salary and also a commission for collecting the dog tax. Why the Chief Constable had been after him to pay the tax on a paper only the month old, is that the way the town should be looked after? If elected they would work for the workmen and see that no big percentages were paid.

Messrs R. Kelly and D. O'Connell with how their names were called.

Mr. W. M. Robson had written out what he wished to say because he did not wish to get his points mixed. The remodeling of the town hall was necessary; in its former state the interior had been disreputable and filthy; now there is a good Council chamber and general hall, in addition to comfortable offices. Two mistakes had been made in carrying out the work—first the location of the vault and the use of the end instead of the front entrance. The granite walks were well laid. The gas service was in partial operation and had the approval of most of the ratepayers. The location of the fire hall was a question which appears to hang the fate of the candidates. In his opinion the south Kent-st. site would have been better, while others favored the sites west of the hall. The plans for the building were all right, providing for a duplicate of the Orlin hall with a few minor changes. There was a proposal to build the town for $20,000 for good roads; he was interested to the extent of $200 taxes yearly and thought it time to call a halt and give the Board of Works a chance to do a little repainting on the roads in the outskirts of the town.

Mr. Geo. Lyne, in opening, expressed a preference for the township method of conducting nomination meetings the old councillors were first asked to give an account of their stewardship, and then the new candidates and the fault-finders were given their sayings. Here the retiring councillors were allowed to hold back and fire the last gun. When referring to the fire hall site Mr. Flavell had criticized the Watchman-Warder very severely. Well, the Watchman-Warder wanted to see a fire hall erected, but on the proper site. To his paper he believed was due the credit of having first aroused public interest in the fire hall site and brought about the great attendance that evening. He could not be a candidate, but would deem it an honor to act as their representative if leisure permitted. He took the criticism in good part—everybody could not see things in the same light. At the meeting he had come to go to protest against the fire hall site Mr. Sinclair had been made the hoodoo—the matter had been discussed from this market point of view alone. If the parties sent to view the Orlin fire hall had looked at the site that they would have seen that Orlin possessed a spacious market. (Applause.)

Mr. R. Bryans said no one would deny that the town had prospered of late years. He had heard a speaker say that we should go slow and give the people a chance to pay for the good work that was being done. He had a good many had paid off the tax. We have a fine town and a good Council—even if they had made mistakes, very few business men can say they have not. All had done good work, and that should not be criticized unfairly. Mayor Ingle had been put into a severe manner with regard to town hall work, but he did not know what the material was intended for—it was not his business to ask. He turned out all kinds of work for a mill and lumber yard and that it would be unfair to ask him to refuse an order. (Hear, hear.) He (Bryans) could not offer for the Council, as he was a member of the County Council, but he would advise the ratepayers to elect men who had an interest in the town's progress. A lot of good work had been done by the Council, and we can not get improvements without paying for them. If we compare the assessment of Lindsay with that of other towns the showing is not unfavorable. In fact we are in a good position, because while the other towns have high the assessment is fairly low. In other towns the reverse is the case—the assessment is at the top notch in order to make a low rate in the dollar. (Applause.)

Mr. R. Chubb, Mr. W. H. McWaters, R. Chubb, W. H. Chubb, J. D. Graham, N. Ueckin and J. B. Sotheran were called by the Chairman, but failed to respond and their names were marked off the nomination sheet.

Mr. Thos. Connolly was next on the list. He expressed mild surprise at hearing his name called out—he had not been aware till that morning that there was a possibility of his nomination. He was not certain that he would stand if he did it would not be for the good of his health or any hope of reward. He had given up the idea of standing for the town, and if he decided to stand and was elected, he would give faithful service, because all his interests were here. He did not intend to criticize the Council—people might find fault with their actions, and yet commit worse mistakes if in their positions. Whoever might be elected would have no bed of roses to lie on. He would not pledge himself to any particular scheme, but if elected would apply his best judgment to all matters.

Messrs J. A. Williamson and J. McCron were called but failed to answer.

Mr. F. McDermid, in expressing his willingness to place his services at the disposal of the people, made a brief but manly address. He had failed in his first attempt to get the responsibility of citizens who believed that there should be a few young men in the Council, and although a busy man he realized he owed a duty to the town he lived in and was willing to give his best and most honest service to the town's interests. If they gave him a trial as their civic representatives. He would place himself in the hands of his friends, and if elected he would try to justify the confidence placed in him. (Applause.)

Mr. J. M. McLennan neglected his chance to address the free and independent electors and his name was expunged.

Mr. A. D. Manton received a flattering reception from the complimentary electors. He had made a list of the electors' names, and he was coming out with malice in his heart against any member of the present Council. He was an independent candidate—he had never heard of a proposal to re-appoint Bell, and could deny that he was connected in any such attempt.

In criticizing the old Council he would not single out any particular man—his remarks would be general in their application. The speaker then went on to repeat the statements he had made at Dr. Burrows' last week meeting, charging that the outgoing Council had fairly squandered the money at their disposal. The Commissioner's report, published in The Evening Post, was misleading, as it did not give the true state of the accounts. He had elected a monument of disgrace in the market—the vault—market women were being kept out owing to the room taken up by it, and now the Council were trying to keep away farmers' vehicles. The foundation of the fire hall had been pronounced by a competent builder to be unfit for the purpose. The Council had been very anxious to rush the building—the weather has been fine, and why didn't they push the work. It would be wiser to stop the building now, because if erected it would tumble down in 10 or 12 years. If elected he would serve the town as faithfully as before; he would serve no class and would try to bring in manufacturers. He hoped that on election night the flag of victory would be flying on "Bellrose Cottage." (Cheers.)

Messrs Jos. Brown and John McLeod had their names erased.

Mr. D. Sinclair remarked on opening that as the editor of the Watchman-Warder had said, he had been elected the "hoodoo" of the Council all summer. He had a little statement to read which would open the eyes of his hearers. Mr. Wm. Flavell and Judge Harding had instigated the charges in the town hall, although six years ago about $800 had been spent on the Council chamber. The Alderman, warning up to his subject, said the total cost of the town hall improvements would be about $4000. He was surprised to hear the Mayor say that he did not know he was doing work for the town. Turning to that gentleman, and shaking his fist at him, he said, "You are a traitor of his time, and his money, and his denunciations, and was warned by the Chairman. They had all heard of the wonderful Mr. Chalmers, who had been hired at $800, but had drawn $1055 this year. Flavell and others had asked for a grant for the park and over $900 had been expended on it. They had a big deficit and more accounts came. No less than $235 had been paid to Chalmers in commissions for what—overlooking work done by better men. He didn't want to touch the fire hall—he had been here 25 years and had paid out a large sum in wages, but when he had asked for a little more space Mr. Jackson had put his big foot down. Both Flavells had at first opposed the present site. Mr. W. Flavell had met him on the street and had accused him of voting against the interests of the town. He charged you with voting in your own interests and forgetting the town." Mr. Sinclair continued speaking for a few moments longer, and was finally cut short by the Chairman.

Mr. John Hore said he wouldn't take up much of the time of the meeting as the hour was growing late. He stood before the electors as their servant, and was willing to take his full share of responsibility for what he had done. He knew the Council had not satisfied all the voters in all things, but it should be remembered that they had some difficult matters to deal with. The fire hall had been criticized by a member who had been absent from many meetings. He denied that he had ever said he would repair the town hall in spite of anything. (Sinclair—"I say you did.") Chairman—"There must be courtesy and order—I didn't come here to preside over a minstrel show." Mr. Hore, continuing, said he regretted there were so many different opinions concerning the fire hall site—he was anxious only to put the hall in the best place possible. He had acted on the advice of the Board of Trade and other prominent citizens. Not a word had been said when the foundation had been started—then Mr. Sinclair and his friends had raised objections. If the voters gave him their support he would in return give them his faithful and earnest service. (Loud applause.)

Mr. Alex. Jackson said he appeared before the electors for the fourth time and like ex-Mayor Smyth he found it difficult to pick a text, because there was little to say. The writer of a letter in the last issue of the Watchman-Warder had charged him with extravagance, but if there was one thing for which he claimed credit it was that he was careful of the people's money. Mr. Bell came here in 1899, and Mr. Hore had at once been placed on equal footing with him in the matter of exemption, both to take effect in 1900. Mr. Robson forgot to explain that he wanted his exemption to take effect in 1901, and in order that he might get a present of a year's taxes. In '99 the Council had power to grant exemptions, but in 1900 they had not. Mr. Robson was told to consult his solicitor, but did not come back—probably because he knew that a change in the law would deprive him of his 10 years' exemption. Mr. Lang had also charged unfairness in connection with the Doherty block assessment; he (Jackson) was not a member of the Court of Revision, but the books were open for all to see. The assessment had been fixed by the County Judge and could not be changed. Fault had also been found with him in connection with the smallpox epidemic, but as the Board of Health possessed powers superior to the Council he could not be held responsible. The responsibility should rest with them, having already paid a number of claims without consulting the Council. Mr. Sinclair had made a great many statements which must be taken as his friends take many of his statements. Up to date the expenditure of the town hall had been $1489.30, instead of $3,000, and there was a small account for painting. The first estimate had been $900, but certain changes not allowed for had brought it up to the large attendance had been taken by the Watchman-Warder; he believed it was due to the fact that the people realized that they had at last a comfortable hall to sit in. (Applause.)

For many years the town had been paying rent for the old hall, and the Clerk and Treasurer while there was ample room in the town hall. Mr. Sinclair, in his reference to the market, had forgotten to tell them that he had threatened a suit if the Council did not remove the vault. The Provincial Council had ordered it to be removed from Lindsay, and the loads taken to the park had been charged to that fund. The cost of the good roads had been kept within the average—50c. per yard. Dr. Burrows had mentioned the late Mr. Touchburn having been appointed to the office of the late Mr. Hore, but the fact was that he had been one of its strongest supporters, and being his clerk he had advised members of Council to hold firm.

Mr. J. O'Reilly was the last speaker, and although the hour was very late he left the hall until he had finished his remarks and convincing defence of the Council. The rate of 26 mills left the Council very little money to run the town, because the fixed charges called for nearly the whole of it.—For instance it would require 25 mills and a fraction of next year's tax to pay the $52,056.41 called for by the Chamberlain's salaries and other fixed expenditures. And this was exclusive of the C. P. R. bonus and the Good Roads by-law. The rate cannot be lower than 26 mills, which left only $1200 after the fixed charges were paid. Add to that the receipts from all sources, $5,400, and there will remain a little over $6,000 to be spent on the town work. He had given the town his own service and had attended 105 out of the 106 Council and committee meetings held, while a certain member, who had been lavish of criticism had missed 15 out of 22 Council meetings, 15 meetings of the Board of Works and 14 meetings of the Board of Town Properties, committee out of 23, and 7 meetings of the Police and Lighting committee out of 24. Was that man justified in charging his colleagues with wrong-doing and neglect of duty when he had missed 51 meetings out of 106? He (O'Reilly) had not been in favor of all that had been done, but he had considered it his duty to support the majority. The expenditure on the park had been $900, but $250 of that amount had been paid back by the I.O.O.F., although Mr. Sinclair had predicted they would never get a cent. There had been three times as many meetings of the Council as there had been of the Local Improvement works and only three in connection with the assessment, as against seven held last year. Mayor Ingle and other members attended the twelve meetings and drew their pay therefor—Mr. Sinclair had not. There was a twelve per cent. increase in the salary of the Commissioner Chalmers, who was not given a percentage on granolithic walks, but his services were charged against the properties concerned, because the rest of the town should not have to bear the expense. He was allowed a commission of 2-1/2 per cent on all orders for drawing plans and specifications, etc., but the town had paid Engineer Ashbridge 7 per cent. On the basis of the prices paid by the town to contractors, Mr. Chalmers had saved the town over $700 on his granolithic work and $665 on sewers. He was not there to defend Chalmers, but the people should know the truth. Dr. Burrows had started out boldly, but had drawn in his horns when he observed that the Town Solicitor was present. He (O'Reilly) thought the latter would not object to the Dr. Burrows' charges, as the Town Doctor was in Council he was continually amending by-laws and each one meant $4 in the Solicitor's pocket. (Laughter.) Mr. Hopkins' bill for the year was $308.52, and out of that he had to make certain things. It was not to explain these things, so that street corner talkers might have facts to work on. A reduction in the rate could not be looked for inside of ten years, when the Collegiate debentures would be retired by the sinking fund. The Council had had nothing to do with the deficit, and the Auditor had manfully assumed the responsibility. Not one five cents of the money had been wasted. The removal of stone from William-st. for the fire hall meant a straightening of 75c. per cord, which any business man would approve of. (Cries of yes.) He had approved of the town hall improvement because it meant a saving of $250 a year in rent. He would contend, and die contending, that the fire hall was the right spot, for that out of the town hall the people would be more central. They had been generous in giving Sinclair a lane which he did not appreciate. When the old fire hall is torn down there will be 216 square feet more room for work, purposes that are present, and the fire hall will act as a wind break. As for the fire hall wall, Contractor Bogue and other good men did it was all right but it would be carefully tested. The removal of the hall to another site would cost $2,000, or a mill on the assessment. Men who are blaming the Council for a deficit talk deliberately about the creating of another to attain their ends—he felt tempted to say their selfish ends. (Cheers.)

The Chairman then announced the close of the meeting, is being with-in a few minutes of midnight.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.
Montreal, Dec. 30. There were about 500 head of butchers' cattle, 35 calves and 150 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East and Abattoir to-day. The butchers were present in large numbers, and were much pleased with the prospects of cheap beef and mutton, and the prices of common to ordinary stock were more than 10c per lb. below the prices paid last week. There were but few really good cattle on the market, and these sold at from 40c to 45c per lb. Medium cattle sold at from a little over 3c to nearly 4c, and the common stock from 2 1/2c to 3c per lb. There were plentiful and sold at from 2c to 3c per lb. Many of the cattle will not be sold to-day. The calves were all small ones, and sold at from 25c to 30c each. Sheep sold at about 3c per lb., and the lambs at about 4c per lb. Fat hogs sold at from 8c to 9 1/2c per lb., weighed from the ears.

OBITUARY.

Arthur Norman Mims.
After an illness of ten days Arthur Norman Mims, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mims, Wellington-st., passed away at the early age of 16 years and 11 months. The cause of death was muscular and inflammatory rheumatism, followed by an attack upon the heart and brain, which hastened death. The deceased was a bright young fellow and was a faithful employee of Robinson & Ewart. The flowers covering the casket were beautiful and comprised an anchor of roses, smilax and hyacinths from Robinson & Ewart, wreaths from the Baptist Y.P.C.E. and S.S., Miss Crosby, Peterboro, Miss Gailley, Toronto, and his five comrades. Mr. Rupert Donell, of Peterboro sent an anchor. The parents and brother and sister have the sincere sympathy of all in their sudden bereavement.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Mulock must look to his laurels. One-cent postage is the goal of the ambition of Uncle Sam's new Postmaster-General.

There are 58,000 people out of work in Germany and 30,000 more are looking forward to the beginning of the New Year with apprehension.
 It is a disagreeable but unavoidable incident in that country's muchheralded industrial boom. There ought to be explanations why the protective policy that is credited with having made the empire great does not keep the people working.

The Klondike where the gold comes from is not quite so near the North Pole as some people think, for Faith
 Fenton Brown writes to the Globe
 that turnips, cabbages, carrots, cauliflowers and parsnips, of native growth, have been put into warm storage at Dawson this last autumn to help feed the people during the winter, and up the Yukon River, satisfactory crops of hay, oats and clover
 were reaped.

After fifty-four years' agitation of the women of Massachusetts have succeeded in getting the law changed so as to make men and women equal in the matter of the inheritance laws.
 More, they have had the provision that a widow may have the use of her husband's house for forty days extended to six months. The new law goes into effect on Jan. 1.

In the address to the Toronto ministers a few days ago, in which he took a certain class of women to task for gadding and attending meetings to reform the world while neglecting their own families, Crown Attorney Curry said: "They will come to me, pleading for a man charged with theft, and in whose case circumstances may be exceptional. But I have yet to meet one who will ask that some poor girl on her way to jail because she has been tempted and has fallen." Mr.
 Curry has observed, and has many others, that women are more charitable toward the male sex than toward their own. Why this should be so is one of the puzzles which we make her the mystery of mysteries.

HATS OFF TO SALVATION ARMY.

(Chicago Record Herald.)

Among the benign activities that are the outgrowth of the Christian religion and that bring Christmas joy to thousands of the needy and distressed nothing is comparable in far-reaching scope, beneficence and beauty to the ministrations of the Salvation Army.

The world takes off its hat to this kind of Madeline's philanthropy in Christmas morning. The smiling cynic, the scoffor, the pessimist, the misanthrope—all stand abashed and confounded in the presence of the impressive exemplification of the Master's teachings that is given to the world on each recurring Christmas by this unique organization. To the agnostic and the unbeliever the work of the army in feeding the children of the slums by the thousands in hundreds of cities is an overwhelming answer. There is no theology in it, no creed, no dogma, no denomination, no misdirected bishops or cardinals in crimson vestments—nothing but the simple act of carrying out the injunction of the lowly Nazarene, whose birthday anniversary is being celebrated.

In Chicago, at Tattersall's in New York, at Madison-square, Garden in Cleveland, Philadelphia and other big centers of population, where poverty and want are most distressing, the Salvation Army gave Christmas dinners to thousands and tens of thousands. In addition to the bountiful feasts spread for the poor in these cities, well-filled baskets were distributed to thousands of destitute families.

And all this was done in the name of Christ—not to buy the votes of the poor and ignorant for corrupt politicians, as Tammany would do it, or as "Big Tim" Sullivan, State Senator of New York, did it at the Bowery.

The Salvation Army does not distribute turkeys to elect adherents or to perpetuate the power of plundering political organizations. It is motivated by the one exalted purpose to relieve the distress, to give cheer to the lonely, to bring humanity to life in the fallen, to succor the needy and benighted friendless. In doing this it fulfills the most admirable example of practical Christianity that the world has ever seen.

THE POST'S PREMIUM.

Exquisite Large Size Engraving of His Majesty King Edward VII.

It has been the custom of the publishers of The Weekly Post for some years to offer a handsome Christmas premium to old and new subscribers paying in advance for the coming year. This year's premium is especially appropriate, being a very fine engraving of our beloved ruler His Majesty King Edward VII., whose recent accession to the throne and approaching coronation, will inspire in every patriotic heart a desire to possess a copy of this faithful picture of the royal countenance.

The demand has already exceeded
 our expectations, and as the supply
 is limited and cannot be replaced, we would urge subscribers to take advantage of our premium offer at their earliest convenience.

BAKER ALLEN SUFFERS LOSS

Bake-shop Caught Fire Saturday Morning and was Destroyed

About 9 a.m. last Saturday Mr. J.
 T. Allen's bake-shop in the rear of his residence on Victoria avenue,
 north ward, was destroyed by fire.
 Mr. Allen was returning from the north house he is erecting on Colborne-st. when he noticed the fire through a window. He sent in an alarm from the box at the corner of Cambridge and Francis-sts., and the fire brigade quickly responded,
 but as the building was frame it burned quickly. However, the fire-gauge did good work and succeeded in keeping the fire confined to the bake-shop. Mr. Allen's loss on building and stock will be heavy. He had received yesterday two tons of flour from the local mills and only about twenty bags were saved.
 When the fire started a batch of bread was ready for the oven.
 Mr. Allen holds a small insurance—
 $400.

A CHRISTMAS WEDDING.

Thorn Mark.

On Christmas afternoon a pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thorn, Marlborn, when their sister, Mabel, became the fair bride of Fred Mark.
 The ceremony was performed in the presence of about one hundred invited guests by the Rev. Dixon, of St. George's. The bride looked charming in a costume of light cream
 brown broadcloth trimmed with silk and applique and was attended by her cousin, Miss Hattie Hicklingham, of Lindsay, who was attired in a similar costume, while Laura Thorn and Lillian Ringland, nieces
 of the bride, gowned in cream silk, acted as maids of honor. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr.
 W. Thorn and the wedding march was played by Mrs. Powers, of Lindsay. The groom was ably supported by his brother John.

After hearty congratulations the company gathered in the beautiful dining-room, where the table was spread with a rich wedding dinner.
 After all had done ample justice to the good things, and toasted the health of the bride, the evening was spent in the friends from a distance
 were Mr. George Thorn, Mrs. W. J.
 Thorn, Misses Eva and Laura Thorn,
 of Sidney, Manitoba, Mr. and Mrs.
 Seth Jewell, of Mt. Albert, and many others from Port Perry, Lindsay, Woodville and Glenora. The bride was the recipient of many presents, and the evening was a happy
 one in which she was held.

The happy couple go to their new home with the best wishes of the surrounding community.

ON FIRE.

An exploding lamp; the clothing in a blaze; a paragraph in the paper telling of horrible suffering from burns.
 Tragedy in this form moves a man to tears. But for women who are daily being consumed by the smouldering fire

 of disease there is little sympathy.
 Inflammation,
 with its fierce burning, ulceration, eating into the tissues; the nervous system almost shattered by suffering; these are only part of the daily agonies borne by many a woman.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription puts out the fire
 of inflammation,
 heals ulceration,
 and cures female weakness. It tranquillizes the nerves,
 restores the appetite,
 and gives refreshing sleep. "Favorite Prescription" is the most reliable put-up medicine offered as a cure for diseases peculiar to women. It always helps.
 It almost always cures.

"When I first commenced using Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mrs. George A. Strong, of Cananville, Saratoga Co., N. Y., "I was suffering from female weakness, a disagreeable drin-ging-down pain, weak and faint feeling, and the time I dragged around in that way for two years, and I began taking your medicine. After taking first bottle I began to feel better. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' one of the 'Pleasant Pellets,' also used one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Now
 I feel like a new person. I can't thank you enough for your kind advice and the good your medicine has done me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper bound, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only.

GROWING MORE SERIOUS.

Venezuela Has Suspended Traffic on a German Railroad.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Dec. 30.—Reports received here from Caracas yesterday say the relations between Germany and Venezuela are more strained every day.

The Venezuelan Government suspended traffic on the German railroad because of the company, in view of the threats of the insurgents, refused to transport troops unless the Government guaranteed it against losses which might be sustained by the destruction of its road, and equipment. The stations are occupied by troops.

The German legation at Caracas has entered an energetic protest against the Government's action.

Open Weather in Canada.

Port Arthur, Dec. 30.—Navigation is still open at Port Arthur. Thunder Bay is clear of ice up to the elevator and breakwater and there is nothing to have prevented steamers from carrying out Manitoba wheat all this month. The question of prolonging the season will soon be a live issue
 if the Northwest continues to produce as much wheat as it did this year.

Four Killed in a Landslide.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 30.—A land slide on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad near Reusens Station, five miles south of Lynchburg,
 on the James River branch
 last evening caused a wreck
 in which the engineer, a conductor, fireman and baggage man of a passenger train were killed and several other persons injured, but none of them seriously. The slide was caused by washouts, due to the heavy rains.

Wesleyan Methodists' Fund.

London, Dec. 30.—In response to an appeal for £1,000,000 for the extension of the work of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, the sum of £222,000 has been actually paid, while an additional £180,000 has been promised. Simultaneous collections were made yesterday in the 8,000 Wesleyan chapels and mission halls, and the 7,800 Sunday schools in Great Britain, with the object of securing the 100,000 guineas still required.
 The idea of the fund was originated
 four years ago by Mr. Robert W.
 Perks, who says there are still at least a million Methodists who have given nothing at all.

House Raider Killed.

Charlestown, P.E.I., Dec. 27.— Four men forced an entrance into
 Mrs. McAulay's boarding house at Annadale Wednesday night. The men refused to leave. The housemen were aroused, and when Capt. John Warren came down stairs he was set upon by the men. Warren had a revolver in his hand, and he shot Dennis Brown dead. His three companions then left the house. No arrests have as yet been made.

Hayes' Exonerated.

St. Catharines, Dec. 30.—The coroner's inquest on the death of Albert
 Jackson exonerated his uncle, Hayes.

The Opening of Parliament.

London, Dec. 30.—Arrangements for the opening of Parliament by the King on January 16th are making rapid progress.

The King has decided that it will not be necessary for the peeresses to wear mourning on January 16. The Queen and ladies of the court will therefore appear in colors, and they will be enabled to add lustre to the scene by wearing jewels in the gilded chamber. Everything points to a brilliant pageant.

Jumped From Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, Dec. 30.—John Pinover, a young wholesale liquor dealer of Middletown, N.Y., yesterday jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge. He is still alive at the hospital, where the physicians say it is impossible to tell whether his injuries will be fatal or not.

Fatal Texas Fire.

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 30.—News of a disastrous fire at Calvert, Texas, reached Dallas late Saturday night
 by long distance telephone. Two lives were lost and two men were seriously injured by falling walls. The property loss will reach $150,000.

FOR A UNITED EMPIRE

The Speech of Premier Ross at the Plunkett Banquet.

CANADA'S ATTITUDE TO IRELAND

Canadian People Opposed to the Separation of Ireland From the United Kingdom—How He Would Make
 Not a United Kingdom Only but a United Empire—Confederation a Success.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Right Hon.
 Horace Plunkett, ex-M.P., who was defeated in the celebrated Galway elections, arrived in Toronto Saturday morning. Mr. Plunkett came to Toronto at the invitation of the National Club, before whom he delivered an interesting address (the same evening, on the social and economic affairs of Ireland.
 In response to the toast, "Imperial Unity," Hon. G. W. Ross and Col.
 Denison both spoke in strong fashion in support of this idea.

Canada's Attitude.

Hon. G. W. Ross closed a great speech with these ringing, forceful words: "There is this to be said in connection with the problem. In Canada the universal feeling is, and I think I voice the opinion of the people, that no form of home rule that involves directly, in fact or by implication, the separation of Ireland from the United Kingdom would be tolerated in this country. (Applause.) In Canada we think that not only should the union between them be a political union, but that it should also be a union of heart and sympathy. Yet I think it is in the minds of a great many that it should be within the wit of man, to use Mr. Gladstone's expression, to devise some means whereby Ireland
 may be reconciled to her present position. Am I right in saying that Ireland would accept nothing but complete separation? If not be the ultimatum of the Irish people, then I would say Ireland can never have it." (Applause.)

A United Empire.

Referring again directly to the Irish question, he said: "Looking at it from this distance, what if they restored to old Scotland her parliament, with local powers; to Ireland per parliament, and gave to England what she never had before,
 a local parliament, and Wales, too,
 for that matter? Then, what if they devised for surely they have the genius—English statesmanship is highest in rank and character in the world—a central government, in which also all the colonies of the empire would be represented, and therefore throw on the canvas not a united kingdom alone but a united empire?" Lord Rosebery in a recent speech, he continued, had said that confederation of the empire
 would come as surely as anything
 under the sun. Canadians agreed to that so long as it came to them
 in such a way that their liberties
 would not be abridged or their constitutional rights curtailed. Ireland would then have the control of her own local affairs, Canada and the other colonies would not lose any of their constitutional privileges. All would look to the empire, not as governing them, but they governing themselves through that great Imperial Parliament, and thus preserving the dearest right of all English-speaking peoples, the right of self-government. (Applause.)

Confederation a Success.

Canadians had found confederation
 a success. He did not say that without that confederation England would fall. He did feel sure, however, that the true solution of the imperial problem, if England was to keep in the van of nations, would be found when she and her hands to the colonies and said was no longer England isolated, but a worldwide power connected vitally in every latitude and meridian with her people, and every kindred race under the sun. In concluding he said that Canada wanted population of the right material and the capital of the old land. He referred to the Hon. Mr. Chamberlain as the best Colonial Secretary Britain ever had, a man who more than any other thoroughly appreciated the idea of Imperial unity, and had done all in his power to foster it, and asked Mr. Plunkett to assure him that in whatever emergency might arise, Canadians could be depended upon to do their duty to the empire and maintain its honor at any price. (Loud and long-continued applause.)

Since his arrival in America, during the early part of the month, he has been looking after his business interests in Nebraska and Wyoming.
 He intends sailing again for Liverpool on Tuesday.

ON FRIDAY NEXT.

The Prohibition Deputation Will Interview the Government.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—It was announced on Saturday that the deputation from the Methodist church and the Dominion Alliance, who wish to interview the Provincial Government on the prohibition question, will be received at the Parliament buildings
 on Friday next.

Richolson Protest Dismissed.

Montreal, Dec. 28.—The protest against the return of Mr. Bruneau (Liberal) as member for the Federal constituency of Richolson has been dismissed.

The Pope Is Ill.

Paris, Dec. 30.—A despatch from Rome says the Pope is ill. The New Year's reception to the diplomatic corps has, therefore, been postponed.

To Educate Women Farmers.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—Long-continued agitation has induced the Government to authorize the Moscow Polytechnic Museum to open a course of agriculture for women in their struggle for higher scientific education.

MARCONI'S MOVEMENTS.

Wireless Telegraphy Wizard Will Soon Be in Ottawa to Confer With the Government About the Future.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 30.—Signor
 Marconi arrived from Cape Breton last night. He was accompanied by an attendant, and by Mr. Smith, secretary of the Canadian Postoffice Department. Marconi will remain in Montreal to-day, when he will be the guest at a luncheon, tendered him by the Elder Dempster Company. Mr.
 Marconi said last night that he had not come to Canada to interest Canadian capitalists, as he had all the financial backing he required. He will leave for Ottawa this evening to confer with the Canadian Government.

COMPANY MADE OFFER.

Marconi Says It Asked Him to Join Forces in Communication.

Halifax, Dec. 30.—Talking of his plans here yesterday, Mr. Marconi said that a cable company had asked him to install his system on Sable Island, and giving them connection with it at Chatham. This may be done, he added, after his return to Nova Scotia, two months hence,
 when he will be here to see about building a station at Louisbourg or other Cape Breton point. The inventor says he has no doubt that he can keep up regular communication between Cornwall and Nova Scotia.
 Should through tests, however, demonstrate this to be impossible, he will erect a station on the Azores, accepting an offer from the King of Portugal.

A. Meyer of New York, a director of the Cape Breton Railway, yesterday offered him a site at Louisbourg.

Millions in His Grasp.

Halifax, Dec. 30.—Marconi has received an offer of $1,000 a lecture for 12 lectures to be delivered by him in the United States. He declined. Marconi's hopes and ambitions soar beyond lecturing at $1,000
 a night. He is neglecting the immediate development of short distance wireless telegraphy, in which,
 he says, money can be made at once, in order to demonstrate the possibilities of trans-Atlantic work,
 and he says that he has no inclination to stand on the lecture platform while such a great matter engages his attention.

NO QUARTER WAS GIVEN.

Four Hundred Fell in a Hand to Hand Struggle at Honda.

Colon, Colombia, Dec. 30.—Baranquilla papers, dated Dec. 24, which reached here yesterday morning, contain further details of the battle fought near Honda.

In the evening the insurgents, on arriving at Caracoli, near Mariquita, awaited the Government troops in two wings. It was there that bayonets and machetes were freely used, as the insurgents' ammunition was exhausted. The vanguard being surrounded, the Government troops,
 with the aid of the rear guard, succeeded in breaking the line and utterly routing the enemy. On the following morning, when four hundred were found to have been killed,
 the insurgents retreated by way of Guayaquin, taking their wounded
 with them.

The fighting in this engagement has been characterized as uncivilized.
 The Liberal colors bore the device,
 "I neither ask for nor give quarter."

LAP'S EAGLE THE WIRE.

The Belleville Sun suspended publication Saturday.
 It is stated that Lord Strath-
 cona, although restored to health, left London by express orders of his medical advisers.

 ist, formerly publisher of The Sun,

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1901

BIGHT MEN FOR COUNCIL

REV. J. W. MACMILLAN GAVE SOUND ADVICE SUNDAY.

His Sermon on "The Coming Municipal Elections" Heard by a large Congregation.

Following the rule established by him several years ago, Rev. J. W.
Macmillan, minister of St. Andrew's last evening made the coming municipal elections the subject of his sermon, which was listened to by a very large congregation, including many members of other churches. The rev. gentleman took his text from VI. Chapter Acts, 3rd verse, "Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business."
In opening Rev. Mr. Macmillan said it was a long time since he had delivered a sermon on such a topic.
In the course of a few weeks there would begin a series of special meetings in the church, and he would have preferred to make his sermon preparatory thereto, but is was now or never with this matter of the selection of municipal representatives for the coming twelve months. The opportunity was here and must be grasped. He did not know that he should apologize for taking such a subject. We realize something of the difficulties and worries and perhaps temptations which surround the positions of Mayor and Aldermen.
In a recent issue of the Nineteenth Century Magazine a well-known writer, after referring to Canada as a vigorous young nation, with shrewd statesmen, an expanding commerce and immense natural advantages, said the great lack is a high standard of public morality.
The charge was undoubtedly true
—a species of moral laxity seems to surround almost every question into which politics enter.

Fortunately there is no application of party politics to municipal elections. That is one of the things that save us from the evils of extreme partisanship. In the selection of municipal representatives, at any rate, we must ask ourselves how we shall discriminate between the policy and the man. We should not allow ourselves to be influenced solely by the circumstances, as many things will come up during the year for settlement that are now not thought of. He had never refrained from pointing out to his hearers
their moral duty as citizens in connection with the selection of a Council. These might be regarded as also things in the background, but so far he was not able, from what had been made public, to say there was any great moral issue involved.
This left him free to refer only to the personnel of the men the ratifyers should select as their representatives. This he would do under three headings:

1st.—What stamp of a man should be eligible? On the face of it every citizen possessed of the necessary property qualification had a right to be a candidate. However, it is not so much a matter of right as wisdom. A man may properly be debarred from office by ill-health, lack of leisure, deficient education, and for various other causes. Modesty and humility are valuable assets in public affairs as in the church. The Apostle Paul says, "If I speak to you as wise men." A citizen should know that he possesses mental and educational qualifications before he permits himself to be nominated for the Council. Some men understand public affairs, and are well fitted thereby to do so. No one knew farmer—a man of great natural sagacity—who was elected reeve, and in time was nominated for the legislature, but who refused on the ground that he was not sufficiently well educated for the position. In all other respects that man was well qualified. If he (the speaker)
asked a citizen to take the position of bank manager, to run one of the town saw-mills, or to occupy his pulpit
for a time, he would at once refuse on the ground that he was not capable of filling the position, but

If he were asked to take the office of Mayor or Alderman, he would probably accept of it. A man does not require a college education to fill a position at the Council board, but certain mental qualifications are absolutely necessary.

2nd.—The motive of the candidate.
This is a moral question. A man should ask himself, "What motive has led me to seek the position?" It might be ambition merely. It might be a desire to be a public figure. But every man should ask himself, "If some matter in which a friend was interested came up before him, what course would he take. If he doubted his ability to forget his friend for the sake of duty, then he should hold back from temptation. This man of good ideas and principles who had been rejected, and the man who had incurred censure while striving for elevation to the public, should derive consolation from the knowledge that they had striven to do their duty
—their motives should sustain them.
Some men said they had not time to devote to the public service, yet business men with large interests found time for other things. It was better to refuse office, however,
than to accept and leave the work to fall on other shoulders. What sort of man should offer for Council? He should be a representative man, and the Council might be made up for a number of men standing for various interests, or of men naturally qualified to represent all classes. It should be remembered that the town contains people of divergent views and leanings, and there are differences of opinion on many matters which will not disappear within the next twelve months.
The line between Protestants and Catholics is well defined, and all should remember that if we want to do away with sectional differences
we should unhesitatingly cast our vote for a qualified Catholic as freely
as for a Protestant. No man should vote for a Catholic merely because he is a member of that religion, or for a Presbyterian for the same reason; the test should be,
"Is he qualified to make a good representative?" not "Is he a member
of my church, or of my lodge?"

The candidate for Council should possess strength of character. In the six years he had been a resident of Lindsay he believed that most features traceable to Council had been the result of weakness rather than of wrong intention. We want in our representatives not the strength born of unthinking stubbornness, but of firmness in right-doing. We should gauge against the man possessed of a witty, caustic tongue, and a number of that region, or for a Presbyterian for the same reason; the test should be,
"Is he qualified to make a good representative?" not "Is he a member

3rd.—What treatment do we owe to the men whom we elect? During his stay in Lindsay, remarked the speaker, he had not known of more than two or three actual attempts at dishonesty by members of Council,
but had heard of perhaps 6,000.
Take the case of a citizen generally respected and esteemed. From the day he is pressed or elected to enter the arena of municipal politics he is abused and vilified. It takes very little to earn some men's dislike and ensure the refusal of a $10 grant or office will do it in some cases.
Letters are published in the newspapers now and then which contain not one felicitous phrase nor perhaps one grain of truth, and yet the editors say they do not publish one for ten that go into their wastebasket. That is a dreadful reflection on the fairness of the community towards their representatives.
These men are our superiors — we elect them to that position, and we elect the public man the day we come when we will not be able to get men to serve us. One of the things we have lost with the advance of civilization is the power to punish slanders in a fitting manner. In these days of liberty of action and expression it is given to all dogs
to bark, and great hulking fellows whose wives have to labor for them
at the wash tub stand on the street corners and criticize the members of Council and secure listeners.

Boiled down, the advice he sought to convey was: 1st, that men who know the process of the right qualifications to make a good Council should not hold back; 2nd, that we should seek godly men; 3rd, that we should give these men due honor.
In some parts of the United States
it is almost defamatory to call a man a member of parliament, while in England the position is regarded as one of great honor and the occupant is certain to be a man of high integrity. If we constantly injure the motives of a representative he may one day conclude to have the game as well as the name.
Henderson, speaking of Italy, said it is only by pursuing high ideals and permitting moral motives to prevail, that a nation can be made great. Progress to be permanent should not have its source in vanity
—it must be due to a realization of duty. Duty, and not vanity, should inspire fit and proper action of office for the municipal Council of Lindsay.

WEDDING BELLS.

—Mr. John Tins, of the east ward, and Miss Cora Rogers, were united in marriage Christmas day by the Rev. J. W. Macmillan. Mr. Jos.
Rogers and Rosie Tins acted as supports in the trying ordeal. The wedding celebration took place at the home of the bride's parents, Hawthorn. The bride wore a suit of drab, with pearl and satin trimmings.

Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored
by inhaling Catarrhoxone. It quick-disease of the respiratory organs.

Don't give up hope until you have

THE BOND OF FRIENDSHIP.

Four Lindsay Firms Give Their Employees Good Things Christmas Eve

Following the custom established
some years ago, every head of a family in the employ of the Flavell Shilling Co. was presented with a fine turkey Christmas eve, accompanied with a letter conveying the firm's thanks for loyal service, coupled with the season's greetings and good wishes.

On Christmas eve Mr. A. Horn gave instructions to his foreman to close down the woolen factory at five o'clock. The order was obeyed with alacrity, and when the employees were about to depart Mr. Horn invited them upstairs, where they found a royal Christmas tree bearing a substantial present for each member of the staff. A pleasant half-hour was spent Mr. Horn delivering a brief speech in which he testified to the faithful manner in which the work had been done, and his interests during the year about to close. Several of the men made brief replies, assuring Mr. Horn that the good feeling he entertained for the staff was heartily reciprocated
by them.

Mr. R. M. Beal, head of the Beal Leather Co., also presented each of his 25 employees with a turkey for their Christmas dinner. In doing so he took occasion to express his appreciation of the honest and faithful service given by every workman from the youngest to the oldest, which was a gratifying indication of the good feeling in their hearts for their employer. He would do all in his power to foster the growth of that sentiment, and he sincerely hoped the firm would prosper during the year to come.
Several of the men then returned thanks to Mr. Beal on behalf of their comrades, who elicited the expressions of esteem by giving these helpers and a "tiger" for the head of the company. As the men were about to depart Mr. Beal asked their attention for another minute, and went on to explain that, if prosperity attended the firm during the coming year, he intended to put the co-operative principle in force and would give each employee a bonus of 2 1/2 per cent. on his yearly salary
on Christmas eve, 1902, and in time
he hoped to make the bonus 5 per cent. He also urged the men to form a sick benefit association, promising to add them in doing so. It is almost needless to add that the men welcomed the generous announcement with enthusiasm and expressions of satisfaction. And Mr.
Beal was kept busy for a few minutes exchanging hearty handshakes.
We understand that Mr. Jos. Man-der, of the Victoria Flour Mills, also presented his employees with 11
pound turkeys, and there are whispers of other firms having done the same in like fashion, but we have not been able to get particulars.

Saturday's Markets.

There was a fairly good market
on Saturday. The display of dressed beef and pork outside was large and the demand fairly good. Following were the prices paid: Butter 16 to 18c. ducks 30 to 60c. per pair,
geese 7c. per lb. turkeys 11c. per
lb. chickens 45c. per pair, eggs 20c.
large 5c. per bunch, beef 5 to 6 1/2c.
per lb. lamb 7 to 10c. per lb. potatoes
60c. per bag, apples 15 to 17 1/2c.
per bag, pork 8 1/2 to 9 1/2c. per lb.
for the quarter, per carcass 7 1/2c.
per lb.
An English paper of recent date
contains some market quotations which will prove of interest to our readers. At Hamilton, Devonshire, ducks brought from $1.10 to $1.50
a pair, chickens $1.00 to $1.25 per pair, turkeys 20c. a pound, geese 16c. per pound, eggs 45c. a dozen,
butter 35c. a pound, beef 14 to 18c., pork 12 to 16c., lamb 20c., bacon 15c., cheese 20c.

Hockey Notes.

—Port Hope hockey players are in despair over the transfer to Toronto of "Dug" McCallum, their best man. It is presumed the Toronto Bank authorities have been urged to make the change so that a city
team will have the benefit of his services.

—The Trent Valley Hockey Executive met at the Oriental hotel, Peterboro, last Thursday evening to arrange the schedule for the season and appoint an official board of referees. The schedule was arranged as follows: Round No. 1—(A) Jan. 10, Norwood vs. Campbellford; Jan. 17, Campbell-ford vs. Norwood. (B) Jan. 10, Lakeshore vs. Lakeshore; Jan. 17, Lakeshore vs.

elon Falls vs. Lindsay. Round No. 2—(F)
Jan. 24, Winner of A vs. Winner of B; Jan.
31, winner of B vs. winner of C; Jan. 31,
winner of C vs. winner of D. (H) winner of C vs. D. The schedule was drawn up only as far as the second round for the present. When this is played off the executive will meet to arrange the other games.
Temporary acting board of referees was appointed: Messrs. W. R. Cameron, N. C.
Wood; R. M. Glover and Ernie Watson,
Peterboro; Dr. Walters, Lindsay; and Dr.
Aldrich, Fenelon Falls.

—The intermediate and junior O.H.A.

COMMUNICATIONS

The Fire Hall Site.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir—I am glad to see that some of our leading farmers have given their opinion respecting the location of the new fire hall, and quite agree with them that a fire hall built on the Market Square will not only prove a great inconvenience to farmers, but in case of a fire be very dangerous to the public in general, and I would suggest that the farmers strive to get a market established at Oakwood or some other good place, seeing that they have been comparatively well out of the town which should have been the pride of each farmer in this County. In visiting Peterboro market I found that everything that can be done for the good of the farmer, and the public in general is being done, and I came to this conclusion
—that there is no real building out of the town in one day than there is on Lindsay market in six weeks.

I would advise the Town Council for 1902 to take an interest in the welfare of the farmers and the town
and select another site for the fire hall, which will always prove a nuisance if located on the present site.
—Yours, etc., G. W. DARKE.

Lindsay, Dec. 30th.

OBITUARY

Death of W. H. Holland, Cobocook.

The death occurred on Saturday at Co-bock, of William Henry Holland, formerly manager of the Dominion Bank at Oshawa and Whitby, after a brief illness. Deceased was born in a house at the corner of Jarvis and King-st., Toronto, 61 years ago. He received his education there, having attended the old grammar school for several years.
When a young man he received the position of manager of the Dominion Bank at Whitby and Oshawa, a post he held for a number of years. In politics he was a staunch conservative, and he was an adherent of the Church of England. Mr. Holland was twice married. He had a married Miss Pudston, of Kingston, and his second wife,
who survives him, was a Miss Howard,
of Whitby. He leaves seven children by his first marriage. They are, F. M. Holland, general manager of the Dominion Bank at Loan Co., Toronto; T. W. Holland, al-manager of the Kettle River Railway Co.,
of Grand Forks, B. C.; John M. Holland,
and Ralph H. Holland, of Grand Forks, B. C.; Henry Burton Holland, of Vancouver,
B. C., and one daughter, Miss Holland of Cobocook. By the second marriage he leaves several small children. The remains were taken to Oshawa and interred in St.
George's cemetery there this afternoon....
Last spring, while Mr. Holland was crossing the G. & I. River, above Cobocook, in a small skiff, the boat capsized and he narrowly escaped being drowned.

SUGAR COMPANY ORGANIZED.

Mr. Hugh Blain of Toronto, Elected

President of Board of Directors.

Toronto World: The shareholders of the Ontario Sugar Co. met last Thursday night at the National Club for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization of the company, and also for the election of their Board of Directors. The following were elected directors of the company: Hugh Blain, S. B. Jones, Michael McLaughlin,
John Flett, W. J. Gage and Robert Jaffray
of Toronto; William Henry, of Hamilton; C. K. Hagdon and S. J. Williams, of Berlin.

At a meeting of the directors Mr. Hugh Blain was elected president, Mr. S. B. Jones, vice-president, and Mr. S. J. Williams managing director. Mr. B. Gash was appointed solicitor for the company.

The directors will immediately ask for tenders for the buildings to be erected at Berlin as soon as they receive the necessary authority to do so. The buildings are to be completed at the opening of next season, that is, about the first of August, 1902.

Mr. W. B. Henderson, president of the Valley Sugar Co., of Bay City, Mich., was present, and assured the shareholders of the advisability and safety of entering this line of industry.

The cost of the plant will be in the neighborhood of $500,000, and to those employed in the factory at Berlin and the farmers of the neighborhood about $500,000 will be paid yearly by the company.

Peterboro's Lack of Interest.

The enthusiasm evinced in Peterboro
some weeks ago in connection with the proposition made by Mr. Moody, president of the London, Ont., Refining Co., appears to have abated somewhat. The Peterboro papers have been unable to find any one interested in the proposition, and the interests of the Lindsay meetings, but in its last issue The Review was forced to admit that "it now appears doubtful, in fact it is not probable, that a delegation will be ready to leave Peterboro in time to visit Michigan and see the best sugar factories operating there, as was proposed. As far as heard from only two followers, Mr.
North Monaghan and Dours, appointed representatives to go on the delegation."

Society Notes.

—The new Masonic Temple in Peterboro
was opened last Friday evening with appropriate ceremonies, when the officers of Corinthian and Peterboro lodges were installed by W. R. Bro. Judge J. E. Harding of this town, Acting Grand Master of Canada. Between 200 and 300 Masons were present, including half a hundred Visitation Masters. In its report of the function The Review says: "An interesting fact in connection with the new hall is that in coming to the corner of George and Simcoe-sts., the Masonic lodges are returning to the site of the first lodge rooms. Fifty years ago or so, some are doing in Manitoba, and are about to build a new hall, and are about to corner where the new premises are, and continued to meet there until they removed to the hall on Water-st."

—A regular meeting of Faithful Brethren Lodge No. 77, A. F. & A. M., was held on Friday evening, Dec.
27th, (St. John the Evangelist evening). In their lodge room in the Kecan block, with the following officers were installed for the ensue-ing term: W. M., Bro. D. R. Anderson;

OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS

We wish to secure the services of families to do knitting for us in their homes. Our method is the same as adopted in England. We are the proprietors of this plan and the large knitting establishment in Canada.
After long experience, we have been able to produce an Automatic Machine, which produces a pair of socks in less than 30 minutes. This machine is so simple, enabling any one of ordinary intelligence to quickly learn to do the work from the instruction Guide. All we require is that you use the machine according to the instructions. The machine being made easily for the purpose, and the operation
so simple, it cannot possibly make a mistake in its work.
The great demand now is for bicycle stockings, wood-men's socks, and motor men's mittens, and as we are unable to supply the demand, have taken this method of advertising for more help.

The large export trade to the North-west Territories,
British Columbia, and the British Colonies, furnishes an unlimited demand for our goods, and, with the combined efforts of the many families we are employing, together with the large amount of knitting we are able to turn out,
by which we save rent, insurance, interest on capital, etc., enables us to undersell any manufacturer of this class of goods, and we have sale for all the knitting we can have turned out.

For the price we pay for finished bicycle stockings is $1.00 per hundred, or at the rate of 10c per pair; woodmen's socks, 5c, and motor men's mittens, 12c a pair. All other work in proportion to size.

The machine can be operated by any one of a family, and at our prices any energetic family should be able to earn themselves comfortably, and in time be a source of independent comfort.

Our plan is to send out each machine to beginners with a sock or stocking partially knitted, and remaining in the machine ready to be continued, and also enough yarn to knit one pair of sample socks or stockings and a simple and complete instruction Guide, showing how the work is to be done. When the samples have been finished, and returned to us satisfactory, we send a quantity of yarn with a you knit and return likewise when finished. We prepay charges on all work one way, and our workers pay return charges. The work, as we have stated, is simple and rapidly done, the machine having a capacity of ten thousand stitches a minute. We have many persons now in our employ who can knit from four to five to thirty pairs of socks or stockings a day, and where the time of a family is devoted to the work, you can readily see that $15.00 or $20.00 per week can be easily earned.

We furnish our workers all the materials, yarn, etc., free, and everything that is necessary for the work. We are furnishing the machine ready for use, and we are those desiring to take employment with us, who must, in order to become a member, send us this Contract Order form, properly signed by them, and at least one good reference, and remittance according to the necessary assurance that the quantities of valuable yarn we may send from time to time will not be wasted or misappropriated.
Our interests are mutual, and this confidence is established if we are to succeed. We guarantee fair dealing and prompt payment for work, so we do not ask us to devote our time to the work, and we cannot make a distinction in our work, and not another; besides, we are doing an extensive business, and must be governed by business principles.

If at any time after you commence, and have done an amount of work equal to the purchase price, and wish to discontinue, we will take back machine and refund the excess paid for same, after deducting cost of our expense only.

There is a Large Demand by the Trade for this class of work. Our workers can depend upon it year after year.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—Christmas was celebrated with decorum, and there were no unseemly disputes calling for police intervention.

—Barrie has had 26,551 square feet of cement sidewalks this year at a cost of less than 8 cents per square foot. Lindsay's sidewalks for 1902 should note this.

—Peterboro is said to stand a better chance of getting a beet sugar factory than Lindsay. This is due to the fact that that town has a more plentiful supply of beets, but they are of a poor variety.

—Mr. Parker, of Sturgeon Point, came to town Friday by the hotel train which is in first-class shape. He has been engaged filling some Point ice houses with blocks 13 inches in thickness.

—Griffin Pickett: The unfortunate man, Miller, whose death at Severn Bridge is reported in another column, is highly spoken of by those who have known him at the Sturgeon Rapids during his engagement there.

—Fockebrooks seem to have been lying around quite plentiful of late. Mr. Lovell picked up one on Thursday and next evening Mr. W. Skinner killed another into the ditch near Cowd's drug store. The respective owners were found.

—Mr. Alf. Quibell, formerly foreman in Mr. John Carver's single mill, and Mr. Alf. Smith, a fellow workman, opened a shingle mill in the Moyne Settlement, Fenelon, about a month ago. They employ over a dozen men, and the mill will be operated for about three months.

—During the past couple of days a strong young man with a whin in his voice and a pitiful yearning of being strapped forty miles from home and wanting to go out on the first train, has been working the ring racket on innocents in town. Have you paid two or three dollars for a 20c. ring?

—Mr. Adam Doran, Melbourne-st., erected a substantial frame addition to his dwelling the past season. The new portion is made of main part of the residence, being 21 x 24 ft., two stories in height. The work was done by day labor. Mr. Doran now has a comfortable home, with all modern improvements.

—Two-thirds of the stock of the Peterboro Light & Power Co. has been purchased by the Quaker Oats Co. in order to secure full control of the power required for the huge industry being established by them in that town. Extensive improvements will be made, and the town will be given a first-class service.

No changes have been made in the Separate School board for 1902, the retiring members having been re-elected by acclamation. The members are: South Ward, L. V. O'Connor and A. O'Loughlin; north ward, Rev. Fr. Phelan and A. Prineas; east ward, J. R. O'Neill and C. Callaghan.

—A very pleasant "At Home" was held at the residence of Mrs. Sadler, Ridout-st., Friday, when the topics of the day were discussed and copious refreshments were served. The music for the occasion was furnished by Mrs. Lillian Jackson.

—Collingwood will be able to boast of a sanitarium in the near future. Dr. McFaul, of that town, having purchased the Blue Mountain mineral springs and the 100 acres of adjoining land with the object of establishing a hotel and bath. The water is said to be excellent for rheumatism and blood diseases.

—About 7 p.m. last Friday the fire brigade responded to an alarm sent in from the Bond-st. box, but their services were not required. A chimney in Mr. John McDonald's residence at the corner of Victoria-ave. and Bond-st. blazed up and gave the small boy a chance to work the alarm mechanism.

—Citizens will join with us in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Penrose on the honorable discharge of their son Vincent by the Governor's party at Severn Bridge yesterday. He pursued a manly course in returning voluntarily to face any charge that might be laid against him.

—Mr. John Flurey's delivery horse has a fondness for fodder. There was a load of hay in the Butler hotel yard Saturday, and when the Vanstons boy jumped into the rig on the hay, the horse went down and cut the corners short and went into the load with a crash. A scared boy, but little damage.

—The firemen were called out on Thursday at 9:30 to extinguish a blaze in a dwelling on Kent-st. east, occupied by Mr. Jas. Nicholas, driver of the Flavelle Milling Co. The chemical extinguisher was made use of for the first time, and answered admirably. About $25 worth of damage was done, and the loss is covered by insurance.

—Dr. Shier left his horse and entered in charge of his six-year-old son on Saturday while he slipped out to the post office. A minute later the animal made a dash to run away, but the child planted his feet against the unshod horse and pulled steadily on one rein, spinning the outfit around on the road like a top. The young hero won the praise of spectators by his coolness and pluck.

—The Separate School board nominations have been held. Mr. C. Callaghan, of Dallas, Oregon, the retiring trustee for the east and south wards, were re-elected by acclamation. In the north ward Rev. Fr. Phelan and Mr. J. A. Gilroy were nominated, but it is not likely there will be a contest. It is thought the latter will retire in favor of Fr. Phelan, who has been a very energetic representative.

—In a letter containing a certificate for subscription from Mr. R. F. Thurston, of Dallas, Oregon, an old Victoria county boy, he says he had a call from Mr. Alex. Campbell, formerly of Campbell's grocery store, who that gentleman looking as fine as silk. He also had a call in the summer from Mr. Thos. Graham, of Sturgeon Point. He reports lots of rain and the sawmill in winter, as there is no frost to interfere. He also extends the season's congratulations to his friends in this section.

A long record of success in curing cuts, burns and bruises, as well as all bowel complaints, is held by Pain-Killer—over 80 years. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Penny Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

—St. Mary's church was crowded to the doors Christmas morning at 5 o'clock, when the midnight mass was celebrated. The scene was very beautiful and impressive, and two-thirds of the large congregation partook of holy communion. Rev. Fr. Phelan delivered a touching and eloquent sermon, speaking for about 15 minutes. The second mass was said at 6:25 by Rev. Fr. Phelan, and at 8 o'clock, another low mass was said by Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan. At the church was again crowded. Rev. Fr. Phelan delivered the sermon. The choir rendered choice music at the first and last masses.

—The Christmas services Wednesday morning at St. Paul's were largely attended. Rural Dean Marsh delivered the Christmas sermon, touching on the joyous Christmas spirit and what it meant to the nation and individual. Christ had come as a saviour from sin and its dominion to give light, to guide our feet in the way of peace, to give peace to the troubled and disappointed heart, and brought with him the message of good-will to man. God had opened heaven of his glory for earth's blessing. The Rector, in closing wished all a happy Christmas time, with all its joys and blessings for the life, in the family, and in the worship of the Lord. Lords and King of Kings. The choir furnished appropriate music. Mrs. Hopkins contributing a well-rendered solo.

BEGINNERYN LOSSES

Ten British Were Killed and Fifteen Were Wounded.

40 ARMED NATIVES WITH BOERS

Gallant Defence of the Garrison of Tontelbosch Held Out for Six Days and Seven Nights—Had Three Killed and 13 Wounded Out of 23.

London, Dec. 28.—Details received here yesterday from South Africa of the abductions near Begenderyn, Orange River Colony, Dec. 21, of two hundred mounted infantry, by three hundred Boers and fifty armed natives, led by Commandant Krieger, show the British force to have been ten men killed and fifteen wounded. The losses of the Boers are not known.

GARRISON'S BRAVE DEFENCE.
Had to Fight Boers to Obtain Water Every Night.

Commissariat, Dec. 28.—In Commandant Maritz's attack on Tontelbosch, the garrison suffered severely from thirst.

The Boers had command of the water supply, and the garrison had to fight for water every night. The attack lasted six days and seven nights, and the fighting was constant and severe.

We lost three killed and fifteen slightly wounded out of twenty. The Boers admitted having four killed and twenty wounded.

The enemy looted all the horses, men's clothing and cash from the loop-holed houses. They also looted Williston, taking even children's shoes.

A Private's Splendid Pluck.

London, Dec. 28.—The Victoria Cross is to be awarded, states Thursday night's Gazette, to Private W. Bees, of the 1st Derbyshire Regiment, for an act of conspicuous bravery in South Africa. He was one of the six Maxim gun detachment, which had six men left out of nine, at Moedville on September 30th. Hearing his wounded comrades asking for water, he went forward under a heavy fire to a spring held by Boers about 500 yards ahead of the gun and brought back a kettle of water.

In going and returning he had to pass within a hundred yards of some rocks, also held by Boers; the kettle he was carrying being killed by their bullets.

An Army of Sixty Thousand Men.
Liverpool, Dec. 28.—The Post says Gen. Lord Kitchener has informed the War Office that preparations must be made to keep an army of 60,000 men in South Africa for an indefinite period after peace has been established, and that a draft should now be sent out to be used as a nucleus for this garrison duty army.

Education of the Boer Children.
London, Dec. 28.—The Times publishes a letter from Pretoria on the subject of education in the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies. It was stated that at the beginning of the war that the Transvaal was educating 14,700 children which number was nearly equalled last month in the schools opened by the British, while in the Orange River Colony about 5,000 are being taught. The average attendance of pupils in the concentration camps is 70 per cent., and the present average in the Transvaal 75 per cent.

Envoys in Roosevelt.
Amsterdam, Dec. 28.—As the result of conference between the envoys, the Rev. Mr. Doornik, and the Boer leaders, it was decided to send C. M. W. to the United States in January bearing a letter from Mr. Kruger to President Roosevelt.

MAY NEVER RECOVER.
Mrs. Taylor, who Went Over Niagara Falls, Has Paralysis.

Niagara Falls, Dec. 28.—The Niagara Falls, N.Y., Cataract says that Mrs. Anna Taylor, the daring woman who successfully passed over the Canadian Falls in her barrel, is said to have been located in a hospital in New York City, where she is helpless with paralysis, a result of her trip. This information has been received from Frank Tanner, who successfully managed Graham's exploits in the lower river during the past summer. After leaving the Falls, it was understood that Mrs. Taylor went to her home in Bay City, Mich., where she was suffering from paralysis. She disappeared from public view entirely and her real whereabouts was a matter of conjecture. It is said that her condition is serious and that it is doubtful if she will ever recover.

EATEN BY WOLVES.
Galician's Body Found Frozen and Mangled in the West.

Basswood, Man., Dec. 28.—A report has been brought to this section by Indians from the northwestern reserve, lying between Newdale and Strathclair, of the finding of the body of a man in that district. According to the story, the body was torn and eaten by wolves, which were at will in large numbers in this country. The remains could not be recognized, but it is presumed to be the body of a Galician, who became lost and subsequently frozen during the severe weather. Another theory is that the man, while traveling alone, may have been attacked by the large timber wolves, which are numerous and very ferocious in the north. It is understood the authorities will investigate the truth of the report.

TWO HUNDRED KILLED.
Band of Robbers and Slave Hunters Practically Wiped Out.

Lisbon, Dec. 28.—A telegram has been received by the Minister of Marine from Angola, East Africa, stating that a band of robbers and slave hunters, which has long infested the country round Benguela, and are known as the Guanhamas, attacked the native villages of the Ganguellos and Ambullos, near Mossamedes, in Portuguese territory. The local governor of the district, Major Correia, agreed with some native chiefs to await the robber band, which was composed of 300 men, and repulse them. This was done with such success that the Guanhamas' attack was completely defeated, 200 of them being killed on the spot.

DANIEL LYON DEAD.
Member of the First Parliament of Ontario Passes Away.

St. Thomas, Ont., Dec. 28.—Squire Daniel Lyon, one of the best known men of Elgin, and a member of the first parliament of Ontario, died Thursday night at his residence here, aged 81 years. Deceased had lived in the county 46 years, retiring to this city six years ago. He was reeve of Yarmouth for many years and warden of the county for two years. He was appointed justice of the peace in John Sandfield Macdonald's time. His wife died just twelve weeks ago.

TRAIN RAN AWAY.
As a Result Four Railway Men Are Dead in Carbondale.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 28.—Just before daybreak yesterday morning an Ontario and Western train of 50 coal cars, drawn by a 100-ton engine, ran away on the hill between Boston Park and Starlight, wrecking the whole train and killing four of the hands.

Marquis Is to See the King.

London, Dec. 28.—King Edward received Marquis Ito in audience at Marlborough House yesterday afternoon. The Japanese statesman had previously called on the Foreign Secretary, Lord Lansdowne, who accompanied the Marquis to Marlborough House, and introduced him to the King.

The Marquis and his suite, all wearing court dress, were driven to Marlborough House in royal carriages. King Edward, when he received the Japanese statesman, wore a field marshal's uniform. Marquis Ito, after the audience, said the object of his visit to London was strictly non-political. But in view of the belief here of the probable return of the Marquis to office, some importance is attached to his interviews with King Edward and Lord Lansdowne.

Volokhams, Dec. 28.—The Cabinet differences have been arranged, owing largely, it is understood, to the telegraphic intervention of the Marquis Ito. The budget has been withdrawn for the purpose of redrafting.

A Woman's Narrow Escape.
Windsor, Dec. 28.—When Mrs. Henry Paquette of Sandwich was awakened Thursday night by the crackling of fire, she opened her bedroom door in great haste, and the flames at once leaped into the room and caught her night dress. The frightened woman was burned, but not seriously. Her husband jumped out of the bed, extinguished the flames, and the two grabbed their three children, and managed to get out of the house just in time. The house and all its furniture was destroyed; loss about $1,000. The Paquette family is about five miles from Windsor.

Marconi's Next Experiments.
New York, Dec. 28.—The Herald in a despatch from North Sydney, N.S.W., says: Marconi's next experiments of importance will be made early in February, on one of the steamships from Liverpool to New York. During a trip across the ocean he will endeavor to communicate with land on one side or the other during the entire voyage. The Cornwall and Cape Cod stations are those intended to be used.

Must Leave at Once.
Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 27.—The Spanish squatters on the Island of La Costa, government reservation, near the mouth of Charlotte Harbor, southwest of Florida, must leave there at once under orders from the Treasury Department.

THE NEW CONTINGENT

Appointments of Officers to the Mounted Rifles Approved.

CANADIAN HOSPITAL COMPANY.

The Director-General of Medical Services Wishes It to Be Understood That the Boer Corps Is a Separate Unit and Not an Attachment of the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The War Office has cabled its approval of the appointment of the following additional officers of the Canadian Mounted Rifles: One Major, an assistant surgeon, one assistant veterinary officer, an assistant adjutant, a paymaster and an armorer. Lieut.-Col. Cameron, D.S.O., 5th Royal Scots, will be appointed Major, thus creating a vacancy in the list of Captains in the regiment. Dr. Duff of Kingston is mentioned for assistant surgeon. Mr. Moir, late of Strathcona's Horse, will likely be chosen as paymaster, and Mr. Robert Donaldson of the military stores as armorer. The War Office message states that the regiment will be under the control of the general officer commanding the Canadian militia until after the departure of the transports.

The Victorian Leaves Cape Town.
The following cablegram was yesterday received from Cape Town: "Victorian left Cape Town Dec. 24. Has on board the Hon. Lieut.-Col. Gordon, Canadian staff, Captain Mason, Victorian Mounted Infantry; Civil Surgeon Farrell and four men."

Lieut.-Col. Gordon was D.O.C. at Montreal, but went out to South Africa attached to the first contingent. After the regiment returned to Canada, Col. Gordon remained behind and was given command of a military district in Cape Colony. He was taken dangerously ill with erysipelas some months ago, but recovered and returned to duty. It is supposed he will take over his position as D.O.C. at Montreal when he comes back. The tardy departure of the Victorian from Cape Town makes it improbable that she will reach Halifax much before the 20th prox.

Gen. O'Grady-Haly's Term.
The rumor was prevalent yesterday that the War Office had refused to consent to an extension of General O'Grady-Haly's term as officer commanding the Canadian militia, but it cannot be traced to an authoritative source, and is not credited. An official of the Militia Department, said: "The Government has passed an order in Council extending the General's time until June 30 next, and he will in all probability remain here until then. It is not likely that the War Office will override the wishes of the Government here."

A Separate Unit.
The Director-General of Medical Services wishes it made clear that the Canadian Hospital Company for South Africa is not in any way connected with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, but goes to the front as a separate unit. The Mounted Rifles have their own medical equipment, which is even fuller than with the majority of regiments, in view of the fact that it will in all probability be cut up into two separate commands. The Hospital Company is to have one hundred cots, and is organized so that it, too, can be cut in two if the authorities so desire.

The New Contingent.
Montreal, Dec. 28.—Thirteen stalwart men and true, the supplementary enlistment of Montrealers for the Canadian Mounted Rifles, took their departure for Halifax at noon yesterday. They left on the same train with the supplementary contingents from Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa and other places. They left with an enthusiastic send-off from their military friends and a pathetic farewell from sisters, mothers and loved ones.

They Run to Enlist.
Winnipeg, Dec. 28.—The work of recruiting for South Africa has almost been completed in the west; there are ten applications for every position.

CHRISTMAS BOX.
Families of N.C.O. and Men of Permanent Force Provided For.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The Minister of Militia and Defence has been pleased to authorize, as a special case, the issue of rations of food, fuel and light to the families of non-commissioned officers and men, on the married establishment of the different units of the permanent force, selected for service with the Second Regiment, Canadian Mounted Rifles in South Africa. Dr. Borden has also authorized that the families of these non-commissioned officers and men may remain in the Government quarters they at present occupy, or draw the allowance in lieu if they are now in receipt of the same.

Ottawa's Majority Campaign.
Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The municipal campaign fairly opened last night with two candidates in the field for the Mayorality. J. E. Davidson, who has been acting Mayor since Mr. Morris's disqualification, and ex-Ald. Fred. Cook.

Lord Strathcona Recovered.
London, Dec. 28.—Lord Strathcona, who has now recovered from his recent illness, left London Thursday, accompanied by Lady Strathcona, for Knelworth House, Stevenage.

Americans Corner Turkish Tobacco.
Dorlin, Dec. 28.—Not content with the acquisition of German cigarette factories, the American tobacco trust has now succeeded in cornering the Turkish tobacco crop, on which the German cigarette trade is dependent for 75 per cent. of its raw material. The seat of the domestic cigarette industry is appalled at this latest revelation of American octopus methods.

WHAT THE POPE DESIRES.

An American Representative at Vatican to Be an Ambassador.

London, Dec. 24.—The Fall Mail Gazette yesterday published the following despatch from Rome: "The Vatican is becoming decidedly more hopeful that the United States will yield to the Pope's great desire and appoint a diplomatic representative to the Vatican. So anxious is the Pope for the success of his project that he would be satisfied at present with a semi-official representative, in the hope that he would eventually be turned into a minister or ambassador."

The Pontiff's Rebuke.
Rome, Dec. 24.—The Pope this morning received the Cardinals, who offered him their Christmas greetings. The Pontiff made a lengthy address, during which he condemned the excessive liberty of thought indulged in at the present time. He sharply criticized Socialist agitation for divorce and the hostility between different sections of the church, and urged a union of the Christian churches.

The Church, said the Pope during the course of his remarks, is now confronted by difficulties similar to those of earlier times. There were attempts everywhere to make the masses enemies of the church. The religious orders were subjected to all kinds of vexations, proscriptions and laws were being passed in open defiance of God's eternal laws. In his reference to Socialism, the Pontiff said that the only means of successfully combatting it was for Catholics to hearken to and obey the instructions of the church.

THE QUEEN'S ILLNESS.
Christmas Festivities in the Royal Home Marred Thereby.

London, Dec. 24.—The Associated Press hears that the condition of Queen Alexandra is more serious than has been given out, and that it causes some anxiety. Doctors are in constant attendance on Her Majesty. A bulletin issued at noon yesterday says the Queen is progressing favorably, but that the extensive arrangements made for Christmas festivities at Sandringham, including large shooting parties, have all been upset, and that Their Majesties will spend Christmas at Marlborough House.

It was announced later in the day that the Queen was suffering from a chill, but that her condition is not considered to be dangerous. It is expected that Her Majesty will be able to leave her room in a few days.

Will Advise Chinese.
Victoria, B.C., Dec. 26.—The steamer Braemar, which arrived last night from the Orient, brings news that the Chinese court has decided to engage an American adviser. The name of the official is not given by the Oriental papers, but the Chinese press states that the salary is to be $15,000 a year.

A Million Dollar Fire.
Mexico City, Dec. 26.—Word reached here from Merida, Yucatan, that a great fire has been raging at Progreso. Some 10,000 bales of henequin were exposed to the flames, and it is believed much of it has been destroyed. The loss is estimated at a million dollars.

Schwab Will Go to Europe.
New York, Dec. 26.—Charles Schwab, president of the Steel Trust, will sail for Europe on La Savoie of the French Line. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Schwab, and plans to remain abroad for two months.

Boers Have the Menace.
Hamilton, Bermuda, Dec. 24.—The Boer prisoners of war landed on Hawkins' Island have been isolated, several of them are suffering from a mild form of measles.

Australia to Send 1,000 Men.
London, Dec. 24.—A despatch to The Times from Sydney, N.S.W., says the Federal Government has decided to send a contingent of 1,000 men to South Africa.

Canada as Casualties.
Ottawa, Dec. 24.—According to the cablegram received by His Excellency from Cape Town, Major G. H. C. Ogilvie, D.S.O., died of his wounds on Thursday last.

The Governor-General has received the following from Mr. Chamberlain: London, Dec. 23—"Regret to inform you Hugh Gordon McNaughton was dangerously ill Dec. 18. No reports as to nature of disease. His father is R. McNaughton, Black River, Northumberland County, N.B."

The Casualty Department at Cape Town has cabled Lord Minto as follows: "Please inform James H. Elliott, Porter's Hill, Ont., that his son, Samuel Herbert Elliott, South African Constabulary, died of enteric fever, near Bloemfontein, Dec. 6th."

Eighteen Men Chosen in Toronto.
Toronto, Dec. 24.—During yesterday twenty-seven men were examined and passed the medical test, 18 of whom also passed the riding and shooting trial. Nine others will be tested in shooting, and the three new men chosen to-day, whom all will be sworn in. They will leave on Thursday evening to join the advance corps at Halifax.

Alger's Condition.
Detroit, Mich., Dec. 26.—Gen. Alger has safely passed the first and most critical stage after the operation that was performed on him last Sunday.

Sir Wm. Van Horne Home.
Montreal, Dec. 26.—Sir William Van Horne arrived from Cuba yesterday, and says it is just as orderly throughout the island as it is in Ontario.

FOUR BOER REVERSES

Lord Kitchener Reports Some Recent Sharp Fighting.

COL. DAMANT'S GALLANT RALLY

Showed Resource and Courage in Resisting 30 Boers With 800 Boers, and Drove Boer General From a Kopje—Was Dangerously Wounded, However—British Casualties Severe—Smit's Close Shave.

London, Dec. 24.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Johannesburg, dated Saturday, Dec. 21, sends reports of sharp fighting in the Orange River Colony. Two hundred mounted infantry, in the neighborhood of Begenderyn, were divided into parties and were searching farms when they were attacked by three hundred Boers and forty armed natives, under Commandant Britz. The Boers charged determinedly in overwhelming numbers. The British casualties were severe, but no details have been received.

The engagements occurred Dec. 18, 19 and 20, at points widely apart. The casualties, so far as known, aggregate about 150, equally divided; but, heavy British losses, the totals of which have not yet been reported, have occurred in the Transvaal.

In the eastern part of the Transvaal Colony, Col. Mackenzie attacked Commandant Smit's force of Boers at Lango Baanhuys, Dec. 20, and killed six and captured sixteen of the enemy. Commandant Smit escaped.

A force of Boers, during the night of Dec. 19, attacked the British post at Eland Spruit, but the burghers were driven off, leaving eight men killed, including Commandant Krieger. Field Cornet Mahon, who was wounded, and three other wounded men were also left on the field. The British casualties were seven men killed and six officers and eighteen men wounded.

Lord Kitchener also reports that during Gen. Dewet's attack on the British force, commanded by Generals Hartnell and Campbell, at Langberg, Dec. 18, the Boers charged bravely and fought desperately for several hours. Dewet was driven off with the loss of twenty men. There were twelve casualties on the side of the British.

On Dec. 20th M. Botha, with eight hundred Boers, surprised Col. Damant's advance guard at Tafel Kop, Orange River Colony. The Boers used a keple, commanding the main body and the guns; but Damant rallied his men and drove the Boers from the kopje. The British casualties were heavy. Damant was dangerously wounded, two officers and twenty men were killed, and three officers and seventeen men were wounded.

The Boers left six dead on the field and dispersed. The British pursued the enemy and captured a number of prisoners, including Commandant Keyter.

Later, the Boers, under a flag of truce, asked permission to remove their dead. They admitted having buried twenty-seven men.

In the fight at Tafel Kop the Boers dressed as British yeomen, engaged in a splendid race with the British in the attempt to be first in gaining the crest of the kopje. The Boers gained the summit first and opened a heavy fire on the single troop of Damant's horse, which took part in the race for the kopje. These troops took advantage of all the small amount of cover available immediately below the Boers, and fought until all but four of them were killed or wounded. By that time reinforcements of Damant's Horse came up and charged and captured the kopje.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S DESIRE.

A Suggestion That Sable Is and Be Placed at Sig. Marconi's Disposal—The Field Hospital For South Africa and Its Equipment—Canadian Exhibits—Yukon and White Pass Railway Rates.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—A telegram received by Hon. W. S. Fielding from Signor Marconi yesterday stated that he would leave Newfoundland to-day and would go to Nova Scotia or Ottawa. It appears, therefore, to be doubtful whether the now celebrated scientist will pay a visit to the capital or whether he will simply explore the coast of Nova Scotia in search of suitable sites for further experiments in transatlantic wireless telegraphy. The British Government is evidently desirous of affording Signor Marconi every assistance in carrying out his experiments, as the Marine Department has received an official communication inquiring whether land can be obtained on the Island of Anticosti. The island is now of course in possession of Mr. Menier, with the exception of the small plot immediately surrounding the lighthouse there. This land might perhaps prove suitable for experiments. Mr. D. H. Keeley, Superintendent of Dominion Telegraphs and Cables, makes the suggestion that Sable Island be placed at Signor Marconi's disposal.

The Field Hospital.
The impression prevails here that Surgeon-Major H. D. Johnson of Charlottetown will be offered the position of Captain in the field hospital now being organized for service in South Africa, and that Surgeon-Captain E. Fenton and Surgeon-Lieutenant J. A. Roberts of Toronto will be invited to go as Lieutenants. Recruiting will probably take place about January 2nd, but definite information on this point will be announced in a day or two. In addition to the five officers and a warrant officer, 55 non-commissioned officers and men will be required, making a total of 61 of all ranks. The equipment for the field will consist of general service wagons, 1 storage wagon, 1 water cart, 28 horses, 8 sets of saddlery, 20 sets of harness, The technical equipment of the hospital will be as follows: Two medical companions, 4 water bottles, 2 surgical haversacks, 2 pairs medical field panniers, 1 surgical pannier, 1 field fracture box, 1 antiseptic case, 16 field stretchers. There will also be a portable X-ray apparatus. Tents and blankets are also included in the equipment.

Canadian Exhibits.
The Minister of Agriculture has given orders for space to be reserved for a Canadian exhibit at the Wolverhampton Exposition, which opens in May next. A Canadian pavilion to cost about $5,000 will be erected. Mr. Fisher has also asked for space to be reserved for Canada at the Cork Exposition, which takes place about the same time. Mr. W. B. Scott, who was commissioner for Canada at Glasgow, is on his way to Canada to discuss matters with the Minister, having sailed on the 21st inst.

Yukon and White Pass Railway Rates.
Complaint having been made that the rates on the Yukon & White Pass Railway to White Horse through Canadian territory were exorbitant, an amended schedule has been sent to the Railway Department. It is stated, however, that the rates under the latest schedule are still too high. The officials of the company have been seeking a conference with the Minister of Railways on the subject, but he has been confined to his house through illness for some days past. The latest reports are that Mr. Blair is improving, and before long will be back at his department.

Marconi to Edition.
St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 24.—There was no new development yesterday in the situation between Marconi and the Anglo-American Telegraph Company.

Marconi sent the following telegram to Thomas Edison last evening: "Thanks for your very kind letter to the press. I hope soon to show you wireless telegraphy working between the United States and Europe. I wish you a happy Christmas."

Canadian Created an Impression.
Buffalo, Dec. 26.—A festival mass, the music by Charles A. E. Harris, a Canadian composer, created a profound impression here upon its initial production under the company's direction at the midnight service Christmas eve, held at the Church of the Holy Angels in the presence of a vast concourse of people.

The Commissioner's Work

WHAT MR. CHALMERS HAS DONE DURING THE YEAR.

A Complete Report Covering the Past Twelve Months.

Below we print for the information of ratepayers the very full report submitted by Town Commissioner Chalmers at the meeting of Council held Dec. 18th. It will repay careful perusal, and will no doubt be alluded to at the nomination meeting Monday evening. We direct particular attention to the large saving shown in the construction of granolithic walks as compared with contract prices paid by the town.

Gentlemen, I beg to submit my annual report of the work done and the money expended by the Board of Works under my supervision for the year 1901.

From January 1st to February 14th I was engaged in receiving stone for roadmaking and having the same piled in convenient shape for crushing, and attending to the snow plowing of the walks through-out the town. I also inspected all the plumbing that was connected during the specified time.

On February 15th I commenced to remove the town hall by day labor, and finished out the entire system of sewers and did general repairs throughout the town. I attended to the crushing of 192 cords of stone, inspected the several plumbing jobs ready at that date, and ploughed and graded several streets.

On the 17th of May I commenced to prepare Lindsay-st., from Glen-elg-st. to the G.T.R., a distance of 1,000 feet by 22 lineal feet wide, for macadamizing, which was completed July 12th. Considerable extra expense was incurred in the building of this road, as it rained fully one-quarter of the time and rendered the condition of the road unfit for work. The sewerage system then received another flushing.

Monday, July 15th I commenced to build granolithic walks, and continued to do so until September 23rd. Tuesday, August 20th was commenced to macadamize King-st., eastward, from Lindsay-st. to a point 150 feet east of St. Paul-st., 800 feet by 30 lineal feet, and completed same Friday, Oct. 4th.

I then filled in that portion of Wellington-st. between William-st. and the bridge, which was necessary owing to the steep grade and the bad condition of the road.

I then built six granolithic crossings at the following places, viz.: Two crossings at Lindsay and Kent-sts., one crossing at Kent and York-sts., one crossing at William and Peel-sts., one crossing at William and Wellington-sts.

I then prepared plans for the new fire hall and built foundation for same. Completed the stone walls of same November 21st.

The remainder of the year has been occupied doing general repairs throughout the town, inspecting plumbing, etc.

Approximate cost of work and material used to date:

Am't spent on good roads $2,689.00

	$2,777.00

Amount of work done under Local Improvement plan is:

Granolithic Walks—One mile and 2,050 lineal feet, or a surface measurement of 68,142 square feet.

Sewers and Cellar Drains—Three miles and 3,109 lineal feet completed, and 3,085 lineal feet now under construction, making a total of 4 miles and 1,195 lineal feet.

There have been three sewer sections completed under my supervision, namely, 23, 24 and 27, and the main of section 25 has been laid complete with the exception of filling in of about 600 feet, which we had to abandon until spring owing to the severity of the weather. Fifteen side drains have been constructed.

Contractor Pitkin has not completed his contract within the specified time mentioned in his contract, but he has been delayed by quicksand, which makes speed impossible. It remains with your honorable body to impose the penalty under the contract, if you deem it necessary.

Cost of the several granolithic walks built by me during the season of 1901 is as follows:

I have constructed the granolithic walks in the best possible manner, and used the best brands of cement that I could buy, and the walks built this year contain one-quarter more cement than any that have been built heretofore. As Lindsay's soil is so very bad for granolithic walks I took extra care in their construction.

The following is a list of the implements and tools at present owned by the town of Lindsay, under my department: 1 road roller, 1 grader, 2 cars, 4 wheel scrapers, 1 mud scraper, 1 road plow, 2 box, 1 push cart, 1 grind stone, 2 sets of cart harness, 1 cant book, 1 crow-bar, 1 draw bar, 4 snow shovels, 3 spades, 2 mattocks, 1 set of stone drills, 2 water pails, 1 adze, 4 hand scrapers, 2 mortar hoes, 1 garden rake, 1 scythe, 2 cross cut saws, 1 manure fork, 1 axe, 2 hammers, 2 oilcloth suits, 3 pairs rubber boots, 4 lanterns, 1 oil can, 2 hand saws, 1 steel square, 2 steel wire brooms, one set of sidewalk implements and tools, comprising 1 oilcloth cover, 100 feet 3-4 inch hose 2 mowing boards, 2 measure boxes 4 square mouth shovels, 3 mowing wheels, 2 cutting knives, 2 iron barrows, 2 slab joiners, 2 water barrels, 1 large gravel screen, 1 large sand screen, 1 sprinkler, 1 axe. Wh el barrows and shovels above referred to are nearly worn out. They will last about one season more. You will observe that I have them charged to proportionately to the granolithic walks.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICS

May Refer Petty Dispute Between Them to Great Britain.

AN ARBITRATION PROTOCOL.

Said to Have Been Signed by Chili and Argentina to Submit Questions Between Them to Great Britain, But the Latter Has Not Yet Any News of Such an Appeal to Her Good Offices.

London, Dec. 24.—The British Government is watching with considerable anxiety the progress of the dispute between the Chilean and Argentine republics. A representative of the Associated Press was informed yesterday that neither side has yet approached the British Foreign Office. If both Chili and Argentina request Great Britain to arbitrate the matters in dispute between them Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, will promptly acquiesce.

The statement, however, of Dr. Alberto, the Argentine Minister of Foreign Affairs, that Argentina has referred the matter to the arbitration of the British Government under the agreement of 1898, appears to be inaccurate, for the Foreign Office says the present contention is quite beyond the powers of that commission. As the Foreign Office understands the case, it is not one of boundary between the two countries, but whether Chili has the right to build neutral roads in the disputed territory. This commission of which Lord MacNaughton is president, has been sitting in London for nearly two years, and is now almost ready to go out and personally inspect the disputed boundaries. For various reasons, however, the departure of this commission has been delayed, and is likely to be delayed for some time to come. The appeal of Dr. Alberto has not yet officially been communicated to the British Foreign Office. When this appeal does reach Downing street, it will meet with the foregoing answer. Although Lord Lansdowne, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, holds that the MacNaughton commission to be powerless, he will intimate the willingness of Great Britain to arbitrate the difficulty between the two countries if Chili agrees to that proposition. Up to a late hour last night neither country concerned had requested Great Britain to take this action.

Opinion in Downing street is that while the cause of the dispute is petty, serious consequences may ensue unless prompt action is taken.

Reported Protocol.

Valparaiso, Dec. 24.—It is reported here that the governments of Argentina and Chili have signed a protocol by which they agree to submit the questions pending between them to the arbitration of Great Britain.

To Explain To-Day.

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 24.—The Chamber of Deputies voted yesterday afternoon to accept the proposal to prohibit the exportation of horses and mules. The Chamber will to-day discuss an interpellation asking that Senor Alcora explain the present status of the Chilean matter.

Woman's Absence Mysterious.

Vancouver, Dec. 24.—Mrs. Grace Powell, a young German woman, living on Seventh avenue, Mount Pleasant, a suburb of Vancouver, has been missing for three days, and is supposed to have been murdered.

On Thursday the woman was at home with her father and was called to the door by a stranger, an unauthorized man, who wanted to sell her some poultry. She agreed to buy and the man said he had the fowls at his place, a short distance away. She threw on her shawl, took her purse, containing $45, and went out, saying that she would be back in a few minutes. Since then she has not been seen.

Killed Five of His Children.

Chartrous, Dec. 24.—After a week's trial, which has attracted the attention of the whole of France, Briere, the farmer of this vicinity who on April 21 murdered four of his daughters, aged respectively, 14, 11, 5 and 4, and his son, 7 years of age, stabbing and beating them to death while they were in bed, was found guilty yesterday and was condemned to be decapitated by the guillotine. Briere persisted in declaring himself innocent.

Peach Crop Ruined.

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 28.—The peach crop of Southwest Michigan, except in the St. Joseph, Lake Huron and Fair Plain districts, has been ruined by the cold wave. This affects 15,000 acres with a yield of 300,000 bushels. Commission men from Chicago have made an investigation and find the reports true.

"Britt, Orun, Rex."

London, Dec. 21.—The new coins to be issued on Jan. 1 will bear the effigy of Edward VII. They will be gold and bronze coins. Silver coins will be struck later. The inscription will be "Britt. Orun, Rex," King of all the Britains.

STEELE TAKES BOERS

Canadian Colonel Surprised a Laager and Captured 32.

ANOTHER CORPS OF BURGHERS.

A Fresh Wing to Operate in the Transvaal—Boer Leaders to Be Elected by the Boers Themselves—Recent Successes of Gen. Bruce Hamilton Aided by Cronje and Celliers.

New York, Dec. 26.—The Daily News prints the following from London: A despatch from Cape Town says: The Boers yesterday celebrated Dingaan's Day at Knarrokop. Gen. De Wet and ex-President Steyn addressed the people. It is reported that both urged a most strenuous revival of activity in the carrying out of the war.

Lord Kitchener reports several engagements antedating his recent reverses. His report reads:

"Mourie and Schell, in the northern district, have reduced Fouche's and Myberg's commandos to about 200 mounted men. Dentink and Doran have driven Kritzinger's remaining followers from the Camdeboo Mountains.

"Commandant Haasbroek was killed on Dec. 16, and his brother, a field cornet, was killed on Dec. 19. "Methuen has captured 37 Boers.

"Col. Steele, on Dec. 18, surprised a laager west of Ramanskraal and took 32 prisoners, including Field Cornet Schoomans.

"Colebrander has captured 62 Boers, including Commandant Adrian Nigel."

ANOTHER BURGER CORPS.

A Fresh Wing to Operate in the Transvaal Colony.

Pretoria, Dec. 26.—The formation of a new burger corps, to be known as National Scouts, has aroused great interest among the surrendered burghers. In view of the numerous meetings and applications, Gen. Lord Kitchener has authorized the creation of a fresh wing to operate in the northern and eastern Transvaal, under prominent Boer leaders, elected by the burghers themselves. It is stated that much of the recent success of the British is due to the co-operation of the Celliers' and Cronje's commands, acting under Gen. Bruce Hamilton.

Damant's Casualties Number 72.

London, Dec. 26.—The list of casualties of Col. Damant's engagement at Tafel Kop, Orange River Colony, Dec. 20, when the Boers, dressed as British yeoman, defeated a Kojie guard, is heavier than first reported by Lord Kitchener. It now appears that the British lost three officers and 29 men killed, and had five officers and 35 men wounded.

Captured Sixty Prisoners.

Pretoria, Dec. 25.—Lieut. Colenbrander's force surprised a Boer laager in the Pietersburg district, Dec. 22 and captured sixty prisoners.

Over 400 Accounted for.

London, Dec. 26.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Johannesburg, dated Monday, Dec. 23, reports the week's results as being 45 Boers killed, 25 wounded, 310 made prisoners, and 35 surrenders.

Asks Arbitration for Boers.

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 26.—Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon's large congregation on Tuesday night unanimously joined the pastor in petitioning Congress to declare for arbitration to stop the Boer war. Rev. Mr. Sheldon is a strong supporter of the Boer cause.

The Yeomanry Hospital.

London, Dec. 26.—Lady Howe has received a telegram from Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel C. R. Kilnelly, C.M.G., Grenadier Guards, informing her that the Imperial Yeomanry Hospital at Elandsfontein will be transferred to the authorities on Dec. 28, and that the medical officers, sisters, and other members of the staff will return to England by the first available transport.

THEY LEAVE TO-DAY.

Twenty-Five More Men Sworn in for the Third Contingent.

Toronto, Dec. 26.—Twenty-five men were sworn in Tuesday in the second draft for the third contingent to South Africa. Seven others passed the medical examination, and will be given the riding test this morning. The remaining five will be chosen and sworn in. The thirty men will parade at the Armouries at 10 o'clock a.m., and again at 8 o'clock p.m., to-day, under the charge of Lieut. Brunton of the 12th York Rangers, will leave on the 10 o'clock p.m. express for Halifax.

Extra Men Chosen.

St. John's, N.B., Dec. 26.—The 10 extra men of St. John's quota for the South African force were selected yesterday. They left last night.

Prayer for Soldiers' Success.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—At the Christmas union service of the congregation of Dominion and Eastern Methodist Churches, special prayer was offered for the success of British arms in South Africa and the welfare of Canadian soldiers in the field.

Freight Trains Collide.

Halifax, Dec. 26.—Two freight trains collided at Brookfield, N.S., Tuesday. The engineer of the fast freight train was disabled and the special train was completely wrecked. One car was laden with deal, which were burned, they having been set on fire by an overturned stove. The train hands escaped injury.

War on Pirates.

Hong Kong, Dec. 27.—The Viceroy of Canton has decided to provide a flotilla of river gunboats manned by European troops to suppress piracy in Kwantung waters. The British Vice-Admiral Sir Cyrran Bridge strongly urged him to take this action. The Viceroy is outstaying foreigners and has placed two torpedo boats in commission.

STONED NEGRO GIRLS.

Cause of Savage Street Fight Between Negroes and Whites in New York—A Policeman Injured.

New York, Dec. 26.—A race riot which broke out in Harlem yesterday on West 13th street, became almost a battle between negroes and whites in the open street, the negroes being armed with revolvers and other weapons, and the whites with stones. There were 100 fighters on each side. The negroes beat the whites, but were driven back into their tenements by the police after they had charged out on the whites with pistols and razors. Fourteen negroes were arrested. Four whites, including a policeman, were badly shot or cut. The rioting was begun by some white boys stoning two colored girls, who were going to their homes. The girls told their friends and a dozen negroes chased the white boys, boxed their ears, and struck several of them in the faces. The boys ran away and told some white men, who returned and stoned the negroes. More men joined the first band, and all attacked the negroes. The negroes armed themselves with revolvers, sticks, bricks, stones, razors and other weapons. In the fight at close quarters, the negroes dashed into the street, 100 feet long, slashing right and left. The whites resisted with clubs. At this point, a squad of policemen arrived on the scene and stopped the rioting.

GERMAN EXPORTS DECLINE.

For the First Time This Year They Show a Falling Off.

Berlin, Dec. 26.—The official statistics of Germany's foreign trade for the month of November show a decline in exports for the first time during the present year. This decline amounts to 60,130 tons. During the same month Germany's imports declined 465,535 tons. The totals for the month of November were: Imports, 3,642,042 tons, and exports, 2,909,855 tons.

The imports of wheat for the eleven months ending with November were 1,960,496 tons, as against 1,206,065 tons for the same eleven months of 1900. During the first eleven months of this year the wheat imported from the United States amounted to 1,143,375 tons. This total nearly equals the import of wheat into Germany from all other countries in 1900.

Change German Tariff.

Berlin, Dec. 26.—The Government, yielding to Russia's attitude regarding the tariff bill, will propose, when the committee having the matter in charge meets, that the minimum grain duties be stricken out. These minimum duties were put in through the influence of the Agrarians.

MARCONI'S MOVEMENTS.

Will Arrive at Sydney To-day and Leave for Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—Hon. W. S. Fielding has received a telegram definitely announcing Mr. Marconi's intention to visit Ottawa. According to the Minister's advice Marconi will arrive in Sydney this morning and leave immediately by Intercolonial for Montreal and Ottawa.

May Use Marconi System.

New York, Dec. 26.—In accordance with orders issued from the Navy Department the 55 carrier pigeons at the Brooklyn Navy Yard will be offered for sale on Dec. 30. Circulars have been issued which may be filled in and filed with Rear Admiral Barker by those who wish to bid. Admiral Barker says that the sale of the pigeons means that the Navy Department has decided to use wireless telegraphy hereafter in communication between the various ships and the mainland.

Cecil Rhodes Buys an Estate.

London, Dec. 26.—Mr. Cecil Rhodes, managing director of the British South African Company, has just purchased for about £100,000 ($500,000), the Dalham Hall estate, near Newmarket, which includes an imposing residence, built in 1704, by a Bishop of Ely, and 3,475 acres of fine shooting. The Dalham estate has been for two centuries in the possession of the Affect family, and is now the residence of Sir Robert Affect.

Swarms of Locusts.

Santa Cruz, Dec. 26.—During the past week the Canary Islands have been visited by a plague of locusts, coming on a southwest gale from the coast of Africa. There are millions of insects in the huge swarms, which absolutely darken the sky. There is much alarm for the crops, and on one farm the locusts demolished 30,000 young tomato plants, mostly for the English market, in about five minutes.

A Train Burst Up.

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 26.—The Missouri, Kansas and Texas northbound passenger train, due in Dallas at 11.20 o'clock Tuesday night, was wrecked, and almost completely burned six miles south of here, just before midnight. Three passengers were injured, but no one was killed. The baggage, express and mail cars were saved.

See Kills His Father.

Brazil, Ind., Dec. 26.—In defending his mother from an assault by her drink-crazed husband, Theodore Watkins, colored, 18 years old, shot and killed his father, Richard Watkins, last night, at their home here. The boy says he shot his father to keep him from killing his mother. He insisted he was justified in the shooting.

Pugh Is Guilty.

Barrie, Dec. 26.—Tuesday Judge Ardagh gave a verdict of guilty in the case of Frank Pugh, who was charged with shooting to do grievous bodily injury. Pugh attempted to shoot Mrs. Reed of Ard

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Barham spent the Christmas holidays in town.

Mr. Robt. Fair and Miss Helen Fair, Peterboro, spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fair.

The entertainment given by Mr. Halpenny, of Toronto, Miss Florence Hall, of Peterboro, and Mr. Eckbert, Toronto, in the town hall on Christmas night was well attended. The concert was in aid of the Presbyterian church and the proceeds amounted to a goodly sum. Miss Hall possesses a strong voice and a delightful audience with her various selections. Messrs. Halpenny and Eckbert were also well received.

A quiet home wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. Sam. Eakins on Christmas day when her daughter, Edwina, was united in marriage with Mr. Arthur Mulligan, of Siderk. The bride wore a lovely gown of white silk, and was attended by her cousin, Miss May Eakins, of Peterboro. Mr. Fred Mulligan, of P. train, assisted the groom. The bride's going away dress was of grey cloth with black veil. Last night the train and Mrs. Mulligan left by the evening train for Toronto, and will afterwards reside in Siderk.

Miss Blanche Webster, of Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, and Mr. Wilson Webster, of Oakville, have been the guests of the Messrs. Thomson during the past week.

The Sunday School and literary services in the Methodist church were very successful. Rev. Mr. Lancelotti, of Port Hope, preached at the morning service. In the evening platform addresses were given by Messrs. Lancelotti and Kenney. Mr. Geo. Anderson, of Cobourg, sang at both services and his selections were much appreciated.

Mr. Herbert Eakins, of Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. Geo. Anderson, of Cobourg, who sang at the Methodist church last Sunday, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thomson during his stay in town.

LIFORD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

G. W. Peters, of Salem, is home for his Christmas holidays.

J. Shea and wife, of Lindsay, passed through our village on Christmas day.

Miss Maguire is visiting friends at Stratford.

The pupils of S.S. No. 5, Manvers, on the last day of school presented their teacher, Mr. Mitchell, with a handsome pair of fur gauntlets and the following address: Dear Teacher, We, your pupils, desire to express our feelings of gladness that you are to remain with us as our teacher for another year. During the last five years your never-failing attention to your duties and the interest you have taken in us as pupils has been a source of much consolation to us and to our families we represent. We desire to express our gratitude to you as our teacher (our whose fitness could not be doubted, and whose position will seldom, if ever, be filled by one so competent.) As a token of our gratitude to you we beg you will accept these gauntlets. The gift only expresses in a small degree our appreciation of what you have done in the past. In conclusion we tender you our best wishes for a happy and prosperous future with hopes that whenever you may sever your connection with us you may be attended with prosperity where you go.

Signed on behalf of the pupils, E. Stables, E. Mulligan, M. Staples, A. Davis. Mr. Mitchell replied in a few well chosen words and the school was closed for the year.

OPS.

(Special to The Post.)

On Monday evening, Dec. 30th, the teacher and pupils of S.S. No. 9, Ops, gave an entertainment in the school-house which was very largely attended by the people of the section and surrounding communities. The school room was a fine appearance, being very prettily decorated with all greens, autumn leaves, flags and colored crayon drawings. The good order of the children was remarkable by many, which reflects great credit on the excellent training the children have received during the time Miss McNeill has been with them. The chair was ably filled by Mr. Dawson, while Miss Florence Hall performed the duties of organist. The very interesting program was much appreciated, and to make special mention of any of the different parts would be difficult, as all did exceedingly well. The address by Mr. J. N. Moffatt on his experiences in South Africa during the war was delivered in his usual pleasing style. Mr. Moffatt was formerly a teacher in this school. Towards the close of the evening Miss McNeill was surprised by being called to the platform, when Miss Janet McNeyan and Miss Edith Fair read an address and presented her with a letter portfolio and china tea-pot on behalf of the school. They took this opportunity of expressing their high appreciation of her services and regret at her departure, as she had proved herself an efficient teacher and true friend. Although taken completely by surprise Miss McNeill replied in a pleasing manner. The teacher and pupils also congratulated on the success of their entertainment.

COBONCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The S. S. concert and Christmas tree in connection with the Methodist church on the 22nd ult. was a pronounced success. The program consisted of songs, recitations and dialogues. The secretary's report showed the school to be in a prosperous condition, numerically and financially. The proceeds of distributing the two trees was deeply interesting to the children and others. The school gave prizes to all pupils who had attended forty Sundays in the year. The Superintendent, Mr. T. C. Birchard, received a beautiful pair of fur gauntlets, the gift of the school. The proceeds, which exceeded those of last year, go for literature for the school.

On Saturday evening last Mr. William Holland, one of our most estimable citizens, breathed his last. His remains were taken by train to Oakville on Monday for interment. Mr. Holland was an ex-bank manager, and was widely known and respected. During his life he had acted as bank manager in many of the most prominent towns in the province. His sorrowing family have the sympathy of the entire community in their irreparable loss.

Miss A. L. Thyer spent her holidays at Lindsay and Little Britain. Miss Emma Dodd, Toronto, visited the parental home and many friends here last week.

Mr. H. Flanagan, a former citizen, spent the last two weeks here.

Mr. H. Donohy visited relatives in Toronto last week.

Mr. H. Stephens gladdened old friends for a few days last week by his presence.

Mr. J. H. Reist is visiting relatives in Niagara district.

DALRYMPLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Christmas tree in the Methodist church Tuesday evening, 24th, was a grand success. The church was crowded. The speeches, readings, recitations and singing were grand, and then the unloading of the tree by Santa Claus was enjoyed so much. At the close Miss Julia Jernett, organist, was presented with a handsome album and set of glass dishes by the congregation.

We are pleased to welcome our old neighbor, Mr. W. Flaws, back among us again. He has been in the North-west 12 years. He is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Jernett.

Mr. Percy Chrysler is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. C. Ray, in Lindsay.

Mrs. Graham and son, of Manchester, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Graham.

MILLERSMITH-EMILY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The residence of Mr. John McMillan was the scene of a grand wedding on Christmas day, when his daughter, Katie, was united in marriage to James Alexander Elliott, son of Mr. James Elliott, by the Rev. Bryce Inglis, of Bobcaygeon. The bride, who was attired in a robe of lawn, trimmed with applique and white satin, and wearing a bridal veil and orange blossoms, was assisted by Miss Lila Walsh, of Rochester, dressed in a suit of tulle blue, trimmed with white silk. The groom was ably supported by his brother Hugh. The ceremony, which took place at 6 a.m., was withal by over thirty couples. After the usual congratulations on such occasions supper was served in right royal style, and then all proceeded to enjoy themselves for the remainder of the evening. The presents, which were numerous and costly, showed the very high esteem in which the young couple were held. All join in wishing them a long, happy and successful voyage through life.

OAKWOOD.

(Special to The Post.)

I wish to add a few words to the few lines that have already appeared in The Post referring to the death of the late Mrs. D. King. Mrs. King was born in Whitechurch, near Newmarket, and was married there in 1836, removing at once to Mr. King's present home, commencing life in a shanty standing a little north of the present residence, helping with all patience and industry to support the family. The writer remembers helping them at harvest time about ten years later a couple of days, himself and two others following two good men with cradles all day, and keeping up, and Mrs. K. setting up shocks. Mr. and Mrs. King were not fishers, but got along well. Mrs. King being a good house-keeper and cook.

It is too bad that we have to have another contest with the liquor men. The defeats already given ought to be enough. Do they think we forget St. Paul's admonition to the Galatians in the 7th chapter, "Be not deceived. God is not mocked; what ye sow ye shall also reap." We must not forget to help to resist bad causes and help good ones.

KIRKFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Wood and son, of Toronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wood during holidays.

Mr. A. C. Mackenzie, formerly of this place, but now of Wundip, paid his many friends here a flying visit last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Mackenzie and Mr. Alex. Mackenzie, of Toronto, visited friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mitchell were the host and hostess of a very pleasant dinner party last Saturday evening, given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wood, of Toronto. The dining room was artistically decorated with the wreaths of evergreens and holly, while the table was made prettily with vases of flowers and sprays of holly. Covers were laid for fourteen.

Mr. Dennon, of Cleveland, spent Christmas with friends here.

Mr. Jas. Campbell, of Michigan, is visiting his brother, Mr. Hector Campbell, of this town.

Among the students home for holidays are Miss Sidie Mackenzie, of Toronto University, Miss Ethel Mitchell, of Loretta Abbey, Miss Bell Mitchell, of St. Monica's, Toronto, Miss Wheelwright, of Hergal Hall, Miss Bell Campbell, of Port Perry, and Master Will Mackenzie, of Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosgrove gave a "Children's Fancy Dress Party" on Christmas eve. A prettily decorated Christmas tree stood in the alcove in the dining-room, from which each child received his gift. The number of the children were very pretty. The evening passed away all too quickly for the merry little folks.

At the closing exercises of the schools here on Friday, Dec. 20th, the Junior teacher, Miss Burling, who has resigned to attend the 3rd year, was presented with an address and handsome gold bracelet by her pupils. A number of visitors were present, who enjoyed the program prepared for their entertainment. Apart from her long and successful career, Miss Burling has many warm friends here who regret her departure.

Mr. Billingsley, our popular G. T. R. agent, left last week for Galveston, Texas, on a well-earned holiday of three weeks. Mrs. Billingsley accompanied her husband as far as Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargis, of Cobourg, spent Christmas with friends here. Fox hunting is the chief sport just now, and our local sportsmen have been successful in securing a goodly number.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The son of ex-Councillor John Boyd has returned from the North-west Territories, where he has been living for many years. He looks well and speaks highly of that great country.

Foreign missions was the subject of Rev. Mr. Kammaw's discourse last Sabbath. Is there not great need for home mission work when we read of a so-called lady training a pig to be a Christian and treating it in all respects like a human being?

In Saturday's World we noticed "Zionist Congress," a thousand delegates meet to discuss return to Palestine. Representatives were present at Basel from every important country of the world, with the exception of Australia. The Sultan expressed his sympathy with the movement and he considered the Hebrews to be desirable colonists, and has declared himself their friend. This national colonization may succeed; prophecy points to the fact of their return to their own land. This movement may be the beginning of it.

This town has been highly favored by the Postmaster-General opening a money order office. This and the issuing of postal notes is a great boon for our people. The 2c. postage rate on letters, for which the Hon. Wm. Mulock deserves great praise, is a benefit to the world and an increase to the postal revenue. We look for further much-needed improvements in connection with post office matters, as there is still room for advancement along this line.

Ops Township Nominations

REEVE McLEAN RE-ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION.

Seven Candidates in the Field for the Council.

The nomination meeting at the Ops township hall Monday was largely attended. During the prescribed hour from one to two o'clock, the following persons were duly nominated, namely:

For Reeve—Jas. McLean, John Thos. Curries and David Walker.

For Councillors—Jas. Fox, Robert J. Patterson, John Slaggett, Willard Curtis, Jas. Byrne, Peter Hawkins, Walter Arksey, Wm. Best, Thos. Hickson and S. Coulter.

At the close of the nominations the clerk read the list of nominees and Mr. J. H. Hopkins was appointed chairman. After acknowledging the honor done him the chairman said he would first call on the old council to address the electors, then on the new aspirants in order of nomination.

Reeve McLean gave a lucid and comprehensive explanation of the work of the year, beginning with the appropriations made and how they were expended. He compared the financial condition of the township with last year and showed that the report of the treasurer, ending as it did on the 16th of Dec., could not show the balance of cash on hand at the close of the year, as many of the accounts of the year cannot be paid until the end of December of every year; thus some of the accounts of one year are occasionally presented for payment until the new council take office. Mr. McLean then gave his reasons for opposing the county road scheme. It was because of the subdivision of the government grant on the basis of acreage, which he contended would place the burden of taxation on the front townships. He explained the railway tax difficulty and justified the council in levying this year and for the next two years, after which, if the road be not built, all the money paid will be refunded. He was of opinion that councillors should not be Bond Commissioners and that the old statute labor system should be abolished and a reasonable commutation levied instead, and two or three Commissioners—responsible to the council—be appointed to keep the roads in repair. Mr. McLean's address was well received and the old hall reverberated with applause as he took his seat.

Mr. Byrne was next called on, and to the surprise and regret of the electors he declined to accept office for 1902, being unable to spare the time. He thanked the electors for their support in the past. The Reeve, with the permission of the chair, urged Mr. Byrne to be a candidate as his experience would be beneficial to the township, but Mr. Byrne declined.

Messrs. Hawkins, Hickson and Slaggett then explained how they had expended their appropriations, said they were willing to serve the township another year, and solicited the support of the electors.

Mr. Curries said he did not expect to be honored by nomination to the reeve-ship, but being assessor he was disqualified. While he deemed Mr. McLean a good reeve he differed in opinion from him on the statute labor question and thought that Ops was not yet prepared to abolish it. He thought that in many read divisions excellent work was done by statute labor every year.

Mr. David Walker—than whom none is more familiar with township business—next addressed the meeting in a happy, humorous manner. He was much pleased to see the lamb and the lion lie down together. Capt. Hunter, who had always been his opponent, had just nominated him for reeve, an office he had filled in the past to the satisfaction of all. He thanked his proposer and second but would defer being a candidate until next fall, when, health permitting, he would be a candidate for the County Council and would then have the honor of addressing the electors of East Ops.

The new candidates, Messrs. Patterson, Arksey, Best and Coulter, then addressed the meeting in turn, saying they were at the disposal of the electors and if elected to the council would endeavor to serve the township to the best of their ability.

The following names will appear on the ballot, Jan. 6th: Arksey, Walter; Coulter, Samuel; Hawkins, Peter; Slaggett, John; Best, William; Hickson, Thos; Patterson, Robt. J.

The question now is, "Who will be the chosen four?"

The meeting closed shortly after three o'clock without a word being uttered to mar the harmony of the proceedings.

COMMUNICATIONS

Misstatement Corrected.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—In the interest of my client, Mr. Vincent Penrose, I feel it my duty to draw your attention to an error in the report of the investigation which appeared in an Orilla paper and which was embodied in your report on Saturday, the 28th. The facts are that Penrose did not leave Severn till 3 o'clock in the afternoon the next day, and that he instituted a search for Miller early in the morning. He was not placed under arrest, the Crown only requiring security that he appear as a witness. In fact all the evidence, as already stated, showed clearly there could be no suspicion attach to the young man. Thanking you for the space in your paper, I am yours, etc.,

M. J. KENNY.

CHAPTER XVII.

When Larry finds himself under the railway carriage he has already mapped out the course he means to pursue. The other side of the train is partly in darkness, and consequently this must be his line of advance in the direction of the locomotive.

He pursues it, at times hiding in order to screen himself from observation, but all the while drawing nearer the head of the train, that pulsating engine, panting there as if eager to continue its onward race.

Once a man confronts the duke—he seems to be desirous of hitting him, perhaps recognising Larry as one of the party against whom the animosity of the Carlists is aroused; but the tourist is in a hurry, and cannot stop to satisfy the curiosity of this fellow—the clamour that arises from the rear announces that the battle is on, and seconds are precious. When the attempt to use force, Larry gives him the benefit of the weapon he carries, and presses on toward his goal, the puffing motor.

More than once he is delayed by being compelled to hide, so that minutes elapse before he finds himself in the vicinity of the engine.

The panic is now on, and Larry wonders what causes it, as he has not understood the cry raised by Mercedes in advancing. It ceases, and once more the metes begins, but, thank heaven, he is now beside the locomotive.

In appearance it differs from those he is in the habit of seeing in America, but they all work on the same principle, and, if necessary, Larry is ready to set the lever and open the throttle himself.

The engine-driver is in the cab, but has his head out, interested in what is going on. If the mob is about to burn the rear carriage, some one had better uncouple it from the rest, and let him pull them off to a point of safety.

He is just telling a train man this when he feels a clutch on his arm, turns around, and looks into Larry's revolver. The desperate duke never appeared so big to any one in all his life as he does in the eyes of the astonished engine-driver—the fact of his holding a loaded revolver may have something to do with it.

"Start the train ahead!" snaps Larry. His look and the tone of his voice cannot be mistaken even if the other does not understand the words used. The man makes a gesture, and in broken English stammers that he dares not start without orders.

"There is your order—start the train," roars the irate duke, thrusting the revolver into the other's face, and pointing to the throttle.

The man looks him over as if to size him up—there is something he does not like about the diminutive New Yorker, and perhaps he sees death in his eye—at any rate, he turns suddenly around, grasps lever and throttle, throws the one into place, and opens the other cautiously.

As the train moves, a shout arises without—men run frantically toward the engine, and Larry stands ready to shoot the first one who tries to come aboard.

"Faster—open the throttle, man!" and he gives the driver's arm a jerk—the throttle is thrown open, and with a jump the train begins to gather headway.

It is too late now to unfasten the last car—no one can do it, for most of the shouting Carlists are left behind, and a few who still cling to the cars are dropping off in great terror lest they be carried off, and fall into the hands of the government forces.

Larry beams with triumph, but he knows it is too early to crow—not for a moment does he relax his vigilance, for he has become assured that the engine-driver is a Carlist and may play a trick yet.

As time the blazing fire is left behind—they are plunging along in the darkness of the valley, only the stars as guides, but the bells hold the iron horse on his way, and all is well.

Every mile passed over makes them so much farther away from their enemies.

where they take a new course, and head almost north, for distant Bayonne and Bordeaux.

At this place there will be lights, engines, people, and the motor will be changed. They are behind time, but they present speed will make up what was lost if no accident occurs.

So Larry must possess his soul in patience, and wait—it will not be for long. The swaying of the locomotive is dreadful to one unaccustomed to it, and many a time Larry is thrilled to the heart as he imagines the massive piece of mechanism about to topple over; but mile after mile is placed behind, and as yet everything seems safe.

On the right he can see the stars glimmering on the bosom of the flowing Ebro, and which river they must cross at the junction. When he sees the engine-driver raise his hand and pull the whistle-cord, he knows they are approaching the place where he can be relieved from guard duty and look up his friends.

Lights are shining ahead now, and it is evident they are nearing the point where the trains meet. Their pace becomes slower, and at length they come to a halt. Signs of bustle abound, and Larry even imagines it resembles in a degree an American station.

He leaves the driver to his own devices, and leaping to the ground, hurries back along the side of the train, anxious to ascertain what has become of his friends. On the way he runs into some one whom he has not noticed.

"Don't onah! you must pardon me, but—"

"Larry! Great Scott!" is shouted in his ear, and he feels himself lifted bodily from the ground by the strong arms of Doctor Jack, who is as delighted to find his friend as though the duke were a long-lost brother.

Together they walk to the carriage, where they find things in their normal condition, and the two ladies looking out of the window. Larry is warmly greeted by both of them, who look upon the little duke as a hero, although Avis can never place him in the same class with the man she saw holding the mob at bay.

As they can force, their troubles of the journey are now over. True, Don Carlos and the pasha are probably on the train, and Doctor Jack remembers having seen Pedro Yaquez, the intruder, in their company, but it does not seem probable that they will be able to do any more mischief on the road to Paris, however, much they may accomplish later.

Soon they are once more on the move, and it is nearly midnight, and until early dawn they will creep northward. With the early morning they may expect to see the green waters of the magnificent Bay of Biscay on their left as they advance upon Bayonne.

The railroad approaches the coast, because in this way the great mountain wall of the Pyrenees is avoided in passing over to France. Besides, there are cities of considerable importance that need to be visited.

him sober while on the train, even after all troubles seemed to have been brushed aside, and ever since the idea has remained with him.

By degrees a plan has been evolved, and Doctor Jack becomes more sociable, since he has solved the enigma. He spends the rest of the day with his friends, and goes to the theatre at night—Patti or some song bird at the Grand Opera House, and our friends enjoy the sights and sounds that greet them here.

It is after midnight when they return to the hotel, somewhat weary. Doctor Jack finds a chance to whisper to the driver in French:—"Wait—I have further need of your services."

The man winks one eye, as though he understands—he is an old hand, and on many an occasion has taken the head of a family or the male members of a tourist party to the Pasha's Mabille after the regular performances at the standard theatres are over.

Doctor Jack sees his friends into the hotel, bids them all good-night, and, as they believe, retires, but he has work to do this night. Three minutes later he emerges from the hotel, and comes upon the driver pacing up and down. Jack can chatter in French like a native.

"I am ready, driver," entering the vehicle.

"Where will monsieur go?" asks the man, with a leer, closing the door—the glass is down.

"To the office of the prefect of police," comes the astounding answer.

"Le diable!" ejaculates the Jehu, staggering back, then it is not to the Minister's gardens?"

"You have my orders—drive on."

"Out, monsieur!" Scrambling to his seat, his mouth is in a pucker as of a man trying to whistle, but unable to make a sound, until several blocks have been passed over.

There probably does not live a Jehu in New York who does not know where the mayor's office is, since they get their licenses there. In Paris every driver can tell you exactly where the prefect of police may be found—even the daily habits of this high and mighty functionary are well known to them.

Hence it is that Jack's driver has no difficulty in taking his patron to the building where he will be apt to find the head of the greatest police force of modern times at work—for the prefect of police has a holiday very seldom, and at certain hours is always to be found in his office.

Jack knows himself where he is going—he has not spent weeks and even months in Paris without learning a few things, though as yet it has never been his fortune to meet the prefect of police save in a social way.

Leaving his vehicle in a quiet street, he enters a door that belongs to no public house, and is one of the private ways for reaching the elevated office of the head officer.

On the way he passes two quiet men who look at him closely, and then silently bow, pointing onward. In this manner he finally reaches an ante-room, where he finds several officers gathered—they look like the aids of a general waiting either to deliver reports or receive orders, which is really the case. One of them steps forward, looks him in the face, and says:

"You are Doctor Evans?"

"Yes, I would see the prefect," replies Jack.

"He is expecting you—pass through yonder door, and you will find him," is the astounding answer Doctor Jack receives he can hardly believe his ears, for not to a single soul has he mentioned his intentions with regard to paying a visit to this place—surely the secret police of Paris must have supernatural power to be able to read one's very thoughts.

Filled with wonder and awe—he is not the first one who has been thus amazed by the power of these men—Jack does as directed, opens a door, and enters a room, where he finds the prefect engaged in writing.

"One moment, Doctor Jack," calls the officer, never raising his eyes from his work, and the American has another shock.

His coming is known, just as though he were some high official, and his business of a great public importance, instead of a private affair, interesting to few besides himself.

He watches the prefect, notes the high character and shrewdness of the man as indicated by his countenance, and wonders what success he has here, for the mission that has taken Doctor Jack to the office of the prefect of police is something of a haphazard one, and he cannot even wager on the result, but depends in a great measure on his luck to take him through.

As he enters the room, and the paper is handed to him with a few low words—the man makes a military salute, and is gone.

"Now, Monsieur Jack, I am at liberty to pay attention to you. If I mistake not you come here to tell me a story and ask a favour."

"Monsieur, it is apparent to me, from what I have seen and heard, that much of my story is already known to you," remarks Jack, at which the prefect smiles and answers:—"Our system is much the same as under the regime of Napoleon. We watch our borders, scan the passports of all strangers, and make it our business to find out who they are, whether they came from, and why they enter France. The moment you set foot on French territories enquiries begin to be made, and as a result I know much about you—something I know when you were here before, but since then Doctor Jack has seen strange things. I have half an hour to spare—it happens to be a lax time with me. If it pleases you, I would like to hear your story."

It does please Jack immensely—he sees he has a splendid opportunity to gain his point, and anxious not to lose it, begins. First of all he tells of the adventure in Constantinople, and as all the world loves a lover, especially a Frenchman, he soon sees that Monsieur le Prefect is interested in Aleck Morton.

Then he skips to Paris, and relates the event that has had so strong a bearing on his late career in Spain, his looking in upon a secret council of Carlists in company with the Duke Arroyo. After this he goes to the Pyrenees, and tells of the bear hunt in company with Don Carlos. Then comes the visit to Barcelona, the flower girl, struggle in the street, and the mystery of the nun who nursed him.

Jack speaks modestly of his own share in these events—he never could be a booster, and is apt to make the description of a scene too tame because of his extreme diffidence.

Rapidly he sketched his advent in Madrid, the meeting with Mercedes, and the bull-fight. Then comes the little affair in the Museo del Prado, a mention of Avila, and the fact that she is the sister of his friend Aleck, in captivity among the Turks. He lightly describes all that took place in Madrid, and then reaches the railroad journey toward Paris, dwelling on the heroism of Larry while just mentioning the fact that he had a little excitement in keeping back the mob of Carlists meanwhile.

When he finishes, to his surprise, this wonderful French official, who has the interests of the whole republic in his keeping, reaches out and shakes hands with him most heartily.

"Mon Dieu! I love such a man as you, Doctor Jack—you are brave, and you would conceal it. Better and better—the brave are always modest. But you cannot expect to keep this light hidden under a bushel. Our Parisian papers published a long account of the grand bull-fight, telling all the particulars of your heroism. Ah! my good man, Doctor Jack, of twenty-four hours was the hero of Paris—every American was proud that you belonged to New York. As for the little affair beyond Logrono—I have had a full account of it from a secret agent who was in the next compartment to yours, and I am proud to know the man who performed such prodigies of valour during that night."

Jack turns very red in the face—he knows the prefect not only has comprehended his idea of the past, but must guess his secret of the future—even his love for Avila. He keeps in mind what has brought him here—does the wonderful official know this?

"Monsieur, I came here to ask a favour," he says, and, as he expects, the other smiles.

"I can guess it, Doctor Jack. You would have me assist you by detailing the page."

"I may be asking too much—" begins Jack when the other interrupts him.

"As a man, I would assist you with every pleasure in the world—as the prefect of police in the city of Paris, I must be more cautious. True, France and America, sister republics, are joined hand in hand in ties that I trust shall never be broken; but we are also at peace with Turkey, and it would be a serious matter to offend officially on so high an authority as Abdallah Pasha—complications have arisen from even a smaller thing than that, which have threatened the peace of all Europe."

"Not for the world would I cause you trouble, Monsieur le Prefect. I was foolish to think you could give me assistance, not that I shall ever doubt your goodness of heart, but I see now more clearly that you have an official character to sustain."

Doctor Jack reaches out his hand for his hat, as if to go, when the other lays a finger on his arm, looks into his face, and says:—"Patience, Doctor Jack. I have still ten minutes left, and we may find a way out of this trouble yet."

CHAPTER XVIII.

His words give the American new hope, and he once more settles down to listen to the man who can help him so much.

"How long would you have the Pasha detained?" asks the Frenchman.

"One day would be good—two better," is the quick reply of Doctor Jack.

"We shall see. I have a plan whereby I think it can be done, without committing any official act which could be reported to his government. He might fall into the power of a secret clique, and thus long defied our most careful scrutiny. They have even held one man for ransom, and received it, too, right here in Paris."

"It seems incredible," gasps Jack—the power of the police has appeared so tremendous to him that he cannot conceive of any men defying their utmost endeavours, and working such a game even in the heart of the French capital.

"Nevertheless it is true. Only lately we discovered that the gang had its headquarters—where do you think?—in the catacomb sewers under the city. We have broken them up, but still factions might and probably do exist. Now, it would not be strange for some of these men to capture Abdallah Pasha, convey him to a hiding-place in the sewers, and hold him there for ransom several days."

"Jack stops at this discovery, and the look on his face shows his pleasure."

"You will put me into communication with the man who will arrange this?" he cries.

"Immediately. You will find him in the room that door leads to. Tell him just what you want done, and leave the money in his hands to pay his men for their trouble. As for myself, you understand I am to know nothing of the matter. Monsieur Duprez will do all you ask him when you give this sign from me." Here the officer takes Jack's hand, and as he presses it allows one finger to rest on the other's wrist—it is a secret grip, and possesses a significance.

"A thousand thanks—I will never forget your kindness," murmurs the American, rising.

"I have done nothing—you must not even think otherwise. But I admire a brave man always," replies the other.

Doctor Jack comprehends exactly what this is intended to convey—he salutes the prefect, and moves toward the door indicated. Opening this, he finds himself in another room, where a little man, with a face very much like that of the first Napoleon, strides up and down, his hands behind his back.

He nods pleasantly to an American, who does not forget to advance and shake hands with him, in order that he may make use of the secret grip, which is warmly returned.

"You know who Abdallah Pasha is, and where he stops in Paris?"—Jack strikes from the shoulder, as is generally his way.

"Yes, Monsieur Evans, The Turk has purchased tickets for the morning train—he means to leave Paris on the train—twenty," returns the little man with the sunken face.

"The duke! he would steal a march on me. Whatever is done to detain him, then, must be carried out in the next few hours."

"To have him kept in Paris two days—three if it is possible. That will give us a fair start—he cannot overtake us."

"Have you any plan, Monsieur?"

"Yes, and a good one, too, thanks to the other fellows warningly, and Jack adds—the inventive powers of the human brain."

He proceeds to tell Monsieur Duprez about the secret clique that has long baffled the police of Paris, and the other listens quietly, just as if he has not lain awake many a night endeavouring to concoct ways and means of discovering where this gang held forth.

All is soon arranged—Monsieur Duprez is guarded in his promises, but Jack has faith in the man, and knows he will do even more than he says, so he hands over a comfortable roll of bills, and bids the other good-night.

"The way, please, we will not disturb Monsieur le Prefect again—he is probably busy," and the sub-lieutenant opens a door, shows Jack a flight of steps, at the bottom of which is a door, and this, as he opens it, takes him to the street.

All that has happened in the last half hour has seemed like a dream—he looks up at the sombre houses as though he can hardly believe his senses, but not ten yards away is the vehicle that brought him there.

Jack laughs softly to himself at the success of his midnight venture, and walks toward the carriage—he has done his part well, and there is little reason to believe those who have been entrusted with the rest will fail in their mission. Nearly five hours still remain before morning, and great things can be done in that time.

Reaching the vehicle, he finds his man inside fast asleep, but he is soon aroused, and mounts his box, wondering, of course, what the American traveller can have in common with the prefect of the police that he should visit that high functionary at such an hour.

So Jack finally reaches his hotel again, and retires to snatch a few hours' sleep—he expects to be on the road with the morning, and after that rest will be a stranger to him most of the time.

In his portmanteau he has a diminutive clock, which he carries with him always. The alarm he sets for seven, as he desires to get the others up, and everything ready. It was the intention of the Pasha to take the nine-twenty express out of Paris—Jack and his party will board the train early, with a double object in view, the first part of which is the fact that they cannot leave Paris earlier, and then again it will be easy to learn whether the trap has been sprung. If Abdallah Pasha does not show up at the station for that train, Jack is ready to accept the offer as settled that the Turk is at that moment held in duress, and by a remnant of the once famous catacomb clique, who demand for his release a heavy ransom, and will be in no great hurry to collect it, possibly giving him a chance to escape after several days.

Jack throws himself on the bed only partially disrobed, and in three minutes is fast asleep—such is the severe strain that has been of late upon his nervous system that he tosses about considerably, but does not once awaken until the faithful little clock, placed close to his head, rings out its silvery summons.

At the first note of alarm Jack sits up, rubs his eyes, notes the time, for the gas, though turned low, has been kept burning, and then stretching, proceeds to dash some cold water in his face to chase the drowsiness away.

Upon raising the curtain a little later he finds it is broad daylight. The sun has failed to show himself, as clouds hang low, threatening a deluge at any moment.

When Jack has dressed and completed his packing, his next move is to accise the others.

A few words with Larry is enough to let him know what the game is, and in turn he communicates it to the ladies, who have the room adjoining his, with a door between.

Meanwhile Doctor Jack goes below, and hires a vehicle, to take them all to the station in good time for the nine-twenty train east.

Then he waits around until Larry appears, of course inquisitive concerning the reason of this unexpected move, for when they separated on the preceding night there was nothing said about leaving Paris in the morning.

Jack soon tells the story, and is complimented by the duke on his forethought—he does not even smile while Larry speaks, although chuckling inwardly at the queer conceit.

Then the ladies appear, and Jack is dazzled by the bright smile of Avis Morton. How bewitching she looks! no wonder the Turk has been smitten by such a bright face and beautiful figure—Jack feels as though he himself would go through fire and flood in order to win her.

As the Turk comes into mind, he wonders how the plan succeeded, and what that worthy thinks by this time of his subterranean quarters—for Jack never dreams that the plans of Monsieur le Sub-lieutenant could go astray, or that Abdallah Pasha can be anywhere than in the net.

They go in to breakfast, which can be gotten at almost any hour. Over the table they daily nearly an hour, since time must elapse ere they can go to the station. Jack does not fail to note how well Avila grasps the end of the table, and handles the coffee urn with such skill that he pictures to himself—poor fellow, it shows how badly he is caught at last—that same graceful figure seated at the table in an establishment owned by a certain Jack Evans, called a doctor by his friends because he graduated as such and practised in the hospitals of Germany. Somehow, the thought of such a possible happiness in the future makes him smile, and she, noticing his glance, turns rosy red, just as though she imagined he is regarding guilty secrets in her face.

He Didn't Know

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 17th, '02

TAKING DEFEAT HARD.

Ever since election day, when the routepayers declared in favor of the old Council, certain "sore heads" have been racing about trying to find a means whereby they might upset the will of the people, even at the cost of another election. It was whispered everywhere that proceedings were to be taken against three or four of the members on the ground of insufficient property qualification, and many citizens reposed faith in the story. On Saturday a more serious charge was launched, and the town has been buzzing with the news ever since. It was stated—no one knows by whom—that last year's Council had transferred some Collegiate sinking fund money to the general funds
—in order, presumably, to lessen the deficit. It having been stated also that Messrs. McSwyn and Weldon were about to take the necessary legal proceedings in connection with the above charges, a representative of The Post to-day interviewed Mr.
McSwyn, the senior member of that firm, who acknowledged that he had been retained by some half-a-dozen citizens to look into the several matters and advise them in relation thereto. He had not completed his investigations and was therefore not in a position to say whether proceedings would or would not be taken as stated.

Most of our citizens will have sufficient confidence in the uprightness and integrity of the members of last year's Council to acquit them of all of the latter offence, which would be a grave dereliction of duty, and we hope the men responsible for the charge will be able to offer an honorable excuse for being so easily misled into looking upon last year's Council as a body of—were going to use the word
criminals, but will say tricksters.
Instead. One thing is certain—when the new Council meets proper apologies should be offered by a couple of its members before taking their seats.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Emperor of Korea is about to adopt drastic measures against embezzlers, having been informed that not less than ten million yen have been purloined by trusted government officials during the last ten years. He has passed sentences of death on all officers who embezzled over 2000 yen. There is much that is admirable in the arrangement, which should have a pronounced deterrent effect.

Schwab tried to break Monte Carlo, but he didn't know enough to stop when he was 75,000 francs ahead, and quit a heavy loser. Lord Rosalva also set out to break the bank, and talked grandly of a "system" that was to see him through.
Fortunately for him he kept the price of a ticket home down up in an inner pocket, and is now travelling on it. Once in a million times you may beat the other fellow at his own game, but he can afford to play
it; you can't.

Speaking of the absurd objections
of some egotistically "self-respecting" sheets to Canadian cities accepting library donations from Mr.
Carnegie, the London Advertiser says: "Mr. Carnegie's gifts are cosmopolitan, and go out to all parts of Great Britain as well as the United States. His splendid recent gift to the Scottish universities will be recalled by all. If Great Britain is willing to accept large gifts from Andrew Carnegie, why should not Canada accept them? The kick unusually has been that rich men do not do enough in the way of benefactions towards public objects." That is a very sensible way of viewing the matter. And it is dollars to doughnuts that the same persons who affect to regard the acceptance of Carnegie's donations to libraries as "degrading" would snap at a chance of a few thousands to them personally.

PORT HOPE WINS IN HOCKEY

Lindsay Defeated by Port Hope on Cobourg Ice by a Score of 8 to 5—
Large Crowd Witnessed the Match.
The Senators put up a star game in Cobourg Tuesday night against Port Hope and were only defeated by one goal, and that deciding goal was made by the Port Hoppers after ten minutes' extra time. The score was a tie—5 all—when time was up. The result of last night's game must be very pleasing to the local enthusiasts, because it proves that our team can put up good hockey away from home, therefore we should not lose confidence in our team nor fail to support them over the deficit of last night, but should congratulate ourselves that Lindsay has a team
this year which she should be proud of. On three occasions the home team had their opponents wiped, and it had not been for a poorly lighted rink the speedy Lindsayites would have come home victorious.

Port Hope scored three goals during the game from the point position on the rink. The rink was so poorly lighted that it was simply impossible to see the puck until it was landed in the Lindsay nets. However, despite the defeat our boys played faster and got in superior combination play than their opponents. On several occasions they had their opponents tied out. When half-time was called the score stood 3-1 in Lindsay's favor.
On resuming Port Hope gingered up and succeeded in tying the score. The next two goals went to Lindsay, but within five minutes of the start of the game Port Hope scored two more goals again tying the score.
Ten minutes' extra time was given and the Lake Ontario boys succeeded in scoring and winning the game by the score of 8-5.

It was a hotly fought battle all throughout, but Port Hope had the advantage because they knew every inch of the Cobourg rink, as all their games are played in that town.
Therefore it is very gratifying to Lindsay citizens that our team made such a creditable showing on strange ice. The game was witnessed by nearly 1,000 people, among whom were 500 from Port Hope.
The game was close throughout,
only one player having to be ruled off for rough play. During the last half Parkin received a blow, but he stayed in the game to the finish.
Mr. Walter Sailer, of Osgoode Hall, Toronto, refereed and gave general satisfaction. After the match the two teams came over to Port Hope on a special train and were treated to an oyster supper by Mr. L. Bennett, proprietor of the Queen's hotel, and a few hours
were spent in the city.

Lindsay has now come up against
two strong teams in their district,
but because they defeated one team
and succeeded in holding the score down with the other they should not grow over-confident. Both Peterboro and Port Hope are strong and successful aggregations and may possibly spring a surprise to the local hockeyists. For the next week
let the Lindsayites get down to good hard practice and victory will be sure to come our way.

TEETHING BABIES.

A Crying Time for Mother. When Great
Tears and Watchfulness is necessary.

There is scarcely any period in baby's early life requiring greater watchfulness on the part of the mother than when baby is teething.
Almost invariably the little one suffers much pain in the gums, restless day and night, requiring so much care that the mother is worn out looking after it. But there are other real dangers frequently accompanying this period that threaten baby's life itself. Among these are diarrhoea, indigestion, colic, constipation,
coughs and convulsions. The physician therefore will anticipate and prevent these troubles by keeping baby's stomach and bowels in a natural and healthy condition by the use of Baby's Own Tablets, a medicine readily taken by all children, and which dissolved in water, may be given with perfect safety to even a new-born infant. In every house where these Tablets are used baby is bright and healthy and the mother has real comfort with it, and does not hesitate to tell her neighbors.
Mrs. C. J. Dolan, Brockville, says:
"I have been giving my fifteen-month-old baby Baby's Own Tablets whenever necessary, for some months past. She was teething, her gums were cross and restless. Her gums were hard and inflamed. After using the Tablets she grew quiet, the inflammation of the gums was reduced and her teeth did not seem to bother her any more. An improvement in baby's condition was noticeable almost at once, and I think there is no better medicine for teething babies." Baby's Own Tablets can be procured from druggists or will be sent postpaid at 25 cents a box, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A GUARANTEE. I hereby certify that I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets, which I personally purchased in a drug store in Montreal. My analysis has proved that the Tablets contain absolutely no opiate or narcotic that they can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infant; that they are a safe and efficient medicine for the troubles they are indicated to relieve and cure." (Signed)

L. C. I. Notes.

The general meeting of the Literary Society took place last Friday,
and as usual a first-class program was rendered. Miss Rankin opened the meeting by an instrumental solo which was greatly appreciated, and she heartily responded to an encore.
A reading was well given by Miss McLennan. The impromptu speeches by the ladies were fine—short and sweet, with many a happy touch. The students were delighted with the violin solo given by Bridget Gray, who willingly responded to an encore. A vocal solo was well rendered by Miss Lena Wallace, and it was received with evident pleasure. Last but not least came Mr. Black, who sang an appropriate song, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. The members of the Literary Society are indeed pleased to see so many outsiders present at our Friday evening entertainments, and they extend a hearty and welcome invitation to all interested. E.S.W., Cor. Sec.

PETERBORO'S R. R. CROSSINGS

Mayor Denno Refers to Them in his Message to Council.

The following extract from the lengthy deliverance made by Mayor Denno, at the inaugural meeting of Peterboro Council last Monday evening may interest Lindsay readers:
"I have again to refer to the subject of protection at railway crossings. The Grand Trunk has not obeyed the order of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council to establish gates at the crossings at Charlotte and Simcoe-sts., but has instead placed flagmen there. While the flagmen are a measure of protection, that is not the kind of protection that we applied for and ordered, and it may be necessary to take steps to have the order complied with and the full measure of protection given, although I hope that the railway company will not make that necessary."
Previous to the late municipal elections I wrote to the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company pointing out the necessity for protection by means of gates at George-st. crossing and on the last day of the year I had an interview with the General Superintendent of this division. Mr. Timmerman did not dispute that protection was needed,
but urged that a "Chicago crossing signal" would give adequate protection, and that the town should bear half the expense. Since then I have received a letter from Mr.
Timmerman in which he says he is arranging to have a signal placed at the crossing, leaving the matter of expense an open question. I have replied to him that in view of the circumstances of this crossing we would not consent to the signal being considered sufficient protection and that the town took the position that it was not liable for any of the expense. I have no doubt, however, that the railway authorities,
as they recognize that protection is needed, will see that the means adopted are adequate, and if the railway's expense will not meet the requirements, gates will be substituted,
and I hope that by friendly negotiations we will secure what is needed."

Curling Notes.

—Lindsay won her first match in the Ontario Tankard Primary in a close and very keenly contested game Tuesday, from the Peterboro Granites. The ice was very keen but tricky, and it called for the closest play and the best of general-ship to win. If a player missed the stone by a few inches, the stone was completely out. Mr. Flavelle and Mr. Whitton, on ice No. 3 and at the start the Peterboro rink took the lead, and at one stage in the game the score stood Flav-elle 2, Whitton 6. Then the Lindsay men got a winning gait on and scored 5 points whilst the Peterboro men were scoring 1, so that at the close of the sixth end the score stood Flav-elle 21, Whitton 7. By a beautiful shot in the seventeenth end Whitton cut out the Lindsay shot and counted four; the next five ends yielded singles, Flav-elle taking three of them and Whitton two. Score at close, Flav-elle 24, Whitton 18. The game on ice No. 4 was close from start to finish—four ties during the game the rinks were tied and at no time was there a difference of more than three shots between them.
Jimmie Connell, the skip of the Peterboro rink on this ice, has long been considered by Lindsay judges as one of the best exponents of the game that ever visited Lindsay. He played yesterday in remarkable form himself and he was ably assisted by the different members of his rink. The score wound up—W. Mc-Lennan 17, Connell 17, Total majority for Lindsay 10 points.

VEN. ARCHDEACON CASEY PRESENTED WITH AN ADDRESS

Expressing Appreciation of His Work
as Local Superintendent of the Separate Schools—The Board Regrets
the Impending Severance.

(Peterboro Review, Saturday.)
The departure of the Venerable Archdeacon Casey from town means the loss to the Separate Schools of the energetic and most capable Local Superintendent, one who has always interested himself in whatever pertained to the success, progress and well-being of those educational institutions. His counsel and great worth have been much appreciated by the Separate School Board, than whom no one will more regret the impending severance. Last evening
the members of the Board waited upon the Venerable Archdeacon Casey
and presented him with an address, which gave expression, not merely to their regret, but also to their best wishes for his success in the new field of labor to which he is going, and their appreciation of his work in the interests of education.
Those who waited upon the Venerable Archdeacon were: Messrs.
James Murty, John Kyle, J. J.
Lynch, D. O'Connell, Joseph Hick
Jr., and John Corkery, Secretary-Treasurer, who read the address, which is given below:

To Venerable Archdeacon Casey,
Local Superintendent of Separate Schools, Peterboro, Ont.
Reverend and Dear Sir,—It has been with the deepest and most sincere regret that the members of the Separate School Board of the town of Peterboro learned that in consequence of your removal to Lindsay you were about to be called upon to sever the relations which have ever been sustained, with much pleasure, to us and profit to the interests entrusted to our care, between yourself, as Local Superintendent, and ourselves, as a Board.
We desire affectionately and respectfully, to express to you our appreciation of all that you have done in the interests of education and of our schools. We are aware how dear to your heart are the interests of the children and how solicitous you have been to see those interests advanced by efficient training and instruction in our schools. To accomplish this you have not only given your own personal exertions, but you have placed at our disposal all those talents which you possess and which have made your advice so valuable as a guide in our work.

And, reverend sir, while it may be unnecessary to convey in words
what you must have long since leaved by actions, we can assure you that you have not only our deepest gratitude as trustees for your labor of love, but you have also the warm love and sincere affection of the little ones of the flock who are gathered in our schools.
Your kindness, your thoughtful-ness, your fatherly forbearance and your spiritual guidance have never been absent from any of your relations with them, and your name will not soon be forgotten by the children of the Separate Schools in Peterboro. Your work in the cause of education will also long remain in the memory of the Board, and will have a still more lasting monument
in the record of increased efficiency that has been written under you as Local Superintendent.

And now, reverend sir, allow us as trustees to again express our deep sense of debt for all you have been to us as Local Superintendent, and will ever appreciate the interest
you have manifested in education
in our schools.
In asking that you will not forget us in the Holy Mass or in your prayers, we would respectfully beg to offer our congratulations on the important duties you have been assigned in the neighboring parish of Lindsay. We regret your departure, we recognize the wisdom of His Lordship who has chosen you for the important work there, and we bumbly bow to what is in the interests of our Church.

We would then, reverend sir, in conclusion, extend our heartfelt wishes for continued good health and vigor to enable you to follow the great and holy work to which you have dedicated your life and talents, knowing that hereafter awaits you the rich reward of all who labor for Him who said: "Suffer little children to come unto Me." Venerable Archdeacon Casey made a reply that was most indicative of his appreciation of the kind words in the address. The relation existing as between himself and the Board had, he felt, been always of the most cordial, and he regretted
the parting. He would always watch with keen interest the future of the Separate Schools in Peterboro, and he would not be that under the able direction of the Board educational interests would suffer no neglect, but would experience a healthful advancement.

Ven Archdeacon Casey will leave for Lindsay towards the close of next week.
At a meeting of the Central Charity Board, held Monday evening the following resolutions were passed:
"That this Board has learned with regret that Ven. Archdeacon Casey is about to leave Peterboro, he having been a member of this Board
since its organization and a faithful and most useful member. Archdeacon Casey has shown, while a member of this board that he is a broad-minded gentleman, one who is most charitably inclined, and at the same time judicious and careful, and his counsel has been of great service to the Board. While regretting his removal we regret no neglect, but charge to which he is going."

Obituary

—Many friends in town and country will learn with deep regret of the death of Mr. W. W. Logan, which took place soon after 12 o'clock today. Deceased had been a resident of Lindsay many years, and was widely known throughout the district owing to his long connection with the musical instrument business.
For several years he had been in poor health, and this end was not unexpected.

MARKET REPORTS.

Break on Chicago Market, Caused by the Failure of a Prominent Broker—

The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, Jan. 14.
Liverpool cables quoted wheat futures
at a decline of 1/4 to 1/2, and corn futures 1/2 to 1/4 to-day.
The failure of a prominent grain broker
in Chicago caused a break on that market this morning, and wheat opened at 1/2. It rallied later, but closed 1/2 below yesterday. Corn and oats also had a low opening, but rallied later, the former closing 1/2 below yesterday and the latter 1/4 below.

The run of live stock at the cattle mar-

Trade was brisk, especially for well-fan-

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Prof. Robertson says Sir William
 Macdonald has sent to Hon. Mr.
 Ross an offer of $125,000 for the purpose of providing teaching in domestic science to girls in the Public Schools. That will be sufficient to make an experiment on a modest scale. Sir William's generosity is to be commended.

The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail has interviewed Rudyard Kipling, who has just arrived there. Mr. Kipling declared that the "tools" and "oafs" of his poem did not refer to the athletes serving at the front, for whom he had the greatest admiration, but to the stay-at-homes. He declined to further rebut the criticisms of his poem.

Some of the large life insurance companies of New York are adopting rules requiring the retirement of employees when they reach the age of 60 years. The rule is not a good one. Some of the world's greatest achievements have been accomplished by men over that age. Some men are younger at 70 than others are at 40, and the experience gained is worth money. Companies adopting such rules deserve to lose
 by them.

One of the proposed changes in the Ontario Marriage Act is the printing of a memorandum on the affidavit forms setting forth the degrees of affinity and consanguinity which bar or hinder marriage. Although few people could state them, we do not think that the lack of the knowledge has caused much hardship.
 The United States postal authorities are considering the adoption of a one-cent letter rate. That might abolish postal cards.

The Manitoba Liquor Act does not,
 as some people seem to think, aim
 at preventing the use of liquor;
 what it prohibits is the consumption of liquor in places where it is kept for sale. A man may import all he wishes and may give away as much as he like to his friends. It does not aim at preventing the manufacture of liquors; that is expressly provided for. Now that it is being closely scrutinized it is found to be full of gaps through which the proverbial
 coach and four may be driven.

Rochester is to have a new gas

 excluded competition.

It is estimated that the World's Fair at St. Louis will cover 1,200 acres, at an estimated cost for construction of $30,000,000. The construction cost of the Paris Exposition was $9,000,000; of the Chicago Exposition, $18,000,000; of the Buffalo Exposition, $10,000,000. If St.
 Louis' deficit should be in proportion to increased cost of construction builders will do well to take the city.

Church Notes.

—Rev. R. McNamara, formerly curate of St. Paul's church, has been understood to have been appointed by the Bishop to, and has accepted, the parish of Fenelon Falls, to succeed the Rev. Wm. Farncombe, who has resigned.

—Early in December Miss Dewell,
 the organist of St. George's church, Canada, was presented by the congregation with a testimonial and purse of money in appreciation of her faithful work during the year.
 A very pleasant evening was spent at Mr. Simpson's (her home) when the presentation was made.

—Phillipsburg, Kan., has an up-to-date Baptist preacher. Instead of doing some sensational turn in order to attract people to his church
 he simply advertises in the local paper: "There still remain a few vacant seats at the regular services in the Baptist church of this city. The pastor will, and can, preach better sermons if the seats
 are all filled with worshipping attendants. Will you not come?"

The theatre managers provide convenient means of disposing of hats and coats while at the play;
 the church managers expect the wearers to sit on them, or lay them on the floor under the seats. That is a complaint so often heard that it is a wonder more churches are not filled up with hats and coats in the seats. The expense would be trifling and the accommodation would be great.

—Kingston News: The Verona Free Methodists had a lively time recently. One of the enthusiasts at a gathering held in the church, declared that he could fly because of spiritual assistance, and at once proceeded to demonstrate that he had wings. Springing to his feet he launched into space and his head
 came in contact with a large coal oil lamp. The lamp fell to the floor and the oil ignited. At once three men and three women were on fire and five out of the eight were seriously burned. The flames spread and caused a panic. People rushed hither and thither and one end of the building, in the excitement, was torn out by the onrush. Willing hands from outside brought water and saved the church. Many were injured in the stampede and women suffered from the rushes of men. The cause of all the trouble resounded with a bruise on the crown of his head.

—In St. Andrew's church Sunday evening
 the pastor, Rev. J. W. Macmillan, discussed the life and work of the late Rev. J.
 Robertson, D. D., Superintendent of Presbyterian Missions in Western Canada, basing his remarks on John 9:4, "I must work
 ... the night cometh," which was largely the keynote of his life. Dr. Robertson was born in Perthshire, Scotland, 63 years ago.
 When a boy he came with his family to Canada, as living on a farm in Halton County, where he worked until he obtained sufficient means to start his college education, which was taken in Toronto and completed in Princeton College and Union Seminary, New York, but in the intervals doing considerable mission work. After ordination he was settled in Norwich for five years. In 1874 he was appointed first pastor of Knox Church, Winnipeg, which at that time was but a small hamlet, but in a few years moved from a small log church
 into a splendid building which cost $26,000.
 He acted as pastor, lecturer, and in fact in any capacity in which he could be helpful.
 In 1891 he was appointed by the General Assembly as Superintendent of Missions
 in Western Canada, extending from Lake Superior to the Pacific, and from the 49th parallel north as far as civilization goes.
 To estimate the work he has done would be impossible, but some idea of the advance made might be indicated by the growth made during his tenure of office. There were 3,000, now there are 10,000; Presbyterians 18, now 18; congregations 4, now 40; mission stations 18, now over 300;
 workers 23, now over 400, of whom over 250 are ordained. Preaching was in English and Gaelic, now in 12 languages. Contributions from the West are more permanent than from the East, and the East is far more wealthy. He was largely instrumental in having established the "Manse and Church Building Fund" which has been so helpful in assisting in the building of churches and manse, and also in having the Theological sessions of Winnipeg College held in the summer, so that the services of the students could be held during the winter when the Western College sessions were going on, and vice versa. Last fall not one sheep of gain was cut on Sunday between the Red River and the Rockies—compare that with what obtains across the border! We have no lynchings. The moral tone is entirely different to formerly.
 This, of course, was not all the work of Dr.
 Robertson, but his work and influence was a very large factor, and in the life of the speaker he stands among men as the most Christlike. During his last illness, when he was admonished to take a rest, he remarked "The night cometh." The coming four years will be the crucial year for Western Canada. No man can place his hands on the future of the West as nobly initiated. He was respected both at home and abroad.

Are often engaged in doing the work of suffered for three years or more at monthly periods. It seemed as though I would never stand at all without fainting. Had given up all hope of ever being cured. Had taken all kinds of medicine, but with little result. My friends insisted upon my trying Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. With but little faith I tried it, and before I had taken half a bottle I felt better. Now I have taken two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and am completely cured and in two months' time when all other medicines had failed."

 On Sunday, Jan. 5th, Rev. W.
 Down, Wilfrid, conducted miserable services in the Methodist church.
 The prospects are that the contributions will exceed any former year
 by 25 per cent.

During the week special services have been held in the Methodist church. On Wednesday the Rev. J. B. Rogers, the Black Knight, lectured on "Personal Reminiscences of the War." On Thursday night Rev. W. P. Rogers, Coburn, gave an inspiring address at the service.
 On Friday the Epworth League Convention of the Cananoping District was held in the newly opened church.
 There was a large attendance and a splendid time experienced. The Rev.
 A. C. Greys, General Secretary of Epworth Leagues and editor of the "Epworth Era," was present and gave splendid addresses. Mr. Wm.
 Suggitt, Valentin, was re-elected president and Mr. Wm. Smale, Woodville, secretary.

On Sabbath evening, Jan. 12th, the Rev. W. G. Clarke, with the congregation of the Methodist church, joined in the farewell service in the Presbyterian church of the Rev. J.
 McD. Duncan, B.D.

DUNSFORD

(Special to The Post.)
 The Methodist church here put on its most cheerful adornment on New Year's afternoon to greet the bride and groom and their friends on the auspicious occasion of the marriage of Lillie, only daughter of Mr. John G. Ashmore, of con. 13 Emily, to William H. M., son of Mr. Edward Thurston. Miss Pattison, of Lindsay, was maid of honor. The bride was becomingly attired in white organza with bodice of lace and chiffon
 trimming, while the bride veil,
 held in place by white primroses,
 gracefully fell over a frilled dem-
 i-tam. She carried a bouquet of primroses, geraniums and smilax. The bridesmaids, Miss Stewart, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lizzie Thurston, sister of the groom, were also attured in white with primrose hair adornments. The little maid of honor was Ada Thurston. During the ceremony the groom was assisted by his brother, Albert. Master Mansell Ashmore carried the ring on a silver tray surrounded by flowers. The beautiful ritual of the Methodist church was used by Rev. J. A. Mc-Manus (uncle of the groom) and Rev.
 M. W. Leigh, B. A. After the ceremony the bride party and invited guests drove to the home of the bride, where a very pleasant evening was spent. The dining room and table were artistically decorated in white. The guests included relatives from Peterboro, Lakesfield, Norwood, Lindsay and Bobcaygeon. The happy couple, amid showers of rice
 and the best wishes of many friends,
 are spending the evening in at home
 and will visit several eastern points
 before their return.

On New Year's eve the members and friends of the Methodist Sabbath School spent a very pleasant time. There was a most plentiful supply of good things to eat, and the several items on the program were richly enjoyed. Little Nina Thurston rendered in good style a recitation entitled "The Two Mills," Miss Pattison and Miss Workman, of Lindsay, gave an instrumental and a vocal solo. Mrs. Leigh was assisted by Miss Davidson, of Omenee, in a duet. Rev. H. H. Rogers, of Omenee, gave a practical address on "Ideals," as well as assisting in the music. Rev. G. Horton, of Bob-caygeon, commented on the New Year and its opportunities, and Rev.
 Geo. Brown, of Omenee, spoke for his audience on "How to make make it happy." The choir gave several selections, and the chairman,
 Rev. M. W. Leigh, acceptably discharged his duties.

At the annual meeting of Dun-
 ford Presbyterian church the Rev.
 Mr. Ellis, in a brief and very complimentary address, presented Mr.
 Alex. Elliott, (nee Miss Katie McMillan), late organist of the church, with a handsome family bible as a token of appreciation from the congregation of her services as organist and choir leader, and also as a memento of the high esteem in which they valued her services as a worker for the welfare of the church and the advancement of the Master's kingdom.

DIOCESE OF PETERBORO.

TRANSLATION OF PRIESTS AFFECTING SEVERAL PARISHES.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey becomes Rector of Lindsay—Other Parochial Changes.
 The Peterboro Examiner returns follows in Monday's issue, to the transfer of priests announced in a recent issue of The Evening Post; Consequently upon the lamented death of Mr. Laurent, V. G., and Rector of the Parish of Lindsay, certain changes have been made in adjusting the cures of several parishes
 in the Diocese of Peterboro.

These changes were announced at 10 o'clock mass yesterday in St.
 Peter's Cathedral by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor. In referring to the causes that made these changes necessary, the death of Mr. Laurent, His Lordship's emotions at times
 almost choked his utterance.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey has been appointed Rector of the Parish of Lindsay, Rev. Father McCall, parish priest of Ennismore, taking his place
 as Rector at the Cathedral. Rev.
 Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point,
 becomes parish priest at Ennismore,
 and Rev. Father Phelan, late curate at Lindsay, and since the death of Mr. Laurent, administrator of that parish, becomes parish priest of Young's Point, Lakesfield and Keene.

These translations may generally be regarded in the light of promotions. Ven. Archdeacon Casey, succeeds to a parish where long reigned one of the most pious and successful priests in the diocese, and his being his successor to Mr. Laurent is a tribute to his fitness for so important and difficult a position,
 and to the lay mind a suggestion of the possibility of his succeeding to the full honors and responsibilities of the priest whom he has followed.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey was ordained on May 24, 1872. For the first two years of his priesthood he was curate in Peterborough, from 1872 to 1874. After a brief curacy in Kingston he became parish priest of Gannanoke. Afterwards he was advanced to Campbellford, where after fifteen years' faithful ministry,
 he was translated to Peterborough,
 becoming Rector of the Cathedral,
 and being elevated to the dignity of Archdeacon. Ven. Archdeacon Casey has been thirty years in the priesthood, and it will be remembered that in 1897 his silver jubilee was celebrated, the priests of the diocese presenting him with valuable gifts and an illuminated address. From a secular point of view the removal of Ven. Archdeacon Casey is a subject of general regret. During his eight years in Peterborough he has won the high respect of all citizens. His parishioners, who have learned to venerate and love him, will naturally very deeply regret the severance of the ties that have bound them for eight years to their beloved rector.

But Rev. Father McCall, parish priest of Ennismore, who has earned by his piety and zeal in the interests of Holy Church the promotion to the important position of rector to the diocese, will, by virtue of his many splendid qualities of mind and character, speedily gain in the hearts of his new parishioners the warm place
 he has gained in the hearts of the people of Ennismore. He has been in the priesthood for eleven years,
 and has been in Ennismore eight years, going to that parish from Lindsay. Peterborough will warmly welcome the coming as it warmly
 speeds the parting rector.

The successor of Rev. Father McCall
 in Ennismore, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, has been seven years a parish priest. After ordination in 1894 he spent a time at the Cathedral and three years ago was appointed parish priest at Young's Point, where by a faithful discharge of his priestly duties and by his bearing as a citizen he has become extremely popular and has secured the warm affection of the entire community.

He is succeeded as parish priest at first field of ministry was Trout Young's Point, etc., by Rev. Father Phelan. The latter was ordained in Peterborough on Feb. 16th 1896. He came to Peterborough in 1897, and soon became a member of the parish community. He was afterwards made curate of St.
 Mary's, Lindsay. There he developed qualities that made him greatly beloved and esteemed by his flock. On the occasion of his being brought to the Cathedral as curate some time ago he was parted with with regret, a large deputation waiting upon the Bishop asking that the change be not made, and when it was made, Rev. Father Phelan on his departure from Lindsay, was presented with a substantial purse of money. On the death of Mr. Laurent Rev. Father Phelan was sent to Lindsay as administrator, and he is now promoted to be parish priest
 of Young's Point.

The changes above recounted take effect on Sunday, January 19th.

Accident at the Skating Rink.

Earl's Cote, the eight-year-old son of Mr. John Cote, driver for Mr. J. D.
 Flayella, was the victim of an accident at the rink Friday evening.
 He was sitting on the top row in the grand stand witnessing the hockey match, and when Lindsay scored the first goal he, with many others, jumped to their feet in the excitement. There is no under-boarding to the seats; the little fellow failed to notice this, and fell through to the floor 12 feet below,
 alighting on his feet and right arm.
 He was picked up in an unconscious condition by Mr. S. J. Pinnick and carried to the ladies' waiting room.
 Dr. Brown was summoned and discovered that the arm was broken and his face severely bruised. He was afterwards conveyed to his home by Manager Parkin and Dr.
 Gillespie.

INFAMOUS CARTOONS

Distinguished Germans Publish
 'Obscene Sheets.'

EMPEROR ORDERED REMOVAL

The London Times Says That "In Coarseness, Obscenity and Venom They Are Without Parallel in Modern Times."
 —Not Gutter Sheets But Sold
 at Stations on State Railways.

London, Jan. 14.—A remarkable article appeared in yesterday's Times under the caption of "Literature of German Anglophobia," recounting
 the character of the anti-British cartoons which have appeared in the German newspapers, which, The Times says, "in coarseness, obscenity and venom are without a parallel in modern times."

The Times' article, which is two columns long, says: "These papers are not gutter-sheets, but are sold everywhere at the stations of the state railways, even at Potsdam station, where the Emperor is constantly traveling. He was finally obliged to personally order their removal."

"Neither are these papers anonymous. One of the most infamous of all, entitled 'The Boer War,' bears on the title page the names of persons distinguished in the literary and artistic world of Germany. From a purely technical standpoint the paper is an art production, but it is difficult to find words to convey a notion of the filth which its cultured artists and writers venture to lay before its cultured German readers.
 British soldiers are represented as robbing the dead. Mr. Chamberlain's state coach is depicted as a cart laden with skeletons, and King Edward is shown dead drunk in his bedroom, receiving the news of Cronjo's surrender. But, the crowning piece is a cartoon entitled 'Hero Worship.' The then Princess of Wales, Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales standing, with the young princesses by her side, is decorating
 a youthful soldier. The legend underneath reads textually:

"An English Princess decorating
 the youngest soldier in the British army with the Victoria Cross, because, although only thirteen, he has already outraged eight Boer women."
 "This obscenity, sold in respectable shops, was eagerly bought by the public, and lies on fashionable drawing-room tables."

The wisdom of the publication of the article at this juncture is much questioned. The Star says:

"The Times yesterday, of all days, begins a series of articles on the offensive German caricatures. The Times ought to hesitate before it deliberately flogs the passion of the people. Are our publicists mad?
 Can they not see the abyss towards which they are bounding this long-suffering nation?"

 The Times suggests that the letter is intended to assuage the present political estrangement.

 policy was neither Protestant nor Catholic, just as his policy was neither Liberal nor Conservative. "I know," added the Chancellor, "only one policy, just as I know only one single individual nation. The questions at issue in the eastern provinces are not religious, but are national. Now that these national conflicts are forced on us, only two possible courses are open—either to allow ourselves to be vanquished without a struggle or to protect our skins. The Polish question is the most important before the nation, and on its settlement depends the development of the immediate future of our Fatherland."

Second Attempt Succeeded.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 14.—J. H.
 Embury, an American, aged 24, suc-cided yesterday at Arcola. He took two ounces of laudanum, and left this message in a magazine: "Advance in Ames, Nebraska, of my death." No reason is given for the act, which is the second attempt in two weeks.

Coloured Janitor Arrested.

Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 14.—Joseph Higginbotham, the negro janitor of the City School building, has been arrested on suspicion of being the person who criminally assaulted and attempted to murder Mrs. Ralph Webber, wife of a cotton mill superintendent.

Sudden Death at St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, Jan. 14.—Dr. A. H.

HIS HORSE THREW HIM

Hon. R. R. Dobell Meets With a Fatal Accident in England.

INQUEST HAS BEEN ORDERED.

Minister Without Portfolio in the Present Dominion Government—A Successful Career as a Lumber Merchant and Shipowner—His Political Record—Died Without Regaining Consciousness—Many Mourners

London, Jan. 13.—Hon. Richard Reid Dobell, Minister without portfolio in the Canadian Cabinet, was thrown from his horse at Folkestone on Saturday and instantly killed. The Dobells arrived at Folkestone a week ago and were joined by Major Hull, a son-in-law, and family. Mr. Dobell and Mr. Hull rode together Saturday, attended by his groom. When they reached the foot of Shorncliffe Camp, Mr. Dobell's horse was startled by a motor car, and Mr. Dobell was thrown, falling heavily on his head. He was picked up unconscious. He never regained consciousness, and was practically killed by the concussion. Mr. Dobell was carried to a local convalescent home, where he received medical attention, and the family will remain at Folkestone for the inquest.

THE NEWS IN OTTAWA
Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Condolence to Mrs. Dobell

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The news of Mr. Dobell's death was a shock to his colleagues of the Cabinet. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was notified of the sad occurrence by a telegram from Mrs. Dobell. The Premier expressed his deep sense of bereavement at the taking off of his colleague from Quebec, and at once called his condolence to Mrs. Dobell.

Hon. R. W. Scott said the death of Mr. Dobell would be a great loss to the City of Quebec, of whose interests Mr. Dobell was always solicitous. It would be a loss also to the Dominion, the Secretary of State said, as Mr. Dobell was a citizen of public spirit and far reaching influence in business circles.

Mr. Dobell and Mrs. Dobell left Ottawa about two months ago to spend the winter with their two daughters in England, it being Mr. Dobell's intention to return to his firm in the spring. A particularly sad feature of the family bereavement is the fact that Mr. William Dobell, the eldest son of the late Mr. Dobell, had sailed for New York a few hours before the death of his father. He will, therefore, not learn of the melancholy occurrence until he reaches England. Mr. William Dobell was in Ottawa Thursday, and at that time looked forward with happy expectation to the meeting of his parents in London.

Mrs. Dobell is the eldest daughter of the late Sir David Macpherson, K. C. M. G. The children are: William M. Dobell, who is a member of the firm of Dobell, Beckett & Co.; Major Charles Dobell, of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, who was in command of the regiment recently at the evacuation of Pekin; Mr. Alfred Dobell, law student, of Quebec; Mrs. Dominie Brown, whose husband's estate is in Ireland; and Mrs. Hull, wife of Capt. Anyot Hull, of the Imperial army. Both Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Hull reside in London, England.

Mr. Dobell's Career
Richard Reid Dobell was the son of the late George Dobell of Liverpool, England, and was born in that city in 1837. He was educated at the Liverpool College, and came to Canada in 1857 to embark in the lumber trade. Together with his brother-in-law, Thomas Beckett, he founded the firm of R. R. Dobell & Co., of Quebec, having a branch in London, Eng., and he had been at the head of the house throughout. He was elected to the presidency of the Quebec Board of Trade, and was subsequently appointed one of the Harbor Commissioners for that city. While occupying the positions, he took an active part toward securing the construction of the Princess

Louis, any docks at Quebec. He was likewise instrumental in promoting the adoption of the cold storage principle on transatlantic steamers, and had been since 1895 president of the Cold Storage Company of Quebec. He was a director of the Quebec Railway Bridge Company. Mr. Dobell was a delegate to the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, held in London in 1892, and also to the conference held in London in 1896. In 1892 he went to Cape Town to speak there in behalf of the commercial interests of Canada. In 1894 he was elected president of the deep waterways convention in Toronto.

Mr. Dobell was known as the projector of the new Atlantic cable, which it is proposed to lay between Clow Bay, Ireland, to Greenly Island in the Straits of Belle Isle. He was an ardent Federationist, and was long identified with the Imperial Federation movement. In 1896 he assisted Lord Rosebery in founding the British Empire League, to the council of which he was elected. He was formerly on the council of the Dominion Board of Trade, and was again elected president of the Quebec Board of Trade in 1895-96.

Mr. Dobell contested Quebec West for the House of Commons as an Independent in June, 1895, and secured a majority of seven votes, but subsequently lost the election on a recount.

At the general election in 1896 he appeared as the general candidate of the Liberal opposition, and was returned by 231 majority. In his address to the electors he announced himself to be strongly in favor of tariff reform, of intercolonial trade, and also of fair reciprocal trade with the United States. He had throughout favored preferential trade with the British Empire.

On the formation of the Laurier Cabinet in July, 1896, he was called to the Privy Council and appointed a Minister without portfolio.

He was a staunch member of the Church of England. He was a vice-president of the Quebec B. N. Society, and a trustee of Bishop's College University, Lennoxville. Mr. Dobell married Elizabeth Frances, eldest daughter of the late Sir David Macpherson of Toronto. Their son, Charles Macpherson Dobell, graduated from the Royal Military College in 1890, was appointed lieutenant in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, saw service with his regiment during the Boer war, and was mentioned in despatches for bravery in the field. More recently the son has been serving in Crete. Another son, Alfred, is a graduate of Toronto University and of Osgoode Hall.

AN ARCHBISHOP'S VIEW.

Dr. Machray of Rupert's Land on the Question of Prohibition.

Winnipeg, Jan. 11.—The subject of the Liquor Act referendum continues to be the absorbing topic of public interest among Winnipeg citizens, expressions of opinion on all phases of the subject are freely offered, and many new ideas are being publicly discussed. Most Rev. Robert Machray, D.D., Archbishop of Rupert's Land, says: "I entirely disapprove of the principle of prohibitory legislation. But if that principle is to be applied, which I do not approve of, then it should only be upon the clearest proof of a large majority in its favor. I regard it as a matter of individual conscience rather than of law, and only the honest and active convictions of a large majority would warrant a law or secure its proper observance. I should say that the majority should be fully 75 per cent."

The Free Press last night says: It was learned this morning that the Government will use the municipal voters' lists with which to submit the prohibition referendum to the people. There was some uncertainty about this matter, a great many being of the opinion that the new provincial voters' lists would have to be prepared for the purpose in accordance with the act passed last session.

Cuba Will Accept.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—William Doull, director of the Havana Electric Company, reached here yesterday from Cuba. He says the proposed 50 per cent. tariff will be accepted by Cuba sugar raisers, and this will increase the prosperity of the country.

WIRELESS READY FOR CONGRATULATION.

Marconi's Ambition is to Report the King's Crowning.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—It is Mr. Marconi's ambition to have his wireless system working across the Atlantic in time to furnish reports of the coronation of the King on June 26. After doubling the electric power at his Cornwall station Mr. Marconi will return to Canada in two or three months, and get his station at Cape Breton in working order with this object in view. Mr. Marconi is to be the guest of honor at a banquet to be given by the Electrical Society in New York Monday evening.

One result of the inventor's visit to Ottawa will be the installation of Marconi instruments on one or two vessels of the Dominion fishery protection fleet, so that they may communicate with stations similarly equipped at several points on the coast, and also with other steamers using the wireless apparatus.

Will Return in June.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—Signor Marconi passed through here yesterday en route for England. He was dining at the St. James' Club and announced that capital had been offered both in Montreal and Ottawa to complete his enterprises. Besides the Cape Breton station, he says one will be erected on the shore of the Red Sea. Mr. Marconi also promises to return to Canada in June, and will read a paper before the Canadian Electrical Association at Quebec.

Crew Picked Up.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 10.—The crew of nine men of the fishing steamer Sparta, which disappeared off this port on Thursday, Jan. 2, were landed at Algiers, La., yesterday morning. The men were picked up by a passing steamer, The Sparta sank.

QUEBEC VS. CANADA

Company With Provincial Rights Upsets Ottawa.

HON. MR. TARTE'S AID INVOKED

The Minister of Public Works Will Deal With the Threatened Interference With Chaudiere Water Lessees' Leases at Once—If Hawkesbury Lumber Co. Succeeds Ottawa Will Be in Bad Case.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—The aid of the Minister of Public Works was invoked Thursday to avert a threatened interference with the Chaudiere water power, which would jeopardize Ottawa's fire protection, water supply, electric light and car service. Last session a charter was granted to the Hawkesbury Lumber Company, Mr. W. C. Edwards, M.P., and others, under the name of the Ottawa and Hull Power Manufacturing Company, to utilize the water power appertaining to the Table Rock property on the Quebec side of the Chaudiere Falls. The company obtained its rights in the river from the Quebec Government.

Now it has issued a notice to the water power lessees on the Ottawa side of the river, that they must remove the northern portion of the dam, which was built to secure to the mills and other establishments on this side of the river a constant supply of water. The removal of this dam would leave them all practically without power, even the city pump house, it is claimed.

With this predicament threatening them, a delegation of the Chaudiere lessees, consisting of Mr. J. R. Booth, the Messrs. Bronson, Messrs. A. Lumsden, M.P.P., W. Y. Soper, and P. Whelan, accompanied by Mr. W. A. Belcourt, M.P., interviewed Hon. Mr. Tarte yesterday afternoon. The Minister dwelt upon the serious loss the Ottawa and Hull company's demands, if complied with, would entail on the city. The dams, he pointed out, had been built by the Dominion Government, and any interference with them would not only deprive the lessees of the Chaudiere of the water power to which they are entitled under their leases from the Crown, but would, in fact, render these leases valueless.

Mr. Tarte promised to deal with the matter at once. The Minister will probably protect the interests of the lessees of the city, by seeing to it that in the meantime the company is not allowed to carry out its threat to remove the dam. Should the matter get into the courts, however, there would seem to be all the elements in it for protracted and expensive litigation.

SIR WILLIAM MACDONALD'S OFFER.

Will Build Grade School in Ontario on Certain Conditions.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—Premier Ross yesterday announced the scheme of Sir William Macdonald in connection with his liberal donation for educational purposes in the province. Already Sir William has given $125,000 for an addition to the Queen's Agricultural College, and has proposed to make a grant for the establishment of a grade school in some thickly populated township. He will have to have an agreement or assurance first, however, with the trustees that they will see to the transportation of the scholars who may wish to attend. If they do this Sir William is willing to provide for the erection of a school which would also contain a library.

Another idea of the Montreal millionaire is the establishment of gardens in connection with schools. He proposes to give to eight or ten schools grants for the setting aside of gardens, in which would be grown plants, vegetables, etc. By this means teachers would be able to give a more practical instruction to the children attending the schools. When these gardens are established Sir William will send an inspector or expert around to give lessons on the practical side of agriculture.

WANT COMPETITION WITH C.P.R.

Two Hundred and Seven Farmers Want C.N.R. Extended.

Winnipeg, Jan. 11.—A deputation, representing the farmers of the Boissevain district, waited upon the Government to urge the extension of the C. N. R. from Minto or some other point on its line to Boissevain, so as to give competition with the C. P. R. The representatives, Mr. Miller and A. S. Barton, presented a petition signed by 207 farmers, and pointed out that the farmers of that district were very anxious to have the C. N. R. extended. In reply the Ministers promised to take the views of the deputation into very careful consideration. Subsequently, the deputation waited upon D. B. Hanna, of the C. N. R.

Marking the Boundary.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—Mr. W. F. King, Chief Astronomer of the Interior Department, has returned from Albany, where he conferred with the State Commissioner in regard to the restoration of the monuments marking the boundary between Canada and the State of New York. The work of replacing the international land marks will not be begun until next spring.

Next Sunday in France.

Paris, Jan. 11.—M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the Premier, will deliver an important speech at St. Etienne next Sunday, when he will promulgate the entire policy of the Government.

Over the Canadian Northern.

Port William, Jan. 10.—The first shipment of wheat over the Canadian Northern Railway arrived at Port Arthur Wednesday night, the cargo being the Lake of the Woods Milling Company. The honor of making the first shipment of lumber over the Canadian Northern Railway to the western market fell to a Port Arthur pioneer firm.

PROHIBITION DELAYED.

Another Vote on Liquor Law to Be Taken in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Jan. 9.—The Telegram, the local Government organ, said last night: Mr. Roblin was seen by a Telegram reporter yesterday morning, who said:

"The enforcement of the Liquor Act will be submitted to the will of the people as soon as possible after the close of the session. Provision will be made for this at the coming session of the Legislature, but as I said before, the Government will not alter the Act in any way."

Canada's Trade.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—The aggregate trade of the Dominion for the five months ended November 30 of the present fiscal year amounted to $189,842,135, as compared with $176,588,527 for the corresponding five months of the preceding year, an increase of $13,253,608. The imports increased from $77,000,000 to $84,000,000, and the exports from $99,000,000 to $105,000,000.

EXPORTS TO THE OLD LAND.

Valued at $85,000,000—Cattle and Dairy Produce Decrease.

London, Jan. 9.—From official returns, just issued, the main imports from Canada for the year just ended embraced 88,559 cattle, valued at $1,491,472, sheep and lambs valued at 98,010, valued at $295,506, bacon, 399,897 cwt., $291,509; hams, 125,867 cwt., $204,822; butter, 215,588 cwt., $1,008,002; cheese, 1,547,719 cwt., $3,697,780; eggs, 708,438 great hundreds, $255,766, and 1,500 horses, $46,787.

Cattle show a slight decrease, as compared with the former year; so do bacon, hams, eggs and cheese. The importation of horses dropped 50 per cent., while the falling off in butter is quite 30 per cent. There is a decided increase in wood pulp, the value of that commodity being $212,084, as compared with $240,485, the showing for 1900.

The total value of Canadian imports for the year was $17,227,762. The exports to Canada totalled $25,096,846.

Mrs. Ball Died in Guelph.

Toronto, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Ball, widow of the late Rev. W. S. Ball, a well-known Presbyterian clergyman, died at Guelph last night. Mrs. Ball was the only surviving member of the older generation of the Brown family, she being a sister of the late Hon. George Brown and the late Mr. Gordon Brown. Mrs. Ball, her husband, died in June, 1897. Mrs. Ball leaves seven sons and two daughters.

Intercourse With Canada.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 10.—The Senate Committee on Commerce today favorably reported the bill providing for the reciprocal recognition of certificates of steam vessel inspection between the United States and other countries. The bill is intended especially to facilitate intercourse with water with Canada.

Ten for Suicide, Two Otherwise.

Dutton, Jan. 10.—The jury in the Urline case returned at 12.30 yesterday morning, ten agreeing that W. G. Urline came to his death by bullet wounds fired by himself while insane, two agreeing that he came to his death by bullet wounds inflicted by himself or parties unknown.

Beland by Acclamation.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—In Beauce three Liberal were aspirants, and as no other agreement could be reached all retired in favor of Dr. H. S. Beland, the local member, who was elected by acclamation.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

THE NURSES ARE TO GO

War Office Directs That They Be Sent Via England.

ANOTHER GUN RECAPTURED.

It Was Taken by the Boers at Brakenlaage and Reported Destroyed—Canadian Field Hospital Corps—Fifteen From Toronto Given a Send Off by Student Friends on Thursday Night.

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—The War Office must be exceedingly anxious to secure nurses for South Africa, because it has called the Governor-General directing that the five Canadian nurses recommended for service proceed to the front by way of England. The cablegram was in response to a message stating that there were no room for the nurses on board the transports Manhattan and Victoria, which will take the Second Mounted Rifles to South Africa. The five ladies will be granted transportation to England on a requisition being made to the Imperial officer in command at Halifax, and on reaching the other side the Adjutant-General will arrange for their passage to South Africa. Lieut. Domville of Woodstock, N. B., has declined the position of assistant veterinary to the Mounted Rifles, and Dr. James of Ottawa has been appointed to the vacancy. The latter will leave for Halifax to-day. Major Cameron, formerly with the Royal Scots, recently, was in town yesterday taking leave of his friends. He also starts to-day for Halifax to join the Mounted Rifles.

The nurses are: Miss Forbes, Miss Macdonald, Miss Harcomb, Miss Fortescue and Miss Cameron. They will leave shortly by steamer from Halifax or New York for Liverpool.

SECOND GUN RECAPTURED.

Taken by the Boers at Brakenlaage and Reported Destroyed.

London, Jan. 10.—Lord Kitchener cables to the War Office that the second British gun captured by the Boers at Brakenlaage has been recovered. This gun was previously reported to have been destroyed.

FIELD HOSPITAL CORPS.

Fifteen From Toronto Given Send Off by Student Friends Thursday Night.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Toronto's quota of recruits for the Field Hospital Corps for service in South Africa, numbering fifteen men, were given an enthusiastic send-off by several hundred of their friends at the Union Station last night. The detachments from Hamilton and London arrived early in the evening, and left with the Toronto men by the G.T.R. shortly before 11 o'clock. A large number of medical students from Varsity and Trinity accompanied the men from the barracks to the station, and enlivened the procession by giving their college yells. Col. Otter superintended the departure, assisted by Capt. Shanley. Surgeon-Lieut. Roberts was in command of the detachment.

RECEIVED D.S.O.

Capt. Lockie of the C.M.R. Decorated at Halifax.

Halifax, Jan. 10.—Capt. J. E. Lockie of the C.M.R., who hails from Vancouver, received the distinguished service order here last night. The presentation was made by Lieut.-Gov. Jones at the Armouries in the presence of officers from the C.M.R. and R.C.R.I., Royal Garrison Artillery, and all the city militia corps. Capt. Lockie was in South Africa with Strathcona's Horse.

EMPEROR IN BACKGROUND.

Empress Dowager Enters Most Sacred Hall For First Time.

Pekin, Jan. 10.—The Dowager Empress of China asserted her complete supremacy to-day by giving an audience in the most sacred hall in the forbidden city. The rules of the dynasty forbid women to enter this hall, and the Dowager Empress has never before violated its sanctity. The Emperor will receive the foreign diplomats in this hall. Officials believe the Dowager Empress to be paving the way to be present on this occasion in order to prevent any communications between the diplomats and the Emperor, except under her censorship.

Will Fill Prison Vacancies.

Dublin, Jan. 11.—At a private meeting of the Irish Parliamentary party, held in the Mansion House here yesterday, John Redmond was unanimously re-elected chairman. The other officers and committeemen were also re-elected. The meeting decided to take immediate measures to fill the place of any Irish member of the House of Commons who may be sent to prison.

Ministers' Movements.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. William Mulock left the city yesterday afternoon for New York.

Hon. A. G. Blair, who is resting at Old Point Comfort, Va., is reported to be making excellent progress towards complete recovery. Mr. Blair is expected to return to Ottawa about the 19th inst.

To Repeat Turkish Incident.

Pekin, Jan. 10.—The French Minister, M. Beau, refuses to present his credentials until China fulfils certain demands of the French Government. A repetition of the Turkish incident is considered possible.

Gilbert Parker in Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 9.—Mr. Gilbert Parker, the well-known novelist, arrived in the city yesterday and registered at the Queen's. In the evening Mr. Parker was among the guests at the dinner of the Lieutenant-Governor. He will be banqueted this evening by the Canadian Club.

BUTTER AND CHEESE MEN.

President Derbyshire of Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association Gives Startling Industrial Figures—A Bright Future.

Whitby, Jan. 9.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association opened yesterday morning. President Derbyshire in his inaugural address said:

"We made 2,494,686 boxes of cheese in 1901, valued at $17,600,000. Of these 400,000 remain on hand. Prices for cheese have not been so high as last season. "Of creamery butter we made 670,898 packages, valued at $8,000,000. Of these we have on hand 25,000, and have consumed 200,000 packages."

"The cheese and butter came to $25,000,000, or a gain of $500,000 over 1900. To this we must add our hog products $14,600,000, making $60,000,000 our dairymen have produced in 1901. The future of our business is bright."

He entered a strong plea for improvement all along the line, and was in favor of adding another instructor to the list, making three in all.

The committees were then appointed. Hon. Sydney Fisher summed up the afternoon's work by declaring a competent cheese and butter maker was worth $1,000 to $2,000 a year.

In the evening in the Music Hall Mayor Ross welcomed the Association. The town's Hon. John Dryden, W. H. Hoyle, M.P.P., A. Patullo, M.P.P., and William Ross, M.P., delivered addresses.

Hon. Sydney Fisher delivered an address, in which he attributed the present dangerous condition of cheese to lack of ventilated chambers in vessels, to improperly ventilated railway cars, and to the lack of proper curing houses.

Many Interesting Addresses Delivered at the Sessions Thursday.

Whitby, Ont., Jan. 10.—At the Ontario Dairymen's Convention yesterday, Prof. Van Slyke of the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva, gave an address confirming the theory that the success of the cheese industry in Canada depends on having factories equipped with satisfactory curing rooms, capable of keeping the temperature down. Cheese so ripened is better, keeps longer and loses less water.

In the afternoon Prof. Dean gave some startling figures, representing the result of increased milk returns at Guelph. Prof. Fletcher talked on grasses for farm culture.

In the evening C. C. Jones spoke on present day problems in agriculture, holding that honor, fame and emolument were in store for the farmer. Prof. Fletcher, Prof. Dean and Mr. Creelman also spoke.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Crabbe of the O. L. C. played and sang. Messrs. Musson and Ross gave a piano duet.

Eastern Ontario Association Elects Officers and Directors.

Whitby, Jan. 11.—The closing session of Eastern Ontario Dairymen's convention here yesterday morning was full of interest. For the large attendance present. The election of officers, directors and honorary members resulted as follows: President, D. Derbyshire, Brockville; first vice-president, John McTavish, Van Camp; second vice-president, L. L. Gallagher, Wilton; third vice-president, John Echlin, Carleton Place.

Directors: Division No. 1, Edward Kidd; North Gower; Division No. 2, William Eager, Morrisburg; Division No. 3, John R. Dargavel, Elgin; Division No. 4, James Whitton, Wellman's Corners; Division No. 5, T. B. Carlow, Warkworth; Division No. 6, Henry Wade, Toronto; secretary, R. G. Murphy, Elgin; treasurer, P. R. Daly, Foxboro; auditors, Morden Bird, Stirling; F. W. Denton, Belleville; official stenographer, T. McGillicuddy, Toronto; honorary members, Hon. G. W. Ross, Prime Minister of Ontario, Toronto; Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa; Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, Toronto; C. O. James, M.A., Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Toronto; Dr. Connell, bacteriologist, Queen's College, Kingston; Prof. Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa; Dr. Mills, president Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Prof. Dean, director Dairy School, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Prof. Hart, director Dairy School, Kingston; Prof. Grisdale, Agricultural Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

A resolution was adopted, asking Hon. Sydney Fisher to try to have Britain give proper credit to the Canadian origin of dairy products exported through United States ports.

A Big Benefit.

Berlin, Jan. 10.—The Minister of Finance, Baron Von Rheinbaben, in the Lower House of the Diet, yesterday presented the budget for 1902, in which the ordinary estimates showed a deficit of 70,000,000 marks.

The Season's Curling Event!

THE BENEDICTS AND BACHELORS FIGHT FOR HONORS.

Victors and Vanquished Entertained by President Hopkins at a Banquet—Toasts, Speeches and Kind Words for the Winnipeg Rink.

Friday night's game was the best and most keenly contested of any game yet played by the Lindsay Club. Sixty players were on the ice, and the only regret was that there was not accommodation for eighty. Friends of the club turned out in force, and the ladies of the town showed their interest by being present in large numbers. These for most part having no lord and master at home, sported the various colors, and the Benedicts, as the score will show, were not a little influenced by their presence—so our scribe informs us—and let up on the winning goal with which they had set out. One Benedict skip, when he saw the daughter of one of the players, a young lady who has often proved herself a good mascot) wearing a yellow ribbon, was so overcome by the vision that he presented his Bachelor opponent with two triplets almost in succession. The games were exceedingly close; only one Bachelor succeeded in winning for his side, and he is naturally very proud of his victory.

The ice at the commencement of the games was keen and true, but towards the end it got quite heavy and it required considerable muscle to put the stones up. The Bachelors, though defeated, are not discouraged, and have issued a challenge for a return game later in the season with the provision that if they are again defeated one-half of them will become Benedicts before next season.

G. H. Hopkins, awaited their keen appetites. The commodious dining-room presented a very pretty appearance, all the table appointments being perfect. No one could resist the temptation of the curries and other good things which were being disposed of a lively conversation was kept up and the evening passed in the most enjoyable manner. It was a job, and one which was not without its difficulties, but the club members of the Club scattered over the length and breadth of the Dominion would have participated with pleasure. Curries are not forgetful of others, however, and it is safe to say that the thoughts of many about the board went out to old comrades.

After the banquet a short toast list was honored. President Hopkins, in proposing the first toast, "The King," referred in happy terms to the lovely and commanding qualities of our gracious monarch, and the toast was given with a flourish. It was now about ten years since he first visited Winnipeg; he had captured some of the leading prizes after several plucky attempts, and had gone West alone, after that to show that his aim was sport, not glory alone. There were many good curlers out, but the young men with Skip Flavell were the good curlers also, and could hope for victory. Whether successful or not, they could rely on a hearty welcome when they returned. (Applause.)

Skip Flavell, in his reply, said he had taken a vast amount of pleasure in his connection with the Lindsay Curling Club, and was always ready to fight hard in its interests. He was taking a well-balanced rink, every member of which might be depended on to do credit to Lindsay. If they failed to capture any trophies in the bonspiel they would at least be able to show that they were good curlers also, and could hope for victory. Whether successful or not, they could rely on a hearty welcome when they returned. (Applause.)

Mr. Geo. A. Little, L. W. O'Connor, H. Cuthbert and W. Widdess, who go to Winnipeg with Mr. Flavell, were called on and responded in turn, their brief and modest remarks being well received.

Mr. Wm. Dundas, vice-president and leader of the Bachelors' forces in the contest, was first to reply to the next toast, "The Benedicts—may they all become Benedicts," and was followed by Rev. J. W. Macmillan, whose witty sallies evoked much laughter. W. Macmillan, T. W. Greer and Geo. Blackwell, Mr. F.W. Sackville introduced a pleasant variation by contributing a song, "The Bachelors' Toast," which was well received.

Rev. J. W. Macmillan prefaced the next toast, "The Benedicts," with a few humorous sentences, coupling with it the names of Dr. Vrooman, M. P., and Mayor Ingle. Both gentlemen made neat and effective replies and scored off their opponents.

The toast, "Officers and past officers of the Lindsay Curling Club," brought speeches from the Club Captain, Rev. C. H. M. Baker, Secretary J. C. Harstone and Dr. Simpson.

The toast, "The President of the Lindsay Curling Club," was proposed in a neat speech by Mr. J. D. Flavell, and was honored in enthusiastic fashion, the members rising and singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Hopkins replied in happy terms.

"The Ladies" found eloquent and appreciative champions in Mr. Boxall and Mr. Black, and their remarks were listened to with the marked attention proper to the occasion. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought the delightful evening to a close about 12.30.

Every Move Causes Pain

The terrible pain that catches you in the back—makes, stooping over, or rising up, or moving about even, unbearable. In nine cases out of ten it is traceable to disordered kidneys. The pain in the back is the kidney's signal of distress. Go to their assistance with Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They will promptly relieve the pain, cure the kidney trouble and restore your health and strength. Here is a case worth reading:

Under Montgomery, Peter, Perth, Ont., writes: "I had made this statement, I was suffering acutely in my back when I began using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, procured from F. L. Hall, the druggist. I could lift nothing, every move caused pain. There was neither strength nor energy left in me. The constant aching over my kidneys was most distressing. I started using the Tablets and the lumbago quickly began to let up. I am quite over it now. I have found the most satisfactory and can confidently recommend them for backache." Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50c. a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION

REVIEWED BY JUDGE MCINTYRE OF WHITBY.

The B. enforcement of Extreme Liquor Regulations Result in Men becoming Trained to False-Swearing.

Judge McIntyre, (formerly of this town), in addressing the grand jury at the December sessions at Whitby spoke as follows:

The decision of the Privy Council on the Manitoba Liquor Act has again brought the question of prohibition prominently before the people of this province, and have no doubt the question will have to be dealt with by your representatives in the legislature and perhaps by the electors of the province under a Referendum, by which the electors can cast their votes to say whether or not such a law as the Manitoba Liquor Act shall become law in this province. In so far as this law and the enforcement of it touches the administration of justice I feel it my duty to say a few words to you. I have no desire, and I do not intend to enter into the question of prohibition any further than to say that absolute prohibition would be a great boon to this country, while an abortive attempt to enforce prohibition would be by far a greater curse than all the poverty and desolation which the trade in liquor beverages and customs of the country are often found to befall many of our fellow-citizens, and through them afflict the body politic. All thoughtful men who have given the fruits of liquor legislation careful attention in this and other countries are agreed that the value of such legislation depends not upon its being put on the statute book and made the law of the land, but upon the success of its enforcement, and that failure in enforcing the law entails more evils upon the community than are suffered under the present system. These men further agree that it requires a large volume of public opinion to enforce all kinds of restrictive liquor laws, and the more restriction the greater volume of public opinion is required in its favor. The Premier of the Dominion and his party refused to enact a Prohibitory Liquor law because there was not sufficient public sentiment behind it to enforce it, as disclosed by the Flabbits, although there was a majority in its favor throughout the whole Dominion. This view had been some time ago expressed by a leading prohibitionist on the other side of politics. Speaking on this subject on the 1st of June, Hon. Geo. E. Foster, as I find reported in one of the leading papers the following day, admitted there was a difference of opinion among prohibitionists, etc. The present law being the Crooks Act is reasonably well enforced by reason of the volume of public opinion in its favor and its acceptance by the liquor dealer and the public. The Scott Act became a failure for want of active public sentiment in its favor, even when carried by large majorities, and the greater resistance to it by those whose trade it was intended to suppress. It is the experience of all that this public sentiment in favor of the law is necessary as government machinery. I have found it necessary to make these preliminary remarks in order to lead you up to the point I wish to make as touching the manner in which the administration of justice is affected by the moving of these laws. Every one engaged in the trial of liquor cases, as I had frequently been while police magistrate in the town of Lindsay for five years, knows how difficult it is to get the truth, and how bare-faced and rampant is perjury that it may be said that these trials are a school for perjury. Under the Scott Act this condition was more aggravated, and men became so trained and used to false swearing that it was carried unfortunately to other branches of the administration of justice, to the ordinary civil and criminal business of the country. Since I came to this country I was so struck with the unreliability and clearly false testimony given by witnesses in a certain locality that I commented upon it in open court over a year ago. That is one of the wealthiest and most respectable places in this country, inhabited by well-to-do farmers, many of them having been in the army, and most of them being of the best of the most peaceful, law-abiding and useful people in the world, and I have no doubt they live up to their reputation. Neither they nor the other respectable people who formed the majority and who also are peaceable, law-abiding and truthful were at all found wanting, but there is in every community a lower element who have not much regard for law and order and the truth, but yet are influenced by their environments. On account of their surroundings in this place I should have expected better things of them, and I cast about to find a reason for this state of things. I found that neighborhood had been in former days the arena of a long and bitter struggle to enforce the Scott Act, and I concluded that by these means they were corrupted. I am not the only one engaged in the administration of justice who has found this to be the natural consequence of determined opposition to restrictive liquor laws and determined attempts to enforce them. A local judge in the State of Maine, speaking of conditions under a prohibitory law has said: "The value of the oath has been reduced to per cent in this State. Perjury for which the maximum penalty is imprisonment for life is so common that it no longer attracts attention. And it is not confined to the liquor element. The effect of it is far-reaching and growing. People take of it openly without a flush. You will not therefore, wonder, gentlemen, that I have spoken to you on this grave matter, and which I would have desired to have left, and in all other respects, do leave to others. I hope that in considering this question good sense and moderation will prevail. The extremist on either side should not be listened to—neither the man engaged in the business who denounces the liquor trade as a contrary opinion to his own as fit only to be swept off the face of the earth. I would like to see the question tried upon its merits. There are two things I would like to see—the absence of trade tyranny and the absence of clerical tyranny. Yes, there are three things—the absence of political partisanship, and I think this last will be secured, as both parties are alike in their cleavage on this question.

The grand jury afterwards reported upon Judge McIntyre's remarks upon this question as follows: We listened with special attention to your Honor's very interesting remarks on the question of prohibition, a question which will probably be an issue before the electors in the near future. While we look upon the liquor traffic, and especially the treating system, as perhaps the greatest prevailing curse in this, our fair country, we realize, along with your Honor, the many difficulties that attend this vexatious problem. Further constitutional questions may arise; the rights and privileges of private individuals and vested rights have to be considered. While, say, in the crime of stealing, one of the parties is opposed to the transaction, and zealous in bringing the guilty party to justice, the buyer and seller of a glass of beer are both equally agreeable, making detection in all cases much more difficult. This, and the treating of that by the law, as a crime, which is not looked upon as such by individuals, at least in its initial steps, the passing and the properly enforcing of a prohibitory liquor law, unless backed by the action of a large public majority, extremely problematical. We can only hope that time will solve the question satisfactorily and largely remove the many evils that now attend this traffic.

FEWER CHILDREN NEEDED.

Susan Anthony Says These Should Be Better Taken Care of and Educated.

Rochester, Jan. 7.—Commenting on the large decrease in the number of marriages in Rochester in 1901, Miss Susan B. Anthony, the veteran advocate of woman suffrage, who is now nearly eighty-two years of age, said:

"I think one reason for the decrease is the increased intelligence of women. In the old days women were married at the age of sixteen, and until they arrived at forty, their one aim seemed to be to give birth to a child every year or two. The heyday of their lives was spent in hopeless toil and worry, and they became old long before their time. What this world needs are fewer children and those better taken care of and better born and bred."

"A woman who marries a man and finds that he is a drunkard or a wicked man is committing one of the worst sins against society. If she continues to live with that man, she is the greatest crime in the bringing of children into the world under such circumstances. The woman should get a divorce and see to it that she does not rush into another such alliance."

IT IS AN IMPUDENT FAILURE

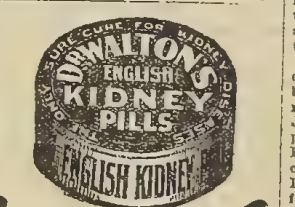

What El hop Potter of New York Has to Say of Prohibition.

A New York despatch says: During a discussion of the subject of the opening of Sunday saloons, before the Church Club, Bishop Potter said that inasmuch as "the powers that be" had decided against any change in the existing excise laws of New York State, the subject was academic.

Bishop Potter then went on to describe the law as it exists at present, saying it recognized drunkenness as a mitigation of crime, and that this attitude of the law was false and vicious. "That was the first blunder that was made," said Bishop Potter, "the next was in the matter of vicious treatment."

John B. Gough always pictured the drunkard the victim, who was not a criminal in getting drunk because he was practically a martyr. That is just as false a sentiment as the theory of Mr. Gough's teaching was false and wrong.

Bishop Potter said concerning prohibition: "Wherever it has triumphed it has educated a race of frauds and hypocrites. In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont to-day, actual statistics the consumption of certain preparations is larger than anywhere else in the country. One of these is the sarsaparilla, which has 17 per cent. of alcohol; another is compound with 27 per cent. alcohol; another is a bitters with 61 per cent. of alcohol; a good claret has 10 per cent. of alcohol, and great multitudes of people who are sworn prohibitionists are the consumers of these things. We are going to persist in this policy, to screw up all the front doors on Sunday and open the back door; we are going to nurse a race of hypocrites to furnish an opportunity to the police to exact a bribe and to close the door to the many honest method of dealing with intemperance. Prohibition is an impudent fraud and an impudent failure."

MILNER SAYS FIGHT

No Use to Threaten Boers, and no Use to Wheedle Them

LORD MILNER'S LATEST SPEECH.

Fidgeting About Negotiations For Peace Would Not Bring the End of the War

Nearer—The Only Way Was the Continual Pressing of the Enemy —Boer Delegates in Holland Changing Their View.

London, Jan. 11.—At a local banquet given in Johannesburg Thursday night Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, made a long speech on the situation, and expressed his belief that the storm cloud hovering over Africa had burst, that the great catastrophe was now behind instead of before, and then men breathed more freely.

After strongly denouncing the tactics of the British pro-Boers, Lord Milner declared: "The war will end all the sooner if we apply a steady physical pressure without fidgeting about negotiations. It is useless to threaten and useless to wheedle. The only thing that imperatively to squeeze and to keep our diplomacy and conciliation, both excellent in their proper places, for the Boers who surrender, instead of lavishing it in blandishments upon those who continue the fight."

Champions Peace With Boers.

London, Jan. 11.—James Bryce (Liberal) member of Parliament for Aberdeen, in the course of a speech to his constituents at Aberdeen yesterday, advocated making generous terms with the Boers. He said: "he was more concerned for the country than for the Liberal party, and would welcome any ministry, however composed, that would conclude an honorable peace. Mr. Bryce believed the country was tired of a ministry which had proved itself incapable of keeping peace or conducting a successful war."

Waiting Her Husband's Fate.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Alice Anthony of San Francisco is at the Auditorium, awaiting the fate of her husband, Dr. R. S. Anthony, who was to have been tried on the charge of high treason Jan. 7 by a court in the British army in South Africa. Mrs. Anthony came from Washington, where she went to intercede for her husband. There she learned he had been arrested about two months ago on two specific charges, that of furnishing aid and comfort to the enemy and intrigue. Mrs. Anthony formerly lived in San Francisco, and was practicing medicine in Cradock, South Africa, when he enlisted in the Boer army. Mrs. Anthony left Cradock with her children last winter and has been living in San Francisco ever since. She has been attempting to enlist the services of this Government in securing the release of her husband.

Barefooted Boer Stormers.

Durban, Jan. 10.—Private information states that Dewet's surprise of the British at Tweefontein was complete. Leaving 200 men to guard his larger, Dewet headed north with the bulk of his force on a clever flanking movement. Doubting back after dark the Boers climbed barefooted up the dangerous precipice, upon which Col. Finner's force had pitched its camp, and which was the head of the blockhouse line going to Bethlehem.

Boers Look For Peace.

Amsterdam, Jan. 11.—The Boer delegates in Holland evidently anticipate that some kind of peace overtures will shortly be forthcoming, though they are reticent as to their reasons for this belief. They maintain, however, that the demand for an unconditional surrender must be abandoned. It is privately admitted that none of the delegates will reject what they call "any fair offer of terms."

Call For More Men.

London, Jan. 11.—The War office has issued a call for 9,996 infantry volunteers gradually to replace those now serving in South Africa.

A Company Chiroprapist.

London, Jan. 11.—The pedal extremities of the soldier have long been a matter of anxiety to his officers, and one of the preliminaries to a long march in South Africa is always "feet inspection." In future every regiment will have its own chiroprapist.

Another Canadian Wounded.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—The following from the British army orders applies to Canada: "The war services of officers engaged in South Africa from the outbreak of hostilities until Nov. 20, 1900, will be recorded in the official army list, and officers commanding units should include in their regular return an appendix showing the services of officers under their command."

His Excellency the Governor-General has received the following telegram from the Casualty Department in South Africa: Cape Town, Jan. 9.—"Following casualty reported at junction of Zand and Vet Rivers, Jan. 4: South African constabulary severely wounded, John Henry French, shoulder. Please inform brother, Boissevain Postoffice, Manitoba."

UNAUTHORIZED MARRIAGE.

Henniker-Heaton, M.P., Arrouses Indignation of Australian Premier.

Sydney, Jan. 11.—Mr. Barton, the Federal Premier, explains that the reason why the Imperial Government in expressing its willingness to accept more troops for South Africa mentioned only a 1,000 men was due to the modelling of Mr. Henniker-Heaton's message presumably created the impression that in Australia only 1,000 men were forthcoming.

HARTLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On the afternoon of Friday, 20th ult., the pupils of S.S. No. 4, Eldon, assembled with parents, at Eldon, in the schoolroom to say farewell to their teacher, Miss Graham. The following address was read when Miss Graham was presented with a beautiful gold chain: Dear Teacher, it is with feelings of deep regret that we have come here today to say good-bye to you. During your stay of three years as teacher of our school you have always manifested much interest in our welfare. Your adherence to duty, your untiring energy and zeal in trying to instruct our youthful minds and your anxiety for our well-being have won for you the respect and esteem of our pupils. We therefore beg of you to accept this watch guard as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by your pupils of the Hartley school and to value it not for its worth, but as a memento of our gratitude and love for you. We further hope that God may bless and guide you and keep you from sorrow.—Signed in behalf of the school.—In reply Miss Graham recalled nothing but kindness during the three years they had been together. Their kindly interest in everything relating to school work had added much to the happiness and success of those years, and this occasion of well-wishing and hearty co-operation reminded her of many similar instances of their loving regard.

Total milk received, 811,144 lbs.; total cheese made, 79,448 lbs.; average milk required to make a lb. of cheese, 10.4 lbs.; average price per 100 lbs. milk, 69.32c.

BURNT RIVER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) The municipal election passed off quietly and the result is apparently satisfactory.

We are sorry to hear that diptheria has again appeared in this vicinity, several cases in one family being reported. Our sympathy is with the afflicted.

Eliza, the little daughter of our genial blacksmith, Mr. Graham, had the misfortune while riding on a sleighload of bark, to be brushed off one of the runners passing over her leg, crushing and breaking it, in two places. She is improving nicely now. That last snowfall improved the sleighing and as a result, sleigh and bark are being rushed into the railway siding here for shipment.

NORLAND.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Rev. H. C. Curtis is conducting special services in the Norland Methodist church. He is assisted in his work by Rev. W. Cook of Cobocouk.

Mr. Ben. Stacey, of Lorneville, general agent for the Home Life Association of Canada, spent last week assisting their local agent, Mr. J. A. Bodewag.

Mr. Herb. Tremere, our genial mail clerk, spent a couple of weeks visiting his mother at Little Britain. Mr. Rob. Woodcock spent a couple of days last week in Toronto on business.

Mr. G. W. Alley spent Saturday last in Lindsay on business.

Mrs. Jas. McKenzie who has been seriously ill for some time, has been advised by her local physician to go to the General Hospital, Toronto, for treatment.

A pie social will be held in the Orange Hall, Norland, on Jan. 24th inst. The proceeds of which will go to assist one of the young men formerly of this place, who at present resides at Sault Ste. Marie, and who had the misfortune to have one of his arms torn off in the pulp mill there.

Mr. S. B. Triek, our enterprising saw mill man, is purchasing a very large stock of timber this winter. He is going to keep a good supply of all kinds of dressed lumber, lath and shingles in his yard for local purposes this summer.

WOODVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) The sleighing is fine and the wood business is rushing this week.

The Rev. J. McD. Duncan preached his farewell sermon on Sunday night assisted by the Rev. W. G. Clarke, B. A. There being no service in the Methodist church the congregation was large.

James M. Campbell and Mrs. D. S. McNeil of Bolesvain, Manitoba, are at present visiting with relatives after an absence of several years.

Died at the family residence, Eldon, Fla., wife of Donald Jackson, township reeve, on Sunday morning. The deceased, who was well known and highly respected, had been ill for some time. The funeral on Tuesday was well attended, the interment taking place at Eldon cemetery. The bereaved husband and daughter have the sympathy of this whole community.

R. S. Shier, of Manitoba, is visiting with friends here and vicinity this week.

The village Council met on Monday at 11 a.m., and will meet again on Tuesday night.

Public School Board meeting on Wednesday night last.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian congregation on Wednesday night last was well attended.

The Rev. Mr. Duncan left for Toronto, his future home, on Friday.

The sum of two thousand dollars was paid out to the farmers here on Monday for live stock. C. G. Campbell was the buyer.

The Rev. N. A. McDonald, of Eldon, will preach in this Presbyterian church here next Sunday.

LORNEVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) The first meeting of the municipal Council of the township of Eldon for the year 1902 was held at Lorneville on Monday last, all members being present except Mr. Donald Jackson, our worthy reeve, who we are sorry to state was unable to attend owing to the death of his beloved wife, who after a long term of sickness passed away on Sunday morning last to that place from whence no traveller returns. The funeral took place on the following Tuesday and was attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends, which shows the high esteem in which the departed lady was held. Much sympathy is universally felt for Mr. Jackson in his sad bereavement.

We were favored with a flying visit from Detective Brown, who reports that he has been very ill for the last three weeks, confined to his bed in the village of Cambray, and credits his partial recovery to the attendance and skillful treatment received from Dr. Ray, of that place. He appears to have undergone a certain amount of repairs since he was here last. Needless to say that we seldom need his services here, as we have ample reason to congratulate ourselves on being law-abiding subjects of His Majesty.

One of the pleasantest events of late took place at Mrs. B. Lorne's residence in the village of Woodville in the meeting of sons and daughters and grandchildren of Mrs. J. Smith, reeve of the township of Smith, with the object of celebrating the anniversary of her 83rd birthday. Those present on this happy occasion were Angus Smith and wife, of Kirkfield, his son Duncan and wife, Donald Smith and family and S. Cameron, his son-in-law, wife, son and daughter, Lorneville. All were gratified to see the aged lady feeling hale and hearty, and left wishing her a continuation of happy days.

GELERT.

Miss Elsie McElwain left on Wednesday for Ravenscliffe, where she has secured a position on the Public School staff of that section. Her many friends wish her all success in her new field of labor.

Miss Maude Robinson, who has been visiting the local Province for some time, reached Lindsay on Saturday, where she will visit friends before returning to Gelert.

The G. T. R. have filled a long-felt want in completely renovating the station, and we will not doubt have one of the neatest stations this side of the Atlantic when completed.

Mr. Townsend, of Burnt River, visited friends in town this week.

Messrs. T. Stinson & Sons have purchased the heavy and stage business heretofore carried on by Mr. John Mounsey, of Minden.

Mr. H. Garrett, of Minden, paid a visit to town on Monday.

Mr. W. F. Ritchie was visiting friends in Haliburton this week.

Mrs. A. J. Scott paid a flying visit to friends in Minden this week.

NORTH MANVERS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Mr. Robt. Thornton spent part of last week visiting the fair sex of Gethary.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shier, of Brucebridge, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Herderson last week.

Miss Lulu Bushell, who was spending her holidays with her aunt, Mrs. Sam. Jamieson, of Gethary, returned to her home last Monday.

Mr. Norman Reid, of Reabro, visited his sister, Mrs. Wesley Irvine, on Thursday last.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. David Thornton on Friday, Jan. 10th when that generous gentleman and his wife, Miss Maude, opened their home to a selected party of invited guests.

The evening passed quickly in various games and plays of a sociable description; then at an early hour all prepared to return to their various homes. Before breaking up, however, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton received many hearty thanks for the very pleasing manner in which they endeavored to make each one happy themselves.

Dame Rumor reports the expectation of some wedding in the near future. Hurry up girls!

OAKWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Boots for many boys' size 4, women's size 2 1-2 and 3, regular $1 and $1.25. Selling at 75c a pair before stocktaking at Hogg Bros.—w1.

The defunct Agricultural Society of the township of Mariposa had its annual meeting in the town hall on Wednesday, Jan. 8th.

The object of the meeting was to re-organize and put the society on a solid footing, so that it will be able to pay one one hundred cents on the dollar.

The meeting was successful, and the following gentlemen were elected officers for 1902: Geo. Marks, President; W. Rich, 1st Vice-President; Dr. Craig, V. S., Little Britain, 2nd Vice-President; Directors, Philip Mark, A. O. Hogg, Jos. Found, (Fingerboard), Robt. Froize, A. McKinnon, Jas. Cayley, Penn. King, John Cullis and D. Dundas.

Champion, the tailor, turns out good fits and Hogg Bros. supply the annual new styles for Suits, Overcoats and Pants to order at low prices during January—w1.

Quite a number of Oakwood people went to Lindsay Friday night to take in the hockey match. As the match was good and the weather ideal for driving, all parties were much pleased with their outing.

The annual meeting of the Public Library was held on Monday evening for the election of officers, etc., and also for the sale of papers and periodicals for the year. There was a good crowd and everything passed off successfully. The following were elected directors for 1902: Rev. G. C. Clark, Rev. Mr. Webster, Mr. T. Hogg, A. C. Hogg, Dr. Chambers, E. G. Lytle, Less, Bowas, James Taylor and T. G. Dickey. The directors will meet Friday night to appoint secretary, president, treasurer, etc.

Rev. G. C. Clark is holding revival services at the Graham appointment, commencing this week.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) We are glad to see Master Horace Metherell out again after his long illness of typhoid fever, and although he is rather shaky yet, he is gaining rapidly.

On Friday evening, Jan. 10th, a grand carnival was held on the C. P. R. skating rink of the village. The ice was in excellent shape, and it was a fine night. A large crowd was present and some 25 or thirty were in costume. All enjoyed themselves greatly and are looking forward to another in the near future.

Mr. Walter Everson, of Rochester, paid a short visit under the parental roof.

Mr. T. H. Morton, post-master, has engaged Mr. William Jenkins as clerk in his office.

Kindly bear in mind the basket social at Mr. Dan. Noble's. A fine time is expected, and several loads are going from the village and neighborhood.

Mrs. E. Z. Yorex was in Lindsay last week visiting her brother.

What's the matter with our Sons of Temperance? They have not had a meeting for some time. We think they had better be making a move or they will become extinct.

No need to take boots to Lindsay to get them repaired as Mr. E. E. Gillman, our harness-maker, has opened an outfit and is doing well with it.

There is great rejoicing at Isaac Rendle's over the coming of a young son.

Mr. Heler Cornish is recovering slowly under the skillful treatment of Dr. G. W. Hall.

Several loads of pulp are seen going to Mr. W. E. Yorex's implement shop, so business must be rushing.

In a runaway Mr. J. Jenkins had the misfortune lately to have his horse badly cut and his cutting set, and he cannot use his driver yet.

BEATS BEET SUGAR ALL TO PIECES. GOUGH'S PULVERIZING INVENTORY SALE

The success of successes and still busier days foreshadowed. You must come here, you must witness with your own eyes the boundless, greatly underpriced opportunities of this sale. It is positively without an equal in the past or present history of stock taking in Lindsay.

The stock you choose from is unquestionably the Largest, and the reductions in price Unparalleled. It is an out and out sale. Price cutting has been mercilessly deep, as our aim is to meet each season with absolutely fresh new clothing.

A COLLECTIVE SWEEPING SALE

Of all Garments, no matter how fine or what the cost. A great Immolation Sale. From the front on Kent-st. to the rear on William-st., and from basement to roof.

We must close out all goods in season before the middle of February. We must live 'up to the rule of the store, and cut prices on MEN'S, YOUTHS' and BOYS' CLOTHING, regardless of cost or from selling figures. Hats and Furnishings included.

OVERCOATS, in Box Shapes, Raglans, Raglanettes, Chesterfields etc., MUST GO.

SUITS, in Business, Dress, Morning and Sacks MUST GO.

ULSTERS with deep storm collar in Frieze, Oxford Greys and Black, MUST GO.

TROUSERS in all the regulation patterns, styles, cuts and finish, MUST GO.

BOYS' 2-Piece and 3-Piece Suits, Overcoats, Reefers, and Ulsters, MUST GO.

Come and ask to see anything you might need.
We'll give you Bumper Value now—bigger than GOUGH'S biggest.

B. J. GOUGH,

LINDSAY, January 16th, 1901.

THE BIG CLOTHIER.

THE LEGISLATURE.

18,000 Applications Received For Volunteer Land Grants, and 2,750,000 Have Been Set Aside For Occupancy.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—At the Legislative Assembly yesterday, a large number of petitions, principally from Methodist churches, were presented, praying for the enactment of a prohibitory liquor law.

Mr. Hoyle introduced a bill to reduce the expenses of the administration of justice.

Mr. Matheson asked what amount was received by the Province during the past year as bonus on timber limit sales, and what amount was still owing on account of bonus on past sales.

Hon. E. J. Davis stated that the amount received was $571,888 and that the sums falling due between the present time and June 20th, amounted to an aggregate of $210,247.

Mr. Matheson asked how many applications had been received for volunteer land grants under the act of last session; how many townships had been set aside for such grants, and what was their total area.

Hon. Mr. Davis replied that about 18,000 applications had been received and that 19 townships had been set aside as open for the location of volunteer land grants, having a total area of 2,750,000 acres. No grants had as yet been located.

The House rose after a sitting lasting about a quarter of an hour.

PROHIBITION IN P.E.I.

The Supreme Court in Latest Judgment Sustains the Act.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Jan. 15.—The Supreme Court yesterday morning delivered judgment as to the validity of the Prohibition Act. The decision arose out of application by Angus McDonald to remove by certiorari a record of a conviction made against him to the Supreme Court on the ground that the Prohibition Act is ultra vires. The judges were unanimous in sustaining the law. McDonald's application was dismissed.

A Prohibition Act on the same lines as the Manitoba Act went into force in the Province of Prince Edward Island last spring. It prohibits the sale of intoxicants within the province, but does not prohibit the importation, so that it does not interfere with Dominion revenues in the same way that it has been declared the Manitoba Act does interfere.

There is a peculiarity, however, about the Prince Edward Island Act. The Scott Act was in force in every county and town of the province, except the city of Charlottetown, where it has been in and out of force with varying regularity for some years. The new act gives prohibition to all the island, but in the counties the Scott Act, being the Dominion act, comes first.

FOR THE CORONATION.

American Special Representatives Announced by Secretary of State.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The Secretary of State yesterday announced the names of the following persons who are to be special representatives of the United States Government at the coronation of King Edward.

Special Ambassador, Whitelaw Reid of New York.

Representative of the United States army, General James H. Wilson of Delaware.

Representative of the United States navy, Captain Charles E. Clark, commander of the battleship Oregon during the Spanish-American war, and now Governor of the Naval Home at Philadelphia.

There are to be three secretaries, as follows: J. E. Morgan, Jr., son of J. Pierpont Morgan of New York; Edmund Lincoln Baylis, a barrister of New York, and William Wetmore, son of Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island.

To Go to Coronation.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—It has been announced that Prince Henry of Prussia on his return from the United States will be deputed to represent Emperor William at the coronation of King Edward.

BRITISH STEAMER FIRED ON.

Rev. Chas. E. L. Cowan, Chaplain of the Glory, Severely Wounded.

Hong Kong, Jan. 14.—The British steamer Nanning (belonging to the Hong Kong, Canton & Macao Steam Coal Company, Limited), of Hong Kong, has been fired on by Chinese soldiers in the Tam Chau channel, West River. The chaplain of the British flag ship Glory (the Rev. Charles E. L. Cowan, M.A.) who was on board, was severely wounded.

Russians Arresting Americans.

Peking, Jan. 14.—Paul Lessar, Russian Minister to China, has arranged for telegraphic communication between the United States Minister here and the consul of the United States and New Chwang. The consul at New Chwang has telegraphed that the Russians there are arresting American naval officers and sailors on groundless charges.

KILLED BY INSECT POWDER.

Farmer Gets Some of It Into a Cat and Blood Poisoning Ensues.

Galt, Jan. 15.—James Keachie, a well-known farmer who lived near Galt, died Monday as a result of blood poisoning. While working about his barn some days ago he got some particles of an insect powder into a small cut in his lip, and blood poisoning developed shortly afterwards. Mr. Keachie had spent his entire life in this community, and was highly respected by all. A wife and three children survive him. He had recently sold his farm with the intention of removing to this town within a few weeks.

Bought Their Lives For $5.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 15.—Two skaters, Fritz Gartner and Robert Quest, were saved from drowning yesterday by a negro tramp. The pair were gliding over the ice on a creek on the outskirts of the town when they fell through an air hole. Their cries for help attracted the attention of the negro. He grasped a pole and hurried to the edge of the stream.

"Gimme $5 and I'll pull you out," he said.

"Every cent we've got, but hurry," responded Gartner, clinging to the ice.

In another minute Gartner and Quest were safe on the bank, shivering and counting their money. The tramp was satisfied with the $5 demanded, and when he had it in his possession disappeared.

Got His Drunk Belladonna.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—At 1 o'clock this morning, Louis Gorrie was taken to the Emergency Hospital, suffering from belladonna poisoning. He was unconscious and appeared to be in a critical condition. The usual antidotes were administered, with the result that he recovered somewhat.

At 2 o'clock he was still in an unconscious condition. How Gorrie came to take the poison is not definitely known. Gorrie is about 25 years of age and has a wife and one child. He is a tailor.

Died From His Wounds.

London, Jan. 15.—Jacob Jacks, the young Indian who shot himself accidentally while hunting three weeks ago, died at Victoria Hospital last night.

Domestic Rifle Association.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—The annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association will take place on Wednesday, March 5th.

Here Smallpox.

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—Two fresh cases of smallpox developed here

NOTICE re. SEED PEAS

We beg to inform the farmers of Victoria County and adjoining Counties that we now have our Seed Peas prepared to place with growers who have left their names for the same.

We wish they would call for the seed before First of February. Any farmers who have not booked their names
for seed and wishing to grow the same would please call at the seed warehouse and leave their names. We still have some left to place with growers.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

BURNT RIVER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The Farmers' Institute meeting held here the afternoon and evening of Saturday, drew a large and good crowd and were much appreciated by all. The practical lessons given, especially the "tasting" part. Mr.
A. E. Silverwood, of Dundas & Flavelle Bro's., Lindsay, gave a short, interesting talk at the afternoon
session.

Messrs. Gas Sundry and Will
A. King left for Wilberforce the other day.

Several from this vicinity attended the church service of the Freemasons in Kilmount last Sunday.

We are glad to be able to report
all our patients doing well and no
new cases.

CANNINGTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
A union service was held here in the Methodist church in connection with the Bible Society. It was a success in every particular. The pastor of the Society, Rev. Mr.
J. H. Hester, occupied the chair. The speakers were the resident ministers.
Mrs. Aney and Miss Pearl Harwood left last week to take a commercial course in the Business College.

The entertainment which was to have been given by Miss Pauline Johnston and Mr. McRae in the town hall last Friday night, was postponed
owing to the illness of Miss Johnston.
It will be a treat to look forward to yet.

A concert under the auspices of the Mechanics Institute will be given in the town hall next month, and here let me say that the town hall is badly in need of being enlarged or replaced by a new one, as crowds are often turned away for want of seating accommodation.

The Black Knight will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church next Sabbath morning and evening, and will also deliver a lecture Monday night.

KIRKFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Enquiring friends are glad to learn that Miss Jean Campbell, who underwent an operation for appendicitis
at the City Hospital, Hamilton about two weeks ago, is doing nicely, and will soon be able to return home.

Miss Graham, of Fenelon Falls, is enjoying a visit with her aunt, Mrs.
E. Campbell.

Misses Wood gave a very pleasant progressive party on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. Billingsley, G. T. R. agent, and Mrs. Billingsley returned last Friday from their visit to Galveston, Chicago,
New York and other points.

Mrs. R. Campbell attended the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Foreign Missionary Society
held in Beaverton on Tuesday, 14th.

Mr. Newton Smale, of Ops, paid our town a flying visit last week.

Miss Burling left last Monday for Toronto, where she will attend the Normal.

About thirty guests responded to the kind invitation of Miss Perry to progressive party on Monday, and spent a most delightful evening.

Mr. McEachern and Miss Jack Wood were the lucky winners and received the prizes. Mr. and Mrs. Perry were as usual indefatigable in their efforts to make every one enjoy themselves, and they certainly were successful.

KING'S WEARE.

Mr. A. A. Ho go, who has been a resident here, has removed to a farm near Bobcaygeon. He will be missed by all.

Mr. Joe McMan is again in the lumbering business and will put a lot of lumber on Highway Lake.

A lot of wood is being drawn from here to Lindsay, and the prices are said to be good. The roads are getting rough for wood drawing and everyone is anxious to finish.

The quiet serenity of our otherwise peaceful community has been much disturbed over our school, and the office of trustee just now is a much sought after position. The large school tax on this section has set nearly all the ratepayers kicking
"with both feet" and they are now seeking redress. The annual meeting resulted in the defeat of one of last term's trustees, and now another has been disqualified. This will give some more of the anxious aspirants
a chance to try their luck. The retiring trustees have every reason to be congratulated on their choice of a teacher, as Miss O'Brien comes well recommended and is sure to be a success.

LINDEN VALLEY.

(Special to The Post.)
A deep gloom of sadness pervades
our community. Our highly esteemed and beloved neighbor, Mr. Richard Cruess, passed peacefully away on Monday, Jan. 20th. For several months his health had been failing and though loving friends and skillful physicians did their best, the hand of disease was not stayed. He was a suffering patiently, ever willing to submit to the Divine Will.
Influences have gone out from the sick room that will never be forgotten. His short life was spent in this neighborhood. He took a deep interest in the good of the community as well as that of his home. For many years he was a faithful volunteer in the Sabbath School. A large concourse of relations and friends followed his remains to the Friends' cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. G. R. Clare, assisted by Mr. Benjamin Hancock. His sorrowing wife, children, aged mother and relatives have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

HALIBURTON.

(Special to The Post.)
Mr. Sydney Johnston, express messenger on the Haliburton train, was presented with the following address, accompanied by a beautifully bound Morocco leather Book of Praise, a few nights ago at his home in Haliburton by the members of the Presbyterian church for officiating as organist of that church. To Sydney Johnston, Esq. Dear Sir--It gives us much pleasure, a few members and friends of the Presbyterian church at Haliburton, to meet with you and Mrs. Johnston in your home to express our hearty thanks to you for the kind and untiring, and cheerful manner in which you have contributed to the worship of our church as organist for a period of over two and one half years. You have been absent so little from the house of God that you are deserving of the highest praise. Had you been paid a salary of $200 or $300 for your services
we would then expect you to be at your post of duty. Since your services have been so heartily given without remuneration, we feel that we cannot thank you sufficiently for your kindness. We would here ask you to accept this Book of Praise
as a slight token of our appreciation of your services to our little congregation. The value is as nothing in comparison to the service rendered.
You have to some extent deprived yourself of the services of your own church in order to aid us in our worship. Had it not been for your kindness we might have been like the children of the Captivity, "we hang our harps on the willow tree," or
"Who shall sing us the song of Zion?"

BOLSOVER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
We are pleased to hear that Miss Sue McGivray, who has been very sick for some time, is steadily improving in health.

Mr. N. N. McLean has purchased a large stock of tinware, which he intends disposing of at a very low rate. Give him a call.

Mr. Samuel Nicholson paid some of his friends at Eldon Station a flying visit on Sunday last.

We are pleased to see Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur Moncrief have returned, after spending their honeymoon with their many friends at Kingston.

DUNSFORD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
A very successful and instructive meeting was held by the Farmers' Institute at Dunsford on Thursday evening and evening, Jan. 16th.

Mr. Cullis, president of the Institute, occupied the chair. At the afternoon meeting Mr. Glendenning spoke on "Feeding and Silos," and Mr. Mo-Nutt spoke on "Crop Failures, and how to Overcome them." At the evening meeting Mr. Silverwood, of Dundas & Flavelle Bros., gave some good pointers on "Forking." Miss Lynn gave some practical instructions on "Cooking." Mr. J. Beattie, the Misses Beattie and Lewis brothers entertained the audience with choice musical selections. Mr.
Skitch sang a solo, and altogether
a very enjoyable and profitable afternoon and evening was spent by those present.

White Bros. and Mr. Thos. Bell have erected a large building for grain
chopping, wood turning, planing, etc.
This new industry will materially assist the business of Dunsford and we wish the enterprising firm success.

Messrs. Gordon & Thurston are doing excellent work threshing clover.
A deputation from Downeyville waited on them on Monday and invited them to go out to that great clover growing district.

OAKWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
We inadvertently, last week, omitted to mention a most enjoyable and social evening spent at the Presbyterian manse Thursday, the 19th
inst. The welcome of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Webster and his family, to the village by the members of the congregation and adherents. Each section of the pastor's charge was well represented. The evening was spent with music and games until eleven p.m., when all hands adjoined to the dining room, where standing plates of well-cooked oysters, etc., awaited them, and to which most of them did justice. The party broke up about midnight, everybody saying they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

The meeting in the town hall recently, was a most successful one,
attended as it ought to have been Messrs. Ellis, Channon and Min-thorn were the speakers, the chair being ably filled by Wm. Parkinson.
Mr. Channon, we are pleased to notice, is improving very much as a speaker. He gave, in a very held and interesting manner, the details of his visit to Michigan, and was able to answer most of the many questions put in a satisfactory manner. We understand thirty-two acres were subscribed for, 10 of which were taken by Mr. Parkinson.

The basket social to be held by the Foresters of this place will be celebrated at the residence of Donald A. Anderson, 12th concession of Mariposa, on Friday evening, Jan.
31st. Everybody is extended a kind invitation, and from all accounts we believe nearly everybody is going.

It is with deep regret that we chronicle the death of Richard Cruess, a resident of the 12th concession. He was taken away in the prime of life, being only thirty-nine years of age. He leaves a young widow and family to mourn his loss.
His remains were followed to the Quaker Cemetery on Wednesday by a large concourse of mourners and sympathizing friends.

George Pascoe, of Toronto, is visiting for a few days some of his many friends in Oakwood.

RAILWAYS WILL DO AWAY WITH IT

Take Space in Papers.

Mr. M. C. Dickson, the popular District Passenger Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, told a Toronto reporter the other day that the Company were increasing their newspaper advertising, as they found it
the most profitable.

It is also understood that in 1902
all railroads will cut down on back fences and billboard advertising and expand the amount saved and more in taking more space in daily and weekly publications and periodicals.

Doctor Jack

By St. GEORGE RATHBORNE,
author of "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Baron Sam," "Miss Pauline of New York," "Miss Caprice," Etc.

At breakfast ends in after eight and the carriage awaits them at the door. Jack has given orders—the luggage is already down, so that all the time he has to do is to put on their outside wraps and leave the hotel.

Avis has become grave—she seldom smiles now, for there is a weight upon her mind. In leaving gay Paris she remembers the danger that lies ahead—their mission must occupy all thought now to the exclusion of everything else.

The ride to the station is almost a silent one—outside the rain patters down—then the sun breaks out, to be followed by another shower—it is just such an April weather day as we are accustomed to here, and yet the winter has hardly flown.

It is early yet—Doctor Jack has come long before the scheduled time for the train to leave in order to ascertain the truth about the Pasha. He walks up and down the platform—Avis remembers the scene at Madrid, where he did exactly the same thing, and hopes they will not have the same trouble en route that came to them in Spain.

Watching closely, Jack fails to discover anything of the party for whom he looks—the Pasha has not turned up. Nearer comes the time for starting, and still there are no signs of the Turk.

No wonder Avis' eyes follow him as he walks up and down the platform. There is nothing of false pride in his manner, no strut such as a vain man might show, but for all he has a firm, slight carriage, that indicates self-reliance and independence.

She is proud of him, and exceedingly glad to remember that he is her friend—that he has devoted himself to her cause. She has such confidence in Doctor Jack that it seems impossible any enterprise can fail which he backs with his indomitable will power. The man who conquered the black tort, and defeated the plots of the scheming Carlists, must surely be a master in the game now before them, and will discover some means whereby Aleck may be rescued from his awful position.

Then she remembers how she saw the disguised Mercedes approach him. Will she still follow, or is the game to be dropped at Paris? Unconsciously she, too, begins to glance beyond, and survey the people who pass in review, but she is not looking for the same party as Jack—he seeks the red fez and bronzed face of the Turk, while Avis is endeavouring to discover, under some disguise, the most dazzling black eyes she ever met. Not that she is jealous of Jack—she believes every word he has told her with regard to Mercedes, and yet somehow Avis feels that the Spanish woman does not mean to give up the game yet.

More time passes—she wishes the gong would sound, and Jack climb into the carriage. When this occurs she will feel better satisfied—as though he really belonged to her. As it is, Avis is in a continual nervous state lest something should occur to prevent his going with them—a number of things seem to flash into her mind—a telegram may be handed him requiring his attention on some grave business matter, or perhaps the crafty Pasha may prefer a charge against him, and the police arrest the American just before the train moves out. These things may seem foolish, but they are one and all within the range of possibility, and in her present frame of mind Avis can invent each with an air of truth.

So she holds her watch in her hand and casts many an anxious look upon it. Evidently Jack is preoccupied with his thoughts, for he passes the window a number of times without looking up to meet her eyes.

Finally he does so, and smiles in return for the look she waxes him. He gives a nod, and Avis lowers the sash to speak.

"Is it not nearly time, doctor?" she asks.

"Two minutes more. I think we will start out on time, which is a good beginning. See how they toss the luggage into the van. We can't say much worse of our baggage-smashers at home. There comes the man in charge of the train—note the proud step—Jove, a little authority makes fools of some men. A conductor on our side of the big pond attempting such dignity would be unmercifully laughed at, I tell you."

Avis herself has to laugh at the pompous Frenchman—she sees he is the Grand Mogul—guards cringe before him, and scowls behind his back. Jack has already bought up the fellow with whom they will deal, and the compartment has its allotted quartette, there is no danger of their privacy being intruded upon, which is the main cause for dissatisfaction with the European method of travelling first-class—you must either pay for the entire compartment or have disagreeable fellow passengers thrust in with you, unless wise enough to tip the guard heavily.

The rush now becomes a scramble, as belated travellers seek to get their tickets, look after luggage, and find accommodations. Many ludicrous scenes are always occurring at a time like this, and although it seems in a measure heartless to laugh, those who have a keen sense of the ridiculous cannot avoid smiling at the odd pictures presented.

As the critical moment draws nearer the excitement increases—its equal cannot be found on the globe, for in the main these people are excitable Frenchmen, and even the commonplace of life are rendered with dramatic fervour by the Gaul.

The magnate sweeps his electric gaze up and down the station, glances at his watch, gives one more look around to see that all eyes are upon him, holds his arm suspended in mid-air for just ten seconds, then, describing a grand parabolic sweep, it descends, the clang of a gong is heard, the guards cry, "all aboard!" in French, and there is one last mad-

modic effort on the part of the delinquents to gain some carriage.

Doctor Jack smiles—he has reason to feel satisfied, for not a trace of the Pasha has he seen, and in itself is evidence that the Turk has fallen into the hands of the enemy.

To toss away his cigar, and turns to enter the carriage, when a hand is laid on his arm. Avis gives a gasp of alarm as she sees a tall Frenchman in citizen's garb thus prevent the American from entering—she believes her worst fears are about to be realized, and Doctor Jack will be dragged off to jail on some trumped up charge—anything in order to separate him from the west.

To her satisfaction, however, while she clutches the ledge of the window, and holds her breath to catch what is said, she hears in French: "Doctor Jack Evans, I believe?" "Correct—you have—"

"This," and thrusting a paper into Jack's hand the tall Frenchman strides away.

There is no time to lose, and Doctor Jack enters the carriage, and presently they are sweeping through the outskirts of the great French capital.

Although suspecting what the message is—Jack glances at it eagerly—the writing is French, but he reads it like a native. No name signed—he needs none:

"The Pasha will not leave Paris today—he has changed his mind, and is paying a visit to underground Paris, which charms him so much he may desire to spend several days in exploring the mysticities described by Victor Hugo. Send your address—may warn you of his sitting."

CHAPTER XIX.

There are no secrets between the devoted quartette now—even Madame Sophie is interested in effecting the release of Aleck Morton, her favourite nephew, so Doctor Jack shows them the note, and they laugh over the lovely situation the Turk finds himself in this early spring morning. How he must fume and fret at the detention just at this time when time is of so much value to him. Perhaps a glimmer of the truth may creep into his brain, and if so his state of mind will certainly be anything but improved by the consciousness that his crafty enemy has outwitted him again.

"What is our course?" asks Larry, who has fallen back upon the cushions, and seems to be taking life easy—indeed, the little man has a way of doing this quite his own.

"We shall take the most direct line now open—there has been an unfortunate series of accidents happening lately that temporarily closes several routes. To reach Vienna, and then Buda-Pesth, we must pass through Baden and other portions of Germany. Wait, I will try and mark our course on this guide-book map."

So Jack busies himself while Avis leans over his shoulder looking on and offering suggestions now and then. A very pretty picture Larry thinks as he watches them through his half closed eyes, and it would be a shame for any man to ever come between two who seem to be so mutually smitten—so he nobly resolves to give up his own chances in the affair, and let Jack have a clear field—a resolution that does him credit under the circumstances, seeing that he has three times asked Avis to have him on and on each occasion sent the New York girl off into a spasm of laughing for which she has always apologized, though declining to enter into any partnership arrangement with a cousin.

They are making good time, and before the day ends stop at a station on the border, where a customs official makes a pretense of searching their luggage, receives his tip, glances at their passports, and they are free to enter Germany.

It is long after darkness sets in that they cross the historic Rhine, and feel they are in the heart of the German empire. Now at last the gentlemen step out at the stations to stretch their limbs and smoke. The night passes away. Once there seems a long delay, and Jack fears lest this, the last method of reaching Vienna, may be closed to them, as there has been an accident ahead. In case it is a landslide, that may be hours and days being cleared up, he soon makes up his mind what they will do.

In Europe money will accomplish wonders, even as in our own country, and in the morning they may find a conveyance of some sort that will take them beyond the obstruction, where they can find a train.

Should this fail, one more course remains—to pass down through the St. Gothard tunnel into Italy, reaching Venice on the Adriatic, and there taking a steamer for Constantinople.

Thus Jack lays his plans and goes to sleep—he is awakened by a jarring motion, and finds they are on the move again. Good! Only an hour or so has been lost.

Morning finds them at Munich, and if all goes well they should reach Vienna some time before the sun goes down in the west. Breakfast is eaten here, time being given the travellers. Avis looks a little jaded, but she seems to stand the rack of travel upon a Continental railway wonderfully well, Jack thinks, as he helps her back into the carriage. Again they are off, over the Danube, and along its banks, until finally another official appears. It is at Simbach, and they are now on the border of Austrian territory. Travellers in Europe grow accustomed to these things, but they are a terrible nuisance, and we never realize what this business is like in the States until we have a yellow fever epidemic like the one at Jacksonville, Florida, in the summer of 1888.

Vienna at last, and all well. They are obliged to remain over night in the Austrian capital, as there is no train until morning. True, they might take one of the boats down the Danube, but this would be slow work, indeed.

"Where shall we go?" asks Aunt Sophie, as they roll into the station, and see the omnibuses and cabs waiting in line just as in New York. "There is only one hotel here to my mind. That is called the Engländer Hof," declares Jack. "Ah! you have been here before," cries Avis, "we shall benefit by your knowledge."

And they do. Jack secures what information he desires to begin with, engages a carriage, and in a short time they are entered the city, and arrive near at hand, but after a long and luxurious of a little fresh air, the party start out to view the Ringstrasse near by.

One can spend most of the day in Vienna on the streets or in the parks—it is amusing to study the people to be met upon the streets of this great city, for Austria is not only a great city, but a great nation, and the people are a lively people, and the city one of the finest in Europe.

In the morning they leave Vienna, and once more their course is south-east. A long journey still lies before them, and at the end of it is the Turkish city, where they expect to find the prisoner of the Pasha.

Buda-Pesth is reached by noon, and to their surprise they find a magnificent city on both sides of the Danube, connected by a splendid bridge, Buda being on one shore and Pesth on the other.

During the afternoon they pass near the border of Serbia, but night still finds them in Austria. Another examination of notes—this time it is by the Turkish officials sure enough. They make slow progress now, for a lightning express in Turkey would be such a novelty that the Sultan's people might expire from fright.

The wearisome journey draws near an end, and with the morning they find themselves close to their goal. Great inroads have been made in the old time habits of the Turks by the progress of civilization rushing eastward. The advent of the railroad has changed many of their customs, and some of the most intelligent among the officials would follow after the ways of their Western neighbours if the mass of people were not so settled in their old dogmas.

Gradually the Turk is being pushed out of Europe—many of his fairest provinces have been taken away and made into new states that, formerly a coalition, will put a nation between Austria and the Black Sea. Some day there will be an upheaval, and Mr. Turk will cross the Bosphorus in a hurry, to return no more, when Constantinople, taken originally by force, will revert to new owners. The Turk is nothing if not philosophical, and when this dreadful day of disaster comes he will probably say, resignedly:—"Kismet! Allah is Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet."

At a quarter to ten Jack calls their attention to a sight that inspires them into a burst of enthusiasm. The sun has climbed half way up in the heavens, and as they chance to be upon an elevation where they can see the blue waters of the Bosphorus, before their vision comes a glimpse of Constantinople. Never, while they live, will they forget that first view of the Oriental city. It seems like the fantasy of a dream, with the golden sunlight flashing from numerous domes and minarets, marking the mosques, of which there are several hundred in Stamboul—as the natives call the city.

Soon the train reaches the station. Jack having been here before, knows the ropes, and pilots his party by means of what seems to be an underground railway into the city proper. Here they emerge, and find themselves in Stamboul—around them are the thousand and one strange sights that greet the traveller in Turkey today.

Jack takes them to a house—here he finds an old friend with whom Aleck and himself lodged on the former occasion, and who now receives him warmly. Hotels are almost an unknown luxury in Turkey, and what inns there are European visitors avoid as a general thing, seeking some private house to which they have been referred by friends who have been here before.

Avis watches Jack closely—she realizes that everything depends on him, and does not desire to divert his mind from the business on hand. She believes he will succeed, but the position is grave, and nothing must occur to annoy him.

As for Larry, he is in for seeing the sights, and without any loss of time proceeds to take them in, wandering about the crooked streets under the care of a man he has engaged who is an ordinary business is that of a hamal, or porter, but who nevertheless makes a good guide.

One can spend weeks in Stamboul sight-seeing—the mosques, almost always crowded, are a daily spectacle—then there are other things upon the streets to attract attention, such as the bazaars, with their glass roofs, where the Turkish tradesmen offer for sale the strangest things one can imagine—where are crowded in their stalls, elbow to elbow, men who carry on every business known to the Orient, and the display of goods is so varied, ranging from the jeweller and seller of henna, down to the maker of the national headgear, the fez, that one can easily imagine himself in an enchanted land.

Yes, Constantinople is a splendid lounging place, to pass away a month—new sights can be seen every day, and one does not even grow weary of the old ones.

Jack Evans has no time here for such a purpose, however—no man has a greater weight on his mind than he. Somehow he has reached the conclusion that his own fate depends upon his success in this game—that if he saves Aleck he wins his sister, and, indeed, remembering the desperate nature of the work before him, it is not out of the way to believe that he must rescue Aleck or lose his own life in the attempt.

Having seen the ladies safe in the house, Jack drives them a few directions, and then sets out to make arrangements. Most tourists when visiting the Turkish capital lodge at Pera, on the outskirts, where the English and American people congregate, and where the Europeans are generally to be found. Jack, however, prefers to be in the city itself, where he can hear the bells on St. Sophia call the Moslem to prayer, or the loud voice of the muezzin upon the minaret chanting the adan at sunrise—memories that never leave the mind in later years.

He has another motive. If the Pasha reaches Stamboul before the grand finale of the game, he will look for his enemy in Pera or Galata, the fashionable suburbs of the city, where, of course, he will not find him.

The detective force of Constantinople is hardly equal to that of Paris—when a man desires to hide himself in the former city he can easily do so, and it will only be by accident his whereabouts may become known.

So Jack believes himself secure. He purchases a red fez the first thing, and adopting this, renders himself less conspicuous, for many of the Turks have come to wearing just such garments as Frenchmen—they cannot quite go the usually loud costume of the average English tourist.

It may be set down for granted that Jack has his hands full, but he is feeling like a fighting cock, and is never better in his life, so if he fails, he cannot offer as an excuse that he was not in condition.

Two days and nights—that is the most he can count on ere Abdallah Pasha turns up—perhaps even now the Turk is on the way, driving fast as a European train can take him for the city on the Bosphorus, eager to thwart the schemes of his shrewd Yankee enemy.

Jack's first desire is to find this out—there is a telegraph line to Paris, and he seeks the Hotel de Londres in Pera, where he sends a message to the prefect of police, carefully worded, and desires an answer.

Then, knowing that it will be some hours before he can receive his reply, he asks the operator, a Frenchman, to hold it for him, after which he saunters away.

The Turks are accustomed to seeing Franks in all places, and derive much income from them, so that they pay no attention to them so long as they saunter about. Hence Jack is too wise to rush along, no matter what eagerness he may be restraining, but makes up for this by persistence, so that he gets there all the same.

Leaving Pera, he makes enquiries, and finally enters the shop of an armorer in a bazaar. The man looks at him closely, gives a cry of "Allah is great! it is my master," and kisses his hand impulsively.

This Turk is a man whom Doctor Jack has made his slave—when here before, circumstances allowed him to do Achmed a great favour, and the man fairly worships the ground he walks on.

Jack needs him now—he tells him what the risk is, but the man shrugs his shoulders, and says he would have been taken before but for Jack, and he is quite willing to jeopardize it now, if by so doing he may prove his gratitude.

Such words please the American, and he knows Achmed means it, too. He will do whatever he is told to the best of his ability. Jack becomes more positive in his belief that if Aleck is alive they will save him. He is very dogged in his way, and having set his course, will sail it until the mists are blown out, before changing.

He gives the Turkish armorer certain words to do, and declares that he will return to the shop to hear his report at dusk. Achmed knows where Abdallah Pasha has his residence, and the location of the great city, overlooking the blue Bosphorus—one of the loveliest sites the human mind could conceive. His grounds are noted for their magnificence. Certain European friends of the Pasha, who have travelled a great deal, have seen and admired the palace and its surroundings, but none of them have, with the owner's consent, ever set eyes on the interior of the harem or the seraglio, where the beautiful hours of the Orient pass their life of luxury.

Achmed has a hard task before him, but he is more than ordinarily shrewd for a Turk. It was from him Jack got his hint that his friend Aleck had not been killed, but was a prisoner in the Turk's palace, and he is now sent out, well supplied with money, to ascertain the exact truth.

As for Doctor Jack himself, he hies away to the water front. His idea is to buy a fast boat of some sort, and have it in readiness for immediate flight.

There are a number of men-of-war at the Golden Horn, and among others Jack sees one bearing the Stars and Stripes. What a thrill the sight of the star old flag gives him. If he could only rescue Aleck, and all of them get under the shelter of that flag, they would be safe, but he knows the commander would not dare shelter them after they have entered a Turkish palace and defied the power of a Pasha, so he makes up his mind to depend only on himself.

Making enquiries he finds a vessel for sale, and discovers she is an English yacht, small in build, but well manned. He meets the owner on board, has a private talk, and in half an hour the Thistle-down is his. The crew greet their new master, and Jack is in charge.

He has a talk with the captain, and examines the interior of the yacht, making some suggestions regarding the hold, where a fine hiding-place can be made between two bulkheads.

Having given explicit orders, Doctor Jack again lands. It is long past high noon, and he has done remarkably well for the few hours he has been at work.

Something to eat is easily obtained at a cafe, and Jack is enough of a Turk to know what is best, so he fixes well where a stranger might almost starve.

After this is over he again seeks the hotel in the Pera suburb, eager to see what the news may be from Paris. A dispatch is awaiting him—it is brief and to the point.

He left Paris on the night of the fourth. Jack calculates quickly, consults his red-covered vade mecum, which gives the arrival and departure of trains. Unless the Pasha is detained on the way, he will arrive at Stamboul some time early on the second night, but Jack has never known a train to be on time here, and he counts on having both nights entirely.

This is as much as he expected. The work is before them, and they must make haste. He hurries to the shop at Achmed. That work is not in, and he has to wait. Jack sees the armourer coming through the crowd, and the smoking oil lamps have been lighted in many of the booths, giving the scene an additional weird aspect as the dark faces and many-coloured garments of the groups are seen under the yellow of these illuminating agents.

Jack cannot but notice these things even while his mind is engrossed with the business in hand, for he is something of an artist in his way, and always grasps the picturesque.

Achmed makes an obeisance as he comes in—his veneration for the American is great. As is his usual custom, Jack proceeds to get the facts from him immediately.

He learns that the Turk has been in the palace of the Pasha, bribed one of the servants, and even looked upon Aleck Morton in his prison. This he describes to Jack as a dungeon beneath the ground, where Aleck has been kept all these weeks and months. His garments are in tatters, his face thin, but his Yankee spirit unbroken.

Twice he has attempted to escape, and came near doing it, but the vigilance of the guard prevented him. There is a grating of iron covering an air hole, that lets a ray of light into the dark dungeon during the day time. Could Achmed lead him to it after nightfall? The faithful Turk prostrates himself and declares it is impossible. Jack asks more questions, makes an appointment, and hurries away.

He hies himself to the home of the American minister—it is possible that this gentleman may interfere and save Aleck, for no matter what his offence has been, he is an American citizen, and entitled to the protection of his flag.

The fates are against him. He finds that the minister, together with the British ambassador, has gone off for a cruise on a new vessel that has just been built for the antiquated Turkish navy.

"When will he be back?" "With rare good luck, if the engines do not break down, in a day or so, but," with a shrug, "we always allow for accidents in Stamboul."

Just so, and this sets Doctor Jack back a peg or two in his calculations. He remembers the Quinebaug, the old style American man-of-war, then in port, and wonders if her captain dares to assist him, shakes his head, grinds his teeth together, and says, emphatically:—

"Before I could set the wheels going he would be here—no, I see very plainly this good arm alone stands between Aleck and death."

CHAPTER XX.

If ever Doctor Jack was aroused in all his life, he certainly is now—a lion at bay could not exhibit more animation, for success or failure means much to him. There are rare qualities about this man that make him an enemy to be feared—his usually quiet manner can be thrown off, and a fierce aggressiveness takes its place.

Passing along through the streets he heads toward the bazaar. Crowds jostle him—they are composed of representatives of many nations—Circassians, Arabs, Russians, Jews, negroes, Greeks, Armenians added to the Turk themselves, Servians, and natives of Montenegro—each in his national costume, make a spectacle not to be found elsewhere upon the globe. Looking neither to the right nor left, Jack more than once stumbles over some mangy cur, of which millions, one could almost say, roam the crooked thoroughfares and alleys of old Stamboul, where day and night magnificence and squalor go hand in hand.

A pilgrim with a camel, direct from Egypt or perhaps Persia, adds to the Oriental interest of the scene, while a fellow who has a performing bear from the Ural Mountains, draws quite a crowd but mightily few pleasures, for the Turks, as a rule, are close with their animal companions. So Jack pushes in. He is so wrapped up in thought that he overshoots his mark, and finds himself opposite a mosque, which he remembers in former days to have seen in the street when he was a boy in which Achmed has a stall.

His attention is attracted by the loud voices of a band of howling dervishes in the mosque, and he glances in for a moment to hear their continual shouts of "La ilha illa Allah!" and witness their contortions. Jack is no stranger to the sight. He has looked upon dervishes of all grades, from the dancers of Stamboul to those of the singing tribe, who take the place of our "Little German band" in Persian cities.

Turning back, he is soon in the bazaar—it is less crowded now, but Achmed is there, waiting, ready to lead the daring American to the prison of his friend, no matter what the danger.

SOME PHENOMENAL YIELDS

What the Rich Prairies of the North-West Can Produce.

Some of the crop reports already to hand from points in Manitoba and the Territories will make the eyes of Ontario farmers bulge out. Here are a few sample yields:

In the Regina district many returns are given of crops of wheat ranging from 40 to 45 bushels to the acre.

J. A. Snell, of Yorkton, threshed 28,000 bushels of oats from 450 acres, an average of 68 bushels per acre for a large acreage.

W. R. Motherwell, of Abernethy, threshed 2,650 bushels of wheat from a 50-acre field, an average of 53 bushels to the acre.

In the Edmonton district, T. T. Hutchings threshed 728 bushels of wheat from a ten-acre plot, an average of nearly 73 bushels per acre. S. Norman threshed 6,950 bushels of oats from 60 acres of land, an average of 116 bushels per acre. The publication of the actual yields again threshed will likely open the eyes of the people to the great capabilities of the western prairies.

There is nothing like Asthma lene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthma lene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overpromised yourself, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO., Gentlemen: Your Asthma lene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthma lene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N.Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthma lene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthma lene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M.D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Kingston street. S. FR. PHELAN LEAVES

Parishioners and Citizens Express their Regret.

TANGIBLE EVIDENCES OF THE PEOPLE'S APPRECIATION.

The Rev. Gentleman Presented with Three Addresses, a Purse of Gold a Secretary and Chair and Other Valuable and Substantial Gifts Prior to His Departure—Heartily, but Trausal Good-byes at the Station.

The good people of St. Mary's Parish have been sorely tried of late in having to endure the severance of cherished relations with two beloved priests. Barely three months ago Rev. Father Phelan, who had ably assisted the late Mgr. Laurent in ministering to the spiritual and other needs of the congregation—one of the largest in Ontario—was called by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, to labor elsewhere, and his departure was made the occasion of a remarkable demonstration of affection and regard by the parishioners, who during the four years of his stay in their midst had grown to love him with a strength only inferior to that of the bond existing between the people and their long faithful pastor and adviser, Mgr. Laurent.

Little did those who participated in that sad leave-taking think that in a few short months Rev. Fr. Phelan would again be in their midst to assuage the deep grief aroused by the saddest occurrence since the passing away of Father Stafford, the death of the good Mgr. Laurent. Bishop O'Connor, knowing the tender relations that had existed between Fr. Phelan and the congregation, again transferred him to Lindsay to administer the affairs of the parish pending the selection of a permanent pastor. The Bishop's choice was a wise one, Fr. Phelan being peculiarly fitted for the charge by reason of his knowledge of the parish affairs, the deep-rooted and tender friendship that had existed between Mgr. Laurent and himself, and also because his generous, sympathetic nature ever responded readily to sorrow with gentle and reassuring words. It was but natural, perhaps, that the congregation should cherish the hope that Bishop O'Connor might see his way clear to permit Fr. Phelan to remain in Lindsay, but the practice of the Roman Catholic church is to make young priests earn promotion by earnest self-denying and trying labors in smaller and more scattered parishes, and as this rule is well-known no surprise was expressed when the announcement was made ten days ago that Fr. Phelan had been transferred to the parish of Young's Point, where Fr. Fitzpatrick has labored for some years.

The Parish Hall Gathering. When the news was made public the members of the congregation held a meeting, and resolved to again mark a fitting manner their high appreciation of Fr. Phelan's performance of his priestly duties and his good qualities as a man. The plans culminated on the 15th inst., when at Parish Hall Fr. Phelan was made the recipient of several addresses, a purse containing $90 in gold, the ladies and a handsome oak secretary and chair from the men of the parish. The Parish Hall was crowded to the doors, between two and three hundred parishioners and a number of Fr. Phelan's Protestant friends being present when Mr. A. P. Devlin, chairman, called the gathering to order. Mr. W. E. Cain, Headmaster of the Separate School, read the following address:

To the Rev. Father Phelan, on the occasion of his departure from Lindsay after four years of Faithful Service:

Rev. and Dear Father,—There are occasions in the life of men when they are fully conscious of their inability to give expression to their inward feelings—feelings of sorrow or joy or both.

To-night we assemble to say "farewell" to you, our worthy and esteemed Father, to express our sincere regret at your departure, to joyfully hope that your well-merited elevation will bring you untold felicity, and to give a slight evidence of our appreciation of your valuable services as a priest and a pastor.

Your vigilant solicitude for the spiritual and temporal welfare of your flock, your natural genialities, exalted into sublime virtues, your kindly nature drawn out in the education of the fundamental truths of Catholicity, the great barriers of virtue and religion, stand as elaborate monuments of your God-like character.

Since the death of the universally lamented Monsignor Laurent, you have administered the parish with such tact and holy zeal that you have more than ever endeared yourself to the hearts of your sorrow-stricken brethren.

You have continually urged the success of all undertakings profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction and for instruction in righteousness.

In the nobler spheres of sentiment and thought your feelings have always found expression in the highest and noblest language, giving to us that pleasure of conscience, peace and happiness. Your lofty intrepid and inflexible spirit, combined with your sincerity, sanctity and zeal for the interests of religion, preach to us an eloquent sermon, while your bright and serene face, your temper and deportment, so suitable to the weighty charge and to the great purpose for which God continues you in the world, gains for you in Lindsay, as it will elsewhere, everlasting reputation and imperishable renown.

The summons has come and you have answered. We are delighted to know that His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, that prided prelate, ever yearning in his judgment, recognizes in you those marked qualities that will be so much in keeping with the functions of your important mission.

From the depths of our hearts we are sorry to lose you, yet that sorrow is somewhat lessened when we know that your leaving means the acceptance of a higher and more important ecclesiastical responsibility, as which promotion we desire to congratulate you and in which translation we earnestly wish you health and happiness. We feel that we would be failing in our Christian duty if we did not testify in some simple manner our deep love and admiration for you.

We therefore ask you to accept these small tokens, which when you gaze upon them, you may associate with the male members of the parish of Lindsay to whom you have devoted such faithful services and upon whose hearts your name has been indelibly.

I am delighted to see present a number of Lindsay friends who are true to our belief. It is an unobscured evidence of the good will and harmony that prevails in this community. For my Protestant friends I hold the greatest respect and kindest wishes. May such harmonious feeling ever exist, and the blessing of the King of Kings be over you.

I cannot give suitable expression to my thoughts and feelings to-night. Your two beautifully arranged addresses have pictured me as I should be, not as I am. To the ladies of the parish I am deeply grateful for the kind words, generous gifts, and above all, their expressed good will. To the men my thanks are many for their excessive generosity, their kind references and gracious blessings.

Of Lindsay and its associations I will always cherish the fondest recollections and constantly keep in mind the many evidences of your love and strong attachment.

In conclusion, I again thank you and ask you to remember me in your daily prayers. Bidding you farewell, and wishing you the choicest blessings of the Almighty, I express the fondest hope of man—that we shall all meet on that radiant shore.

Among the others speakers were Messrs. O. Bigelow, W. C. Cain, A. D. Molton, H. J. Lytle, G. H. M. Baker, W. F. O'Boyle, A. P. Devlin and Wm. Steers. "God Save the King" brought the pleasant affair to a close.

Remembered by Other Friends. The same evening Fr. Phelan was waited on by the ladies of St. Mary's Society, who presented the following address and a full set of Faber's Works in handsome binding.

To Rev. C. J. Phelan: The glad New Year is scarce e'en here, Ere clouds of darkness gather; And softly falls the silent tear, When parting from our Father.

Yet, Father dear, e'en though we part, These words have still our living; Your banished darkness from each heart, And left therein our shining.

Your lessons kind, and good, and true, Will speak "forget-me-not" In hearts which e'er will keep for you One sacred, treasured spot.

For Mary's children breathe a prayer To Throned God on high; At Mary's altar, kneeling there, Just whisper her one sigh.

We ask those books to speak sublime The thoughts we vain would tell; May they remind you of the time When Mary's children bade "Farewell."

The ladies of St. Joseph's Convent also contributed to the many expressions of good will by presenting to their spiritual adviser a set of magnificently embroidered altar cloths for the church at Young's Point, and several members of the convent, who wish their names withheld, manifested their esteem for their departing pastor by asking his acceptance of substantial sums for use in his new parish.

The Leave-Taking.

Fr. Phelan left town Thursday morning at 11 o'clock for Peterboro, and was escorted to the station by a large number of parishioners. The leave-taking was hearty and affecting.

THE LATE ROBERT MATCHETT

An Old Resident of Otonabee Passed Away at a Ripe Old Age.

Tuesday's Peterboro Review contained the following reference to the demise of Robert Matchett, brother of the late Thos. Matchett, Clerk and Treasurer of Victoria County, and uncle of Mr. T. C. Matchett, O. P. R. agent, town:

The funeral of the late Robert Matchett took place this afternoon from the home of his wife, Mrs. Matchett, at Little Lake cemetery. The late Mr. Matchett was 80 years of age at the time of his death and was one of the early settlers in this vicinity. His birthplace was County Cavan, Ireland, and when 12 years of age he came to Canada settling in Cavan. After a few years he moved to Otonabee, and continuously resided upon the farm where he then settled. His wife, a daughter of the late Adam Savage, died in 1828 years. There survive his three sons, Messrs. James, of town; John, of Otonabee; and Sandy, at the home of his wife, Mrs. Matchett, of Otonabee.

Deceased gentleman was at one time a member of the Methodist church, and was an adherent of the Methodist church. He at all times displayed an active concern in the best interests of the township, where he had many warm friends who in large numbers attended the funeral.

INTERPROVINCIAL TRADE IN LIVE STOCK.

Some Interesting Facts About the Trade Between Eastern and Western Canada.

Trade in live stock between Eastern and Western Canada has been growing rapidly within the last few years. This increase of trade has been promoted, and in fact made possible, by the wise and generous treatment of the C.P.R. During the month of December, and the first eight days in January, forty-six cars of grade and pure-bred cattle were shipped from Eastern Canada to British Columbia. These cars contained 2,223 head, and cost in the east something over $300,000. Besides these, a considerable number have recently been sent to the north-west territories, and orders have now in hand for additional shipments to be made to the mentioned Territory. In order to promote this trade, which has proved very profitable in many districts in Eastern Canada, farmers should use first-class Shorthorn bulls. By careful selection and wise treatment females sired by such bulls will prove excellent dairy cows.

It is a noticeable fact that seventeenth of the stock used for dairy purposes in Great Britain are Short-horn and Shorthorn grades. Probably the most suitable dairy cow for the average farmer is the Shorthorn or cross. Steers whose dams are strong grade Ayshire cows, got by a Shorthorn bull, prove excellent feeders and very desirable shipping cattle. As dairy animals there are none, in the hands of the general farmer, that will excel the Shorthorn-Ayshire cross.

Election of Officers.

The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year: Directors—J. M. Knowlson, J. D. Flavell, Wm. Needler, James Keith and W. A. McLennan, auditors, G. A. Little and T. W. Greer.

A meeting of directors was then held, when Mr. J. M. Knowlson was re-elected President and Mr. G. H. Hopkins Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Keith was asked to be relieved—he stated he had taken the position at the request of Mr. Flavell when the affairs were in a bad state, but now in good shape and as he was a busy man he felt he should be relieved, and a young man appointed, but as there was a unanimous request he consented to act for the new year on the understanding that he then be relieved.

Report of the Directors.

To the Shareholders.—The Directors for 1901 beg to present the eighth annual report as follows:

1. That a detailed statement of receipts and expenditures, and of assets and liabilities, duly audited, is herewith annexed.

2. That the total capital stock of the Club is $9,000.00, divided into 300 shares of $30 each, the whole of which has been subscribed for and paid up.

3. That during the year, in accordance with the resolution passed by stockholders on 7th June, 1901, we have enlarged the rink by adding additions on both sides so as to give us two extra sheets of ice, so that we now have one of the best rinks in the province, with six splendid sheets of ice. The total cost of additions, as shown by the accounts, was $730.63.

4. That owing to the additions we deemed it advisable to increase the insurance from $500 to $2,000, and we have taken out a new policy for that amount, which expires 19th of October, 1904.

5. That in order to pay the cost of the new additions, it was at first decided to issue new stock, but on consideration it was found that our total capital was fixed at $9,000.00, of which $2,940.00 had been subscribed and paid for, and that to increase the same would cost over $180.00, the government fee alone being $100. To meet the difficulty Messrs. J. D. Flavell and G. H. Hopkins kindly offered to place their stock at the disposal of the Club, and transfer the same to new subscribers, and take their notes in payment thereof, and advance the cash to the Club to build the additions, of which the balance of the cash of $100 was repaid.

6. That the question of paying dividends in the future depends entirely on the amount we receive from the Lindsay Curling Club for the use of the rink. Last year we could not pay any dividend, and this year's receipts are not so certain to declare a dividend in advance. It will be seen from the accounts that we are practically even, with the exception of the permanent loans, and as the new loan of $940.00 at 4 per cent. yearly, which entails an additional expenditure of $25.60 a year, we can see no reason why we could not be able to pay the usual dividend next year.

ONTARIO ESTIMATES

Public Accounts of the Province Show Growing Revenues.

BUDGET SPEECH ON WEDNESDAY

Premier Ross Promises the Government Bill on the Assessment Question Within a Reasonable Time—Estimated Expenditure for the Current Year—What the Public Accounts Show—The House Routine.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—In the Legislature to-day Mr. Barr introduced a bill to amend the Municipal Act and Hon. J. M. Gibson a bill to amend the Devolution of Estates Act.

Mr. Hoyle moved for a return showing the amount of money received from private parties towards the support of relatives or otherwise in the Insane Asylums during 1901.

Hon. Mr. Stratton said there was no objection to furnishing the information, and the motion was adopted.

Mr. Foy took exception to a statement in an evening paper to the effect that he was not ready to proceed with his bill respecting scrap iron assessment on Friday. He was perfectly ready to go on with the bill on Wednesday, but was precluded from doing so by the rules of the House, which required that the bill should be first printed and distributed.

Hon. G. W. Ross said he was glad to learn that the honorable gentleman was willing to obey the rules of the House.

A message from the Lieut.-Governor was presented with the estimates for 1902.

Hon. G. W. Ross in reply to questions stated that with the consent of the House the Budget Speech would be the first order of the day on Wednesday. The Government bill on the assessment question would be introduced within a reasonable time.

Estimated Expenditure. The estimated expenditure of the current year is as follows: Lieut.-Governor's office $3,805, Attorney-General's Department $17,800, Education Department $19,750, Crown Lands Department $66,700, Public Works Department $30,950, Provincial Secretary's Department $20,200, Inspection Public Institutions $17,950, Audit, License and Justice accounts $9,900, Registrar-General's branch $12,550, Provincial Board of Health $8,050, Department of Agriculture $19,560, Insurance Branch $8,550, Neglected Children's Branch $6,100, Miscellaneous $12,400, total $285,040. The item for the Education Department shows a decrease of $1,030 and the Treasury Department a decrease of $700. The principal increases are inspection of public institutions $1,325, miscellaneous $1,000, and Crown Lands Department $900.

The public accounts for 1901 show a total expenditure of $4,038,834.49, as compared with $4,003,729.87 for 1900. The expenditure under the various heads was as follows: Civil Government $281,135.68, Legislation $134,138.84, Administration of Justice $416,042.82, Education $782,198.33, Public Institutions Maintenance $838,163.97, Immigration $4,825, Agriculture $209,858.94, Hospitals and Charities $192,280, Repairs and Maintenance $91,681.32, Public Buildings $194,607.99, Public Works $60,847.51, Colonization and Mining $128,801.38, Charges on Crown Lands $179,008.85, Refunds $24,314.50, Miscellaneous $254,738.68, Railway Subsidy Fund $96,209.36, Annuities $102,900, Drainage Debentures, Municipal, $4,997.46, Drainage Debentures, tile, $2,100, University of Toronto $25,281, Common School Fund $9,706.91. The total receipts for the year were $4,466,043.92. The principal items were Dominion Subsidy and special grant $1,196,872.80, Interest $189,176.41, Crown Lands Department $1,618,809.64, Licenses $376,372.83, Supplementary Revenue Act $287,508.83, Succession Duty $365,581.96, Public Institutions $97,785.75.

The public accounts for 1901 show a total expenditure of $4,038,834

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 24th '02

NOW HOLDS 133 SEATS

Dominion Government's Majority in the Commons is 57.

CORNER BEEF INVESTIGATION

A Board of Inquiry Now Sitting at Ottawa—The Quality Was Complained of by British Officers—Recommended for Decorations—N.Y.C. Gets O. and N.Y. Railway—A Big Demand From the Yukon.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The Government now holds 133 seats in the House of Commons, as against 76 opposition, showing a ministerial majority of 57. There are, however, four seats yet vacant—Victoria, B. C., Lisgar, Quebec West and Massonville, or Terrebonne. Mr. Proulx was returned for both the last-named constituencies, but cannot say which seat he will hold until the election proceedings in Terrebonne are concluded.

To Retire Certain Judges.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—It is stated that a movement is on foot to compel the retirement from the bench of certain judges who are incapacitated either by extreme age or physical infirmity from properly discharging their judicial duties. This action is said to be contemplated by members of Parliament, who promise to bring the matter before the House of Commons when it meets. The proposed action, according to rumor, meets with the approval of a numerous section of the legal fraternity, who have experienced great inconvenience from the existing state of affairs.

May Get a New Trial.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—It is improbable that Frank Wabey, the Indian who was recently sentenced at Hull for the murder of Trader McCabe at Silver Lake, may get a new trial on a technicality discovered yesterday. The scene of the murder is away in the upper Galtineau region, and it was assumed to be situated in Ottawa County. Yesterday it was discovered to be situated in Montcalm, and Wabey's counsel will move for a new trial in the Chief Lieu of that county.

Anti-Prohibitionists Coming.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—A delegation representing the interests directly opposed to prohibition will descend in force upon the Ontario Government next Friday. The movement will be the response to an urgent wish sent out by the Licensed Victuallers' Association of the province.

QUALITY OF TINED MEAT.

An Investigation Upon Some Sent From Canada to South Africa.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—A board of experts at the Department of Agriculture yesterday afternoon to enquire into the character of certain shipments of Canadian tinned meat sent to South Africa. The investigation is the result of complaints made by British officers in the field about the quality of the tinned meat shipped from Canada. The Department of Agriculture interested itself in the matter, and asked that samples of the meat be sent back to this country for enquiry. This was done, and the samples reached Ottawa a couple of days ago. The commission of inquiry consists of Mr. Montezum, director-general of Public Health, Lieut.-Col. Biggar of the Army Service Corps, Mr. Thomas Macfarlane, chief analyst of the Inland Revenue Department, and Mr. Bates, of the firm of Bates & Co.

RECOMMENDED FOR DECORATION.

List of Officers Who May Get Colonial Auxiliary Badge.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The following officers of the Canadian forces have been recommended for the colonial auxiliary force decoration: Lieut.-Col. A. D. Aubrey and J. H. Brodie, reserve of officers; J. B. Chalkley, 56th Regiment; C. Clarke, retired list; Brevet-Lieut.-Col. J. Deacon and J. Dumville, retired list.

Surg.-Lieut.-Col. H. R. Durr, 4th Hussars, G. T. Evans, 36th Regiment, J. B. Forsyth, F. W. Gray, C. Hunter, retired list, C. S. Jones, reserve of officers, S. S. Lazier, retired list, C. W. A. Lindsay, retired list, Hon. Surg.-Lieut.-Col. N. R. Moore, 41st Regiment; Lieut.-Col. S. J. Mutrie, 30th Regiment, C. J. Macdonald, reserve of officers, W. McGibbon, retired list, R. L. Nelles, reserve of officers, W. Nicoll, 1st Brigade Division Field Artillery, T. Ross, E. G. Scott, retired list, J. S. Skinner, 14th Regiment, A. S. Stevenson, retired list, Hon. Col. J. Tilton, reserve of officers, Lieut.-Col. S. J. F. Turnbull, retired list, G. S. Vien, 6th Regiment, C. A. W. White, reserve of officers, A. N. Worthington, Militia Army Medical Staff; Surgeon-Major T. A. Brison, retired list, Major W. R. L. Foster, retired list; Brevet-Major E. F. Gunther, 2nd Regiment; Hon. Major T. H. Proctor, 55th Regiment; Brevet-Major J. B. Thompson, reserve of officers; Hon. Major A. S. Woodburn, retired list; Captains E. D. Adams, J. Alkens, E. Garneau, J. A. Gennet, retired list; Hon. Major D. Seath, 1st Regiment, Major T. O. Forman, retired list.

N.Y.C. GETS O. AND N.Y.

Report Revised in Ottawa of Vanderbilt Getting Control.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The report is revised that the Ottawa and New York Railway, has been acquired by the New York Central, and henceforth the Ottawa line will form part of the Vanderbilt system and be worked as a through line between the Canadian capital and the Empire City. The connection between the two systems has been completed since the opening of the bridge across the St. Lawrence at Cornwall last year. Inquiries at the office of the Ottawa and New York Railway in this city failed to bring about a confirmation of the story, but there is admittedly a probability that the road will ultimately be acquired by the New York Central system.

WANTS INDEPENDENCE.

Yukon Council Formulates Its Desires in the Governing Line.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The Yukon Council has forwarded to the Governor-General-in-Council a memorial, in which it presents the following requests:

Representation in the Senate.

The addition of five elected members to the present Yukon Council.

The division of the territory into elected districts, and the setting apart of money for election expenses and members' traveling expenses.

Control of the liquor traffic in the Yukon.

The nomination of an Inland Revenue officer in the Yukon.

The right to establish breweries.

The setting apart of funds for the maintenance of schools and roads.

The right for the Yukon Council to adopt all ordinances relative to Yukon matters independently of the Ottawa Government, which, however, should retain the right of veto on Yukon statutes.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Presentation of Petitions and Introduction of Bills the Only Business Brought Before the House.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—At the Legislative Assembly yesterday about fifteen petitions in favor of prohibition were presented, and it was not a particularly good day for petitions either.

Bills were introduced by Mr. Barr to amend the manhood suffrage Act by Messrs. Hoyle and Preston to amend the Municipal Act and by Mr. Auld to amend the Ontario Game Protection Act.

Hon. Mr. Gibson, in moving the second reading of the bill to amend the Marriage Act, explained that it was not proposed to amend the law as it stood, but simply to set forth on the Statute Book the prohibited degrees of consanguinity. Only the Dominion Parliament could alter the law. The measure was therefore a merely formal one.

The bill received a second reading and the House adjourned.

New License Inspectors.

The following additional license commissioners for the province have been appointed:

Haldimand—James Mitchell, Robert Buckley, Andrew Williamson.

South Essex—John Askew, Horatio Y. Pickering, Alexander Chauvin.

North Waterloo—Walter Veitch, William Shafer, J. N. Zinkam.

East Kent—Thomas H. Tape, Archibald McDiarmid, Absalom J. C. Shaw.

South Bruce—Andrew Waechter, Daniel Sullivan, James McLeod.

South Lanark—Ralph Dodds, John H. Fraser, Henry Miner.

East York—George F. Morgan, James Molloy, Alexander Russell.

East Peterborough—William Moher, James M. Drummond, James Bryans.

South Renfrew—Peter O'Reilly, T. J. Morgan, Dr. E. D. Galligan.

East Victoria—William Wattle, W. C. Moore, John Howie, sr.

Lincoln—William B. Rittenhouse, Joseph Healey, Charles Haak.

South Oxford—Andrew Sutherland, James Ryan, John Rock.

South Wentworth—Frederick Renkie, Thomas Stewart, J. Fred Smith.

Prescott—Julien Brisbois, jr., Alphonse La Belle, Odilon Sequin.

British Steamer Ashore.

Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—The British steamer, Manchester Corporation, Philadelphia, for Manchester, is ashore on Joe Flogger Shoal in the Delaware Bay, 16 miles from the Delaware breakwater.

The Pope is Not Ill.

Rome, Jan. 18.—The Pope is in excellent health, considering his age, and there is no truth whatever in the stories that he is gravely ill. On the contrary, he received yesterday the members of the Roman aristocracy at the Vatican and delivered a speech urging Catholic union against the divorce law proposed by the Italian Government.

SALISBURY SAYS "NO"

Premier Says He Knows Nothing of Peace Negotiations.

THE KING OPENS PARLIAMENT

Special Reference to Troops' Humanity in South Africa Evokes Aristocratic Cheers—Lord Salisbury Speaks in Reply to Sir William Harcourt

Lords, and Mr. Chamberlain Replies to Sir William Harcourt

—Irish Questions.

London, Jan. 17.—King Edward opened Parliament yesterday afternoon with a coronation in all essential respects similar to that of February last.

After robing, King Edward and Queen Alexandra entered the House of Peers, and occupied their thrones beneath a canopy, with the Prince and Princess of Wales on either side of them. The other members of the royal family were seated on chairs at the foot of the steps leading to the throne.

The speech was not an important utterance. His Majesty referred in gratified terms to the world tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales, expressed regret that the war in South Africa was not concluded, said he trusted the decision of the sugar conference would lead to the abandonment of bounties, and noted the conclusion of the Isthmian Canal treaty.

The only departure from the extremely decorous character of the proceedings occurred when the King referred in the speech from the Throne to the humanity of the British troops in South Africa. This led to an unprecedented scene. In the House of Lords, Peers and Peersesses and high officers of state broke out into a prolonged cheer, which was repeated again and again to the evident satisfaction of His Majesty, but to the apparent dismay of the officials of the House.

IN THE LORDS.

The House of Lords was well filled when business was resumed. The Prince of Wales occupied the seat formerly used by his father. Many peeresses were in the gallery. The Lord Chancellor, Earl Halsbury, formally read the King's speech.

The Earl of Harrowby and the Earl of Lytton moved and seconded the address in reply to the speech from the Throne.

Earl Spencer (Liberal) criticizing the address, said that, while he recognized the impossibility of granting the Boer demands for independence, yet he deprecated insisting on unconditional surrender. His Lordship urged the Government to promise the Boers autonomy similar to the Governments of Australia and Canada.

The Premier, Lord Salisbury, whose entrance into the House was greeted with hearty applause, said he was glad to hear the Earl of Spencer vent an utterance for which he, the Premier, had been frequently and unsparingly condemned. It was quite true that there was no possibility of granting the Boers independence. The Premier pleaded that they should not allow their eagerness to improve their party position, and make them forget the issue, whether or no Great Britain should be victor in the war. He reminded the opposition that a wrong settlement now would impose grave difficulties and embarrassments upon the nation for many years to come.

Lord Salisbury continued by defending the martial law in South Africa, and urged the opposition to remember they were not dealing with the question whether they could make out a good case against the Government. Neither was it the Government's business after being gratuitously attacked to inform the Boers on what terms they would be forgiven, especially since the Boers had not yet expressed a wish to be forgiven.

Replying to the Premier, Lord Rosebery said he favored a passive policy of peace, which would receive overtures when these were made, and that in this connection he wished to know the truth of the rumors concerning the visit to London of Dr. Kuyper, the Premier of Holland; had Dr. Kuyper brought such overtures?

"Not so far as I know," answered Lord Salisbury.

"Have any overtures been received from the Boer leaders in Europe?" asked Lord Rosebery.

To this question Lord Salisbury answered: "No."

IN THE COMMONS.

After the speech from the throne had been formally read and the addresses in reply had been moved and seconded, the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, spoke, in general terms, against the course of the Government in South Africa, urging conciliation in place of a large measure, was true of Ireland, where the Government at present, was "floundering between concession and coercion," and urged the adoption of the most liberal program toward Ireland.

Mr. McNeill (Irish Nationalist, member for South Donegal), created the earliest scene by deploring the fact that the Nationalist members had been imprisoned in dungeons at the behest of Mr. Wyndham (the Chief Secretary for Ireland). He moved the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter. When the Speaker declined the accept the motion, Mr. McNeill questioned his ruling and was called to order.

Sir William Vernon-Harcourt (Liberal) by attacking the institution of martial law in the Cape Colony and by accusing the Government of grossly unconstitutional conduct in advising the Ministers of the Cape Colony not to summon the Cape Parliament brought up Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, who was in a most militant mood. Mr. Chamberlain declared that Sir William Vernon-Harcourt ought to have placed a question of such importance in the form of an amendment and proceeded to justify absolutely the action of the Cape Government. Mr. Chamberlain said he did not care a scrap for legal opinions on one side or the other, that the Government had to deal with an emergency, and that it had followed the universal practice of all countries. He also said the Government of the Cape Colony would ask Parliament to indemnify their acts.

Sir William Vernon-Harcourt asked: "When will that be done?"

Mr. Chamberlain retorted: "When is the war going to end?" (Laughter and cheers.)

John Redmond (chairman of the Irish parliamentary party): "By the next general election."

In the course of this speech, Mr. Chamberlain was protesting against the suggestion that he should overrule the Privy Council, when Mr. Redmond interjected: Hear, hear, you ought to be King."

Amid laughter, Mr. Chamberlain replied: "That is very good of the honorable gentleman, but that is not my ambition."

The House of Commons then adjourned.

There was only a meagre attendance of members when the House of Commons met at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to commence the work of the session. Irish affairs cropped up almost immediately. Earl Percy, Conservative, moving a resolution to the effect that the election from Galway of Col. Arthur Lynch, "who was commonly and notoriously reported to have aided the King's enemies," was an insult to the House, and a committee should be appointed to consider the course to pursue.

The Speaker declined to accept the motion until notice of it was given in the usual way.

Nationalists Defeated.

Cork, Jan. 17.—The municipal elections here have resulted in the defeat of Eugene Crean (member of parliament for the southeast division of Cork), ex-Mayor Roche, and other nominees of the United Irish League. This is attributed to a speech made by Mr. Crean during the campaign in which he declared that if King Edward came to Cork, for the purpose of opening the International Exhibition, he would be hooted through the city.

Elected by Acclamation.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 20.—On Saturday afternoon Dr. James Rudderick of St. Martin's was nominated for the seat in the New Brunswick Legislature made vacant by the death of John McLeod, member for St. John's County. Mr. Rudderick is a Government supporter. There was no opposition, and he was declared elected.

DON'T WANT REFERENDUM.

Temperance Workers in Manitoba Are Opposed to the Proposition.

Winnipeg, Jan. 17.—A deputation of 500 temperance representatives waited on the Government yesterday to urge the enforcement of the Liquor Act without a referendum.

Premier Roblin said that while the Government policy was a referendum, their representations would be taken into consideration by himself and colleagues.

Mr. Bernier announced that the policy of the Catholic Church was one of opposition to prohibition.

An Emphatic Protest.

St. Thomas, Jan. 17.—The prohibition convention held in the Centro street Baptist church, was very largely attended. Delegates were present from East and West Elgin. A serious of resolutions were adopted enthusiastically calling upon the Government for the immediate enactment of a prohibition law and condemning a referendum of any kind as unnecessary.

Repairing Neatly Done

Never thought of such a sign for a medicine did you?

Well, it's a good sign for Scott's Emulsion. The body has to be repaired like other things and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine that does it.

These poor bodies wear out from worry, from over-work, from disease. They get thin and weak. Some of the new ones are not well made—and all of the old ones are racked from long usage.

Scott's Emulsion fixes all kinds. It does the work both inside and out. It makes soft bones hard, thin blood red, weak lungs strong, hollow places full. Only the best materials are used in the patching and the patches don't show through the new glow of health.

No one has to wait his turn. You can do it yourself—and

and the bottle.

STATEMENT BY MARCONI

Inventor Will Be Able to Secure Privacy of Messages.

New York, Jan. 18.—Signor Marconi yesterday morning gave out an insight to his great achievement in wireless telegraphy. He said:

"I am more confident than ever that when it is completed I shall give to the world as the first result of my labors in the transmission of power without wires to great distances, a system of telegraphy capable of infinite expansion and securing the absolute privacy of the messages. I shall shortly make known a novel principle, which will to a large degree remove the popular belief that it is impossible to attain that degree of secrecy which is practicable with cables."

"I respect rigorously the rights of others, and when I give my system to the world I shall ask the entire technical profession to point to any feature of my system which is not of my own creation."

Widow Gets Verdict.

Montreal, Jan. 18.—The suit taken by Mrs. H. Stevens against the Canadian Pacific Railway for $21,000 damages, on account of the death of her husband, who was killed by the explosion of an empty wheel in the shops some time ago, was concluded yesterday. Justice Doherty gave judgment granting the widow $4,000. The father and mother of the victim, who were joint plaintiffs with the widow, receive $100 each.

For Canadian Reciprocity.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Chicago will send to Congress probably the biggest of all petitions for the establishment of reciprocal relations with Canada, according to Elmore A. Pierce, who represents the Boston Chamber of Commerce in the movement to that end. The work of interesting business men in this question has been barely started here, and already more than 400 men, firms and institutions have taken hold of it.

Batterymen Desert.

Kingston, Jan. 18.—Two battery-men, Forrest and Bellandora, succeeded Thursday in escaping and are likely now across the line. Jerome, another battaryman, was captured, and is now in the guard house.

SURPLUS $2,571,292

Gratifying Condition of the Finances of Ontario.

LAST YEAR'S ADDITION $427,209

A Great Showing in Spite of Heavy Payments in Railway Subsidies and Certificates During the Year—The Bank Deposit is Now $1,468,492—Some Details of the Public Accounts.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—The public accounts of Ontario for the year 1901, which are about ready for presentation to the House, will show a most gratifying condition of the provincial finances. There was a surplus on the year's transactions of $427,209.43, while the assets of the Province, including cash in the bank, exceed the liabilities by $2,571,292.71. This is in spite of heavy payments in railway subsidies during the year.

The total receipts last year were $4,466,043, as against $4,192,940 in 1900. The expenditures were $4,038,834, compared with $4,008,729 in the previous year. This surplus of nearly half a million was built up largely by an increase of nearly $200,000 in the receipts from Crown lands; an increase of about $20,000 from liquor licenses; about $12,000 from charters for incorporation companies; about $8,000 from taxes on corporations, and $140,000 from succession duties. On a few trifling items there were decreases compared with 1900.

The slight increase in total expenditure was due largely to extra charges in settlement and colonization, in connection with Crown lands, the building of the Cobourg asylum, education, hospitals and charities. The expenditures in legislation and administration of justice were reduced about $20,000.

The cash surplus in the banks to the credit of the Government has increased by $434,916.68. On December 31st, 1900, the cash surplus was $1,033,516.31; on December 31st, 1901, it was $1,468,492.99.

CENTRAL FAIR FINANCES.

SOUTH VICTORIA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY IN SESSION.

Directors' and Treasurer's Reports—Election of Officers—New Grand Stand and Automobile Track Talked of—Other Business.

The annual meeting of the members of the South Victoria Agricultural Society was held in the Council chamber Wednesday afternoon and was fairly well attended and much interest was manifested. President Johnston Ellis occupied the chair. After the meeting was called to order Secretary Keith read the minutes of the last meeting of the Society, which on motion were adopted.

A communication from Mr. Deyell, asking why his account for $3.50 for services rendered at last fair had not been paid, was read. After some discussion it was decided that as Mr. Deyell was a director he should give his services free, the same as the other directors. It was then moved by Mr. Channon, seconded by Mr. Robson, that the communication be filed.—Carried.

On motion Mr. Channon, seconded by Mr. Robson, a grant of $10 was made to Mr. Keith for extra services rendered at the last fair. On motion of Mr. Ellis, seconded by Mr. Channon, Col. J. Deacon was voted to the chair. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and on motion adopted. The directors' report and statement of the receipts and disbursements for the year were read and adopted as follows:

Gentlemen,—We meet one and another again at our annual meeting, and we beg leave to report that we had in 1901 one of the most successful fairs ever held in Lindsay. We were very fortunate in having fine weather during the days of our fair. We had the largest entry in live stock we ever had and paid nearly $300 more in prizes. We also paid our interest and $200 on principal, reducing our mortgage to $1400.

We erected a large poultry house on the grounds costing about $100, leaving a balance in the treasurer's hands of over $100. We would recommend to the new board that our poultry house be made 25 or 30 feet longer than it is, as there was not room for all the birds that came.

We were also greatly encouraged by the outside exhibitors and by the communication they put into our local papers after our fair in regard to the good treatment they received from the officers and directors during our exhibition, and we feel sure that this will help to keep up our fair in the future.

We cannot close our report without thanking the County Council and all the inhabitants of the town of Lindsay and the surrounding country for their able support financially towards our fair, also the agents of the G.T.B. for his courtesy and assistance to all exhibitors who visited our fair last year, and also all the steamboat agents. By everyone assisting our new board we feel sure that the Lindsay Central will still go on and increase and be the popular fair.—Yours respectfully,

JOHNSTON ELLIS, President,
JAMES K. MUIR, Sec. Treas.
Lindsay, Jan. 14th, 1902.

Good Services Rewarded.

On motion of Mr. Connolly, seconded by Mr. Luck, a grant of $20

was made to the President for his valuable services rendered during the year.

Mr. Ellis, in expressing his thanks, said it was not the $20 but the fact that it was his ambition to make the Lindsay Central Fair one of the best in the province. He was deeply interested in the exhibition, and with the able board of directors, we have there is no reason why our show should not outclass all others. He visited the fair in the country, and the interest of the Central, and the $20 would just about even up the expense he had been put to.

Election of Officers.
The election of officers resulted as follows: Pres., Johnston Ellis; Vice-Pres., Wm. Channon; 2nd Vice-Pres., W. D. Hunter; Directors, Mariposa, E. Mark, W. P. King, C. R. Reid, J. Graham, B. Bailey, W. Adams, J. Manvers, Mr. Hickson; Chairman, T. Robertson; Lindsay, R. Brynne and Col. Deacon; Auditors, Messrs. Jas. Hopkins and J. H. Scott.

Vote of Thanks.
On motion of Mr. Ellis, seconded by Mr. Channon, a vote of thanks was tendered Col. Deacon for acting as chairman. Col. Deacon, in thanking the chair, said the new President, said that it was over 20 years since he first became a member of the Society and although they had met with much difficulty during those years, the Society is now to be congratulated on being in such a prosperous condition and on having excellent grounds.

Fair Improvements.
Mr. H. J. Lytle pointed out that the present Grand stand was not large enough to accommodate the increasing number of visitors, especially on the middle day of the fair and that some steps should be taken in the matter.

Mr. Hunter—"I think we should now talk matters over and make suggestions on how to improve the fair."

Mr. Ellis—"We discussed the grand stand question before, but decided to erect a new poultry house instead. Perhaps another year we will build a new grand stand."

Mr. Robson—"I think Mr. Lytle is right about the grand stand—something should be done to enlarge it."

Mr. Keith—"You will have to go to the north end of the grounds in order to build a new grand stand."

Mr. Connolly—"I think we should enlarge the track to a half mile."

Mr. Ellis—"It is only a matter of time when we will have a half mile track and a new grand stand, but I think the rate of interest—5 1/2 per cent on money borrowed—is a little high. We can procure money cheaper now."

The Secretary's Salary.
Mr. Keith stated that the amount of clerical and other work in connection with the fair was much greater now than formerly and that the remuneration, $120, was not enough, and that he should get $150 per year. After considerable discussion it was moved by Mr. Channon, seconded by Mr. Reid, that the Secretary-Treasurer's salary be increased to $150.—Carried.

Other Matters.
The dates for the Lindsay Central Fair were fixed for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 25th, 26th and 27th.

A communication was read from Mr. J. C. Graham, Secretary of the Dominion Agricultural Society, asking that a delegate be sent to Toronto to attend a meeting of the Society, which is to be held on Feb. 19th and 20th next. The meeting is for the purpose of discussing whether it would be advisable to introduce new features in connection with fall fairs, such as chicken plucking, etc., making fairs purely agricultural instead of grand stand performances.

Mr. Ellis—"I think there is no use of us sending a delegate, as there is no benefit to be derived. I attended the meeting once and all the value I got for my money was an oyster supper. There is no use of talking, if you do away with the special attractions of the fair the attendance will decrease. A young man will not bring his best girl to a fair for the purpose of viewing cattle and horses; they want something different for their money, and they are the class of people we make our money out of."

Mr. Keith—"We should have expert judges."

Mr. Reid—"The Fat Stock Show at Garth is purely agricultural, and they get a large attendance."

Mr. Graham—"I think it nothing but right that a delegate should be sent to Toronto to attend the meeting."

Mr. Ellis—"The most important thing is to satisfy the exhibitors, and then they will come again. Expert judges on horses and cattle are necessary to give the exhibitors fair play."

Mr. Channon thought it would not be advisable to dispense with the special attraction, although it was necessary that interest should not be lost in the agricultural part of our fairs. Farmers would get more information in one year at the Guelph Fat Stock Show than they would get if they attended the Toronto Industrial Fair for ten years. It was decided that no delegate be sent to Toronto.

Mr. Lytle stated that it was not advisable for parties donating special prizes to dictate how they should be given. The Rudd Harness Co's special prize, which was awarded to Mr. Curtis, caused a great deal of dissatisfaction, although the judge could do nothing else but award the prize to Mr. Curtis, still in special prizes of that kind it should be stated whether stallions were eligible to compete in that class. All special prizes should be confined to the directors to do as they wish.

Mr. Hopkins—"I think the special prizes should be left with a committee appointed for that purpose."

After a little further discussion the meeting adjourned.

Our Products Abroad.
Canada sold $113,568,780 worth of her products abroad during the last six months, an increase of $5,541,877 over the corresponding six months of 1900. She imported $35,554,188, against $38,787,370. Corn and bullion in all cases excluded from the count. The products of our fisheries, forests, of manufacturers, agriculture and animals appear to be in good demand. A good export market studies the price at home. Canadian trade will continue to grow if our politicians will refrain from undue interference between buyers and sellers.

STRONG PEACE RUMOR

The Appropriation of Farms Leads to Protests.

STOCKS RISE IN SYMPATHY

Strong Influences Said to Be at Work to Be Urging Boer Leaders to Give Up—Some Burglars Indirectly Approaching the British Government—Enthusiastic Send-off For the Guards.

London, Jan. 17.—A strong belief prevailed in financial circles here late yesterday, that negotiations for peace had been re-opened between the leading Boers and the British Government. South African stocks rose in sympathy with the reports. The exact nature of what was going on was not known, but it was learned that leading Boers had indirectly approached the Government, protesting against the appropriation of farms in the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies by British settlers, which system is now being rapidly pushed, and that strong influence had been brought to bear on the Boer leaders to save at least a vestige of property for their followers.

Whether what was passing yesterday between the Boers and the British Government can be termed peace negotiations, or what will be their result, can only remain speculation for the present. The stock exchange evidently takes a hopeful view of the outcome. British consols, the best barometer of imperial affairs, rose nearly half a point on the London Exchange. It is regarded as certain that the King would not have made his optimistic statement of Wednesday had he not had assured information to go upon.

Women Clung to Them.

London, Jan. 17.—No far as unrestrained public enthusiasm was concerned the opening of parliament yesterday was nothing to what occurred earlier yesterday, when the Guards' reinforcements left their barracks en route to South Africa. The Guardsmen tramped through the dark streets of the metropolis at 6 o'clock in the morning, accompanied by an uproarious mob of civilian friends, singing songs to the accompaniment of bands. The songs and music, however, did not drown the crying of women, who clung to the necks and arms of almost every man of the contingent.

Millions For Railroads.

London, Jan. 17.—It is announced here that Lord Kitchener has been authorized to expend £235,000 ($4,175,000) for the extension of railroads in South Africa. Lord Kitchener having arrived at the conclusion that this course would materially aid in the subjugation of the Boers.

Victorian at Halifax.

Halifax, Jan. 17.—The troopship Victorian, which is to take the second section of the Second Regiment of Canadian Mounted Rifles to South Africa, reached quarantine at noon yesterday. Upon her arrival in the harbor embarkation of the troops will be at once proceeded with. The Field Hospital Corps is also going on this vessel.

Two Canadians Ill.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Two more Canadians in the South African Constabulary are reported to be ill. A despatch to the Governor-General from the Casualty Department, Cape Town, says: "Kenneth Morrison, dangerously ill of enteric fever, at Heidelberg, Jan. 10. His father is P. Morrison, Yorktown, N.W.T. Beverly A. G. Sheffield, ill of enteric fever at Heidelberg, Jan. 10. His mother is Mrs. N. Fenwick, Fairworth, N.B."

Danes Indignant at Germany.

London, Jan. 17.—It is a remarkable fact, says the Copenhagen correspondent of The Times, that the excessive expressions of German Anglophobia seem to be sweeping away the Danish sympathy for the Boers. A wave of indignation against Germany is now spreading over the country. The newspapers consider that the German insults to King Edward are directed also against King Christian and the Danish royal family.

BOON TO MANUFACTURERS.

Consignments May Be Forwarded to South Africa on Transport.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Having obtained from the War Office permission to have general Canadian freight carried on steamers for transportation of hay and other army supplies to Cape Town, the Department of Agriculture has arranged a plan for enabling manufacturers of food products, wood goods and agricultural machinery to forward consignments to South Africa at minimum freights. The freight charges from St. John, N.B., to Cape Town, S.A., including loading on the ships and discharging, will be at the rate of $5 per ton of forty cubic feet. The ocean freight must be prepaid to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, on or before the date of sailing. The Department, of course, accepts no responsibility for goods after they have been landed at South Africa, where they must be consigned to agents.

Stamped on Dawson.

Port Townsend, Wash., Jan. 17.—The latest devices from Dawson were brought on the Cottage City by Charles Berryman, who left the Klondike capital the latter part of December. He says there is a stampede from Dawson for Henderson Creek, near Stewart River.

Senator Provost Barred.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—The flag was at half mast on the Parliament buildings yesterday for the late Senator Provost of Prince Edward Island, who died last Tuesday and was buried yesterday.

Won World's Championship.

Davos-Platz, Switzerland, Jan. 20.—The Norwegian, Schwartz, won the world's skating championship here Saturday.

TO BE SHOT SATURDAY

Lord Kitchener Confirms Scheepers' Death Sentence.

MYSTERIOUS BOER MEETINGS

Continental Enemies of Great Britain Are Very Active—Said to Be Peace in the Air, But Dr. Leyds and Kruger Hard to Persuade—Charges Against Boer Commandant Kritzinger.

Grat-Reinet, Cape Colony, Jan. 19.—Lord Kitchener has confirmed the death sentence passed upon the Boer, Commandant Scheepers, who was captured last October. He will be shot next Saturday.

Mysterious Boer Meetings.

Brussels, Jan. 20.—Dr. Leyds, the European representative of the Transvaal and the Boer delegates met again yesterday at some mysterious rendezvous. Dr. Leyds now denies himself to everybody. It is asserted that Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch Premier, on his return to The Hague from London had a conference with Mr. Wolmaras, one of the Boer delegates, who sent another delegate to consult with Mr. Kruger, and that another meeting will be held next Monday.

In spite of Boer denials, a strong feeling exists here that some peace movement is afoot between Great Britain and the Boer delegates, but that there is difficulty in arriving at any acceptable basis of terms. Mr. Kruger and Dr. Leyds being reluctant to commit themselves. It is declared in Boer circles here that a number of Englishmen, supposed to be officials of the British Government, arrived at The Hague under assumed names last Saturday and were later visited and entertained at dinner by the British Minister here.

Kritzinger Charged With Murder.

Cape Town, Jan. 19.—The Boer Commandant, Kritzinger, who was captured at Hanover Road, Cape Colony, about a month ago, is charged with four murders, in addition to train wrecking and cruelty to prisoners.

Kritzinger was one of the most successful Boer leaders in guerrilla warfare in Cape Colony. It is asserted by some that he is really a Cape rebel and therefore a British subject and as such deserves the fate of Commandant Lotter, another Cape rebel, who was hanged last October.

On Christmas Eve The Paris Rapel printed a despatch from Durban, Natal, stating that Gen. Louis Botha, the Boer commander-in-chief, was holding five British officers and had notified Lord Kitchener that if Kritzinger was sentenced to death they would be shot.

Col. Doran's Success.

Cape Town, Jan. 19.—Col. Doran's column attacked Wessels's command, twenty-four miles from Richmond, Cape Colony, last night. One Boer was killed and six others were captured. Three natives and a number of horses were also taken.

Four Boers Captured.

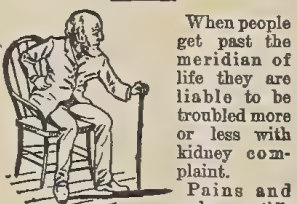

Ladybrand, Orange River Colony, Jan. 19.—Small bodies of Boers have made many attempts lately to break through the line of posts and get into the southeastern district. On Thursday three separate attempts of this kind were repulsed. Col. Baln's column, which is operating near Ficksburg, captured four Boers on Thursday. Col. Delisle has driven Commandant Maras' forces toward Doornburg.

The Basutos Impressed.

Maseru, Basutoland, Jan. 19.—The Basutos continue to be greatly impressed with the resolution of the British Government in conducting the war.

It is difficult to satisfy the demands for labor from the Johannesburg and Kimberley mines from Old Folks' Backache.

When people get past the meridian of life they are liable to be troubled more or less with kidney complaint. Pains and aches, stiffness and soreness of the back, difficulty in urination and frequent rising at night are some of the troubles that seriously afflict the old.

There is no remedy brings such relief and comfort to those advanced in life as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They soothe all irritation, tone up and invigorate the urinary organs, clear away all sediment, take the ache and pain out of the back and permit undisturbed rest at night.

SPRIGHTLY AT 69.

Mrs. Geo. Boutin, Harrington Street, Annapolis, Ont., says: "I have had so much benefit from using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets that I do not hesitate to recommend them. Since I used them I am free from that constant backache that quite unnerved me and robbed me of all energy. My kidneys have been so invigorated that they now remain no annoyance or inconvenience from the secretions. I wish you could see my father. He is sixty-nine years of age and before using Pitcher's Kidney Tablets suffered acutely from rheumatism in his back. Now he is sprightly and nimble as a young man. He says never anything before did him as much good as Pitcher's Tablets. I am confident that those who have failed heretofore to obtain any relief from bad backs and sluggish kidneys will find themselves well rewarded by using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. It is 50c. a Box, at all druggists or by mail, The Dr. Zena Pharmacy Co., Toronto, Ont."

here, owing to the large number of Basutos being already employed as drivers and leaders with the British fighting columns.

It was found necessary during the clearing operations in the northeast of the Orange River column to burn all the native huts and grain and to commandeer their cattle, the leaders of the British columns giving receipts and sending the natives into the refugee camps. Since the line of blockhouses has been maintained from Bloemfontein to the Basutoland border, large quantities of grain have been going through. Wheat and mealies are here in great quantities awaiting rail transport. The crops now being reaped are the best on record. There is, roughly speaking, £2,000,000 worth of wheat now in this country, all available for the Government.

Col. Lynch Stays in Paris.

Paris, Jan. 20.—Col. Arthur Lynch, the recently elected member of the House of Commons for Galway City, who is said to have fought on the side of the Boers in South Africa, in an interview denied that he had tried to go to England for the opening of Parliament. Col. Lynch said he had not left Paris, for the good reason that he appreciated the fact that he would not be allowed to reach his goal—the House of Commons. Col. Lynch added that his future movements would be governed by the counsels of the Irish party, in which he has every confidence, and by the wishes of his constituents.

KRAUSE GETS TWO YEARS.

Severe Sentence After Protracted Delays and Numerous Changes.

London, Jan. 20.—The trial of Dr. Krause resulted in the severe sentence of two years' imprisonment, after protracted delay and numerous changes in the form of the proceedings and the invalidation of the main counts of the indictment on technical grounds.

German Cash For Boers.

Berlin, Jan. 20.—The sum of 6,000 marks, equivalent to $1,128, is it is said, being contributed daily throughout Germany to the support of the Boer cause. One well acquainted with the facts stated yesterday that since Dec. 1, more than 200,000 marks, nearly $50,000, had been so contributed. He added that, on the coming anniversary of Buller's reverse at Spion Kop, hundreds of German theatres would devote their receipts to swelling the Boer funds, and predicted that the money thus raised would aggregate an unusually large sum.

New Zealand Approves.

London, Jan. 20.—A despatch from Wellington, N.Z., to The Times says a patriotic meeting, attended by thousands of persons, has passed resolutions, approving Great Britain's conduct of the war in South Africa, and Mr. Chamberlain's refutations of foreign slanders. The mention of Mr. Chamberlain's name evoked cheers. One speaker declared that if Germany were an enemy of England, she was an enemy of New Zealand. The colony would send its last man to end the Boer war by enforcing unconditional surrender.

QUIT THE CONSTABULARY.

Capt. Lawless and Capt. Critchley Are the Two Officers.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—It is reported here that Capt. Lawless of Ottawa has left the South African Constabulary. Capt. Lawless was formerly in the Foot Guards, and went out to South Africa with the Royal Canadian Regiment. When the constabulary were raised in Canada he was given a commission in the force. Another officer who has quit the force is Captain Critchley.

The War Office Agrees.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—The sanction of the War Office has been obtained to the increase of the staff of nurses for South Africa from five to eight. The three additional nurses who have been appointed are: Miss Pope, Miss Margaret Smith of Ottawa, and Miss Chalmers of Adelphowtown, Ont. They will sail for South Africa via England.

A POWER CONTRACT AWARDED.

Involves $500,000 For Canadian Wheel Pit and In-Take Canal at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 20.—Vice-President Rankine of the Canadian Niagara Power Company yesterday announced that the contract for the construction of the wheel-pit and in-take canal of the Canadian works has been awarded to Messrs. Dawson & Reilly of St. Catharines. This contract involves an expenditure of over half a million of dollars.

The wheel-pit and in-take canal, which will be constructed in Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park, will be on a large scale. The wheel-pit will be 175 feet long and parallel to the river with a width of 20 feet and 160 feet deep. The power company has now awarded contracts amounting to one and three-quarters of a million of dollars. The largest of these are the ones cited above to Dawson & Reilly, the tunnel to A. C. Douglas, which is 2,200 feet in length, and the big circular coffer dam, which is nearly completed, by the local contractor, James Barry of Niagara Falls, Ont.

The proposed power transmission line can be ready to take power to Toronto and cities en route by Oct. 1. This will be temporary, and the power will be taken from the plant of the Niagara Falls Power Company on the American side until the Canadian works are completed. The construction of the Canadian plant will take two years. Many applications for power on the Canadian Niagara frontier are being received by the company.

FURS and MANTLES

At from $\frac{1}{3}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ Less than Regular Price.

This offering embodies, we believe, as fine selections in Furs and Mantles as it is possible to secure. While we cannot describe all lines that are reduced in price, the variety shown is surely sufficient to make most satisfactory buying. One fact we cannot emphasize too strongly, and that is, the reliable quality of our furs. Our descriptions are necessarily brief, but prices are reduced fully 1-3 to 1-2, therefore a great saving is possible.

JANUARY SESSION.

Election of a Warden--Communications and Reports--Beet Sugar Matters-- Other Business at the Opening Session.

The January session of the County Council opened Tuesday afternoon with all the members present. The Clerk informed the Council that their first duty was to elect a Warden.

It was then moved by Dr. Wood, seconded by Mr. McGee, that Mr.
John Austin, member for the 4th
Division, be elected Warden. Mr.
Stoback moved, seconded by Mr. Robertson, that Mr. Geo. Johnston, member for No. 1 Division, be appointed.

A vote was taken and Mr. Austin was declared duly elected. He was then escorted to the chair by his

structed to report on making a grant towards building a new bridge over Grass River on the Victoria Road,
south of the village of Victoria Road.

On motion of Mr. Stoback Council adjourned.

(To be Continued.)

OBITUARY

The Late John Connolly.

We are called upon this week to record the death of one of the oldest settlers and pioneers of the township of Ops--John Connolly, who died at his residence, 2nd con. of Ops, on Tuesday, 28th inst., at about one o'clock p.m., after many months of physical suffering, surrounded by his family and friends.

Mr. Connolly was born in the township of Cayah, County of Durham, Ireland, nearly 75 years ago in or near the village of Balliboe, where his parents settled at an early day. He was the only son of the late Nicholas Connolly, of Ops, who came to Canada from the town of Fethard, Co.
of Tipperary, Ireland, with his wife and one child--a daughter--who later on became the wife of the late Andrew Costello, of the 1st con. of Ops.
This only sister died at the residence of her son, Mr. Francis Costello, some two years ago, deeply regretted by her only brother, Mr. Connolly.

The deceased gentleman during his useful life, by the will of the people of Ops, had filled the position of Reeve and Deputy-Reeve of the township for many years. When the County Council assembled in Peterboro he was then a member of that body, and afterwards for many years
a member of the County Council of the County of Victoria, and was very highly esteemed by his fellow members. In 1878 he was chosen as the liberal candidate to contest the riding in the Dominion elections, and put up a splendid fight, but was defeated.

When Mr. Connolly's illness became alarming the members of his family were summoned to his bedside, some from afar, and they responded to the call in haste, to console their aged and loving father during the few weeks of life remaining. It gave him great consolation to have them at his bedside during his last hours on earth. The children in order of seniority are: Nicholas,
at home; Frances, died in infancy;
Anastasia, at home; Mary, wife of
P. J. Murphy, of Ops; Eliza, wife of Henry O'Keefe, of Minto, N.D., U.S.; John, of Grafton, N.D., U.S.; Thomas, died by accident some twenty-five years ago; Catherine and Ann, died in infancy; James, living near the homestead; Dolly, wife of John O'- Keefe, druggist, of North Dakota,
U.S.; William, Chief Clerk of Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, D.C., U.S.; Joseph, at Lynden; Miss Nellie, at home; Frank, at home; Agnes Teresa, died in infancy.

John Connolly was, without trying to be, a favorite, a foremost citizen, and his kind and generous disposition, coupled with integrity and character of the highest, would have won for him esteem in any community. To admire him it was only necessary that one should know him. He was kind and obliging and charitable to the deserving, and he was a successful farmer and business man whose word was as good as his bond and whose advice was frequently sought by friends and neighbors.

In religion Mr. Connolly was a practical and zealous member of the R.C. church, though no more tolerant man than he could be found anywhere. The funeral, on Thursday morning, was largely attended by sorrowing friends and neighbors. The body was taken to St.
Mary's church, where a high mass

Doctor Jack

By St. GEORGE RATHBORNE,

author of "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Baron Sam," "Miss Pauline of New York," "Miss Caprice," Etc.

They pass out, and once upon the street, Jack manages to disguise himself a little more, so that at first sight he may be taken for a Turk. Under the guidance of the faithful Achmed they gradually leave the busy mart behind, and enter upon another portion of the city.

They are aiming for the suburbs in the direction of the Sultan's palace, which is situated upon an elevation, so that the Grand Mogul of the Turks may from his flat roof under the shelter of the canopy, lounge and look upon the fairest scene mortal eyes ever beheld—the wonderful city flashing in the sun, the blue Bosphorus with its white sails, and the shore of Asia beyond, whither some day the last of the Turks will retreat when Russia has her will.

The palace of Abdallah Pasha is not a great distance from the grand residences of his Sultan, and though attempting to rival the latter, it is a place of no mean pretensions—the building itself being of marble, filled with costly ornaments bought in Western capitals like Paris, and the grounds of spacious extent, walled in, and filled with trees and shrubbery that charm the eye.

Jack has been in it before—the memory of that awful night can never leave his mind, and more than once he has thought what an outrage that so a domain should be owned by such a creature as the Pasha, but such generally the case in this world, where the does not have to be beautiful in order to admire lovely creations.

Avoiding observation as much as possible, they approach the wall that marks the end of the Pasha's grounds. This can be scaled by an energetic climber, though the average Turk might be appalled at the prospect. Jack has made preparations for just such an emergency, and this is where his former experience stands him in good stead. On his person Achmed carries a coil of rope, and he knows how to handle a rope—every trick in that line is familiar to him, so that it only requires a few throws in order to clear the noose above.

Jack takes the rope, and moving along the wall to a certain spot, casts it over him. Having once upon a time been a cowboy in Texas, he knows how to handle a rope—every trick in that line is familiar to him, so that it only requires a few throws in order to clear the noose above.

Jack tries it, his weight does not dislodge the rope, and he mounts upward hand over hand, with the agility of a Jack Tar. Reaching the top of the wall, he waits for Achmed, who is longer coming, and whom he is compelled to assist by an energetic pull. The descent is easy enough, and presently they stand in the garden. Jack makes a note of the spot, by means of a cypress tree that leans toward the wall, and thus the scene of finding it again in case of a hurry, for there is no telling what adventure may befall them as they again see the outside of those walls.

He has made inquiries of the Turk with regard to the truth of the rumour that a pack of fierce hounds from the steppes of Siberia, accustomed to pulling gaunt wolves down, are at loose in the Pasha's gardens at nightfall. Achmed can attest to the presence of the dogs, for that day he saw them in their kennels, but he believes it is intended that the fierce brutes shall only be allowed their liberty on certain occasions, and that the report has been circulated by means of the newspapers and hordes of school teachers who read them aloud in the cafes, in order to frighten people who might be tempted to climb the walls and enter the Pasha's grounds. The one experience Abdallah had with inquisitive foreigners, when one of them so nearly ran off with the prize flower of his harem, has been a lesson to him.

Facing among the trees, representing many countries, and along wonderful flower beds, that in the daytime present a gorgeous spectacle, Jack and his companion draw near the white walls of the palace, which is built something after the manner of a mosque, having a dome, and several minarets alongside.

A great snarling from one quarter tells where the Siberian hounds are held in leash, and Jack puts one hand to where he has his faithful revolver, for should these brutes get loose, they would overtake them long before they could reach the friendly wall at the point where the rope dangles, and a terrible encounter must task the prowess of the American adventurer to the utmost. Still, not a twinge of fear goes through his heart—the man does not know its meaning, and has faced many a danger even more dreadful without flinching.

Now they reach the wall of the marble palace, and Achmed turns to get his bearings, so he may lead his benefactor to the spot where he saw the grating over the dungeon in which the "dog of a Christian" is imprisoned. "This way," he whispers, and Jack follows without a word—they get down on hands and knees, and inch by inch crawl along, making not the faintest sound by means of which their presence can be discovered.

It is exciting work, even if silence does mark their progress, for they are on the grounds of the man who hates Doctor Jack with all the venom of his eastern nature, and, once discovered, their position will be one of extreme peril.

Jack chuckles as he thinks of Abdallah Pasha, fretting and fuming over some small delay en route—if he only knew what the "Christian dogs" were up to how he would tear his hair and gnash his teeth in impotent rage. Somehow the thought encourages the American, and gives him new vim to go at the business in hand.

He crouches low to a dead halt, and crouch low. Has the faithful fellow found the grating? Are they over the dungeon where poor Aleck languishes? Jack is about to speak when a sound falls on his ear. He is rooted to the spot, for it is the soft voice of a woman he hears. Looking beyond the Turk, he now sees a white-robed object close to the ground, and as it moves, he realizes that here is the source from whence emanates the sounds he has heard.

Both men are crouching low, their heads are near the earth, which is a splendid conductor of sound, hence they can hear plainly. It is a female beyond, and her voice is like the rippling of the brook in the forest, soft, mellow and musical. Jack has only once before heard such a voice, and it was here on the Bosphorus.

Can this be Sady, the lovely widow with whom bold Aleck fell in love and to rescue whom he placed himself in his present terrible condition? Jack's mind goes back to the scene on the border of the Bosphorus, when last he saw this enchantress, and he decides in the affirmative.

What is she doing here? It is folly to ask—love, blind as it is, though he may be, is not so stupid, is keen of eye, and Sady has not only discovered where the one she loves is incarcerated, but has also found a means of communicating with him.

Even as they look she rises and glides away in the direction of the harem, and the last words they hear her drop through the grating are in English:

"I will come if I live, Aleck." Jack is tempted to stop her, but fears lest she may be surprised into crying out, and bringing upon the scene some of the Pasha's janissaries, remnants or descendants of the famous band which was broken into fragments many years before. Their business is with Aleck, and the beauty whose face has drawn him into this dire scrape could be barred out of the question altogether.

Achmed no longer holds back, now that the girl has glided away, and in another minute Doctor Jack has his hands resting upon the grating that lies between Aleck Morton and liberty. Between the fair Avis and his own waiting heart, instinctively he feels the bars to test their remaining qualities, and smiles as he remembers the mighty strength that lies in his own sturdy arms and Herculean shoulders. If it comes to a tug of war, he does not doubt but that he will be able to tear the whole grating out, and thus insure an opening for Aleck to pass through.

Achmed says nothing, but goes a little farther on—the faithful armourer would mount guard while Jack holds conversation with the man in the dungeon, so that he may warn them in time should any approach. It would be hard to define the feelings of the American as he crouches low and puts his head near the grating to listen. Surrounded by the many things that remind him of the fact of his being in a Turkish garden, and a garden of a bitter enemy at that, he yet remembers that he is Jack Evans, and his friend the brother of the girl he loves, lies in a dungeon below.

Listening intently, he can hear no sound—all is as silent as the grave. Were it a tomb he hangs over, it could not be more desolate and still—truth to tell, it is a living tomb for the wretched prisoner of the Pasha.

Jack can stand it no longer—he must speak, and know the worst. So he presses his face close down to the cruel bars, and whispers:

"Aleck!" The sound seems to steal down into the awful darkness of the dungeon, but no reply comes back to greet him. Jack listens for a minute, and then tries again, this time in a louder key. He believes he hears a rustling sound—on the instant he imagines it is the clanking of chains, Achmed has not said anything about Aleck being weighted down this way, and a feeling of actual horror seizes Jack at the very thought.

He conceives an idea—in the old days when Aleck and he were chums they had a secret little whistle used as a signal—it is easily given, and by a stranger might be mistaken for the notes of some sleepy bird awakened at the wrong hour. Jack smiles to remember how history repeats itself—how, when hundreds of years ago, in the times of the Crusades, the English king, Richard Coeur de Lion, was held captive by Duke Leopold of Austria in the old castle of Durnstein, his faithful minstrel, Blondel, roaming all Europe in search of his missing master, played and sang the familiar refrain under the walls of the castle, and in this way discovered his king, who recognized the air he loved and the voice of Blondel.

He gives the signal whistle clearly—there is a distinct movement below, and then a groan. A voice breaks on his ear, full of lamentation and misery—he can hardly realize it is Aleck who thus exclaims:

"Surely my dream is come true—my mind wanders. I imagine I hear sounds that in the nature of things cannot be. Let me look the truth calmly in the face—what does that indicate? Am I to go mad? Oh! ye gods, it is a fate I have always dreaded at. Anything but that. If he would only kill me outright I would thank him, but to die and yet live for years? What can I do to bring the end quickly? If he would put me up and have a file of his soldiers shoot me, I would show him how an American boy could meet death with a laugh, but such a fate as this—I wonder if Avis will ever know—dear Avis—never to see her Aleck again—I hope she may be happy in her ignorance of his cruel doom."

Jack can stand it no longer—a great lump seems to have arisen in his throat as he listens to the ravings of his friend in the prison below. "Aleck!" he calls, perhaps louder than prudence may have dictated, but for the moment catches in a secondary matter with him—the querulous voice below ceases its murmuring.

"Who calls me?" asks the unseen Aleck, in a quivering tone of mingled hope and fear.

"It is I—Doctor Jack."

"No, no, you deceive me—he is dead—they told me so—they swore it to me," cries the prisoner.

"Then they lied to you," cooly replies Jack. "Have you any means of climbing up here to this grating?" "Can talk?" for he has a pretty good idea that Aleck was close to Sady at the time she cased her farewell to him. "Yes, yes, in a minute. Wait for me—don't go away, Jack, for God's sake. I'm coming, indeed I am," he talks constantly, poor fellow, as he laboriously climbs the wall in a way he has arranged long ago, just as though he fears lest it shall all prove a delusion and he be left alone in the dark. How many a night looking at the stars and wondering if Avis were watching them then. Here I am at last—I was sure to get here—where are you, old fellow? You haven't gone—you wouldn't desert your Aleck? Answer me, my brain will burst—answer, for Heaven's sake."

Jack does more—he seizes the hand that has been thrust through the grating and squeezes it in both of his—ay, bends down and kisses it, and without shame to his manhood, drops a scolding tear upon it, as he realizes how thin is Aleck's once plump member.

"Poor boy! poor Aleck! to think what you have suffered here, while I roamed the streets of Paris with every luxury that money could buy. I dreamed that you were alive and I lately when I learned certain things that gave me a clew, and I made all haste to reach your side."

He caresses the thin hand as a mother might that of her sick child. "I can hardly believe my senses. Can it be you, indeed, Jack? Then my prayers are answered and—bend down, and let me touch your face—I can't see you, but I may feel!"

The hand creeps over Jack's race—how it thrills him—then a feeling of horror strikes to his soul—Aleck has said he could not see. Have they burned out his eyes in torture? It is a favourite method of revenge among the Turks.

"Great Heaven! you are not blind, Aleck—they have not put out your eyes?" he cries.

"No, no, it is the darkness I complained of. I know you are Jack now, and I thank God for the fact of your coming. You can now carry the news of my fate home to Avis."

"Carry fiddlesticks! I came here to take you away with me, and I'm going to do it to-morrow night if I have to blow the whole castle of the Pasha to pieces."

"That would be joy indeed, but I am afraid you cannot do it, Jack. You will be caught and put to death—we could never quit the country. Better leave me to my fate."

"Don't bother your head about that. Rest assured that when Jack Evans decides to do a thing mountains won't halt him. Out of this you come in another night dead certain. I've made all preparations, old fellow, and we'll soon be beyond the jurisdiction of Mr. Turk."

"You give me new life—already I seem to sniff the salty air of liberty. Yes, I will go with you, and if we succeed I shall take you to Avis—you remember how often I have talked of her—she shall reward you for your noble devotion to her Aleck."

Jack's heart beats like a trip hammer—the words seem so prophetic that he laughs merrily.

"Aleck, old man, I've got the start of you there. Avis and I are good friends—it is as much for her sake as your own that I am here now."

"Avis—you know her?" surprised and delighted.

"Know her—yes, and love her with all my heart and soul, earnestly."

"Thank God for that, I wish I have longed and dreamed for in the past. Where did you meet her—where is she now?"

"We met in a picture gallery at Madrid—she was at the bull-fight, and saw me get away with a black devil of a toro that had flung the regular matador out of the ring. Some strange adventures followed, and we have become very good friends, indeed—sworn allies in the design of rescuing one Aleck Morton from the hands of the wily Turk."

"She is here?"

"Yes, in Stamboul, ready to lend any assistance in her power, to show her love for you. But no more need be said—I must go now. You will be ready to-morrow night?"

Ready—the minutes between will be years, breathes the poor prisoner.

"Well, good-by until then, old fellow. Take care—how you descend. Have your trunks all packed ready for a sea voyage," a squeeze of the hand, and Doctor Jack turns away with tears in his eyes, for this meeting has affected him in a most extraordinary manner.

CHAPTER XXII

Time is valuable to Jack, and really there is nothing more to say to his friend. He has already forgotten all about Sady, nor does she come into his calculations; but it would have saved him some future trouble had he figured on her in the game.

He makes a sign to Achmed, who knows the interview is at an end, and once more leads the way along the palace foundations, with the intention of reaching the wall at the point where the friendly hope hangs. Jack has a dozen things upon his mind, and is endeavouring to solve a certain puzzle, when something happens to arouse him. The Siberian wolf-dogs burst out into so fierce a clamor that one can almost imagine they have slipped the leash, and are running loose. This sound gives Jack a start, and he glances up, to see Achmed scrambling just in front, as though he has been taken by a ghost.

A terrible suspicion flashes into his mind—can the pasha have arrived ahead of time? Almost on the instant he dismisses it—such a thing is impossible—Mercedes was not detained in Paris like the pasha, and there has really been nothing to prevent her following them in some clever disguise.

These things go through his mind with the rapidity of lightning, and a very few seconds serve to convince him that there is no reason to believe all is lost. Of course the mystery of her presence remains as great as ever, but that may speedily be cleared up. He turns toward the marble wall of the palace, and discovers a small opening—a window of some sort undoubtedly. In this he sees Mercedes account for the way she came, and breathing in his ear his own name.

"You here, senorita?" he stammers, and is greeted with a low, silvery laugh.

"Senor Jack does not half know my accomplishments, or he would not be so surprised. Vaya! I am here, and every slave in this palace obeys my will. If I uttered a signal name of jaurisaries would sweep the garden from end to end and woe to any living thing they found there."

She utters these words slowly, as if to allow them to fall deep into the heart of the man who listens, so that he may comprehend their full significance, and Doctor Jack, for perhaps the first time in his life, has a spasm of fear creep over him.

What will she do? She is here as the representative of the pasha, and has his hatred for Doctor Jack to look after as well as her own feelings in the matter.

Shaking off the dreadful clutch of that dumb monster, fear, Jack addresses the other—he must know the worst.

"Mercedes, can it be possible you have sold yourself to that wretched Turk?" she asks.

"I am glad to hear of your escape. She gives me a hysterical laugh. "I am his wife—we were married in Paris. I hold an instrument whereby he has sworn to immediately dispose of every slave now in his harem, and never to displace me. It was arranged through Don Carlos, who made sure that the knot was tied in such a manner that no process could do it."

"How came you here?" he continues.

"On the same train as yourself, but you did not know it. There are as good many things Doctor Jack does not know—for instance, that I was aware of the visit he made Monsieur le Prefect of Police in Paris, and guessed what his intention might be."

"And you did not warn the pasha?" "You see I did not. At the time I was already his wife, and little did I care whether he remained in Paris for ever. My business was to watch you—I have done it, and, caramba! a pretty chase you gave me."

She is a mystery to him yet—a man he could fathom, but the motives that influence a woman are beyond the ken of any mortal being, not even accepting herself. He fears Mercedes now, for her power seems to threaten the one he loves—Avis Morton.

"You know why I have come here, Mercedes—to save my friend Aleck?" he says.

"Yes—her brother—I remember," with a sneer.

"You have it in your power to assist me."

"Indeed—how?"

"Did you not tell me you were here, that your word was law by the power he gave you, until he himself comes?"

She holds out her hand, and he takes it.

"That ring—notice it, Senor Jack. It is a sign of my captivity, and yet it holds a wondrous power—at sight of it his slaves prostrate themselves before me."

"Then, Mercedes, you have power to open the dungeon doors of Aleck Morton—to set him free before the pasha reaches Stamboul. You will do this—I beg of you, I entreat you, by the memory of the past—"

"Stop! That is the last talisman Senor Jack should call to his aid. The memory of the past would cause me to cry aloud and fill this garden with his slaves seeking the blood of the Christian. You should have said by my hopes for the future. But it is all the same—useless."

"You will not help me?" reproachfully.

"I cannot. On oath he made me swear by everything sacred not to give Aleck Morton his freedom. His hand set for that man and you is something terrible. He would sacrifice everything in his power to gratify it. Indeed, it was through this channel that I made such remarkable terms with him—in a word, he believes his feelings are equalled by my own."

"Meaning that you, too, hate me," sadly, for the future looks dark, indeed, now—Avis seems farther away than ever to him.

"Of you still regard me as your friend, Mercedes, how about Miss Morton?"

Even in the semi-darkness he knows a spasm crosses the beautiful face as he mentions that name, and in imagination he can see fire flash from her eyes, the most magnificent black eyes I have ever seen," Avis has said of them.

"Avis—yes, I should despise and hate her because she has stolen what I hoped belonged to me. That is the creed by which I have been raised, Doctor Jack. And yet," with a tremble in the voice, as though a sob choked her, "I have tried in vain to do so—something comes between me and the thought every time—I believe it is the face of my sainted mother in Heaven. Instead of hating, strange as it may seem, I love Miss Morton—I could save you for her!"

Jack experiences a revulsion of feeling; his fears have flown, and in their place comes the deepest admiration for this noble creature, amounting almost to veneration. The woman who could rise above the weakness of her sex, above social and religious training in a country beset with the sin of retaliation for wrong—for the vendetta is practiced in Spain even as in Corsica or our own Kentucky—such a woman is a rare avis, and deserves the deepest homage.

The American adventurer seizes her hand again and presses it holy to his lips.

"Thank God, Mercedes, for your noble heart. I knew not what a pearl I passed by when I looked beyond you. Never, I vow, did a man know in the same day two such women as Avis and Mercedes. Understand me, I beg of you. For months I carried her picture with me, discovered in Aleck's baggage. I loved her even before I met her, though, being a cynical old bachelor, I would never admit that fact even to myself. I would not have you think I was won from you."

"Let me speak of something else, Senor Jack," she says, quietly, realizing that he is becoming slightly hysterical in his endeavor to explain how he came not to fall desperately in love with her, and Jack finds himself brought up with a round turn.

"Pardon me—yes, it was of Aleck we were talking. You said you had made a solemn vow not to assist him to escape—that does not cause you to see any obstacle in the way of my rescuing him?"

"No, no. My vow was binding in but one way, and then only until he comes."

Jack has cause later on to comprehend why she emphasizes those last words, but just now he hardly notices them.

"The pasha is on the way. I have received word—he will be here to-morrow night, or the next day. Before a second morning breaks I hope all will be done, and my friend rescued."

"And then you will leave Stamboul never more to return?" with sadness in her voice.

"Yes, indeed. It would not be safe for us here after that. A man like the pasha, bold and unscrupulous as he is powerful, would hesitate at nothing in order to carry out his revenge. We cannot leave Stamboul too soon. Were my plans for departure arranged this very night would see us beyond the Golden Horn."

"You go by water?"

Jack hesitates. He believes there is no need of secrecy between Mercedes and himself now that she has bared her inner soul to his gaze, and he knows the noble impulse that actuates her, but she notices that he does not immediately reply.

"Do not trouble yourself, Senor Jack, about telling me, yet it was not wholly curiosity that impelled me to ask. The pasha has a steam yacht in the harbor, and perhaps—who knows?—this fact might play an important part in the game."

"You mistake me, Mercedes. I only hesitated because my plans are not wholly arranged. I have bought a small English yacht—the same captain and crew remain. Somehow we shall all get on board, and make for the Mediterranean."

"Ah! you would never pass the fort before. A telegraph line connects them with the city, and orders will soon be sent them to search every vessel leaving the Golden Horn."

"I have considered that. They will find no one on board the Thistle-down but the captain and crew when they search."

"Ah! I forgot—you are a Yankee, and can hoodwink a Turk every day. Well, Senor Jack, you must have much to do. If fortune should decide that we may not meet again, here's my hand, and success go with you. Buenas noches."

The vision at the little window disappears—Mercedes has gone to battle again in secret with the great sorrow of her life, and Jack gazes only at the blank white walls where the now closed trellis shutter marks the fissure.

He has received a lesson on this night he will not forget. Henceforth Jack Evans can never smile derisively when a woman's name is spoken in connection with weakness, for he has seen one woman rise above the level of her sex, and grasp qualities that draw her closer to deity. He holds his breath with awe when he whispers her name, for she has sacrificed herself in order to assist the man she loves and her successful rival, Noble Mercedes! such a woman honours Spain.

All this while Achmed, the faithful, has remained near by in an attitude that betokens him the watchful servant. He does not comprehend all he hears, but quite enough to have a broad view of the subject.

Jack now joins him, and together they make for the high wall of the garden. The Siberian hounds still howl at intervals, and Jack hopes nothing may occur to let them loose on the succeeding night.

He is more than ordinarily nervous over this affair—so much is concerned in it, and there are so many chances of trouble, any one of which must upset their calculations. Never before has he experienced this feeling, but then the events of the last week have been very hard on even his iron constitution, and besides this is the first time Doctor Jack has been in love.

AVON SPRINGS, N.Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co., Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic Asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I changed to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M.D.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co., Feb. 5, 1901. Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 31st, '02

MR. CARNEGIE'S GIFT.

It is cause for general congratulation on the part of our citizens that Lindsay has commenced to share in the larger benevolences of the age. The magnificent gift of a County Hospital, now approaching completion, will perpetuate the name of the donor, Mr. James Ross, of Montreal, a former citizen, who will be able to derive a keen satisfaction from his generous act owing to his knowledge of our great need for an institution of the kind and the untold benefit it will confer upon the people of South and North Victoria. In addition to the more material advantages the building will embellish the town from an architectural point of view, and will constitute the town's principal attraction in the eyes of our visitors.

Now we have the welcome announcement that Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the retired steel magnate, who is bestowing his wealth in grants to educational institutions and Public Libraries, has looked favorably upon the request forwarded some months ago on behalf of Lindsay, and has signified his willingness to grant $10,000 for a model Free Public Library building on condition that a free site is secured and $1,000 yearly guaranteed for maintenance. The Library Board is already assured of the revenue, being entitled to a half-mill on the total assessment of the town, which will this year exceed $2,000,000 for the first time, and as the town owns several suitable sites the grant is practically earned at the present moment. The amount is sufficient to erect and equip a very fine Library building, the plans for which we understand, are furnished by the donor. It is important that the site be selected with a view to the town's growth and future needs, and the choice should not be made hastily. It is just possible that some generous citizen may make the task easy by donating a site.

ARE OUR BUSINESS MEN MISSING CHANCES?

On several occasions The Post has called attention to the desirability of Lindsay's position as a location for a furniture factory and for an industry turning out woodenware "notions." The securing of Messrs. Rider & Kitchener's veneer and excelsior factory was a step in the right direction, and the starting of a box, stove and heading factory by the Kennedy & Davis Co. was another. But there seems to be a brick demand in the market for wooden butter dishes, broom and mop handles, and small articles classed as "novelties," and the Canada Wood Specialty Co., of Orillia, seems to find the trade a very profitable one. In less than twelve months the company turned out and disposed of nine million butter dishes, 50 carloads of broom handles, 40,000 to the car, and are now filling an order for an English firm for 32,000 chairs to be shipped to South Africa. In addition a great quantity of small wares was turned out, and the outlook for the coming year is bright. The company is composed of local men. Here in Lindsay we should neglect no opportunity to promote enterprises which will take the place of our lumber and shingle mills when the suitable timber becomes exhausted or it becomes no longer profitable to transport it as far as this town.

Again it is the opinion of a number of shrewd citizens that cotton and yacht factory in Lindsay would be a profitable industry. Eight or ten years ago the small boats turned out by Pat Doris were considered to be superior to the Peterboro canoes, and even to-day the owner of a Doris Rob-Roy in good condition cannot be tempted to part with the craft. The models can be secured for a reasonable sum. With Lindsay as the gateway to the Kawartha Lakes, and a great tourist traffic in prospect, there is likely to be a brisk demand for canoes, skiffs and sailing and power yachts in the near future. If our business men fail to provide for the trade the orders will be placed in Peterboro or elsewhere. Messrs. Perrin and Irwin, we understand have established a small factory. If one of our moneyed men would invest a little capital in the enterprise, and so place it on a proper footing, we feel confident that a large trade would speedily develop. Bicycling for pleasure is a thing of the past, and boating is fast becoming more popular than ever, before.

THE WATCHMAN Muddled

Our column has gone election and Fire Hall mad. It now tries to pretend that everybody knew the effect of Mr. Sinclair's disclaimer would be to elect Mr. Robson. If Mr. Sinclair and his advisers knew it why did Mr. Sinclair accompany his disclaimer with a letter stating that he took that course in order that he might take action under the sections of the act requiring a new election. We simply reported what they not only said, but put in black and white, but when the matter was submitted to the Town Solicitor he at once said a new election was not necessary, which is now admitted. But if Mr. Sinclair knew this why did he accompany his disclaimer with a letter attempting to mislead the Council into ordering a new election? If they knew it, they attempted to mislead; if they did not, they simply bungled in asking for a new election. Our column can take whichever horn of the dilemma it likes.

A GRAIN ROUTE.

The New York Central has grabbed up the Canada Atlantic Railway, yet this Dominion has not gone into mourning. The Vanderbilts do not acquire properties to keep them idle, and in making their Canadian road remunerative they will bring a lot of traffic to Canadian ports. The Canada Atlantic has a good harbor at its terminus on Georgian Bay, near Parry Sound. It turns south from Ottawa to Coburn on the St. Lawrence, crosses that river and enters the Province of Quebec, with connections to New York and to Montreal. It will be extended to Lewis, where it will have an ocean port in summer, and connection with St. John and Halifax by the Intercolonial all the year round. The grain from Chicago, Duluth and Port Arthur will be carried over the Canada Atlantic in large quantities, and Canadians will be employed in the work of transportation. Under the Booth management, with poorer facilities than those which the Vanderbilts will be able to supply, the Canada Atlantic has done a profitable business. It will soon take its place as one of Canada's trunk lines of railway.

A Mother's Warning.

SPEAKS OF A TROUBLE THAT AFFLICTS MANY YOUNG GIRLS.

Headache, Dizziness, Heart Palpitation, Fickle Appetite and Pallor the Early Symptoms of Decay.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.
Hard study at school, coupled with the lack of attention which every young girl merging into womanhood should have, is responsible not only for the many pale faces and attenuated forms met with such lamentable frequency, but is responsible also for the loss of many valuable young lives. First there is an occasional headache, and a salowness of complexion, from which stages, if these early symptoms are neglected, the condition gradually grows worse and worse until decline or consumption sets in and death claims another victim of parental neglect. Upon mothers especially devolves a great responsibility as their daughters approach womanhood. The following truthful story told a reporter of the Sun by Mrs. O. Herman, of Third Avenue, Orangeville, carries a lesson to other mothers. Mrs. Herman said: "About fifteen months ago my daughter, Kate, while attending the public school studied hard. We noticed that she began to complain of headaches. This was followed by a listlessness and an utter indifference to the things that usually interested her. We consulted a doctor, and she took bottle after bottle of medicine, but with no benefit. Often she would arise in the morning after an almost sleepless night, her limbs all a quiver and her head reeling. She would be attacked with spells of dizziness, and on the least exertion her heart would palpitate violently, and we were really afraid she would not recover. At this stage my husband suggested that we should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he brought home several boxes. Kate had only taken the pills a few weeks when there was a great change for the better. She grew stronger, began to eat better and to have better color, and from this stage it was not long until she was again enjoying the best of health and able to resume her studies at school. I might also tell you that these pills cured my daughter so that you see we have much reason to praise them, and I earnestly recommend them to all mothers whose daughters may be suffering as mine did."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all diseases that have their origin either in a poor or watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves. It is because they make rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves with every dose that they cure such troubles as anemia, consumption in its early stages, nervous headache, St. Vitus' dance, rheumatism, partial paralysis, kidney trouble, indigestion, etc. Ordinary medicine merely acts upon the symptoms of the trouble, and when such medicines are discontinued the trouble returns often in an aggravated form. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on the contrary go direct to the root of the trouble and cure to stay cured. See that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is found on the wrapper of every box. If your dealer does not have them, order them and they will be mailed, postpaid, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Twenty-five Years Married

SILVER WEDDING FESTIVITIES IN OPS.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fox Celebrated their Twenty-fifth Anniversary of their Marriage.

On Sunday last, Jan. 26th, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fox passed the silver milestone in their double journey through life, and on Monday evening celebrated the interesting event in a right royal fashion. Invitations to about eighty had been extended to relatives on both sides of the house, and "Sunnyside," the home of the happy couple in the Brickville suburb of the town, was filled with one of the happiest throngs possible to conceive. Among the guests were the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. John Buller, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McDonald, Mrs. Belle Buller, Mrs. Carrie Matheson, Toronto; Mrs. W. E. James, Mrs. Geo. Norton, Bolton Village; Mr. John Norton, Alliston; Mrs. W. Symons, Rochester, N.Y.; Mr. Frank Fox, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHugh, Miss Alice McHugh, Napanee; Miss Miss Alice McHugh, Belleville; Mr. H. R. Free, Cold Springs; Miss Sarah Free, Mrs. A. W. Free, Miss Mabel Free, Mrs. Saunders Free, Miss Edith Free, Mrs. J. A. Free, Miss Nellie Ivey, Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. David Woods, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. B. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. A. Skinner, Margaret Fox, Miss Lottie Fox, Geo. H. Fox, Batoche Terry, Geo. Terry, G. Gibson Fox, Mrs. Jeanie Free, Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkin, town.

The decorations were particularly neat and tasty. A sumptuous wedding dinner was enjoyed, at the close of which short congratulatory addresses were given, which were duly acknowledged by Mr. Fox on behalf of himself and bride of twenty-five years ago. Rose Free was the maiden name of his wife, and one of those present remarked that although Mr. Fox had picked a rose from the garden of feminine humanity he afterwards found that he had really plucked a daisy. Miss Fox and Miss Mabel Free presided at the piano during the evening, the latter giving a number of the delightful songs. Mrs. Fox was the recipient of many beautiful tokens and a special gift of her husband being a silver tea service and a cheque for $1,000.00.

The Post joins with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fox in wishing them many years of happiness and prosperity.

COMMUNICATIONS

County Detective Needed.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me space in your valuable journal to offer a few suggestions to our County officials as to the necessity of a re-organization of the County Constables in Victoria. There are a goodly number of constables in different parts of the county, but who knows them, or where to look for them, when they are wanted? We can find the list by seeing a constable, but our high constable, S. Neilson, cannot tell who they are, or where to find them, hence the necessity for a re-organization of the force at as early a date as possible. Again, there is another reform which I consider is absolutely necessary if we wish better arrangements for the capture of criminals, the substitution of circulars for post cards. The former are enclosed in envelopes and the contents are not made public; the latter is public property and the contents are not only made known to the constables, but to whom they are sent, but to the postmaster, through whose office these cards pass.

Again, the days in which we live call for a more up-to-date method of capturing criminals. No one will deny that the criminals of the present day are talented, educated men or women, who make this business a matter of study. They have methods known only to themselves, and as a rule the common constable—a farmer or mechanic, or any other person holding this office, is not, nor can it be expected that he should be successful in ferreting out a robbery case, therefore it is an absolute necessity that the county should have a county detective, whose office should be in Lindsay and whose whole time should be devoted to this work, and he should not be a Chief of Police, but one who thoroughly understands this business.

The writer is aware that such a person can be obtained in our county. If this was done I venture to say there would be a saving of money to our county—sufficiently large indeed to pay the salary of the officer and moreover everyone would be satisfied, and there would be a decrease of crime in our county. There are a number of cases which never come to light because there is no such officer in our midst. Many suffer wrongly in our county just because of this fact. Public feeling as well as justice calls for a reform in our present force of constables in the county and the appointment of a competent man to act as a County Detective under salary.

We throw out these suggestions to our county officials for their consideration.—Yours, etc.,

VICTORIA COUNTY.

SUGAR BEET ACREAGE.

The Canvassers Will Report to the County Council Friday.

Messrs. Wm. Channon and Johnstone Ellis, the canvassers for sugar beet acreage, completed their initial series of meetings last Monday evening, when they addressed an audience at Fingerboard.

In the comparatively small section of Marlboro and Ops canvassed by them they secured contracts for 750 acres, and report that the farmers are common to vines. A keen interest in the sugar beet proposition. A report covering the work done will be presented to the County Council at the Friday session, and should prove interesting.

The Sale of Butter

will be much larger when it is done up neatly in our butter wrappers, and the name of the makers printed on wrapper is a guarantee of fineness of quality.—wtf.

A GROWING INDUSTRY.

The beet sugar factories of Michigan have an aggregate capacity for handling 6,000 tons of beets per day, and during the year just ended 66,400 acres of beets were harvested, for which the growers received $3,107,520. The average output of sugar per ton of beets at the Michigan factories is 210 lbs., which for the present season amounts to 125,400,000 pounds, or 82,748 tons, or 4,183 carloads of 15 tons each. This amount would make a solid train load of sugar 81.6 miles long. This amount is 75 per cent. of Michigan's yearly consumption of sugar. Its value at 4 1/2 cents per pound is $5,647,320. Next year there will be 17 factories in the State, and it is expected that 130,000 tons of beets will be produced and converted into sugar.

To produce 3,000,000 tons of beet sugar annually would require 900 plants each having a daily capacity of 500 tons of beets. These plants would represent the following investment and annual business: Investment in plants, $300,000,000; working capital, $50,000,000; acres of beets, 3,000,000; value of land, growing the crop, $150,000,000; tons of beets, 27,000,000; tons of sugar, 3,000,000; value of beets, $185,000,000; annual pay roll for labor, $12,000,000; tons of coal used annually, 1,800,000; tons of coke used annually, 200,000; freight paid railways annually, $27,000,000; annual payment for bags and barrels, $6,000,000; farmers' families raising beets, 250,000; men employed in factories, 125,000, and 1,200,000 men employed raising beets during the season.

First Committee Meeting

MR. CARNEGIE'S OFFER OF $10,000.00 FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY BUILDING.

A Committee Appointed to Act with the Library Board in the Selection of a Site--Other Matters Dealt With

The first meeting of Council committees for 1902 was held Saturday evening in the Clerk's office in the Town Hall building. Mayor Ingie and all members were present, including Ald. Robson, who takes the seat vacated by Mr. D. Sinclair.

Police and Lighting Matters.

Ald. McDiarmid, chairman, read the Gas Co's request for a lighting schedule, and Clerk Knowlson was instructed to procure a copy. Gas and electric light bills rendered were approved, and the motion passed at last meeting of Council, relative to the calling of tenders for the lighting of the public buildings, was left over for discussion at next meeting.

The Carnegie Grant.

Judge Harding, Wm. Flavell, Wm. Steers, G. E. Broderick and E. A. Hardy, of the Public Library Board were present, and on motion were granted permission to address the committee. Secretary Hardy then read the following letter received from Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the great philanthropist, adding that no doubt all were familiar with the offer owing to its publication in The Evening Post:

Andrew Carnegie,
5 West 50th-st.,
New York.

Dear Sir:--Responding to your communication, if the City of Lindsay pledges itself to support a Free Public Library at a cost of not less than one thousand dollars a year, and provides a suitable site, Mr. Carnegie will be glad to furnish ten thousand dollars for a Free Public Library building. Respectfully yours,
JAS. PESTRAM, Secy.

Jan. 23, '02.

Mr. Hardy:--Last year the half mill on the assessment, which we are entitled to, yielded over $900, and when the assessment reaches two millions the Board's revenue will exceed the sum stipulated by Mr. Carnegie.

Ald. O'Reilly:--"This year's assessment is over two million dollars."

Mr. Hardy:--"The revenue question is settled, and we appear before you in connection with the possible site, which should receive very careful consideration."

Dr. Burrows:--"The gift will not affect the government grant or any other source of income."

Ald. McDiarmid:--"Oh, no--it simply means a free gift of $10,000 on condition that a free site for the building is given."

Secretary Hardy suggested the appointment of a joint committee to consider possible sites, and Mr. Steers and others urged prompt action when it was proposed that the appointment of the committee be left over till the next meeting of Council.

Ald. Jackson:--"You see, we have had so much trouble about sites that it behooves us to be careful," and a smile went around the board.

Moved by Ald. Jackson, seconded by Ald. O'Reilly, that Mayor Ingie and Aldermen Hore and McDiarmid represent this Council on the joint committee. Carried.

A Neglected Ratepayer.

Mr. T. C. Hooper, who resides on Durham-st., east ward, complained that owing to a fence not having been removed last fall by the Commissioner, as promised, the narrow street had become blocked with snow, causing himself and family much discomfort. Commissioner Chalmers was instructed to inspect the situation.

Ald. Burrows:--"We seem to be taking it for granted that the Commissioner will be retained at his present salary and perquisites. There won't be much work for him this summer."

Town Property Committee.

Ald. Hore read Messrs. McLaughlin & Peel's letter relative to Mr. W. A. White's claim of $350 for Fire Hall plans, etc. The matter was allowed to stand till next meeting.

Board of Works Matters.

Ald. O'Reilly, chairman, handled the business. After a number of accounts had been dealt with Mr. John Mallett's $600 claim for damage caused by overflow water was considered and refused. A report presented by Commissioner Chalmers was read and dealt with clause by clause. With reference to the disputed account for stone crushing, the Commissioner said he had measured 18 cords, and five had been left uncrushed. The foreman of the crusher maintained that he had actually crushed something over 19 cords, but the bill presented by the County was for only 18 cords. The latter quantity will be paid for.

It was decided to call for tenders for a quantity of limestone and granite for the granite walks to be constructed next summer. The return paid in the corporation yard will be issued to the poor by Mayor Ingie.

Commissioner Chalmers exhibited some cards he had printed for the instruction of citizens whose premises are connected with the sanitary sewers, and wanted to know whose duty it was to place the cards.

Ald. Hore:--"Send them to the Board of Health."

Ald. Jackson:--"We are responsible for the care of the sewers, and the cards should be looked after by the Sanitary Inspector."

Ald. McDiarmid:--"Have we any control over that official?"

Ald. Jackson:--"We should have--we pay his salary."

Ald. Burrows:--"According to the Health Act every police officer is a sanitary inspector, and the Chief and his assistant could do all the work."

The duties of the Inspector will be looked into and defined at next meeting.

A clause in the report pointed out that the by-law requiring a deposit of $5 for six months for every sewer lateral put in after the main sewer had been taken from the contractor did not protect the town, as the term frequently ended in winter, while any sinking of the earth would not take place till spring. It was decided to increase the term to one year.

The Commissioner also called attention to the frequent injury of the granite walks owing to parties using improper tools, and said that while reporting a person so engaged Ald. Burrows had interfered in an unjustifiable way, saying that he had paid for the walk and would do as he liked with it.

Ald. Burrows said he had not used the precise words quoted, and had cautioned the man to be very careful when removing the ice.

This discussion directed attention to the methods employed by Kent-st. business men, when clearing their walks, and it was decided to instruct Chief Neilson to enforce the by-law strictly. The practice of heaving snow off roofs of buildings into the streets will also entail a fine on offenders unless a watchman is employed and arrangements made to remove the snow.

Finance Committee.

Ald. Jackson, chairman, had a great heap of correspondence before him, and as the hour was late it was decided to adjourn till Friday evening. Before doing so a letter from McSwyn & Veldon, asking the Town Clerk to furnish certified statements in connection with the threatened suit to disqualify the Council, was read and referred to the Town Solicitor, Clerk Knowlson being instructed to act according to the advice of that official.

Police Court Calendar.

Geo. Mullett, sr., of the east ward, appeared before Magistrate Steers the other day to answer to the charge of keeping a vicious dog. It was shown that the animal had attacked several persons. Mr. Mullett was asked to contribute $4 to the town exchange and also agreed to give away or destroy the dog.

Lester McGillivray, a local job, had an interview with the Police Magistrate, and the favor cost him a sum in excess of $10. The discussion related to a tiff between Lester and a young man named W. Brooks, which took place at Brown's hotel on Jan. 15th, in the course of which Lester so far forgot himself as to strike and kick his associate for the time being.

THE CLASSES IN PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Much Enthusiasm Being Manifested
by the Ladies of Lindsay.

On Monday afternoon and evening the Y.M.C.A. was invaded by a large number of women and children, enthusiastic over the classes being formed by Mrs. Scott-Raff. In the afternoon Mrs. Raff formed three classes--one for boys and girls under fourteen, one for girls above fourteen and one for adults. Again in the evening another class was formed, before the public meeting. In all sixty persons enrolled. This speaks well for the good sense of the Lindsay women.

One of the features of the evening was the question drawn answered by Mrs. Raff. Some wanted to know whether a costume would be necessary, others whether such training would be helpful in vocal music, how long it would take, and what it was warranted to do. To all these Mrs. Raff replied in her usual lucid and pleasing way.

Following the question drawn was a short address by Mrs. Raff. She touched on the necessity of reform in dress, and emphasized the need of a return to nature in thought. The great end of these classes was to be shown by the ladies of the town. The idea of physical culture is to give expression to the highest and best in one, to teach oneself control and poise, how to rest as well as work, so that each one can fulfill her life's work without physical drawback. Miss Silver sang after Mrs. Raff's talk light refreshments were served and most of those present had the treat of a few minutes' chat with the director of the new gymnasium.

The enthusiasm of the ladies of Lindsay in the effort made to procure classes of physical culture was markedly shown by the large attendance in the evening and by the appreciation of the members of the classes formed. There was not a disappointed person among those who had the privilege of taking the exercises.

The regular classes will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 28. They will be divided into four--for married women, for young women, for schools girls, for children. The day and hour for each class will be definitely announced next week. For next Tuesday, the children will meet in the Y.M.C.A. at 4:30, the girls at 5. The adults will meet at 8 in the evening. The gymnasium in the Y.M.C.A. building is now ready, and the classes will henceforth be held there--entrance from Lindsay-st., at seven p.m. on Tuesday. Those wishing to join any of these classes can get information from the president, Mrs. E. H. Stevens, or the secretary, Miss Keith.

Pain in the Joints

may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. Polson's Nervine exactly meets the requirements, for it is both powerful and penetrating. The pain is expelled as if by magic, for one drop of Nervine equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often find the doctor if Nervine is in the house. Price 25 cents.

Peterboro Cheese Board Rules

(Peterboro Review, Monday.)

Members of the Peterboro Cheese Board held another of their meetings on Saturday afternoon at which they again gave consideration to the rule looking to a more satisfactory conduct of the Board's business between buyer and seller. Mr. Drummond, the president, occupied the chair. There was a good attendance of members.

One of the rules were taken up and considered, and the adoption of a clause from the rules of the London Board with respect to the duties of the inspector was moved by Mr. Riddell and seconded by Mr. W. Anderson. The clause read as follows: That a detailed report of inspection dated and signed by the person making the inspection must be left with the factory on a form to be supplied by the Executive of the Exchange. All cheese shall be given proper care after sale until delivery, and any dispute as to weights, boxing or delivery shall be decided by arbitration under the rules of the exchange. All cheese shall weigh at its delivery one-half pound per box more than the weight marked on the box and no fraction of a pound shall be deducted upon the box. The weight shall be invariable by the figures marked on the box. The clause was adopted.

Moved by Mr. Wm. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Ryan, that we offer our cheese for sale every week from the 15th June to 15th August. Carried.

From the concluding discussion at the meeting it is evident that the members of the Cheese Board have determined to conduct the weekly sales and business pertaining thereto in a manner that will conduce to great satisfaction to all concerned. The annual meeting of the Board will be held on Saturday, February 8th.

COMMUNICATIONS

The Fenelon Falls Hockey Club.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir:--In reply to a few lines of "hot air" in Friday's Fenelon Falls Star, in which, among other things, was stated, that Fenelon Falls had in the last two years, played Lindsay eight games of hockey and had won six, we wish to state that at no time in its existence, with the exception of the Simpson Cup games, did Fenelon Falls play, let alone defeat, the Senior hockey team of this town. Their games last year were with the Lindsay League team, and this fact necessarily barred the seven best players we had from the Fenelon Falls team.

In the Simpson Cup games Fenelon were defeated twice and tied the other game, and as for Gill, he was employed by the G.T.R. Co. and satisfied all the requirements of the O.H.A. as an amateur player, and was with the O.H.A., and only wish to say that at some time in its existence nearly every club in Ontario has been suspended pending investigation of certain charges.

The Lindsay Hockey Club will have much pleasure in playing the team from the Fenelon Falls, as soon as our standing with the O.H.A. is made known. We are not particular about terms and will play in Fenelon Falls first, if necessary. Before talking of having a try for O.H.A. honors, Fenelon will need to get a rink large enough to play on and put enough light in it to enable visible players to see the puck at least five minutes out of ten.

The game which was to have been played here on New Year's day, was cancelled on account of our inability to secure the ice on the holiday, and not through any fault of our management.

Father Cassidy will be remembered as one of the three eloquent Jesuit priests who conducted a mission at St. Mary's last fall, and whose sermons were particularly impressive and effective. Pneumonia was the cause of death. He was born in Ireland in 1845, and taught at St. Francis Xavier, St. John's, Boston College, Georgetown University, and was president of St. Peter's College in Jersey City for three years. He spent the last four years of his life in missionary work in Canada and the States.

Three south ward ladies, whose hands were absent at the time of the recent storm, faced the snow blockade like men--at least one of them did, for she donned a suit of her husband's clothing. She held that it was going to do a man's work who had her perfect right system and man's clothes. The other two, who worked with shortened skirts, were intensely amused at the appearance of their co-worker, when digging pathways to the street, and more so when a startled shriek and disappearing figure drew their attention to the fact that the real man was plowing his way through the drifts on the roadway. The weary pedestrian wondered what all the commotion and laughing was about, but will understand it fully when he reads this item.

A Great Canadian Advertisement

One of the greatest advertisements the Canadian North-west ever got is contained in a paragraph from The Indian Head Victoria, which is now going the rounds of the press. It is as follows: "Last year Mr. Glen bought a quarter section of land, or 100 acres, for $200 (scrip). This year the entire section was under crop. He allows expenses in breaking at $5 per acre, $500; seed grain, $144; labor of seeding, $50; binder twice, $84; harvesting, $350; delivery to elevator, $210; incidentals, $150, a total of $1,958, including the cost of the farm. The yield was 7,447 bushels of wheat, which sold at 55 cents, realizing $4,095.55. After all expenses and farm were paid for Mr. Glen this had a clear profit of $2,097.82. The yield averaged forty-seven bushels of wheat to the acre."

IT COST MONEY.

Many a man has spent all his earnings in trying to get rid of rheumatism. It cost Mr. James Davidson, Oconto, Ont., between $1,000 and $2,000 before he tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. He was a helpless invalid for six years but suffered from sciatica in his hip joint for ten years. Six bottles cured him completely and he is now working his farm. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Exciting and Dangerous Flight of an American Timber Ranger.

Wolves are reported very numerous in the wilds of Haliburton and Muskoka this year. A few days ago a party of Americans, hailing from Pennsylvania, were in this vicinity of Dorset inspecting timber. One of the party strayed away from the others, and after going a couple of miles he heard the howling of wolves. Looking around, he observed a pack of the vicious brutes coming towards him from over a high cliff. In order to save himself from being devoured he took off his snow shoes and scurried up a tree, which was speedily surrounded by the man-eaters. After remaining a prisoner for a couple of hours he was released by his comrades, who came along heavily armed and soon made short work of the wolves. As there is a bounty of $10 on wolves some of our Lindsay sports, who now waste their good ammunition on rabbits should take a trip north.

Heretofore the firm has had only a few agencies on the island, but Mr. McLean will establish a number of new ones, and will also push business at likely points in Nova Scotia. Since coming to Lindsay Mr. McLean has worked hard, and has almost doubled the sale of Deering machines in Victoria and Peterboro counties. A very large circle of friends will regret his departure while rejoicing that his earnest attention to business has won for him merited promotion.

Hockey Notes.

The Lindsay Senators will likely be placed in good standing in the O.H.A. again, with permission to play Denbiston.

The Flavell Milling Co. hockey team are out for honors and hereby issue a call to any local organization--Sylvester Bros., stickhandlers preferred. Secretary Jack O'Leary will book all challenges in regular order as they arrive.

Word has been received from Secretary Beaton, of the O.H.A., that the games already played in this district with Lindsay are stand. This means that Port Hope is credited with two wins and Peterboro with a loss. The only way the Peterboros can win the district is by beating Port Hope in both the games which they will play with that club.

Port Hope Guide: The Peterboro Examiner says, that on account of Lindsay being suspended, Port Hope and Peterboro are on the same footing and will play off in home and home games, and should it then be a tie, a game will take place on neutral ice. Now, isn't that easy for Peterboro? Port Hope lacks Lindsay's twines and Peterboro is beaten by Lindsay once and then the Examiner man figures out a tie. That boy has certainly a great head. Why, even if the last Port Hope match with Lindsay was thrown out, the first game played by Lindsay club would have to stand, as Denbiston was then in good standing.

VEN. ARCHDEACON CASEY

WELCOMED BY PUPILS OF ST. JOSEPH'S CONVENT.

Presented With an Address and Bouquet
A Delightful Musical Program
Rendered. The Archdeacon's Reply

Among the many hearty greetings received by Ven. Archdeacon Casey since his advent into the Parish of Lindsay, none was more cordial than that extended to him on Wednesday evening by the pupils of St. Joseph's Convent. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, all—even the little tots—braved the danger of being lost in the snow banks and their bright, glad faces, and their sweet voices as they sang their welcome chorus, must have gladdened the heart of their new spiritual father.

The Address of Welcome.
The following is the address, which was read by Miss Rose Ziefeldt, and which was accompanied by a beautiful bouquet presented by Miss Clotilde McGinnies.

To Venerable Archdeacon Casey;
Reverend and Dear Father—We, the children of the Convent School, are to-day assembled to extend to you with words of love and greeting, "Welcome, a hearty welcome, to Lindsay."

Little more than two months ago our hearts, and those of our parents and friends, were well nigh crushed with grief over the great loss we had sustained. The inevitable hour came quite unexpectedly for our beloved father, Right Reverend Monsignor Laurent, and he, whose priestly life had been devoted to the noble work of uplifting frail humanity, resignedly obeyed the summons. That most consoling dogma of the holy religion, the Communion of Saints, at such times brings to us consolation and peace, in the divine assurance that the good die not and that death is but the going on before. We, his Convent children, whom he so particularly favored, have his ever remembered words, his teaching, his unselfish interest in our welfare, and above all, his example, as incentives to become better children of that church which testifies the highest ideal of the soul.

Parson as, dear Father, if, on an occasion like this, we make much reference to our departed loved one, we are reminded of your predecessor must be a guarantee of our devotedness to you. Tidings preceded your coming of the universal regret experienced in Peterboro by the severance of the sacred ties which for eight years united pastor to people, father to children. In our town, as in the episcopal city, you will find warm, true, loyal Catholics, whose faith is dearer to them than all things else, whose clergy are loved and revered because ambassadors of the God-man who descended to earth to establish his church. Here also you will meet with affectionate children whose respect and esteem your dignity as the Lord's Anointed must ever command, and whose hearts you have already won through your unvarying kindness and love for the little ones and the earnest and successful efforts you have ever made for the promotion of that cause so dear to the heart of the Divine Master—the grand and holy cause of education.

Again we say to you—"a most hearty welcome!" May the regrets we long to cherish be merged in affection for Lindsay. May you be spared for many years to the sacred service of the Most High. May you this evening open and ever keep a snug corner of your great and generous heart for your loving Convent children.

The Musical Programme.
Father Casey was evidently much affected by the kindly sentiments expressed in the address, and deferred his reply until after the following programme had been presented in a manner that reflected much credit on those taking part, and on the high standard of vocal and instrumental training given in the Convent.

Programme.
Vocal, "Two Cities," (Hamilton Gray), Miss M. O'Connor.

Archdeacon Casey's Reply.
The Reverend Father, after congratulating the young ladies on their creditable performance, said that, as in leaving Peterboro one of his greatest regrets was the severance of ties with the children of the schools, so on coming to Lindsay one of his greatest pleasures he experienced was the kindly welcome from the little ones. He congratulated the Sisters of St. Joseph's upon the excellent work which they had accomplished in Lindsay. Other schools of the kind taught nothing but the entrance work, but here the young ladies enjoyed the advantage of being able to obtain certificates and fit themselves for any position in life, while they were surrounded by all the safeguards and helps of religion that would enable them to realize in their lives the Catholic ideal of woman. In conclusion he asked them to pray that he might be long spared to continue the good work of his predecessor in Lindsay.

Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan, being called upon, expressed his pleasure at being present to join with the children in a song. Ven. Archdeacon Casey to his new field of labor, and voiced the hope that the manifestations of affection which marked the commencement of their new relationship would be but the forerunner of a long and lasting friendship.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the pleasant evening to a close.

DEADLY CIGARETTE AGAIN.

What Medical Examiners Did covered in the Chicago High Schools.

Cigarette smoking is held responsible by the medical examiners of the Chicago Schools for a startling increase in heart disease and nervous ailments among pupils in the High Schools. The condition was revealed by examinations recently held for admission to a college sports.

Twenty-two out of one hundred were found unfit and all but three suffered from some form of heart trouble.

Juvenile smoking seems rather approved of than otherwise in Australia. Incredible though it may appear, they have already discussed the advisability of attaching smoking rooms to the schools.

The Belleville-Ontario contributes the following to cigarette literature: The annual tea meeting at Cannitton church was well attended. Those present took a great deal of interest in the meeting, especially in a word about the great loss we had sustained. The inevitable hour came quite unexpectedly for our beloved father, Right Reverend Monsignor Laurent, and he, whose priestly life had been devoted to the noble work of uplifting frail humanity, resignedly obeyed the summons.

That most consoling dogma of the holy religion, the Communion of Saints, at such times brings to us consolation and peace, in the divine assurance that the good die not and that death is but the going on before. We, his Convent children, whom he so particularly favored, have his ever remembered words, his teaching, his unselfish interest in our welfare, and above all, his example, as incentives to become better children of that church which testifies the highest ideal of the soul.

Parson as, dear Father, if, on an occasion like this, we make much reference to our departed loved one, we are reminded of your predecessor must be a guarantee of our devotedness to you. Tidings preceded your coming of the universal regret experienced in Peterboro by the severance of the sacred ties which for eight years united pastor to people, father to children. In our town, as in the episcopal city, you will find warm, true, loyal Catholics, whose faith is dearer to them than all things else, whose clergy are loved and revered because ambassadors of the God-man who descended to earth to establish his church. Here also you will meet with affectionate children whose respect and esteem your dignity as the Lord's Anointed must ever command, and whose hearts you have already won through your unvarying kindness and love for the little ones and the earnest and successful efforts you have ever made for the promotion of that cause so dear to the heart of the Divine Master—the grand and holy cause of education.

Again we say to you—"a most hearty welcome!" May the regrets we long to cherish be merged in affection for Lindsay. May you be spared for many years to the sacred service of the Most High. May you this evening open and ever keep a snug corner of your great and generous heart for your loving Convent children.

The Musical Programme.
Father Casey was evidently much affected by the kindly sentiments expressed in the address, and deferred his reply until after the following programme had been presented in a manner that reflected much credit on those taking part, and on the high standard of vocal and instrumental training given in the Convent.

AT FENELON FALLS

C. E. AND S. S. OF THE COUNTY IN SESSION.

Bright Papers, Interesting Addresses and Hearty Singing Mark the Convocation of 1902 as the Best Held for Many Years.

The annual joint convention of the C.E. Society and S.S. Association, which was held at the Methodist church, Fenelon Falls, on Thursday and Friday, January 23rd and 24th, was a gratifying success. With the exception of the address to have been given by Hon. John Dwyer, M.P.P.,—regrets being expressed freely on all sides at his inability to attend,—every part of the program was carried out faithfully. Every address delivered and every paper read showed careful preparation. The preparation of the papers was a task of no small magnitude. The addresses and papers did not exceed, however, the completeness of the arrangements made for the comfort of the delegates—the hospitality of the citizens of Fenelon Falls is wholehearted, and Rev. Mr. Garbutt and his staff of earnest workers are to be congratulated on the success which crowned their efforts.

The Opening Session commenced at two o'clock Thursday afternoon with devotional exercises conducted by Mr. W. Suggett, Valentin. The secretary, Miss E. A. Pogue, Reabro, read the roll call, which was followed by the reports of officers. The secretary reported 29 societies in the County with a total membership of over 1500. Three bright papers on Junior Endeavor were read: "Aims of the Junior Endeavor," prepared by Mrs. J. J. Morgan, Omamee, and read by Miss S. Porter, Lindsay; "How to Make Meetings Interesting," by Miss A. Lacey, Kirkfield.

"Endeavors and Prohibition," was the title of a vigorous address by Rev. G. Clare, Oakwood. The rev. gentleman in an enthusiastic temperance worker and made a strong appeal to the Endeavors to stand firm to this principle of temperance. "Fruits of Christian Endeavor" was taken up under three heads, and excellent papers were read. "Interdenominational Fellowship," by Mrs. W. A. Leigh, Lindsay; "Tenth Legion," by Mrs. E. L. Johnston, Fenelon Falls; "Quiet Hour," by Mr. R. H. Reid, Reabro.

Rev. W. Kinnawin, Omamee, gave a spirited address on "Y.P.S.C.E. and Young Men." The session was brought to a close after two interesting papers had been read: "Need of a Definite Purpose," by Mr. A. Gilchrist, Woodville; and "Enthusiasm," prepared by Miss Dunoon, Lindsay; and read by Mrs. (Rev.) Sinclair, Fenelon Falls.

Thursday Evening Session.

This session opened with a short song service, followed by devotional exercises conducted by Mr. R. H. Reid, Reabro. Rev. J. Garbutt, of Fenelon Falls, in well selected words, gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mr. W. A. Leigh, Lindsay. Mr. E. Sackville, of Lindsay, favored the audience with a pleasing solo.

"Home," was the title of a most interesting address by Rev. G. Brown, Omamee. The address abounded with good common sense, a vein of humor running through it. Miss Graham rendered a solo with much acceptance.

The address by Rev. J. A. R. Dickson, B.D., Ph.D., of Galt, a most enthusiastic Endeavorer, was one to be long remembered. The rev. gentleman showed clearly the work being done by the C.E. and the necessity of greater effort and earnestness.

The officers for the ensuing term were as follows: President, Mr. E. Peck, Lindsay; vice-pres., Mr. E. Sackville, Lindsay; secretary, Miss E. A. Pogue, Reabro; asst. sec., Miss M. King, Oakwood; treas., Mr. A. Gilchrist, Woodville; editor, Miss Matthews, Lindsay; junior supt., Miss A. Lacey, Kirkfield; directors, Mr. W. Suggett, Valentin; Miss M. Wilson, Fenelon Falls; Mr. W. A. Leigh, Lindsay; Miss E. Dunoon, Lindsay; Mr. R. H. Reid, Reabro; Miss J. Bullock, Lindsay.

Friday's Proceedings.

Friday was Sunday School day and it was packed full of interest from the beginning to the end. The morning session the Executive committee announced that it was their policy to organize Township Associations and then retain only a County Executive committee. The suggestion was received with much enthusiasm and steps were at once taken to organize groups as follows: (1) Mariposa and Ops west of the Seagow; (2) Emily, Ops east of the Seagow and Lindsay; (3) Eldon and Fenelon; (4) Verulam and Somerville; (5) Bexley, Laxton, Garden, Digby, Dalton and Longford. A round-table conference, touching all questions concerning the young people, was held by Mr. T. Yellowless and Rev. W. Kinnawin, proved to be one of the most interesting and profitable sessions of the Convention. Discussion was general and earnest and must prove helpful to S.S. and C.E. work. The afternoon session was also interesting. Papers on live topics were presented by Mr. W. J. Jardine, B.A., Omamee, Rev. J. E. Creighton, of Bobcaygeon, Rev. J. E. Robeson, of Little Britain, and they were fully discussed. At 3 o'clock the children of the village turned out in force and listened with interest to an eloquent illustrated lecture on "Ship Signals" presented by Mr. Thos. Yellowless, of Toronto. The signals "Yes," "No," "Answer," "The Captain is on Board," "I am Sinking," "I Want a Pilot," etc., formed themes for a score of practical and useful suggestions to the boys and girls.

In Favor of Temperance.

Besides a warm resolution on behalf of the joint convention, with-out a dissenting voice, passed the following temperance resolution: "Resolved, that we do hereby express our continued antipathy to the abhorrent traffic in intoxicating liquors, and that we do earnestly urge all our schools and societies to use proper and effective means for its suppression."

Two addresses in the evening concluded the convention, one by Mr. T. Yellowless, brimming full of enthusiasm for Sunday School work, and one by Rev. L. S. Hughson, of Lindsay, on "The Young and the Century."

The hospitality and cordiality of the Fenelon Falls people were abundant, and the delegates had not simply the benefit of the meetings, but the delights of social intercourse as well.

NEW "HUGGING SOCIETY" IN CHURCH.

Older Members of an Ohio Church Shocked—Schedule of Fees.

A special to The Record-Herald from Toledo, Ohio, says: The Church Hugging Society, organized last week at the Belle Centre, Ohio, is raising no end of disturbance there and other points in the State. It was at first proposed rather as a joke by some fan-loving girls connected with the little village church, but created so much excitement that the society was formally organized, with B. C. Bates, as president and Miss Dronson as acting secretary. The schedule approved is as follows: Girls under 15 years of age, 15c; for a long hug of two minutes, or 10c; for a short squeeze; under 20 years, 50c; from 20 to 25, 75c; schoolmarms, 40c; other men's wives $1; old maids, 3 cents each and no time limit. The society has for its members the members of the church, and an up-to-date performance was given along the schedule lines. Another is set for Feb. 1st. The old people of the church are up in arms.

IT'S A BIG SCHEME.

An Electric Radial Railway Scheme Now Agitating Peterboro

An application has been or is about to be made to the Ontario legislature "for an act to incorporate the Peterboro Radial Railway Company, with power to construct and equip and operate the same by electricity, compressed air, or other motive power in the town of Peterboro and village of Ashburnham; and from the town of Peterboro to the village of Lakeland, and thence through the township of Douro to Clear Lake and from the said town of Peterboro through the township of Smith to Chenoweth lake; and from said town of Peterboro through the township of Monaghan to the River Otonabee and from the said town of Peterboro or village of Ashburnham through the township of Otonabee or Monaghan to Rice Lake. With power to acquire by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and to operate boats, and other vessels, and to acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise, lands for the purposes of the company, and for parks and pleasure grounds, and to make traffic arrangements with other companies and persons, and to construct, maintain and operate telegraph and telephone lines in connection with the said railway, and for other purposes."

Against The Law.

It is against the law for parents to send children to school when any member of the family has a contagious disease. It would be well to remember that children whose relatives have the measles are going to the public schools. This is not the fault of teachers, but of parents, who are not conforming to the law.

The Bleating Calf.

Stratford Beacon: An English dandy was dining at one of our hotels a few days ago, and desiring to have the milk jug passed to him, addressed the waiter as follows: "Waiter, please drive the keow this way." The landlady, who sat at the head of the table, at once ordered the waiter to drive the cow down to where the calf was bleating. Silence and suppressed laughter followed.

Now a Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for catarrh, bronchitis and consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standard pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhine. It cures these diseases because it is safe to use them. Catarrhine is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapor. You simply breathe Catarrhine and it cures. Catarrhine is sold by all druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Lindsay is Interested.

At the inaugural meeting of Peterboro Council the other day Ald. Morrison stated that one matter which needed investigation was the constant presence of so many fairs from outside points canvassing the town for business. During the week he had been solicited to buy pictures, picture frames, books, tea, etc., by men who paid not a cent of taxes, and who hurt the business of the local merchants. He would like to see a good stiff license imposed on peddlers with a view to the local men. This matter should be taken up in Lindsay, and it is certain that a great deal of injustice is being perpetrated on our business men. It is a fact that representatives of Toronto and other wholesale firms working on commission canvass the town and sell tea, sugar, rice, coffee, etc., in small quantities, and often peddle over envelopes, paper, ink, hardware, underwear, and hundreds of other articles.

Society Mothers and the Dance.

Evangelist McHardy, now in Galt, has a poor opinion of dancing and dancers, and is saying some very pertinent things about both. He advises mothers as follows: Some mothers with daughters on their hands said they would not get them into the society unless they were good dancers, because the best society dances "if those mothers knew what they were about," said the speaker, "they would a thousand times rather see the girls old maids, yes, double-barreled ones at that, than acquaint them with a social custom which has been the ruin of many a girl. Down in Toronto (the young men) wear a dress and a half, put on a fifty cent white shirt, adorn their shirt fronts and fingers with paste diamonds, grease the hair with castor oil, and the girls at the ball say, 'What a "dood" and fairly die to dance with them.'"

The Beet Sugar Industry.

THE CONDITIONS ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS

As Pointed out by the Organizer of the Winton Co.

We take the following from last week's issue of the Monetary Times, in the hope that it will interest our readers:

Sir,—My attention has been directed to an editorial in your esteemed paper of issue of January 3rd last, under the caption: "Beet Sugar Making." While there is no direct statement in that article which could be deemed injurious to the company I represent, viz., the Winton Beet Sugar Mfg. Co., Limited, yet an inference may be drawn from it which is unfair to us, at least. The Berlin proposition is not the only one containing the elements of success; in fact, I am convinced that when the facts are known, Berlin does not monopolize all the conditions which tend toward success in beet sugar making.

Your article is quite correct when it says that those who are projecting beet sugar enterprises in the province should be careful to inform themselves as to whether they have the nucleus of success in their propositions. This is just what has been done at Winton.

Putting it broadly, the following conditions are absolutely essential to success in the beet sugar business: First, an ample supply of beets; second, a high percentage of sugar content, and high purity of the beets; third, good transportation facilities by railway and water; fourth, good water supply, easy of access; fifth, a good factory site; sixth a good supply of suitable limestone.

Of the first, Berlin no doubt is assured, and so is Winton. Winton now has enough beets assured to make a successful campaign for next fall. Of the second, it is of interest to state that in the fall of 1899 Professor Shuttleworth analyzed the Winton beets and his report showed Winton beets to have the highest sugar content in the province for that season, with a very high purity. The reason for Winton's exceptionally good showing is explained by the presence of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, these immense bodies of water equalizing the temperature and prolonging our season of sunshine and high temperature into late fall, thus extending our ripening season weeks longer than in the midland counties. The day Toronto Bay is frozen solid, has been frozen over this winter. At Guelph and Palmerston there is a foot of snow. At Winton there is barely enough for sleighing as yet.

The temperature of Winton is almost as high as Hamilton. The presence of immense limestone deposits in this region gives a soil which produces beets of singular purity. When it is remembered that an increase of one per cent in impurity prevents the crystallization of one per cent of the sugar content, this fact becomes one of the highest importance.

While we have a late, warm, sunshine fall, we have also a late cold spring, which is, in the sugar business, a large advantage, as the cold weather prevents deterioration of the beets. Thus the working season of our factory can be prolonged for two weeks to a month longer than at points where spring opens up early. For this reason, a factory of 550 tons capacity can handle approximately as many beets as a 500-ton factory, in a shorter run with correspondingly less expense, because the skilled labor is paid by the year whether they work or not.

Being situated on navigable water, as we are, all our coal and coke are brought in by water. It is estimated that steam coal can be laid down in Winton at a saving of a dollar a ton, and coke of $1.50 per ton, over the cost of at most inland points.

Our limestone can be put into the factory by cable carrier for the cost of quarrying, about 25 cents a ton; while for most of the factories projected in Ontario the cost will be enhanced to $1.50 per ton by freight charges. The ease with which water can be placed in the factory in great quantity is a valuable economic feature at Winton. It has been estimated that Winton's savings in cost of coal, coke and limestone will amount to about $100 a day during operations.

Adding to this the high percentage of saccharine matter in our beets, and considering the fact that a difference of one per cent in sugar content means, at 15 per cent of saccharine, 105 tons more sugar from 70,000 tons of beets, and that 700 tons of sugar costs approximately $100,000, it is not surprising that the cost of working 14 per cent beets being just as high as 15 per cent beets, and it will be seen that the projectors of the Winton enterprise have well and duly weighed their situation and found it not wanting.

CARRIAGE OF CORPSES.

Central Passenger Association Will Enforce the Rules.

Central Passenger Association roads have issued a circular notifying their connections that they will hereafter enforce their rule relating to the transportation of corpses. The rule provides that no corpse may be checked unless accompanied by some person paying full fare and without the presentation of one full fare ticket for the corpse. It appears that it has been frequently ignored and that corpses have been checked without being accompanied by anyone or without the payment of full fare. Some have been checked on half-fare tickets.

Her Furs.

My lady's sort and rounded chin, in former days was softly laid Against a fluffy bow that From some dead turkey's tail was made.

To-day my gentle lady drops Her soft, white chin within the fur Of some ferocious little bear. That seems to have just sprung on her.

At by next week my lady fair, In order to protect her throat And be in fashion, too may wear A stuffed and scented William goat.

Wanamaker's Profits.

Wm. E. Curtis, writing to the Chicago record, says: "A business man of Philadelphia, told me that Mr. Wanamaker's profits from his Philadelphia store last year, were over $1,750,000, and that those from New York establishment will run close to that figure. The New York store has paid a profit from the very day it opened, although two firms which occupied the establishment since A. D. Seward's death have failed. The reason for Mr. Wanamaker's great success, both in New York and Philadelphia, is his skillful and extensive advertising. It has been his rule to confine his advertising to newspapers and magazines."

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 31st '02

'Varsity Glee Club Concert.

THE COLLEGIANS WELCOMED BY A LARGE AUDIENCE.

The Programme Was a Popular One and Recalls Were Numerous.

The fifth series of lectures under the auspices of the Collegiate Institute was opened by a concert last Thursday evening. This was admirably brought up to the course and gave the citizens of Lindsay another opportunity to hear the boys from old 'Varsity. A large audience greeted the Collegians, and a more enthusiastic crowd I could not be desired. Every number was enjoyed and some double encores were added.

The instrumental numbers rendered were very much appreciated, especially these by the Banjo and Mandolin Clubs and by the Sextette. The staidist was unfortunately "out of business" almost completely by the failure of the piano to stay to eye with its state in the matter of pitch, so this audience was deprived of one of the best numbers of the program. However, Mr. Abbott, flautist, Mr. Lucas, 1st violin, Mr. Rolph, 2nd violin, Mr. Darling, viola, Mr. Wagner, cello, "The Incomparable Smedley," were in high favor with the audience. The Glee Club's selection of "The Three Chimes" and "The Summer Nights" and "Stars and Stripes" were exceedingly well given. Mr. Cringan gave the boys well in hand and their distinctness of enunciation was very pleasing.

Mr. C. E. Clark was the vocal soloist. His numbers were "King of the Britons," (Godfrey's new song), "Big Ben," "The Banjo," and a coon song with humming accompaniment for the repeat of the last chorus. He sang them all well, but his best number was "Big Ben." This he sang with fine feeling and a smoothness and richness of voice that made the beautiful old song very effective. The coon song was very pleasing, its pathos being finely brought out.

The other numbers on the program were by Mr. Brophy and Mr. Shaw. Mr. Brophy is new to a Lindsay audience, but he is a smooth and a welcome on his return. His specialty is the rendition of humorous recitations, and this he does in a most finished way. The Colonel's recitation of Marc Antony's funeral oration, with spring-arm accompaniment, will live in the memory of the audience for a long time. Mr. Shaw is well known in Lindsay, and added very much to his laurels Thursday evening. He fully sustained his reputation as the best dramatic reader in Canada. "Glances and the Lions," a scene from Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii," was most powerfully rendered, and the scene from "Midsummer's Night Dream," representing Nick Bottom, Peter Quince and his companions preparing for an amateur play, was delightful. No better dramatic reader than Mr. Shaw ever appeared in Lindsay.

Of Mr. Snodgrass's part in the program it is hardly necessary to speak. He is simply irresistible and completely captured the audience. He is always a favorite in Lindsay.

The first part of the series will be given probably on the 3rd or 4th Friday in February, by Mr. Rodolph Lemieux, M.P., for Gaape.

Injured Playing Hockey.

While playing hockey in the yard of the Separatist School Thursday afternoon Walter Callaghan, youngest son of Mr. Neil Callaghan, market clerk, met with an accident. He was hit in the mouth by the puck and his lip was badly cut. Dr. Blumhild was summoned and the cut was taken home.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—The very latest slang in New York is, "Go count yourself; you're not so many."

—It is said that pillow shams are no longer fashionable, but there are numerous other shams with which to fill the void.

—Only ginger ale and ice water will be served in the Manitoba legislature. The speeches will now be easier to understand.

—Ploughing and seeding are now in progress in Southern Alberta, and trees are budding. How is that for "Our Lady of the Snows?"

—Toronto's hockey team, which went to Winnipeg to get the Stanley cup, will have to buy a cup if they want something to drink from it.

—Peterboro was snow-bound last week, the fall being 20 inches on the level. Street Inspector Baye was obliged to make his rounds on snowshoes.

—That young woman who is not going to marry Signor Marconi may have concluded to wait for an airship inventor.

—Potatoes are quoted at 90c. per bag in the Kingston papers. Here's a chance for town leaders to make a little money.

—Canadian silver coins which holes punched in them are being refused by some merchants in town. They will still go on "church collection plates," however.

—The foreign troops in China will have to kick themselves when they learn that the fox Chinese have just rooted up 100,000,000 taels gold that they buried before their flight.

—Orlinda Board of Trade has invited General Manager Hayes of the G.T.R. to visit that town to discuss summer resort business. A public banquet will be arranged for.

—Much sympathy was expressed for Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Parkin owing to the distressing sudden death of their baby daughter, aged three and a half years. She was the pet of the household.

—A Colorado medicine man has been tortured to death by his tribe. The medicine men of this town are safe from such a fate owing to the sheltering care of the Ontario Medical Council.

—Mr. Harry Lindley, the vet man, has been left on a trip to the Pacific Coast with a new company. Harry has given Lindsay the go-by for several years, and our theatre-goers feel hurt.

—This pitiful wail of a prominent north ward citizen should pierce the tender heart of Town Commissioner Chalmers. "Fifty-two" after the storm and an snow-plough on Richmond between Albert and Vincent.

—Many householders are now lamenting because they didn't purchase hardwood from the farmers last week when the price was only $4.50 per cord. As the roads are now bad their orders will have to be placed with local dealers at five pence per cord.

—Mr. John Reynolds, snow plow contractor for the south ward, lost a big horse last week. This animal slipped off the sidewalk into the ditch and was unable to rise. It is supposed that the hard work in the huge ditches brought on internal strain. The horse had to be killed.

—Some snow ward boys have had an open skating rink in Bigelow's field this winter, open to everybody. After the recent heavy storm they turned out and cleaned the ice of snow, doing more work in two days than many of them would do around home in as many months.

—Mr. Louis Archambault has accepted the Lindsay agency for Metropolitan's collapsible baby carriages. One of the most useful inventions of the general public. This carriage will be found invaluable when travelling, and in winter can be fitted with runners. It can be taken apart on a moment's notice and packed in to the telephone case furnished.

—Peterboro Examiner, Mr. A. E. Silverwood, of Lindsay, who has attained more than a local reputation in the matter of addresses on poultry raising, spoke to an audience at the Peterboro Poultry Show yesterday. Owing to the disagreeable state of the weather there was a small attendance, but Mr. Silverwood's remarks did not fall on listless ears.

—Master Clarence Routley won the English gold half-sovereign given by the Castle Square Stock Co., Saturday to the school boy of girl making the largest number of correct words out of "Erman." He had 145 words on his list—the largest number ever received by the Co. A young lad named Sylvester Scott, of the east ward, held the lucky number that drew the handsome clock given away Saturday night by the same Co.

—Messrs. Doxall & Mathie, plumbers and steamfitters, have recently completed several large outside contracts. One was the placing of a boiler for heating plant in the Presbyterian manse at Whitby; another the installation of a very complete plumbing system in the residence of Dr. Henderson, Cannington; and a third was the placing of hot and cold water, bath and sanitary conveniences in a comfortable farm home of Mr. Wm. Channon, Marlboro.

—About forty of our young people attended the parlor social held at the residence of Dr. Naamly last Friday Messrs. E. Snakville and N. F. Black took part in the program. The former rendering a solo, the latter a recitation and solo. Mrs. M. Winters acted as accompanist. Every available nook of the doctor's commodious residence was occupied. The social was under the auspices of the Presbyterian church. Our townspeople in attendance speak in the highest terms of the hospitality of the Lindsay people.

—Saturday Markets.

The market on Saturday was well attended. Outside a number of sleighs loaded with dressed beef and pork, apples and potatoes, and there was a good demand for the same.

Inside the bulk of the offerings comprised turkey, butter and eggs, turkeys and chickens, and the stock was fairly brought up. Following were the quotations: Butter 18 to 19c, eggs 19 to 20c, geese 7 to 8c, per lb. ducks 60 to 65c, turkeys 10 to 11c, per lb. potatoes 50c, hams, honey 7c, per lb. pork 10c, quarter 9c, to 10c, per lb. beef 5c, to 6c, per lb. beef 5 1/2c, to 6 1/2c, per lb.

To Raise the Trent Waters.

THE ASSOCIATION FORMED AT PETERBORO LAST WEEK.

The Dominion Government Asked to Take Over the Maintenance of Dams.

The Trent Water Conservation Association was organized at Peterboro last Friday, at a meeting attended by a representative gathering of those interested in water-powers or lumbering on the Trent Canal system and tributary waters.

The object is to preserve a higher level of water in the various lakes, lakes and rivers forming a part of the Trent Canal system, and to preserve a more regular, uniform flow of water in the several rivers forming a part of this system. A resolution was passed urging the Dominion government to take over the dams at Hollow, Raven and Wren Lakes, and a deputation will go to Ottawa to support it.

The officers elected were: Hon. President, Hon. Geo. A. Cox; President, David Gilmour, Trenton; 1st Vice-President, J. H. Kilburn, Lakefield; 2nd Vice-President, Thomas Butler, Lindsay; Secretary-Treasurer, Arthur Stevenson, Peterboro.

WE'RE KNIFING PRICES

But it's only the Prices that suffer.

YOU GET THE SAME CORRECT STYLES, THE SAME EXCELLENT QUALITIES AS IF YOU WERE PAYING FULL PRICE.

SOUNDS odd, doesn't it? True, all the same. It pays us to lose the profits and part of the original cost, too. And it pays you to buy. Worst part of the winter is to come—you can wear heavy clothes for three months yet.

Of course we're losing money, but we're giving you an opportunity to save it.

And as it is never good policy to take anything for granted, we'll prove what we say by figures, and

FIGURES CAN'T LIE:

You Can Make Child's Play of your Wash Day

If you follow the directions on the Surprise Soap wrapper.

It makes an easy day of Washday. Does away with boiling or scalding and hard rubbing—giving the whitest cleanest clothes. Entirely harmless to the hands. Surprise is a pure hard soap, which means economy.

THE UNION JACK AND OLD GLORY

Will Fly no More Officially Over Customs Offices.

IN CANADA AND UNITED STATES

Both Flags Withdrawn by an Agreement Entered Into Between Two Countries—Result of a Correspondence About the Saguay Incident in Which Canadian Flag Was Hauled Down by Americans.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Spalding, acting on the suggestion of the state, has directed that official flags in future should not be displayed by United States Customs officers stationed in British North America. Some time last summer a Canadian customs flag was forcibly removed by Americans from a building occupied by the Canadian officials at Skagway, Alaska, and that incident initiated a correspondence which resulted in an agreement between the United States and Canada, that neither should display its flag in the territory of either.

INTERVIEWED GOVERNMENT.

Representatives of Canadian Manufacturers' Association Want Changes Made.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—In a two hours' discussion with the Premier and the Ministers of Customs and Finance yesterday morning a deputation from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association brought forward some of the recommendations passed at the annual meeting of the association in Montreal last November, and strove to impress the Ministers with the importance of giving effect to the suggestions made. The branches of the industry to which the visit of the manufacturers has special reference are woollens, agricultural implements, iron and steel goods, shirts and collars, and oatmeal.

Who Were Present.

The deputation included Messrs. Robt. Munro, Montreal, President; P. W. Ellis, ex-President; W. K. McNaught, J. O. Thorne, Hon. L. Melvin Jones, T. A. Russell, secretary, Toronto; B. J. Drummond, William McMaster, J. Toole and Mr. Skelton, Montreal; James MacNeil, St. Mary's, and T. Martin, Mount Forest.

What They Want.

The interview was a private one, but the questions presented for consideration might be grouped under the following heads: Suggested temporary recall of Mr. J. S. Larkin, Canadian Commissioner to Australia, in order that he may post himself upon the development in Dominion affairs since he has been absent from the country, and give the manufacturers of Canada the benefit of his experience. Appointment of special trade commissioners to Great Britain. Appointment of Canadian agents at foreign centres, where Canada does business, who should be required to furnish to shippers and exporters of Canadian goods information calculated to facilitate and develop trade. Reciprocal trade on an equitable basis with Australia. Substantial assistance towards direct steamship communication with Australia and South Africa. At present the exports of heavy Canadian goods to Australia go by way of New York, resulting in heavy transshipment charges and vexatious delays, which render it difficult to compete with United States exporters. With respect to South Africa it was recognized that the privilege of shipping Canadian merchandise to that country had given an incentive to Canadian exports, but trade would be put on a more permanent and satisfactory basis by the Government subsidizing a line. The imposition of a net duty of 30 per cent. upon woollens instead of a duty of 35 per cent., with the tariff preference of one-third off. Equalization of the duty on oatmeal, as compared with that upon oats, by substituting a specific duty of 60 cents per 100 lbs.

In place of the present ad valorem duty of 20 per cent. upon the former. Extension of same encouragement now given to iron and steel industries to new branches of these industries as they come to be established in the country. The readjustment of the tariff in so far as it affects agricultural implements and cottons was also urged. During the discussion the Ministers asked numerous questions, and seemed desirous of informing themselves as fully as possible upon the points raised. The deputation had, however, to rest content with a promise that the representations made would be considered. Several of the Montreal members of the deputation returned home yesterday afternoon. The remainder will interview Hon. Sydney Fisher to-day in regard to matters affecting patents and trade marks. They will also interview Hon. Wm. Paterson in regard to points bearing upon the system of customs appraisement.

BOTH SIDES LOST HEAVILY.

Insurgents Near Bogota Defeated, Leaving Three Hundred and Sixty Men Dead—Government Lost Ninety Soldiers.

Bogota, Colombia, Jan. 27.—The Government has made a successful effort to prevent the revolutionists from attacking Bogota.

An important battle was fought several days ago at Facativita, which is about twenty miles from Bogota. The struggle was bitter.

After long fighting the Government troops repulsed the insurgents, who left three hundred and sixty of their number dead on the field. Ninety of the Government troops were killed.

Antioquia and other departments are sending troops here. Foreigners are enjoying every safety.

Business has been suspended temporarily.

BOY AND GUN AGAIN.

Five-Year-Old Fatally Shot by Nine-Year-Old Friend.

Clinton, Jan. 27.—Lorne Tabb, the four-year-old son of Thomas Tabb of Colborne Township, is dead from a wound inflicted accidentally by his cousin, Ernest Stevens, aged nine. A rifle had been loaned and returned the day previous, and Mr. Tabb, having just one cartridge, placed it in the rifle, an old Snider, and stood it in the corner of the upper hallway. On the day of the accident Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, with their son Lorne, visited the relatives and the children played together. Mrs. Tabb, noticing her nephew near the rifle, told him not to touch it, but he replied: "It is not loaded, as it was fired off yesterday," and the next thing she heard was the fatal shot, that drew her to the hallway, where she found her son dead. The charge from the rifle entered the boy's mouth and blew away a large portion of the head. Death was instantaneous. Dr. Taylor, made an investigation, but decided an inquest unnecessary.

KING'S HEAD WRONG.

Isn't Faced Right and New Issue Is to Be Prepared.

London, Jan. 27.—The design of the new postage stamp, which has been received with very little enthusiasm, is to be changed, not because anyone in authority feels that some concession must be made to the artistic sense of the country, but because it has only now been discovered that the head of the King faces the wrong way. The rule, strictly observed hitherto, is that the heads of successive sovereigns shall, for the sake of distinction, face opposite ways. The head of King Edward VII., which is on the stamp faces in the same direction as that of Queen Victoria, and will have to be turned round.

MISS STONE FOUND.

Money For Ransom Thought to Have Been Paid on Sunday.

Dumala, European Turkey, Jan. 27.—Miss Stone, the captive American missionary, and her companion, Mme. Talika, have been located near Yappak, in the vicinity of the frontier. The American delegates conducting the negotiations for the release of the captives have arrived at Banisko (about 30 miles southeast of Dumala), and probably paid over the ransom money yesterday. The infant daughter of Mme. Talika has been christened Elenka.

Letters by Lord Strathcona.

London, Jan. 27.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, Canadian High Commissioner in London, has addressed letters to the press, in which he calls attention to the expanding trade between Great Britain and Canada, and expresses his belief that this trade is capable of much greater development, and invites correspondence as to the best means of assisting this development by the dissemination of commercial information, etc.

Pan-Am Congress at Ponce.

Mexico City, Jan. 18.—The atmosphere of the Pan-American Conference was suddenly cleared yesterday, and with the most excellent feeling on all sides, both the plan of compulsory arbitration and the Hague agreement passed the conference.

RESTS WITH DEWEY

Prolongation of the War Credited to His Determination.

Amsterdam, Jan. 23.—Since the Boers have practically decided to waive their demand for the independence of the South African republics, great gloom has pervaded their headquarters here and at Hilversum. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's recent speech, in which he promised that there would be no confiscation of property, but that there would be a general amnesty, with political rights speedily given, seems to reduce matters to a point where an agreement is possible.

It is admitted that but for Gen. Dewet and other Boers in the field, who are still fighting for independence, peace would be a matter of weeks only.

The Boers here say that the prolongation of the war now rests on Dewet's reputed determination to fight until he has expended his last man and his last cartridge.

NO LAW REFORM THIS SESSION

A Proposed Test of Canadian Vial For Rope-Making Purposes—Ontario's Cash Deposits in the Banks—Municipal Cold Storage—Rights of the Province With Reference to Natural Gas Export.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—To-day in the Legislative Assembly, bills were introduced by Mr. Hill to amend the Public Schools Act and by Mr. Carson to amend the Municipal Act.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, in reply to Mr. Brethaupt, stated that the question of utilizing Canadian grown flax in the manufacture of binder twine and rope instead of procuring the raw material from Manila, New Zealand and elsewhere, had been for some time under the consideration of the Government with the view of taking such action as might appear to be practicable.

J. M. Gibson, in reply to Mr. Whitney, stated that no general measure of law reform would be introduced this session.

Hon. G. W. Ross, replying to Mr. Wardell, stated that the sum of $2,180,345 was on deposit in the banks to the credit of the province in January 15th, 1922.

Mr. Whitney asked whether Alex. Mermer, who was appointed returning officer for the North Waterloo election, held on the 16th and 23rd days of May, 1899, was appointed by order-in-council and if not by whose authority his name was inserted in the writ of election?

Hon. J. M. Gibson replied that Alexander Mermer was not appointed returning officer on that occasion, the appointee being John McDougall. The statute did not require an order-in-council for the appointment of a returning officer.

Mr. McLaughlin inquired whether any municipality had been paid any amount under the act respecting provincial aid towards the establishment of cold storage buildings, and what amount had been paid by the province under the act of 1900 to provide for the incorporation of cold storage associations?

Hon. John Dryden stated that no municipal grants for cold storage purposes had been applied for. The sum of $500 had been paid to the St. Catharines Cold Storage Association and two other associations had applied to have their buildings inspected with a view to making application for grants.

Mr. McLaughlin moved for a return showing the number of cold storage associations incorporated and the amount paid by the province to each association formed under the act of 1900. The order was granted.

On motion of Mr. Barr an order was granted for a return giving the name of the license commissioner in each license district in the province, the amount of expenses in each district for 1901, and the name, salary and allowance for expenses of each license inspector.

Mr. Jessop moved for a return showing the area of timber sold since 1871 and the amount received, also the sales during the last five years and the prices received.

Hon. E. J. Davis explained that there were already returns giving this information up to and including 1892. The Government would bring down the required information as soon as it could be prepared.

Mr. Whitney moved for a return of correspondence between the Attorney-General and any other person, relating to the export of gas under any lease, also copies of instructions to and reports of Mr. Stiff on the subject, and a copy of the injunction served on the sheriff of Essex, forbidding him to interfere with the pipes of any gas company.

Hon. J. M. Gibson explained the present situation of the question, pointing out that none of the leases issued by the Government professed to give the right to export gas. That had been granted by the late Dominion Government. The injunction granted on the suit of the Interior Department and Improvement Co., forbidding the sheriff of Essex County to interfere with the pipes through which the gas was exported had been dissolved, and as the lease to that company had been cancelled the sheriff had ordered the removal of the pipes. An agreement had been arrived at, however, by which the export of gas was stopped until the case now before the courts was decided.

"LET US ALONE."

Protest Against Prohibition by the Liquor Men—Record-Breaking Deputation

—The Premier's Reply.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—A thousand or more liquor dealers, hotelkeepers, brewers, distillers and others, from all over the province, interested in allied industries, stood for more than an hour, wedged in the main corridor of the Parliament Buildings yesterday afternoon, like sardines in a box, while their representatives protested to Premier Ross and his colleagues against the passage of a prohibitory liquor law. It was the largest deputation that ever waited on the Government.

The delegation assembled at the corner of King and Church streets, and twelve special cars conveyed them to the Queen's avenue, where they alighted and walked to the buildings in a body, making an imposing appearance as they marched along in perfect order. There was no room large enough to accommodate them on their arrival, so Premier Ross and the Cabinet took up a position on the main staircase, while the delegates sought places of vantage from which to hear.

license to the province and in an injustice should receive protection. The Scott Act and Duncan Act, he went on, had been tried and had proved utterly worthless, and the effect of them, wherever they had been enforced, was harmful. It was an injustice, Mr. Sleeman said, that because a man took a glass of liquor that he should be punished, and further, he was sure the people were not in sympathy with a prohibitory law. He held that it would be impossible to enforce prohibition.

Mr. Frank Collins, president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association of Ontario, said they appeared not in a fighting spirit or to ask a favor, but they were there to ask for their rights, and they had the support of the people behind them. That they had the support of the people, he added, was evident, for if they had not they would not be able to continue in business. All that was asked was that the Government would not interfere in this matter. He informed the Government that the deputation present was only a small one, and if a big turnout had been desired, the Parliament Buildings wouldn't have held them all. (Laughter.) "We don't want to be forced out of business," Mr. Collins continued, "by a class of people that never did any business with us. (Laughter.) We want British fair play, and we are satisfied to leave the matter in the Government's hands." No law should be passed, he concluded, until it had first passed the House. If a bill were submitted to the people for their opinion it should receive at least a two-thirds vote, and if it should by any chance carry they should be compensated for their loss.

Mr. A. S. Smith of St. Thomas, on behalf of the shopkeepers, said they were opposed to any change whatever in the license law. They had just as much right to ask the Government to pass legislation directly in their favor as the temperance people, he asked to have legislation passed directly in theirs. There was no place on the continent where the liquor law was better enforced than in Ontario, and the people were as sober and law-abiding as any in the Dominion. It seemed to the speaker that a section of the Methodist Church was trying to ruin them and that they did not honestly believe that prohibition was a good thing for the province, and they would be the first to turn against the Government if the law were not enforced. To recompense, he thought that that should be considered by a commission.

Mr. Turner of Hamilton added his protest against a prohibitory law, and Mr. P. Freyseng, representing the cork manufacturers, said that that industry would be ruined if prohibition were passed. Over a half a million of dollars was invested in it in Ontario, and that would be turned into unemployment, and thousands of dollars in wages lost to Ontario. If any such legislation as that proposed was ever passed, should such a thing ever happen compensation should be made for their loss.

Mr. John Forester of London, who is in the co-operative business, said that if prohibition carried that industry would be driven out of existence and many would be thrown out of work.

Mr. James Haverson, solicitor for the liquor men, pointed out that $15,500,000 was the amount of capital invested by distillers, brewers and maltsters, and that the amount invested in retail trade by the retailers and $21,000,000 the amount in stock and fixtures. The distillers and brewers paid to the farmers $2,382,000 a year, to transportation companies $450,000, for wages $1,200,000, and for other purposes $1,012,000. The retailers paid $10,500,000 in wages, making a total outlay of $15,500,000 a year. The revenue to the Dominion was over $10,000,000, and Ontario last year got $629,000, $250,000 of which went to municipalities.

Mr. Haverson pointed out that all the distilleries and nearly all the breweries in Canada were in Ontario, and the retail trade was more than one-half of the whole trade of the Dominion.

As to the ministers who were fighting for prohibition Mr. Haverson said that they did not know the world, and their advice other than on spiritual affairs was not worth much, and the Government should not be influenced by what they said.

The Manitoba Act, Mr. Haverson said, was not strictly a prohibitory measure, and liquor might be sold there for mechanical and scientific purposes, and if prohibition were passed in Ontario nearly every body would be a scientist or a mechanic. (Laughter.)

In concluding, Mr. Haverson said that serious results would follow the introduction of prohibition, such as the loss of the tourist traffic, and gave instances to show that it had utterly failed wherever it had been tried. If a referendum were decided on, and Mr. Haverson dwelt upon this point particularly, the measure should be introduced by the Government and debated and passed upon on its merits by the Legislature, who should accept the responsibility for the act before submitting it to the people, then there should be a large majority of the votes cast, before it became law. Rev. Dr. Potts, Dr. Cavan, Principal Sheraton and Chancellor Wallace were mentioned by the speaker as saying that a large majority of the people must vote for the measure before it can be passed.

The Premier's Reply.

Premier Ross in reply said, speaking from his seat at the table: "Mr. O'Keefe and gentlemen,—It is just the time for the opening of the session, therefore, I cannot be expected to speak to you at any length. We have listened to your arguments with a great deal of interest, and you have put your case concisely and with commendable moderation. All I can say for myself and my colleagues, who are all present, is that we will give your representations due and careful consideration, and any action that will be taken by the Government in regard to this matter will be made known at an early date and in the Legislature, where measures of great importance are submitted for the consideration of the people's representatives. That is all I have to say to you to-day."

DOMINION SHEEP BREEDERS.

Officers Were Elected For the Current Year—The Swine Breeders.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—At the annual meeting of the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association yesterday the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, R. H. Harding, Thorndale, vice-president, J. M. Cardhouse, Highfield, Sec.-Treasurer, A. P. Westervelt, Toronto. Directors: General Director, A. W. Smith, Maple Lodge, Colswolds, D. McCrae, Guelph; Leicesters, A. Whitelaw, Guelph; Hampshire and Suffolk, John Kelly, Shakespear, Dorset, Southdowns, John Jackson, Abington, Oxford, James Tolson, Walkerville, Lincoln, John Gibson, Denfield, Merinos, W. M. Smith, Fairfield Plains, Shropshire, D. W. Hamner, Mount Vernon, Ontario Agricultural College, G. E. Day, Guelph. The Swine Breeders' Association met subsequently, and elected G. B. Hood, Guelph, as president; Thomas Teesdale, Concord, vice-president, and W. Jones, general director.

Committees were appointed to act in conjunction with the sheep and cattle breeders in securing Government assistance for an exhibit at the St. Louis Fair, and to prepare a model prize list for exhibition.

The Next Winter Fair.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The annual meeting of the directors of the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair, Guelph, was held in the Palmer House last evening, with the president, A. W. Smith, in the chair.

CITY AND COUNTRY GROWTH.

More Census Figures on Population of Ontario and Manitoba.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—A bulletin was issued yesterday giving the rural and urban population of the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba by census districts, as enumerated at the last census, compared with the same classes of population in 1891.

In Ontario during the last decade there has been a falling off of 48,133 in the rural population, which now amounts to 1,247,190, as against 1,295,323 in 1891. On the other hand, the urban population amounts to 935,572, as against 818,908 ten years ago, or an increase of 116,754. This shows the extent to which the population in the rural districts has been drifting to the cities.

In Manitoba, however, the case is somewhat different. In that province large gains have been made in both classes of the population, but especially in the rural districts. The rural population has grown from 111,498 in 1891 to 184,714 at the last census, a gain of 73,216. The urban population has grown from 111,498 in 1891, now stands at 70,293, a growth of 29,325.

The following is the population of cities, towns and villages situated in two or more districts:

	1901.	1891.
Barrie	5,949	5,550
Essexville	1,107	710
Hamilton	52,634	48,959
London	37,981	31,077
North Toronto	1,852	—
Ottawa	69,932	44,154
Timbly	1,012	225
Toronto	108,040	181,215

FIFTY-SIX MEN DISCHARGED

Given Their Discharge For Bad Conduct, For Poor Shooting and For Medical Unfitness—Colonel Neilson's Inspection of the 10th Hospital Corps—An Examination of the Saddlery.

Halifax, Jan. 25.—Yesterday afternoon Squadrons A, B and C of the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles paraded the city. The troops have all become accustomed to their horses now, and they made a splendid appearance. The parade was witnessed by thousands of people, and many complimentary remarks were heard as the troops marched past. The 10th Field Hospital Corps, under the command of Col. Worthington, also took part in the parade, and made a fine showing. The officers were mounted and the men on foot.

Since concentrating at Halifax 56 men have been given their discharge, some for poor shooting, others for bad conduct, and a number as medically unfit. Yesterday Lance Corporal Sargeant of B and Privates McBryan, E. Brandon and H. Johnston of C were granted their discharges.

Private Melver was sent to the infectious disease hospital yesterday suffering with measles. The men of the C.M.R. at present at the hospital as patients are: Troopers Brandon, Johnston, Reed, Thornwell, Bryan, Leighton, Cook, Fleming and Mondie.

A floating target for use by the corps on the passage to Cape Town has been placed on the Victorian. It was made by the Ordnance Department, under the direction of Col. Smythe. There is a dummy figure on a platform, and it is towed behind the ship for rifle practice by the troops.

A board of officers has been inspecting the saddlery, but the result of their report is not known. It is rumored that they were not satisfied with some of the saddlery, but the officers in command do not confirm this.

The 10th Hospital Corps were given a thorough inspection at the Armories yesterday by Col. Neilson, Director-General of the Canadian Army Medical Service. The men were inspected individually, then put through hospital, tent erecting and breaking, after which they marched past. Later on the Director-General visited the men's quarters and inspected their kits. Major Peake accompanied Col. Neilson on the inspection.

Department Transferred.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The Militia Department was pretty well denuded of its chief officials yesterday. The Minister and his private secretary, the Deputy Minister, the Chief Superintendent of Military Stores, the Quarter-Master General, the Accountant and the Chief Engineer all left for Halifax, from which port the Victorian will sail on Tuesday with the Canadian Mounted Rifles for South Africa.

LORD DUFFERIN'S CONDITION.

It Is Causing Grave Anxiety—Revising His Memoirs.

London, Jan. 27.—The condition of the Marquis of Dufferin, who has been ill for some time past, is causing grave anxiety. Until his recent attack the Marquis was busy revising his voluminous memoirs, which he has been compiling for years. They constitute secrets and records of diplomatic events with which his lordship has been connected since he first went to Constantinople as Ambassador, and all a number of volumes.

Hotel Cecil Burned Down.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—The Hotel Cecil was burned to the ground at an early hour Saturday morning. The hotel was owned by ex-Mayor Davidson, who rebuilt it and had it newly furnished about three years ago. The loss is about $60,000; insurance, about $30,000. The guests on the first floor saved their belongings, but those on the fifth floor had to run for their lives in their night clothes. Some of them had to be taken out of the windows with ladders. One man held on for ten minutes by the window sill in his nightshirt until a ladder reached him. It is supposed that the fire started on the fourth floor in the switchroom from bad insulation.

We Wed His Brother.

Charlottetown, Jan. 27.—John Robertson of Eldon, P.E.I., lost his life on Saturday while felling a tree. He was warning his brother to move away when the tree fell on himself and killed him. He was 26 years of age and unmarried.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 31st, '02

The Riverside Cemetery Co.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD MON-DAY EVENING.

Presentation of Reports and Election
of Directors—Finances in Good Shape
—The River Front to be Built up and Improved.

The annual meeting of the Lindsay Cemetery Company was held on Monday evening in Mr. J. B. Knowl-son's office, William-st. Those present were Messrs. H. J. Lytle, Jos.
Brown, R. Nugent, J. H. Knight, Dr.
W. H. Clarke, T. C. Matchett, Robt.
Kennedy, J. H. Lennon and Thomas Stewart.

On motion Mr. R. Kennedy was appointed chairman, after which the minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. A. E. Gregory, secretary-treasurer, read the following documents:

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

To the Shareholders of the Lindsay Cemetery Co.

The Directors of the Company beg to present their report for the past year as follows:

The Company was incorporated
Aug. 24th, 1870, under the Act respecting Cemetery Companies, and was registered Sept. 4th, 1870.
They are the owners of the Lindsay Cemetery, situated in the township of Ops, being composed of the east half of the south half of lot 12, in the fifth concession of the said township of Ops, lying on the south of the river and containing thirteen acres, more or less. Half an acre of the thirteen is leased from the township of Ops for 99 years dating from Oct. 1873.

During the year we made 89 interments, 50 of them being males and 39 females; 33 were over 50 years of age, 22 between 20 and 50, 5 between 12 and 20, and 29
under 12.

Our sales for burial sites during the year were: for single graves $100.00, for lots, $284.00, making a total of $1,034.00, an increase of $415.00 over 1900.

A statement of receipts and expenditures for the current year, duly audited, is herewith annexed, from which it will be seen that we have cash on hand $2,749.89, and that the revenue for the year was $1-600.38 and expenditures $717.72.
This is an increase of $529.72 in receipts and $46.68 in expenditures.
The Board of Directors consist of the following gentlemen: Messrs.
Flavelle, Knight, Stewart, Clarke,
Kennedy, Lennon, Hopkins, Lytle and Milne, all of whom retire but are eligible for re-election.

Lindsay, Dec. 31st, 1901.

Lindsay, Dec. 31st, 1901.

Moved by Mr. Nugent, seconded by Mr. Lennon, that the Directors' and Secretary-Treasurer's reports be adopted.—Carried.

THE DIRECTORATE

Chairman Kennedy called for nominations for the Board of Directors and personally proposed Messrs. W.
Flavelle, R. Stewart, J. B. Knight,
Dr. Clarke, H. J. Lytle, G. H. Hopkins, Geo. A. Milne and J. M. McLen-nan. Mr. Lytle nominated Mr. Kennedy, and Mr. Brown nominated Mr.
Nugent.

A ballot was then taken, the result being that the old board were re-elected with one exception, Mr. Nugent taking Mr. Lennon's place, as the latter is likely to leave town in the near future.

Messrs. W. H. Stevens and J. M.
McLennan were re-elected board
auditors.

IMPROVEMENTS.

At a meeting of the old board, held Jan. 18th, with President Flavelle in the chair, it was moved by Mr. T.
Stewart, seconded by Mr. Knight, and carried that a competent landscape gardener be employed to lay out and improve the river front of the cemetery property.

The new Board of Directors will hold a business meeting in the course of a few days.

The Globe Robin.

C.D.B. writes from Lindsay to The Globe as follows: The probability is that the Globe robin reported as being in Toronto a few days ago has never been south this winter but has preferred the more even climate of Canada. One was seen to-day in the trees about my house, and as it or another one has been seen occasionally it has no doubt been here all the time, so the Globe robin is not an enterprising visitor from the south, but lingers for early spring, but a hardy, sensible, stay-at-home, patriotic, Canadian robin. I will venture to say that robins remain all winter
in the pines and cedars at Sturgeon Point, where they find excellent shelter. Fine and evening frosts, and other visitors from the north have been here in numbers, and could regularly every winter. Perhaps they come south owing to scarcity of their food supply, or to the severe cold, or perhaps they have been disturbed by lumbering operations.
The Toronto boys who shot the Gros-beak in the Don Valley should have been fined or severely birched.

Lame Back
In the Morning.

There are many people who find it a difficult task getting up in the morning,
on account of a terrible pain
and soreness
across the small
of the back that makes rising a painful and discomforting operation. Ever know what it was to have your back so bad that when you'd try to get out of bed you'd almost scream with the pain?

Can't do much of a day's work starting off with a back as bad as that—not fit for pleasure either.
Well, all this backache and pain,
this stiffness and soreness comes because the kidneys are clogged
up, can't do their work properly,
and your back has to suffer for it.

Just try a box or two of Dr.
Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.
What a change you'll find coming over you! You'll be able to spring from your bed in the morning as lively as a cricket, and feel refreshed
and fit for your daily duties.

TOUCHED THE SPOT.

Joseph Weeks, Beckwith Street, Smith's
Falls, says: "My back was in a bad way.
I was desperately lame, and there was a dull grinding pain over my kidneys.
At times I had headaches, and often I was dizzy, particularly if I had been stooping.
I tried first one thing, then another, but there was no permanent benefit till I began using Pitcher's Kidney Tablets. They go right to the spot and I found prompt relief. Nothing before ever did me as much good. I would suggest to anyone suffering in that way to try them."

BOER LEADER TAKEN

Gen. Ben Viljoen Captured in Vicinity of Lydenberg.

SEVERAL OTHERS GATHERED IN

Col. Wilson Loses Seventeen Out of Twenty Boers That Fall Into His Hands in a Hot Fight—Another Burglar Corps—Fifteen Hundred Men to Karol Under
Gen. Viljoen.

London, Jan. 27.—A report from Lord Kitchener from Johannesburg gives the important capture of Gen.
B. Viljoen in the neighborhood of Lydenberg, Transvaal Colony, as well as the capture of small parties of Boers elsewhere.

The capture of Gen. Viljoen, who was Gen. Botha's most able lieutenant, and who has given the British a great deal of trouble in the past, has created lively satisfaction
in London.

Gen. Viljoen is the Boer general who was captured prior to Mafeking,
and was exchanged for Lady Sarah Wilson.

BOER PRISONERS RESCUED.

Col. Wilson Caught Twenty, But Seventeen Got Away.

Pretoria, Jan. 26.—Col. Wilson
last Saturday captured 20 Boers near Frankfort, in Orange River Colony. He was preparing at dawn
the next day to move away with his captives, when a superior force of Boers made a desperate effort to recapture the prisoners. A hot fight ensued, in which all but three of the prisoners escaped, and in which a few men were killed or wounded on both sides.

Commandant Beyers Is Desperate.

Johannesburg, Jan. 26.—The British force under Lieut. Gladly, which has been operating in the Nylstroom
district, has killed one Boer and captured twelve others, including Field Cornet Snyman, who had a quantity of dynamite and fuse in his possession with the intention of blowing up the railway line south of Warm Baths. The prisoners who were taken say that the Boer commandant, Beyers, is making for the wood bush mountains. He has two cases of dynamite which he unearthed recently on a farm near Riet Vlei and declares that he will wreck trains on the line whenever the opportunity presents itself.

BOERS TO FIGHT BOERS.

General Viljoen, a Surrendered Burglar,
to Raise 1,500 Men.

Pretoria, Jan. 26.—Lord Kitchener has authorized General Viljoen,
a surrendered burglar, to raise an additional Boer corps of 1,500 men.

General Viljoen has written a letter to ex-President Steyn, warning
the latter of his intention to form
such a corps, and adding that the Boers in the concentration camps are tired of the useless struggle, and are determined to help the British and it.

Red Cross Carried Letters.

The Hague, Jan. 27.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Herr Melvijn Van Lynden, replying Saturday to an interpellation on the subject in the First Chamber of the States General, said he had done his utmost to secure the release of the Dutch members of the Red Cross Society, who are held as prisoners in Ceylon, but was forced to admit regretfully that those persons had placed themselves in an almost indefensible position by carrying Boer letters.

The fact that these documents were of no importance did not alter the violation of strict neutrality. The case, the Minister said, was bound to have an important bearing upon the question as to what service a neutral ambulance corps might render in future wars.

A LURID YARN.

Boers Say Col. Lynch Will Lead an Irish Revolt.

Amsterdam, Jan. 27.—The Boers
here are circulating a wild yarn concerning Col. Lynch, the M.P. elect from Galway City, Ireland, a warrant for whose arrest was issued recently on the charge of treason
for fighting with the Boers.

"Col. Lynch," the story goes,
"proposes to charter a sailing boat
in which he will depart from the French coast, land at Ballyvaughan, in Galway Bay and take the lead in the great things, inspired by the actions of the Boers, which are on the eve of happening in Ireland."

Krugger Will Come.

London, Jan. 27.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Brussels says in a despatch that Mr. Krug-ger has received fresh invitations
from Chicago, New York and Philadelphia to visit these cities, and that he will probably start upon an American tour next April.

AUSTRALIA PROTESTS.

Meat Ordered From Argentina Should Be Got From Colonies.

Sydney, N.S.W., Jan. 27.—The placing of contracts in Argentina by the British War Office, to supply meats and other produce for the troops in South Africa, has engendered irritation throughout Australia.

BIG FALL OF SNOW.

Toronto and Eastern Ontario Struggling Under a Fleecy Mantle of From 14 to 18 Inches Thick—Trains Were Late.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Toronto was buried beneath a mantle of snow yesterday to a depth of fourteen or fifteen inches on the several, and several feet in spots. It was the worst snowstorm in a quarter of a century, with one exception. The exception was Dec. 5 and 6, 1898, when there was a fall of sixteen inches of "the beautiful." The trolley cars made fairly good progress and not much delay occurred except in spots. The steam railway trains, though, were all from one to seven hours late, the greatest block being on the C.P.R.
worst of the season.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The snowstorm yesterday has been the worst of the season. It taxed the resources of the Street Railway Company to keep up anything like a regular service, but they managed it except during about an hour in the afternoon. The great North-Western telegraph wires are down between here and Toronto, and the Toronto train due here at 5 p.m. was five hours late.

Stage Routes Blocked.

Belleville, Jan. 23.—A rainstorm,
great damage to trees in this district accompanied by a heavy gale, did
great damage to trees in this district yesterday. Snow preceded and followed the rain, and several of the stage routes were blocked.

Saw Up For Days.

St. Catharines, Jan. 23.—A great storm has been raging throughout the Niagara district for the past twenty-four hours, and business has been completely demoralized.
There is over two feet of wet snow on the ground, and traffic on the streets is almost at a standstill.
The trolley lines are tied up tight.
The Grand Trunk have managed to get their trains through on fairly good time. It will be some days before traffic in the city and surrounding country can be resumed.

Slopes Business.

Port Colborne, Jan. 23.—The heavy-lest snowfall in many years set in Tuesday night, and continued all day, with clearing weather last night. Business is almost at a standstill.

Roads Are Impassable.

Peterboro, Jan. 23.—A blinding snowstorm set in Tuesday night
about nine o'clock, and continued all day long, accompanied with a very high northwest wind, and yesterday morning the depth on the level was 19 inches. Immense drifts being piled up in many places. The G.T.
R. trains from Port Hope and Belleville and Lindsay came in from one to two hours late. C.P.R. trains had a harder fight, the Montreal
westbound express due here at 5.10
a.m. did not pass here till 9 o'clock
while the local from Havelock, due here at 7 a.m., did not arrive until 10 a.m. The country roads are impassable.

THE ACCESSION OATH.

Nova Scotia Roman Catholics Pass Two Protesting Resolutions.

Halifax, Jan. 23.—St. Mary's Hall was crowded last night by representative Roman Catholics, who had been called together by Archbishop O'Brien to protest against the declaration in the oath of the accession. Over 800 were present.

The speakers were Archbishop O'Brien, Sir M. B. Daly, Mr. Justice Meagher, Hon. William Chisholm and Senator Power.

Resolutions Adopted.

Sir M. B. Daly moved the following resolution:
Resolved, that the Catholics of Halifax, Nova Scotia, in meeting assembled, protest emphatically against the insinuation offered to their dearest religious convictions in the declaration to the oath of accession,
and, as loyal Canadian subjects of the empire, keenly resent both the offensive assertions and insinuations contained therein.

Senator Power moved the second resolution, as follows:

"Resolved, that as the religious belief of Catholics does not diminish their loyalty nor restrain them from shedding their blood in the cause of the empire, they protest against and resent the singling out of any article of their faith for special rejection or condemnation by the Sovereign, and respectfully ask that this unnecessary and offensive reference be entirely blotted out from the aforesaid declaration."

"And, further, that the resolution and proceedings of this meeting be transmitted by the chairman to the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies."

Both resolutions were passed unanimously.

130 DEGREES IN AUSTRALIA.

Awful Heat That Is Causing Much Suffering and Loss.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 25.—Mail advice by the steamship Moana, arriving yesterday, tell of a hot wave in Australia. The thermometer in many places climbed to 130, making life almost unendurable. In Victoria, miles of country have been swept by bush fires, crops destroyed and hundreds of homesteads swept away.

In Perth a family of six were burned to death, and similar fatalities from the prevailing fires, caused by the heat, have occurred in all parts of Australia. Sheep are dying by thousands for want of grass.
In the fruit country, the heat has withered up the crops, which lie in tons cooked on the ground.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

Mrs. Ruth Carney, aged 108 years, is dead at the Union Home for Old Ladies at Philadelphia.

Mr. Dennis Murphy has been chosen by the Roman Catholic Conservatives of Ottawa as their candidate
at the forthcoming Provincial elections.

THE PRINCE'S VISIT

Luncheon and Dinner in His Honor at Berlin, Germany.

WARMLY WELCOMED BY KAISER

The Imperial Family Sends the Emperor's Efforts—The Emperor's Reference to the Imperial Tour of the British Colonies—H.R.H. Called Upon Count Von Buelow, Imperial Chancellor.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The Prince of Wales arrived here at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. Emperor William and a brilliant staff were present at the Lehrter Station to receive the Prince.
Many of the personages who are now
in Berlin for the Emperor's birthday were present. Sir Francis Lascelles, the British Ambassador, was also there. The Kaiser and the Prince exchanged cordial greetings, and drove off together to the Palace. The streets along the route were decorated with evergreens.

When the Prince of Wales arrived at the railway station he wore the uniform of an officer of the First German Dragoons. Emperor had on the uniform of a colonel of the First British Royal Dragoons. The Kaiser embraced the Prince, and shook his hand heartily. Meanwhile, the band played "God Save the King." The Kaiser and Prince entered two state carriages, and drove into the city, under an escort of cavalry. There were great crowds along United den Linden as the party drove toward the royal Palace.

Yesterday passed without any disrespect being shown to the Prince of Wales. German crowds have a too-deeply abiding respect for royal personages, and are too thoroughly policed to openly show an unfriendly feeling toward them; but, in a city where the lifting of one's hat is as universal as ordinary civility, it was singular to see the passing crowds with never a hat raised, and to hear
no murmurs of applause.

He visited the Prussian Prince, Count Von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor, the various ambassadors and other distinguished personages
this morning. Soon after 1 o'clock, Emperor William and the Prince drove in a closed carriage to the barracks of the First Royal Dragoons, Queen Victoria's Own. The triumphal archway of evergreens had been erected in front of the porch
of the barracks, and the regiments drawn up in parade order. The band played the British Anthem,
and after the regiment had marched past the Emperor and the Prince of Wales, the latter proceeded to the regimental messroom, where luncheon was served. The party included
the British Ambassador to Germany,
Sir F. C. Lascelles, and his staff,
Friedrich and Prince Henry of Prussia. The luncheon terminated at 3 o'clock, when the Emperor William returned to the Castle, and the Prince of Wales took a train for Potsdam, there to visit the Duchess of Albany, and to lay a wreath upon the tomb of the late Empress Fredericka.

In the evening Emperor William and the Empress gave a dinner party to the Prince of Wales in the Elizabeth Hall of the Castle, at which the British minister, Count Von Buelow and Count Von Waldersee, were present.

Emperor William, in his speech
toasting King Edward, at the military luncheon in the barracks of the First Royal Dragoons, touchingly referred to the death of Queen Victoria, and adverted to the wonderful colonial tour of the Prince of Wales, as exemplifying the greatness and extent of the British Empire. He invited the company to drink to the health of the Prince of Wales, as the representative of the British army,
to which toast the Prince of Wales
suitably responded.

CANADA WILL BE AT CORK.

Dominion Will Erect a Pavilion With 6,000 Feet of Floor Space.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Mr. Charles Devlin, Emigration Agent for Canada in Ireland, who has been here conferring with Hon. Sydney Fisher touching the Cork Exhibition, states that everything has practically been decided with reference to the display Canada is to make there. It is expected that the King will open the Exposition about May 1, and it will remain open until November 1. The Canadian Government will erect a fine pavilion at Cork, with a floor space of 6,000 feet. It will pay the charges on its own exhibits, but not the charges on exhibits by private parties. Mr. W. D. Scott is to be commissioner for the Cork Exposition, as well as that at Wolverhampton. There is a likelihood that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will pay a visit to Cork on his way back to Canada from the coronation festivities. A big propaganda will be put up by the Irishmen in the United States and Canada, in order to induce a large attendance of outsiders.
In this they will be assisted by several of the large steamship companies, which will run direct to Cork.

Harcourt Decorated.

Rome, Jan. 24.—King Victor Emmanuel has conferred the order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus upon William Marconi.

DUNSFORD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
A special meeting of the Dunsford Court I.O.F. was held last Monday night in the Orange hall, a large number of the brethren being present although the night was very stormy. Nine new members were initiated, and after the initiation and the completion of general business a pleasant surprise was given Bro. John Richards, of Lindsay, in the presentation to him by Bro. James Glendinning, O.S.C.M., in the name of the Sup. Court, of P.O.R. jewel. Bro. Richards made an able reply of thanks. This Court is in a very flourishing condition.

COBOCONK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. Benjamin Burchall gave a parlor social last Friday night in aid of Christ's church. All enjoyed a most pleasant evening. Ben is an ideal host.

A sleigh load of those in connection with the Methodist church S.S. visited the County Convention in Fenelon Falls on Friday last.

Mr. J. Phillips escaped uninjured from a fall occasioned by being thrown from a revolving pulley one day last week.

Rev. W. P. Rogers was absent from his appointments last Sunday preaching at re-opening services of Westwood church, a former pastorate.

COBOCONK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. Malcolm Smith, one of the oldest and most respected members of this community, passed over to the great majority on the 17th inst. Mr. Smith was stricken with paralysis in June, 1898, and has been a confirmed invalid ever since, only leaving his bed as he was able to get up for short intervals to relieve the monotony. He was born in Argyleshire, Scotland in 1815. Coming to Canada in 1834 he settled in Eldon, living there until 27 years ago, when he moved here. He was the youngest of a family of five, all of whom are dead except a sister, Mrs. Campbell, of Eldon, who is seven years his senior. He was buried on the Saturday following his death at the Stone Church cemetery near Beaverton, beside his wife, who predeceased him 17 years. In politics he was a conservative, in religion a Presbyterian. He leaves a family of four—two sons and two daughters.—Mrs. D. Murray, residing in Somerville, Miss Annie, at home with William and Daniel.

CARDEN.

(Special to The Post.)
The members elected to compose the municipal Council of the township of Carden for the year 1902, viz., Michael Healy, Reeve, John M. Chrysler, Thomas Mullally, James O'Neill and Frank Thompson, councillors, met at No. 2 schoolhouse on the 19th day of January, 1902, and having subscribed their declaration of qualification and office, took their seats. A communication from the hospital for Sick Children, asking for a grant, was read. Moved by Mr. Chrysler, seconded by Mr. Mullally, that James Graham and Patrick McGee be appointed auditors for 1902.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Chrysler, seconded by Mr. Thompson, that a grant of $5 be made to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, and that the Reeve grant an order on the Treasurer for the same.—Carried. John Barrett, senior, appeared before the Council and complained that the contractors on the T.V. Canal had removed the bridge crossing Tul-bot river, on con. 7, and that it was impossible for him to get across unless there was some sort of a bridge built. Moved by Mr. Mullally, seconded by Mr. Chrysler, that the Reeve be instructed to see Mr. Sangster with a view of getting a bridge built for Mr. Barrett.—Carried. Moved by Mr. O'Neill, seconded by Mr. Chrysler, that the Clerk be instructed to ask for tenders for the township printing from the Watchman-Warder and The Canadian Post.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Thompson, seconded by Mr. O'Neill, that the Clerk be paid $17.50 for holding the municipal election, and that the Reeve grant an order on the Treasurer for the same.—Carried. Council then adjourned to meet at No. 1 schoolhouse on Saturday, the 1st of March, 1902. John Walsh, Clerk.

GOODERHAM.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Times are lively here just now. The ratepayers being well satisfied with the old Council recalled them. On Monday evening last an oyster supper was held at the Queen's and in spite of the inclement weather was well attended. It is to be regretted that through a misunderstanding of the date many were prevented from being present as it was a non-partisan affair.

The Jackson Lumber Co have imported sixty tons of hay from the frontier and their teams are now busily employed hauling the same to the respective camps.

The remains of a young man from Menzies' camp passed through here this week. The cause of death was pneumonia.

Our Board of Health met yesterday and it was decided to recommend our municipal fathers to enforce the law with regard to vaccination. This is very necessary as it is estimated that at least 75 per cent. of the population is not vaccinated and should smallpox become prevalent here it would probably cause a heavy mortality.

Our school has reopened under the presidency of Miss Fee and great progress is expected educationally.

MT. PLEASANT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
A number of the former residents of this locality, who now are living in North Dakota and Manitoba, are spending their winter here visiting friends.

Mr. Wm. Best, of Peterboro, and Miss Ella Thexton, of the same place, were visiting friends here along Albert Thexton, of Dakota, who has been absent from this locality for 21 years.

Our old and respected friend, Robt. Hays, who resided for many years in this locality, died very suddenly at his home in Lobbysgon. A large number of sorrowing mourners and relatives followed his remains to the Emily cemetery the place of interment. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved sons and daughters of the deceased.

The Canadian Order of Foresters held their annual oyster supper and entertainment here last week in the Temperance Hall. The evening was favorable and the attendance was very large.

The butter factory is booming, and farmers are well satisfied with the quantity and quality of the butter made and the prices obtained for the butter made here.

The animal that drove the chopper out of the swamp, after eating his dinner, has not been captured yet, although a diligent search was made by two hunters armed and ready expecting a deadly combat with the unknown species of the forest, whose description was given in a former issue as a most desperate, fiendish looking beast of prey whose daring fierceness it is impossible to fully describe. Should the animal be caught no doubt it will be worthy of placing it on exhibition, so that the chopper may make a fortune by exhibiting in large towns and cities, whose inhabitants are always on the alert to satisfy their curiosity, awaiting anxiously for further developments.

The present time for farmers desirous of purchasing sleighs is a good time to call at the Foundry and Mr. John Handly would be pleased to supply those wanting them at short notice. Prices right.

NORLAND.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mrs. G. W. Alley is very ill at present, suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Arnold Wakelin and Cuthbert Sprung are both able to be around again, after a severe illness caused by pneumonia.

Mr. William Adair is able to be out again, after having been laid up a week or two with a grippe.

We are very much pleased to hear Mrs. A. Martin around again after a lengthy illness.

One would infer from the above that there has been considerable sickness at Norland and in the surrounding country of late.

Mrs. Brimford of Baxley, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. Fox, returned home on Saturday last.

Mr. S. B. Trick spent Monday last in Lindsay on business.

Miss N. Bowney spent last week visiting friends at Gelert.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Perkins were in Lindsay last Wednesday and Thursday attending the funeral of a little niece, Miss Clara Parkin, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parkin.

Rev. H. E. Curtis has just closed a very successful series of special services in this place.

On Friday evening last a very successful pic social was held in the town hall, the proceeds of which went to aid a former resident of this place who had met with a very serious misfortune at Sault Ste. Marie. The committee of management, Mr. Fred McCraw, Steve Burgess and Obed Martin, deserve much credit for the efficient manner in which the social was conducted. Rev. H. E. Curtis occupied the chair and his address added very materially to the program, as did also the selections rendered by the Norland band. Miss M. Maxwell and Miss E. Woodcock gave an instrumental duet which received great applause. A violin solo given by Messrs. Obed Martin, Wm. Armstrong and J. J. Bowins was very much appreciated by the audience. A song by Mr. S. B. Trick was given a hearty encore, to which he responded by giving one entitled "Playing tag with Baby." Recitations and readings were given by Miss Flora Adair, Miss Metta Woodcock, Miss Clara Armstrong, D. McCraw and Master Bert Martin. A couple of dialogues, which were also well performed, completed the program. The pies were sold by Mr. Isaac Spring and netted the good sum of forty dollars.

We understand another social will be held in a short time, the proceeds of which are to go towards erecting a telephone line between Norland and Cobocouk.

NORTH MANVERS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mrs. Wm. Cornish, of Reaboro, returned to her home on Monday, after visiting her sister, Mrs. Wesley Irvine.

Mr. John Palmer, student at the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, visited his friends here last week.

Mrs. Wm. Irvine, of Bethany, spent last week as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pallas, of Franklin, visited at the home of Mr. Sam. Stinson last Tuesday.

Miss Anna Jordan, who spent the past month at the home of her parents at Woodville, returned to her aunt Mr. John Porter, last week.

One of the most enjoyable evenings of the season was spent at the home of Mr. Albert Porter on Tuesday, Jan. 21st, when that genial gentleman was taken by surprise by a large number of his friends, including Janetville and neighboring friends.

All endeavored to make the evening one of the happiest by playing games and dancing. Then when the morning sunlight began to chase away the shades of night, the evening's pleasure was brought to a close by singing "He's a jolly good fellow."

The many friends of Mrs. Robt. Kerr will be sorry to hear of her illness, but under the skillful treatment of Dr. Allan, of Lindsay, we hope for a speedy recovery.

Miss Maggie Kearns, of Bethany, was the guest of her friend, Miss Maude Thompson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shier, of Bracebridge, returned to their home last Friday.

OAKWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
At a meeting of the directors of the Public Library Dr. Chambers, G. B. Rennie and J. B. Weldon were re-elected for the present year as president, secretary, treasurer and librarian respectively. Another meeting was called for Wednesday night to talk matters regarding the last entertainment of the season, which they purpose holding later.

Miss Thexton, of Millbrook, is the guest of Mrs. T. J. Webster.

The Presbyterians organized a Sabbath School on Sunday last and Rev. Mr. Webster was very much encouraged by the prospects on the first Sunday. Mrs. Webster, who is an active and earnest worker, takes charge of the big boys' class.

David Tait is nursing a sore finger, which is keeping him from active duty for the present.

Flogs Bros. are busy filling up their ice house over the cold storage. G. Hicks, Jas. Thorndyke and Gordon King are as usual on deck with their teams hauling it from Davidson's Creek.

S. Champion, tailor, is moving his household effects from Lindsay this week to Oakwood, where he purposes residing in the future. Since coming here he has been very busy, and with work enough on hand to keep him going for three weeks things are looking alright. As the fellow said, "It's fits that tells."

Oakwood and vicinity will be deserted Friday night—all are going to the basket social at D. A. Anderson's. Most of the folk know when to go—when a good time ahead of them is a sure thing.

Nearly one hundred and fifty head of cattle is not bad buying for one day's work. We understand Mr. T. Bowers, our bustling drover, accomplished this feat in the south end of the township.

Once more our town hall of Oakwood was the scene of a liquor inquiry. On Tuesday Mr. Kesick, of Cresswell, appeared before the "Bench" to answer to a charge of selling liquor. After half a day's hard work trying the case his Worship found the accused not guilty, and Mr. K. went home a free man, if not a wiser one.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. Amos Rodgers has moved into the village, and we all welcome him as one of our citizens.

Miss Swain, of Lindsay, was in town on Tuesday.

On Tuesday of last week another grand carnival was held at the C. P. R. rink of the village. Although the night was disagreeable a nice crowd was present, there being a sleighload from Cresswell and one from Salem. Several were dressed in costumes and all report a good time.

The basket social held in Mr. D. Noble's house under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Christian church on Jan. 17th, was a grand success. The house was crowded with people from all parts and Little Britain especially was well represented. A good program was given and then the baskets were sold and went remarkably well. Forty-seven baskets were offered for sale and they sold for $45. One choice basket was a record-breaker, being sold for a five dollar bill. As usual it was from Britain. The proceeds amounted to about sixty dollars.

On Monday, Jan. 27th, the annual Sunday School convention was held in the Methodist church here. The afternoon meeting opened at 2.30. A large crowd was present, each circuit being well represented. Mr. Hinchson, of Lindsay, gave a fine address and Mr. Yellowhead gave a fine talk to the children on Signals.

The evening session commenced at 7.30. Mr. S. W. Rutan, of Britain, gave a fine talk on "Parents who help and parents who hinder the Sunday School." Mr. W. J. Yoo and Miss Greenwood sang solos. The ladies gave some sound advice to parents and teachers. Mr. R. Corbett was appointed president and Mr. J. McKee 1st vice-president. The convention will be held at Valentin next year.

Mr. W. Cornish is very proud over the appearance of a bouncing baby boy.

Mr. Leslie Tremear has left for Peterboro to work at his trade which he learned at Mr. J. McKee's foundry.

We notice that several of our fair maidens have a melancholy look since his departure.

Dr. G. W. Hall secured the services of Dr. Bryce, of Toronto, and operated on Mr. R. Western, who has been greatly troubled with stomach complaints lately. He passed the operation nicely and we hope to see him improve rapidly.

A sleighload of our jovial youths went to Valentin Friday night to take

WOODVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Dentist—Dr. Bowerman will be at the Queen's hotel the first three Fridays in February.—w-l.

Reeve D. Grant sold one of his horses on Friday last for the sum of $160.

At 3.30 on Thursday morning the alarm of fire was sounded. The stable and woodshed of Mr. A. E. Staback was burned to the ground, with the contents, namely one horse, one cow, two buggies and cutter, harness, etc. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Robt. Campbell, of Toronto, was in the village some days last week representing the Manufacturers Life Insurance Co., of Toronto.

L. V. O'Connor, of Stewart & O'Connor, barristers, etc., Lindsay, was in the village last Friday.

C. G. Campbell shipped a carload of fat stock to the city market on Monday.

The first meeting of the Board of Health was held in the reading room on Monday night.

Isaiah Bowers, of Mariposa, has gone to Guelph, to attend the Agricultural College.

A. E. Staback is attending County Council at Lindsay this week.

A very quiet wedding at the residence of Mr. J. Stoddart on Wednesday morning at 7.30 by the Rev. Dr.

Marvin, of Pontypool. A. R. McEachern, of Tavistock, Ont., to Caroline Maybee, of Woodville.

Manager Kirkland is making arrangements for a grand carnival on his skating rink in the near future.

Have you renewed your subscription to The Post? If not, now is the time to get the picture of the King.

VICTORIA ROAD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The annual meeting of the North Victoria E.D. Agricultural Society was held in the township hall, Bexley, on Wednesday, the 15th Jan. inst. Mr. Alex. Jamieson acted as chairman. The financial statement and auditors' report being very satisfactory, were unanimously approved. After discussing several important issues for improving the fair, W. J. Chippaw and Dr. Ross were appointed delegates to the Association of Fairs to be held in Toronto on Feb. next. Then the meeting proceeded to elect officers for 1902, as follows: President, W. J. Chippaw, re-elected; 1st Vice-Pres., Dr. Ross; 2nd Vice-Pres., Myles Haggarth; directors—M. Healy, A. Jamieson, Dr. J. Grant, Wm. Battie, W. A. Fanning, E. Lytle, I. Naylor, H. O. Hamilton, A. Webster. This excellent selection of officers will no doubt boom this prosperous Agricultural Society as it never has been boomed before.
